THE INVADER

Wins Second Race In International Series.

Leads the Cadillac From Start to Finish.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Today's international yacht race between the Detroit boat Cadillac and the Royal Canadian Yacht club's Invader is to be sailed nine miles to windward and return. Owing to the change in the wind during Saturday's triangular race, which thwarted the judges' wishes to have one leg sailed to windward, they announced this morning that if such a change should come during the beat to windward today, the judges' boat would signal the racing yachts a corresponding change in the course.

Yachtsmen do not understand how this can be done if the rival boats should have to tack.

A change in the defender's crew was announced, Sidney Russell, of Detroit, taking the place of H. M. Higginbotham, of Chicago. Young Higginbotham's father was general manager of the World's fair in 1893. The judges astonishing announcement last night that the Cadillac might increase its jib by nearly 100 square feet and lengthen its spinnaker boom nearly four and a half feet has caused quite a commotion. It is argued that the advantages thus gained make it almost certain the Cadillac will win three races, and though Commodore George Goederham merely expressed surprise when told of the decision, some of the other Canadian yachtsmen here are more free of speech and criticise the work of Measurer Cothrell. The increase in the length of the Cadillac's fore-triangle is computed to increase the yacht's racing length between three and four inches.

Veteran yachtsmen declare such a procedure is unprecedented in the history of international cup racing, and they say only two explanations are possible:

One, that the measurer made a great blunder in his first measurement of the defender; the other, that the challenger measures over the prescribed lists.

The officials have given out a set of measurements, making each boat exactly thirty-five feet racing length.

11:01 a. m.—The starting gun was fired at 11 o'clock and the yachts crossed the line with the Cadillac about twelve seconds in the lead.

11:05 a. m.—The Invader has gained on the Cadillac and now is several lengths ahead.

On Board Associated Press boat, Lake Michigan, Aug. 12.—The Cadillac got the better of the start by a few seconds. The Invader had the weather position, blanketed the Cadillac, passed her within two minutes of the start and steadily increased her lead. The wind was extremely light, scarcely filling the racer's sails. Both yachts got away on starboard tack. The Invader pointed higher than the Cadillac, but in the light breeze could not keep her sails filled. The Cadillac was badly trimmed and this hurt in the effort to point up. At 11:20 the Cadillac came about on port tack. The Invader followed at 11:22. At 12:05 p. m. the Invader appeared to be two or three lengths ahead and a quarter of a mile to the windward, and was increasing her lead. The wind was picking up and in the smooth water the Invader seemed to be getting the better of it.

Four Mile Crib, 1:20 p. m.—The Cadillac has gained a little—probably half a mile. The boats look like two big birds flying straight for home, the Invader still leading a trifle, while the Cadillac maintains her steeple like position. Every stitch is set, and the increased area of the Cadillac's spinnaker, slight though it is, is helping the defender.

The Cadillac is footing like a deer. Her balloon jib seems to be doing better work than the Canadian's. The Michigander is now only about a mile behind.

Four Mile Crib, 1:46 p. m.—The Invader is leading the Cadillac by a mile. Her balloon jib is pulling splendidly. The Cadillac seems to be losing ground slowly. The wind is east-north-east and blowing about seven knots with an occasional puff to help the boat from Michigan. The Invader passed the four mile crib at 1:45 p. m.

The Cadillac passed the crib at 1:50 p. m.

1:55 p. m.—The Invader is within a mile and a half of the finish and is believed to be a certain winner. The Cadillac is a mile and a half behind.

Four Mile Crib, Aug. 12.—The Invader won, crossing the line at 2:08:30 p. m. (unofficial). The Cadillac crossed 5 minutes, 5 seconds later.

FEAR THE COLUMBIA

Captain of Shamrock II Thinks Her Faster Than Constitution.

Lipton's New Challenger Warmly Greeted on Her Arrival.

Looks to Be Fastest Boat Ever From British Waters.

New York, Aug. 12.—The new America's cup challenger Shamrock II lay at anchor off Sandy Hook lightship and today was towed up the bay to Tomkinsville, Staten Island. She will be taken at once to Erie basin, where she will be stripped and her racing mast stepped. Her spars are ready and there will be no dely in getting her into racing trim. Whether she will go into drydock to have her underbody cleaned before the trials outside, is not yet known. The challenger of 191 received a lively and enthusiastic welcome from every craft in the harbor as she came up the bay in tow of the tug Robert Haddon. She had her first taste of the enthusiasm with which she was to be greeted when two tugs filled with newspaper men and the steam pilot boat New York reached her anchorage near Sandy Hook lightship at daylight. The skippers of the tugs loosed their whistles and the New York wailed a salute with her siren. The Erin acknowledged the salute with three deep blasts.

It was at her anchorage overlooking the field where she is to give battle in September to the defender of the cup that the yachting sharps had their first glimpse of the new challenger by daylight. The grace and beauty of the lines of her slender body, were marred by her cumbrous cruising rig and the litter and confusion on her deck as her crew were preparing to weigh anchor. But one glance was sufficient to convince the experts that Watson had built a much handsomer boat that the old Shamrock. She looks the fastest boat ever turned out in British waters. One of the beauties is Watson's peculiar tilt of the counter. There is no flatness or tumble home along the top sides and her great overhang gives her the appearance of speed. She was painted green like the Irish knight's first challenger, but the paint on the sides of her upper works had been scraped off in many places by the seas she had encountered and these spots showed the manganese bronze of which she is constructed.

She raised her anchor and took the tow line from the Haddon at 5:30. As she came up the bay the crew of the Shamrock in dark blue sweaters and white trousers and hats lounged along her deck disdaining oil skins to protect them from the dashes of rain that fell at intervals. After leaving quarantine the noise of saluting whistles became louder. Every ship steamed as closely as possible to get a better view of the boat upon which British hopes are centered and tugs and small craft putting out from shore swarmed about her. Hardly had her anchor hit the bottom off Tompkinsville before the throngs appeared on hill and pierhead to study her lines with their glasses.

Capt. Hamilton, navigating officer of the Shamrock, stated to an Associated Press reporter that the yacht had been towed about two-thirds of the way from the Azores.

Prevailing winds from the south-southeast gave them a fair wind all the way. They got into the tail end of an easterly gale Aug. 4 and carried away two topsail sheets. That was the only mishap of the voyage. The total length of the voyage was 3,069 miles and the actual running time was 14 days, 9 hours and 45 minutes. Capt. Sycamore, who is to have absolute control of the Shamrock II in the race, gave it as his opinion that the Columbia is a better boat than the Constitution.

Capt. William Mathers, the commander of the Erin said: "We fear the Columbia more than we do the Constitution."

ARE GAINING

Situation Is More Favorable to Strikers.

Have Succeeded In Closing More Mills.

Pittsburg, Aug. 12.—The strikers made gains today at McKeesport and Bellaire and regard the situation as more favorable to them than yesterday. At the former place they won the National rolling mill of the National Tube company. The men of the Boston rolling mill had already joined the strike, but the impression had been created that the National would not go out. The tube works at McKeesport were started as usual today, but it is not clear how long they can be kept going. McKeesport has been developed into a stronghold of the Amalgamated association and the strike leaders assert that they are completely in control of the situation. At Bellaire more men of the National Steel company cast their fortunes with the strikers and it is believed the plant will have to close down.

It was admitted by the steel officials that the strikers had made material gains there and that the mill would probably be closed down tomorrow. The strikers claim that they will completely tie up the Riverside and other plants in the Wheeling district. The Riverside plate mill of the National Tube company was prepared for work this morning, but none of the men appeared at the works when the time for starting the tube mill came. The Amalgamated association organizers are at work among the men of the steel department and have plans for forming an Amalgamated lodge tonight.

The trouble anticipated at Moneseen this morning did not come, and the large plant of the American Tinplate company is in full operation today. Both sides claim control. The strike leaders planned to call the men out this morning, but at the last moment refrained from doing so. They say that they will act later, while the officers of the company say that their position is quite secure and that the plant will not be affected.

The Farm mill at the Lindsay & McCutcheon plant, which was operated last week by a non-union crew, made a wavering start this morning and is in operation, although short-handed. The Republic Iron works is tied up, and the fires started this morning in anticipation of resumption are banked. Painter's mill, closed on the first call, is still smokeless. The steel people have planned its reopening for several days, but, as far as outward appearances show, have done nothing. The men of the Elba or Frankstown Puddling and Rolling mills have all joined the strikers and the works are completely crippled. All of the properties and mills of the American Sheet Steel company at Vandergroft, Apollo, Leechburg, Hyde Park and Saltsburg are in operation today and the manufacturers assert that there will not be the slightest trouble at any of them. Reports from all the strike centers indicate that perfect order prevails, but it is believed here that clashes are inevitable at the more turbulent places when attempts are made to put on non-union men to work.

BASEBALL AT SAN JUAN

The American Colony Has Formed a League and Two Games Will Be Played Every Saturday Afternoon.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 12.—Baseball is becoming a great fad here. Most of the American colony are great "fans." Several clubs have been organized and nearly every Saturday afternoon a game is played between two picked teams. The interest became so great that a league was proposed. The plan took well with the people, and several clubs have been formed from the clerical force of the various government offices. A number of Americans employed by private concerns and several Porto Ricans are members of the different clubs. All of the clubs have sent to the United States for uniforms. Not a few of the players could draw salaries in professional lists. Grounds have been secured at Puerta de Tierra, about a 10-minute trolley ride from San Juan. A large subscription list was raised to defray expenses. The diamond will be levelled and filled. Two games will now be played each Saturday afternoon.

The removal of the tariff on goods brought into Porto Rico from the United States has made a reduction in the number of custom employes necessary. Thirty-one men were notified that their services would not be needed after Aug. 15 and two transfers were made. Ten lost their heads at San Juan, seven at Ponce, five at Mayaguez, three at Arecibo, two at Aguadilla, two at Arrayo, one at Humacao and one at Fajardo.

A case of suspected yellow fever was discovered last week in a house near Mayaguez, on the Westehn coast. The city authorities at once placed guards around the house and did not permit the inmate to have any communication with the outside world.

Several deaths have occurred recently near Patillas, in the eastern part of the island which are said to be due to starvation. The sanitary conditions of Patillas are extremely vile. There are no beds or cots; the inmates swing in hammocks or have a "nest" in one corner of the room. As the municipality is in straightened circumstances, it is impossible to relieve these conditions. An exceedingly large percentage of deaths in this district is alarming.

SAIL FOR SOUTH POLE

A Systematic Expedition Which Is Likely to Be of Value Even If the Pole Is Not Reached.

New York, Aug. 12.—Commenting upon the plans of the Drygalski expedition whch has just sailed for the Anctartic regions from Kiel, the London correspondent of the Tribune says:

Sir Clements R. Markham arranged two years ago with Dr. Von Drygalski, commander of the German Antarctic expedition, a joint plan of simultaneous operations in Southern waters. The quadrant approached from the South Atlantic, extending from the Greenwich meridian to 90 degrees west, is left out of account since there is little chance of penetrating the ice pack south of Cape Horn, the South Orkney at Graham island and Alexander island.

The German expedition will explore the quadrant stretching from the Greenwich meridian to 90 degrees east, and approach from the Indian ocean. After establishing a meteorological station on Kerguelen island it will head for Enderly land, the range of ice cliffs with a northern face sighted by Biscoe in 1831, and follow the eastern trend of the coast southward as far as there may be navigable water. After reaching as high a latitude as possible in a sea which is believed to be free from icebergs, the expedition will winter on the west coast of Victoria land and attempt to open communication with the British expedition. The two remaining quadrants, approached from the Pacific, New Zealand and Australia, and extending from 90 degrees to 180 degrees west and thence to 90 degrees east, will be undertaken by the discoverers. These explorations are conducted on the principle that a navigable sea may usually be expected on the eastern side of Antarctic coasts, with lanes of open water along the northern trend.

If the Germans can find an eastern trend of coast they may make as close an approach to the south pole as Sir James Ross and Capt. Borchgrevink succeeded in doing off Victoria land; and if there be no reach of open water southward, they can follow the Challenger's track along the line of pack ice to the Mysterious lands discovered by Wilkes and Dumont in the Urville toward Victoria land.

A GUSHER

Expected at Senator Towne's Oil Well By Thursday.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drillers on the well of the Export Oil and Pipe Line company, of which ex-Senator Towne is president, pierced the cap rock three feet this morning after passing through a bed of sulphur. The oil sand is excellent in quality. The six-inch pipe will now be set and the gusher will undoubtedly be in by Thursday. There is no doubt about the well, but extreme care is being taken to have it properly finished.

AT LAST.

Draft of Final Protocol With China Is Agreed Upon.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The state department has received a cablegram from Mr. Rockhill, at Pekin, reporting that the draft of the final protocol has been agreed upon. A tariff of 5 per cent advalorem, effective, will be put in force two months after the signing of the final protocol, excepting on goods shipped within ten days after signing, and will continue until the conversion to specific rates has been effected by the expert committee. The Chinese free list will include rice, foreign cereals and flour, gold and silver bullion and coin. This inclusion of flour from the free list is of much importance, particularly to Pacific coast shippers.

THE IOWA

Goes to San Francisco and Possibly Panama.

Seattle, Aug. 12.—The battleship Iowa will sail from the Puget Sound navy yard tonight for San Francisco, and it is thought that from that point she will sail for Panama, unless the Colombian-Venezuelan situation has a change for the better.

AMERICANS WERE WISE

Russian Bidders For Pumping Supplies Must Order From United States Firm to Secure Patented Articles.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—New illustrations of the determination of the government to prevent the use of foreign-made goods in any public works come to light almost daily. The newspapers this week print circulars from the ministers of railways and the ministers of education directing attention to orders from the finance ministry against the use of foreign railway material and educational supplies. When the required articles cannot be had in Russia the higher authorities must be consulted before an order can be given to a foreign manufacturer or an importer.

Another instance is furnished by the decision to complete the naphtha pipe line from Baku to Batoum. It ends now in the mountains. When its first section was built it was desired to use Russian pumps, but it was found that no Russian concern could turn out the article needed. The order was thereupon, by special ukase of the emperor, given to an American house. The price was cut down pretty low on the ground that it is said that the same company would naturally get the order for the second section and that, having models and drawings all ready, the expenses to it of making the additional pumps would be considerably lessened. The American company is not accustomed to depend on promises and took the precaution to build pumps of unique design for this pipe line and to patent its plans and protect its models. It is now about to reap the reward of its foresight. The order has gone forth that none but Russian materials are to be used. Invitations to bid for pumps were sent to none but Russian houses. However, as the pumps must match those now used, the successful bidder has to come to the Americans and make terms for the use of their plans and drawings.

CROWDS VIEW ROYALTY

People at Homburg Watch Movements of Exalted Personages Present to Attend Funeral of Dowager Empress.

New York, Aug. 12.—A dispatch to the Herald from Homburg contains the following additional details regarding the funeral of the dowager empress:

Each day increases Homburg's list of exalted personages. At present the tide is at its height. Every window and balcony is filled with spectators eager to see the royal processions. One group formed a strange and inharmonious contrast with the mourning in the carriages below, the ladies being dressed in bright colored tea gowns. A large crowd formed in front of Ritter's for a time. They had nothing to gaze at but the resplendent figure of the kaiser's Jaeger, with his white plumed hat and green uniform, and Count Von Wedel, the master of the horse, whose imposign figure in the uniform of a colonel of hussars, filled the doorway.

The impatience of the crowd, however, was finally rewarded by the appearance of the king escorting the empress and the kaiser with the queen.

Their German majesties, after shaking hands warmly with the king and queen, took their places in the royal carriages and drove off to the castle, followed almost immediately by the crown prince, who graciously returned the cordial salutations of the crowd as he drove away.

The king remained for a minute's conversation with Count Von Eulenburg, who soon afterward drove away. Count Von Wedel also took leave of the king.

A few minutes later the duke of Connaught, deeply sunburned and wearing the gold laced undress cap of the Guards stuck jauntily on the side of his head, drove up to the castle with his son to pay an official visit to the kaiser.

Count Von Mirbach, marshal of the kairserine's court, walked with Dr. Andrews, the court chaplain, who will conduct the services at Friederichshof.

In front of the Grand hotel, where Count Von Waldersee is stopping, a large crowd assembled, eager to catch a glimpse of the commander-in-chief in China.

His rooms are one mass of flowers, sent him by admirers. In fact the crowd is almost as great as at Von Ritter's hotel, where King Edward is stopping.

In the course of the morning Count Von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, called to pay his respects to King Edward.

Reports are current that two dangerous anarchists, known to have been in Frankfort, have disappeared. This is said to be the cause of the extraordinary police and military precautions being taken for safety.

One of the latest wreaths received is from Cecil Rhodes.

GREAT MEET.

All Real Cracks of Turf Will Be at Brighton Beach.

New York, Aug. 12.—At Brighton Beach race track today the real cracks of the trotting turf will participate in what is expected to prove the greatest of light harness horses ever held in New York. It is under the auspices of the recently organized New York Trotting association. The program is arranged on a lavish scale. All the champions and all the famous ones brought out by the great circuit will be there and the purses will, it is believed, have the largest average money value of any harness meeting ever offered anywhere. The free-for-all trot, for instance, has a value of $10,000, and an entry list of seven and of four or five probable starters, including the fastest horses in the country, aside from the rival Cresceus and the Abbot, and this race set for opening day will bring out a parade of great interest to the lovers of the trotter.

Again, the match race today between Anaconda (2:02½ and Joe Patchen (2:01¾) is liable, with good weather and track conditions, to bring about not only a broken record, but a lowering of the figure to under the 2-minute mark.

Such a program spread over a week of racing at Brighton Beach, has naturally brought to New York the well-known horsemen of the country. Their greatest interest lies, of course, in Thursday's $12,000 stakes, for which the rivals for the world's championship, Cresceus and the Abbot, will compete. The owners of both horses speak with the utmost confidence and neither will admit that they have the lightest fear of defeat.

SITUATION CLEARING.

The Porte Agrees to Demands of France.

Constantinople, Aug. 12.—As a result of the firm attitude adopted by the French ambassador, M. Constans in an audience of the sultan, Friday, the situation in relation to the French claims is clearing and it is practically settled that the Quay company shall enjoy the rights under the concession as demanded by France.

AT POTSDAM.

Potsdam, Aug. 12.—Emperor William and the other members of the imperial party have arrived at the new palace. King Edward and Queen Alexandra left Homburg this morning for this place.

BEACHED.

Steamer Halifax Ashore Near Boston In a Sinking Condition.

Boston, Aug. 12.—The Plant line steamer Halifax, Capt. Pye, from Charlottstown, Port Hawkesburg and Halifax, N. S., struck a ledge off Minot's light while coming into port, in a thick fog, early today. She freed herself, however, and was beached in a sinking condition. Tugs and lighters have gone from here for passengers and baggage.

The steamer left Halifax last Saturday night and was due here today. It is understood she carried a large number of passengers, but at the Plant line office here no positive information could be gained.

As it was near high tide and as the steamer floated without great difficulty, it is thought she was not seriously damaged. It soon appeared, however, that she was leaking. Accordingly the captain headed for George's island and beached her.

The Halifax is a steel screw steamer, sailing under British registry. She is 250.3 feet long, 35 feet beam and 21.5 feet deep. Her tonnage is 958. She was built at Glasgow in 1888.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Washington, Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An increase of pension to $8 monthly was today granted Edward B. Hartson, of Sauk Center, Minn.

A CLEVER BURGLARY

A Pawnshop Entered and Robbed In Broad Daylight.

Negro Easily Forced Door In and Loaded His Pockets.

Both Sides of Street Were Crowded at the Time.

A bold, daylight burglary was cleverly executed yesterday morning. While hundreds of people were passing by a colored burglar broke in the front door of the Keystone Loan agency and stole a tray of jewelry, three watches and a revolver.

The burglar would probably have made a clean sweep of the place had he not been interrupted by a young Finlander who wanted to pawn his watch.

When the Finlander walked in on the thief, the colored man addressed him very politely and asked him as an especial favor to stay in the store till the proprietor came back. The Finn was accommodating and took charge of the pawn shop while the colored burglar walked out with his booty and disappeared.

The burglary occurred about 11 o'clock in the morning. Both sides of Superior street were crowded with excursionists and church people. The Keystone Loan company, conducted by Jacob D. Siegel, is located at 16 West Superior street, and it is estimated that at the time of the burglary there were several hundred people between Lake avenue and First avenue west. Many were goign down Lake avenue to take the excursion boats and others were on their way to church.

Mr. Siegel usually keeps his pawn shop open on Sunday, and he had just closed it to go up on the second floor for a few moments when the burglar walked through the crowd and shoved the front doors in.

Once inside the thief was making a great haul when the innocent Finlander walked in to raise money on his watch. The negro jollied him a little and told him that Mr. Siegel would be in in a few moments, and then asked him if he would mind looking after the store till the proprietor came in.

When Mr. Siegel walked in he found the Finlander in possession, and he naturally made curt inquiries as to how he got inside the store. The Finlander told the story, and Mr. Siegel made a wild dash down Superior street toward police headquarters, looking for a detective.

In his hurry to reach headquarters he ran into Detectives Mork and Irvine, nearly knocking them over. He failed to recognize the officers, however, and they, seeing something was wrong sprinted after the pawn shop man, like persons that wanted to make a flurry touch. They caught him near headquarters, and after Mr. Siegel had been induced to recognize them he told the story. Detective Troyer then joined the trio and they went back to the store.

Now while the crowd did not notice a lone burglar touching a loan establishment, it did notice the three officers and within a few minutes the sidewalk was blockaded with people trying to see what was doing. The officers finally had to lock the doors to keep the crowd out, and even then a strapping big excursionist from Iowa broke in the door.

Mr. Siegel at first estimated his loss at $250 but it is probable that $150 will cover it.

Yesterday afternoon a colored man walked into the pawn shop to exchange some valuables for circulating medium and a green ticket. He had no sooner reached the inside than he backed out hurriedly. The pawn shop man didn't care to do business with the colored race and he used violent motions to impart the information.

BENEFIT EXCURSION

On Steamer Peerless Tomorrow Night.

Emanuel congregation are now depending on the weather man for pleasant weather tomorrow night. All the other arrangements have been completed and if the weather can be made as pleasant as the past two or three nights have been the excursion will be a tremendous success.

It certainly deserves a great patronage from all Duluth people, for no effort has a more worthy object than this of raising money for the benefit of their Temple, now in course of erection, on Seventh avenue east and Second street. The Duluth City band, U. R. K. P., has been engaged and will render a delightful program. The Peerless will leave the Fifth avenue dock at 8:15 sharp, and will be home about 11:15, giving ample time to catch cars to all parts of Duluth and Superior. If the attendance is large enough extra cars will be put in service at about that time to make getting home more convenient. The price of tickets has been fixed at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 15 years, and the committee anticipate a large crowd. Everyone is invited and a good time is promised to all. Don't forget—tomorrow (Tuesday) night, Aug. 13, on steamer Peerless.

A Quartet In Trouble.

A shudder swept over police headquarters yesterday when it became known that in raiding the home of Minnie Valle Saturday night, thoughtless detectives had arrested four persons of prominence, including a blonde, who wept softly but none the less moistly.

Mrs. Valle's home is at 208 East First street, better known as "the house across from the Armory." Mrs. Valle paid $75 in police court this morning, and Louise Johnson, Sarah Pierce, H. P. Morris and Frank Clark each forfeited $15. The names given are fictitious.

Report That Concerns John M. Thomas Discredited.

The Milwaukee Sentinel of yesterday morning published a story that John M. Thomas, of Duluth, with others, was fitting out the plant of the Minerva Iron company with an intent to fight the United States Steel company. This report is looked upon as laughable by those in Duluth who know of Mr. Thomas' plans. His purchase of the Minerva property was announced some time ago, and it is said that he is remodelling the plant to increase its capacity to 225 tons per day, which is hardly the size of the plant that would be selected to make a fight against the steel trust.

Another fact is that in order to compete with the steel trust the plant would have to turn out bessemer iron, when it turns out what is known as foundry iron. One of the Milwaukee plants of the steel trust has been turning out foundry iron, but it will cease and take up bessemer, leaving the field practically clear to the Minerva plant's foundry iron.

For Personal Injuries.

Elof Bergholm this afternoon began a suit in district court against C. S. Murray to recover $15,122.51 damages for personal injuries alleged to be sustained in the defendant's lumber mill. He claims that he was caught in a set screw while working for Murray and badly injured. He fixes his damages at the above sum, and asks that Murray be compelled them on the ground that he was negligent in having a set screw so exposed as to catch the clothing of an employe. John H. Norton is his attorney.

AT WEST DULUTH

John Peterson, the 13-year-old son of Joseph Peterson, was arrested Sunday charged with tapping the till in Charles Boerner's store on Central avenue. Young Peterson went into the store on Saturday and called for ice cream. While it was being secured from a back room he reached over the counter and took the contents of the cash drawer, about $8. The theft was discovered shortly after he left the building. Sunday he visited the same place for more cream and was arrested. His father made good the amount taken from Mr. Boerner's, who does not care to see the case pushed. It is probable that the lad will be placed under the supervision of the humane agent for a year.

RALEIGH STREET EXTENSION.

Unless all signs fail the city council will this evening wrestle with the Raleigh street extension proposition with a large audience of interested West Duluthians. The fight for and against the street extension has been a determined one. The vote is expected to be very close, as some of the aldermen, while in favor of the street, will oppose the measure on the ground of expense. The people interested in the car works claim that a road through the plant will impair its efficiency if ever started up.

THE GHOST DISAPPEARS.

The mill employes at the Mitchell & McClure plant, in West Duluth, will no longer look for the ghost that for several evenings used to parade up and down the lumber piles with the apparent intention of frightening the men away. In fact, it is said that the ghost has been conspicuous by its absence ever since the mention of shot-guns and rock salt. It was rumored on Saturday that the ghost had died, an odor peculiar and offensive hovering about the yard, but it has since been analyzed as coming from a little animal of the genus mephitis.

BARBER SHOP BURNED.

About 2 o'clock this morning fire destroyed the contents of the barber shop of Mose J. Filiatrault, at 408 Central avenue. The fire is said to have been discovered by a passer-by, who gave the alarm. The shop is located in a small one-story wooden structure belonging to Mr. Filiatrault. The owner was not at home yesterday, but was out of the city on a visit, the shop having been shut up on Saturday night. All the indications point to an act of incendiarism. The building was badly damaged, while the fixtures are a complete wreck. The total loss is about $510, with an insurance of $150.

For the Victory At Santiago Was Given By Schley.

Showed Desire to Claim Almost Nothing For Himself.

Interesting Talk With a Marylander Some Time Ago.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster Wilson of Altoona, Pa., has just furnished an interesting story to an Eastern paper regarding the patriotic views Admiral Schley expressed before and after the naval battle at Santiago. It appears that Mr. Wilson has been a friend of Schley since boyhood.

Wilson and Schley met on the Pennsylvania limited express shortly after the admiral had been relieved of command of the flying squadron.

Mr. Wilson is a Marylander. He questioned the admiral merely for personal reasons and jotted down the following interview after he left the train at Altoona:

"Admiral, what were your first words when you saw the Spanish ships coming out of the mouth of the Santiago harbor?"

"My first words when I saw the first of the enemy's ships leave the harbor were: 'Either they go down or I do.'"

"Tell me, admiral, what were your first thoughts after the victory was won?"

"Mr. Wilson, the first thing that came to my mind was a little incident which occurred as the squadron was leaving Hampton roads. An old lady, gray and infirm, came aboard my ship. Her son was among my crew. She bade him good-bye, and cming to me, the tears welling up in her eyes,, she said: 'Admiral, I know you'll be very busy, but I want you to look after my boy,' and then she knelt and kissed my hand before I could prevent her. I assured her I would see to her son, and she said, 'Admiral, wherever you go, the prayers of the American women will go with you.' That incident was the first thing that came to my mind after the fight, and I firmly believe the prayers of the American women had much to do with the winning of the fight."

When asked to whom the honor really belonged, Admiral Schley said:

"The praise for the victory of Santiago should go to the brave men who individually contributed by their perfect obedience of orders and the doing of their duty as men fo win the battle. To them rather than to any selected officer should belong the laurels. When I said there was honor enough for all, I meant that the winning of a great victory such as this was so wide in its scope that, like the great wings of the American eagle, it overspread and brought within its shadow every man who did his duty. That the honors should be sordidly bickered for, fought after as dogs might quarrel for a bone, seems to me so un-American that fit expression for my thoughts is impossible."

As the train drew near Altoona and Mr. Wilson prepared to leave it, the admiral said:

"Mr. Wilson, if I had made a failure, had bungled it all and been beaten, I wonder if others would have taken the blame."

Admiral Schley throughout his talk showed a desire to give his men the credit and to claim almost nothing for himself. Mr. Wilson has remained silent until the present situation forced him, he says, to speak:

* * *

That full and complete investigation of the Sampson-Schley controversy will be made by the court of inquiry is shown by the action taken by Acting Secretary Hackett in ordering witnesses from foreign stations to Washington.

Before his departure from the city Judge Advocate General S. C. Lemy submitted to Mr. Hackett a list of the witnesses who could offer important testimony, and in the list was Commander Seaton Schroeder, who is at present governor of Guam. In the war with Spain he was executive of the battleship Massachusetts. Mr. Hackett at once cabled orders to Rear Admiral Frederick Rogers, directing him to send the Yorktown to Guam for the purpose of conveying Commander Schroeder to the United States.

Other officers will be brought to Washington, including Lieutenant Commander Giles B. Harber, naval attache at Paris and St. Petersburg, who was executive office of the battleship Texas; Lieutenant Commander Alexander Sharp, who commanded the gunboat Vixen, and who is now executive officer of the Hartford; Lieutenant Commanders S. P. Comley, attached to the Alliance; L. C. Heilner, on duty at the New York navy yard; William H. Schuetze and H. M. Allen, attached to the bureau of equipment; A. C. Hodgson, stationed at Newport; E. T. Capehart, on duty on the New York, and H. P. Huse, commanding the Villabos, who were navigators of the fleet.

Commander Schroeder, who will be brought from Guam, will be able to reinforce the testimony of Rear Admiral Higginson, who commanded the Massachusetts. As the executive officer he was acquainted with the routine of the ship and great stress is placed upon his evidence.

* * *

In a recent communication from Consul General Hurst, at Vienna, he states that in all the recent efforts of Austria-Hungary to further its export trade, repeated mention has been made of the danger of American competition in this monarchy. Germany exports more to Austria-Hungary than any other nation. For the year of 1900, merchandise to the value of some $127,000,000 was sent from Germany to Austria-Hungary, while, on the other hand, the exports of Austria-Hungary to Germany amounted to some $188,300,000. Countries exporting to Austria-Hungary are, in the order of the amounts exported, as follows: Germany, United States, England, Italy, Russia, British India, Switzerland, France and Brazil. It will be noticed that the United States occupies second place. This fact, accepted without further investigation, really suggests more than it should. There is a vast difference in the figures for Germany and those for the United States. While Germany sent to Austria-Hungary, during 1900, $127,00,000 worth of goods, the exports of the United States to Austria-Hungary amounted to about $30,600,000. The circumstance causing the chief dissatisfaction in this monarchy in regard to our reciprocal trade is found in the fact that the United States comes ninth in the list of countries to which Austria-Hungary exports, the monarchy having sent to us in 1900 products to the value of $7,600,000, which is an increase over the previous year of about $1,150,000 and the greatest amount exported to the United States from Austria-Hungary during the past eight years.

One hears in manufacturing circles in Austria-Hungary of the "American danger." A measure to exclude American canned meats is demanded by Austrian manufacturers and economists, who claim that inasmuch as Germany has prohibited the importation of certain meats in air-tight cans and barrels, which acts chiefly on American shipments in this line, American packers, losing a market in the German empire, should be hindered from increasing their sales in Austria-Hungary. American shoes are about to be extensively launched on the Austrian market, and as a consequence, the shoemakers' guild in Vienna is sending a deputation to the government to petition that measures be taken to prevent the American competition. Especial mention is made of tacks, which Austria has exported in large quantities profitably to the Levant, India and Japan. American manufacturers can now offer them at a price that much impairs the Austrian industry in this line, and almost excludes further business. One well known Austrian manufacturer advocates the formation of trusts in Austria on American principles. The supposed American peril is touched upon in all discussions concerning the strengthening and expansion of Austria commerce. In debating in parliament the important bill for the construction of a system of canals in Austria, frequent reference was made to the growth and power of the United States and the danger of its competition in this monarchy.

PLAYING IT POORLY

Opinion Is That Bellinger Plays the Maniac Rather Badly.

Belief Is Very Strong Now That He Is Shamming.

Usual Maniac's Symptoms Missing---Has Been Caught, Too.

In the opinion of most of the people about the court house and jail that have had some opportunity to observe him, Burt Bellinger's clever portrayal of "The Maniac" is not wearing well. It is said that those who have been watching him have seen numerous breaks in the performance that indicate that he has found it impossible to keep up the strain, and the belief is general about the county jail and court houe that his nsanity is entirely assumed.

Saturday night he became quite violent, yelling and throwing the contents of his cell about, beating on a tin pail and smashing a chair. He kept it up for a short time, and he was given plenty of leeway on the advice of County Physician Graham. He soon tired himself out, and since then he has been very quiet. He has been kept in the padded cell in darkness since yesterday morning, with mits on his hands and shackles on his feet, and he has submitted to all the moves that have been made very quietly.

What is beginning to make people suspicious of his case is that it is very noticeable that he is much madder when somebody is looking than when he is unobserved, or when he fancies he is. Yesterday one of the people in the jail tip-toed up and looked in his cell. He was lying on the cot with his eyes turned upon the ceiling, and they were as clear and sane as they ever were. Then the watcher tip-toed back a short distance and walked up to the cell in an ordinary manner, making enough noise so Bellinger knew he was coming. When he got there Burt's eyes had resumed their wild and rolling appearance.

The jail attendants have watched many cases of insanity, but they say that none of them ever acted in just the way Bellinger does. There are numberless tricks peculiar to an insane person that he does not show, and there are things he does that insane people seldom do. The attitude of silence, in a maniac so wild as Burt appears to be at times, is very uncommon, and is usually found in idiots, not in maniacs. Instead of talking, Bellinger, within a day or two, has fallen into a way of mumbling and grunting and groaning, a fashion that is also more idiotic than maniacal.

Also, he has given up his abstemiousness, and since yesterday morning he has eaten everything that has been brought to him, and called for more. He did not call in words, but in motions and with a curious grunting sound.

Nothing has been done toward an examination, and the county authorities have not yet determined whether they will do anything or not. The belief that he is shamming is becoming so fixed that it is questionable whether he will even be accorded an examination in probate court, though such a course may be taken.

MINING TRANSFER.

Sale Aggregating Nearly Half Million Recorded.

A transfer of mining property, in which the consideration is $450,000, was filed this morning in the office of the register of deeds. The tax records show that the taxes on the property for 1900 were $10.83, indicating a merely nominal valuation.

The sale is made by Chester A. Congdon to William P. Snyder, of Allegheny county, Pa., and the deed is dated May 7. The property is located on the western Mesaba range, and it is described as the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 23, 58-20.

As the sale was made before the changes in the revenue law went into effect, the revenue stamps are affixed at the old rate and they amount to $450.

The property is one of the unopened iron deposits on the western side of the Mesaba range, and the consideration indicates that the explorers have developed a valuable deposit of iron on the land.

TEXAS OIL NEWS.

Interesting Bits About Various Matters.

The report about a well coming in on the lot next the Saratoga (as rumored yesterday) turns out to be a misfake. A telegram received fromGeneralManager Brice says that this well is not expected in for a week or two.

Work on the Saratoga well is progressing daily with a 9-inch pipe which is going down outside of the 6-inch pipe with which the drillers have had trouble. It is a little slower work this way than if the smaller pipe were out; otherwise there is nothing serious in the situation.

The Hogg-Swayne syndicate have bought an acre of land on Spindle Top, paying $100,000 in spot cash for it.

One of the new oil companies at Beaumont is negotiating for the construction of an oil reservoir to hold 500,000 to 1,000,000 barrels. It is to be built similar to a reservoir for water, in the ground, and lined with brick or cement.

An attempt has been made to get a well on the ocean shore opposite the "oil pool" in the gulf of Mexico, of which those interested in Texas oil have read. The well was put down 1300 feet, of which 350 feet was mud and oil, but no oil stream was struck.

The market quotations on the Houston and Beaumont oil exchanges show an increased confidence in the stocks of well-managed companies, a general advance being noticed. The Houston Post says that the stock of the Yellow Pine company, which "was not known ten days ago," was put on the market at $175 a share (par value $100), and some big operator offered to buy the entire capital stock at $140, but could find no takers. That shows what is in store for owners of Saratoga stock when their well comes in. It does not cost anything to look this matter up. Why don't you investigate? Write or call. You will learn something to your advantage. Saratoga Oil and Pipeline Co., 728 Andrus building, Minneapolis, or J. H. Bennett, 514 Manhattan building, Duluth.

Pickpockets Belonged In the Excursion Party.

Excursionists coming to this city in the future are respectfully requested to leave their pickpockets at home. The gang of pickpockets which operated so successfully in the excursion crowds were not from this city. They accompanied the excursionists from South Dakota and Iowa.

Chief Crandall of the police department has made a careful investigation of the "dips" which occurred yesterday and he says that he found that four or five pockets had been picked on the train before the excursionists reached this city.

The police have failed to locate any of the men that did the work yesterday, and the supposition is that they accompanied the excursionists back to their happy homes.

Tennis Tournament.

The semi-finals in the tennis tournament were not played off last Saturday afternoon and will probably come off next Saturday. During the week, Anderson defeated Billson in two sets by scores of 6-1 and 6-2, Anderson being handicapped 15 points in each game. Saturday afternoon Anderson defeated Grady, 6-1 and 6-2, in two very pretty played sets, almost every game being a deuce one. In this match, as in the previous one, Anderson was handicapped 15 points in each game.

Much interest is being taken in the tennis tournament and some fast work is looked for in the semi-finals and finals.

FARMERS ARE CUTE

West Overflowing With Men and Wages Are Low.

Returning Men Lay Condition of Affairs to Farmers.

Filled the Country to Keep Wages to Low Limit.

If the reports of the laboring men that are coming back to Duluth from the Western wheat fields can be depended on, the farmers have been playing the same old game of making promises of big wages in view of the scarcity of labor, and have filled up some of the sections with men, more, in fact, than there is any work for. A number of men who left several days ago for South Dakota and North Dakota points, after reading accounts from those sections of the great scarcity of labor and the big crops, arrived on the morning trains and are registering a good-sized kick on what they term the fraudulent action on the part of Western wheat-growers.

They claim that the Dakotas are full of men that have been attracted by the promises of high wages; that there are enough men in the Dakotas to eat every grain of wheat in the two states," and that they cannot get work. The men that have returned also say the farmers are not paying the wages that they have claimed through the papers; that in places where the wages were said to be $3 they are paying but $1.50 to $1.75.

Among the men that went out to work and have returned without finding the Eldorado promised are a number of the intelligent class of workmen, who have made it a practice for years past to go out to the Western wheat fields during the harvest, and they denounce in unmeasured terms the condition of affairs out there. The men say tha the feeling of discontent is widespread among the hundreds of men who staid in the West, men that did not have money enough to get back home. The men claim that they have been fooled with promises long enough, and say that the course taken by the farmers to fill up the West with men and cheapen labor will hurt them another year, that the workingman is souring on the West, and in the next few years will not go out there.

The men that are coming back are going out on railroad jobs at $2.25 a day until snow flies, with free transportation furnished, and one man said this morning that he was sorry that he did not hire out for t he railroad work in the first place instead of going on a wild goose chase into the West. The men were swearing the report this morning and inducing their fellows to give up the idea of going West.

It is also known that some of the employment agents have received word from certain wheat growing localities stating the wages are only $1.50 and $1.75, instead of $2.50 and $3, as had been supposed.

SUICIDE.

Paradise Alley Woman Ends Her Life By Drowning.

Too assiduous devotion to Paradise alley, the rumbling rattle of the tom-tom, the jingle of the bung-loo chips and the odor of glowing opium, caused the dark, tempestuous Annie Cadozoe to commit suicide last night.

She drowned herself last night in a pond of water just east of the electric light plant at the foot of Fourth avenue west. Very little can be learned regarding the suicide. Annie Cadozoe's friends down on Paradise alley say that she was one of them until a late hour last night and that she was happy and slightly under the influence of Oriental stimulants.

Early this morning an employe of the electric light plant noticed a woman's hat and a cape at the edge of the pond close by. He made an examination and found footsteps in the sand, indicating that a woman had walked into the pond. Members of the electric light crew dragged the pond and found the body.

The coroner examined it and ordered it sent to Tibbetts' undertaking rooms, where about half the population of Paradise alley called to view the remains this morning.

For many years Mrs. Cadozoe has been prominent in the St. Croix avenue district. She was about 40 years of age and came to Duluth from Washington, D. C., where she has a family.

Some of her friends say that she must have fallen into the pond while under the influence of drugs. They say that when they saw her last night she seemed far too happy to be contemplating suicide. However, the indications all point to her meeting death voluntarily. She was found in about seven feet of water.

LIVED HERE ONCE.

Albert H. Petrie Dies at Home In Minneapolis.

Albert H. Petrie, a well known Minneapolis lumberman, who formerly operated in Duluth, died Sunday morning at his residence in Minneapolis at the age of 55 years. The funeral will be held in Buffalo, where the remains have been sent, tomorrow. He went to Minneapolis in 1892, from Saginaw, Mich., and built the mill of the Anoka Lumber company, which burned in 1894. He then became interested in Duluth, where he purchased the Huntress & Brown mill and organized the St. Louis Lumber company, of which he was president. He retired from business in 1895 on account of ill health. He still had an interest in the St. Louis Lumber company and other lumber concerns at the time of his death.

MAKES A HIT.

Panama, Colombia, Aug. 12.—An editorial of the New York Herald urging the United States to end the conflict by taking sides with Colombia against Venezuela has caused great enthusiasm here and will make Americans very popular, as such a step would put an end to the state of anarchy existing.

The officers and incorporators are as follows: John F. Day, president; Edward V. Dry, treasurer; Charles L. Gilham, vice president; R. Noble Day, secretary. The incorporators are all residents of Duluth.

While playing with a small calibre rifle yesterday afternoon Walter Ignasiak, of 118 North Lake avenue, accidentally shot himself through the shoulder. The wound is not a serious one.

There were two small fires this morning. The first was in the home of J. Siel, 714 West Second street. It was a small blaze and no damage resulted. The second fire was at 329 Sixth avenue west. A feather bed exploded, but the damage was too small to be reckoned in dollars and cents.

The concert given last evening by Signor and Signora Valenza at St. Jean Baptiste church was a pronounced success. Signor Valenze is an artist on the harp and Signora Valenza has a contralto voice of great power and richness and their selections were listened to with great pleasure.

Joseph Peterson, a 14-year-old West Duluth boy was arrested this afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his father, charging him with incorrigibility.

Jane Barrett had her husband, John Barrett arrested this afternoon on a charge of assault and battery. Barrett created some surprise at police headquarters by saying that he was not married to Mrs. Barrett, despite the fact that they have been living together for many years and have a large family of children.

Charles Burns, the professional till tapper, who was caught by Officer Roberg stealing money from the cash register of the Crown restaurant, last week, waived his preliminary examination in police court this afternoon and was bound over to the grand jury.

The boys are Herbert Affleckc, George Schwartz and John Marcel. About a week ago they stole some soda fountain fixtures, and candy from the confectionary store of Roman Dayos, No. 6 West Superior street.

The Duluth brewers' met defeat at Altkin by a score of 9 to 2. The locals were somewhat outclassed.

May Roach, a seamstress 28 years old, was arrested this afternoon for making goo-goo eyes at people on Superior street.

SMALLPOX.

Meeting to Discuss It to Be Held Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the local and state health officials of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, will hold a conference at the Spalding hotel to discuss measures for checking and eradicating smallpox from the Northwest. It will be a very important meeting and Dr. Bracken, of St. Paul, secretary of the Minnesota state health board, has issued a general invitation to the physicians and to the lumbermen to be present at the meeting and express their views. One of the main questions to be discussed is the practicability of burning the lumber camps at which there has been any smallpox in the past two years. It is expected that opinion will be a little divided on this score for some of the lumbermen that have spent large sums of money in establishing their camps will not be willing to see the same destroyed unless they are convinced that the exigencies demand it. The lumber trade journals have been urging the lumbermen to be present at the meeting as it is largely in their interests and it is expected that the loggers of the Northwest will be well represented.

Members of the state board of health in the three states are expected to arrive on the evening and morning trains.

TO BE SEVEN.

Steel Company Building to Be Larger Than First Stated.

The new building on First street to be occupied by the United States Steel company's Duluth offices, will be seven stories instead of six, as it was first announced. It was found when the matter was examined more thoroughly that the needs of the company would not be accommodated with six stories, so it was decided to increase the building to seven.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

Excursionists Enjoyed Their Stay In Duluth.

The excursionists from South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Southern Minnesota left for their homes yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, having spent a very pleasant two days in the city. The train left as it came, in two sections, and the 1700 excursionists were enabled to take the return trip in comfort, there being plenty of room. The only thing to mar the pleasure of the visitors was the limited hotel accommodations. For this reason many were discommoded to a great extent. Many of the excursionists took in the ball games, while others visited O-at-ka and Lester Park. The excursion boats carried heavy loads of people around the horn.

All of the excursionists were much pleased with the trip and another from the same place may be run during the near future.

Appointed Treasurer.

George D. Swift, who has been assistant treasurer of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad and the Rockefeller iron corporations, has been appointed treasurer of the ore interests of the United States Steel company, with headquarters at Duluth.

Suggests a Compromise.

The department of public works will have an important recommendation to make to the council this evening in regard to the Raleigh street opening.

As a suitable manner in which to solve the perplexing question of opening this street through the property of the West Duluth car works, the department recommends a temporary saw dust road from Fifty-fifth to Fiftieth avenues. It is estimated that such a road would cost $2000.

A Mine Is Sold.

Transfers of the east 55 acres of the north ½ of the southwest ¼ of section 4-58-17, by the Minneapolis Commercial Loan company, Louis Rouchleau and Chester A. Congdon to the Onondago Iron company, were filed in the office of the register of deeds Saturday. The consideration is $75,000. It is said that a fine body of ore aggregating about 2,000,000 tons, has been shown up on the property.

COLUMBIA WINNER

Ninety-Footers Sail the Second of New Series.

Constitution Goes Much Better Under Improved Rigging.

Finish Close and Columbia Won on Time Allowance.

Bateman's Point, R. I., Aug. 12.—The second race of the present series of three for the Constitution and the Columbia and the big yawlswas started today in anything but favorable weather. The air was cool and rain was falling, but the principal drawback was the lightness of the breeze, it being only about five knots' strength.

Besides the Columbia and the Constitution and the yawls Ailsa, Vigilant and Navahoe, the 70-footers ran also, and the Virginia was also entered.

12:01 p. m.—A preparatory signal was fired at 11:50; warning signal for the big sloops at 12 o'clock. Today the Constitution got the better of the start, crossing nearly half a minute ahead of the Columbia. The start as seen from the shore was as follows: Constitution, 12:00:10; Columbia, 12:00:25.

Both the boats went across the line on the port tack, the Constitution breaking out her No. 2 jib topsail before crossing, while the Columbia went over with No. 1 jib topsail set. Both carried their jib topsails and headed off to southeast for the first mark.

At this time the wind is blowing about five knots from the northeast and rain was falling.

12:15 p. m.—The starting signal for yawls was fired at 12:15 and the Navahoe led the fleet five yachts across the line. The starting time as seen from the shore was as follows: Navahoe, 12:11:37; Vigilant, 12:11:45; Rainbow, 12:13:02; Virginia, 12:30:50.

The Ailsa was handicapped, her starting time being given as 12:15:00. At this time both the Constitution and Columbia had completely disappeared in the rain to the eastward. When last seen the Constitution was leading by about a quarter of a mile.

Today's course is triangular, ten miles to each leg—thirty miles in all.

2:30 p. m.—Word has just been received from the yachts by a launch that at 1 o'clock the two big sloops had sailed but seven miles of the course, and the Constitution had increased her lead to about half a mile. The wind had shifted to eastward, so that it was close work. The official time of the start of the two big yachts was: Constitution, 12:00:09; Columbia, 12:00:36.

3:03 p. m.—The wind has now nearly died away, and it is doubtful if the yachts will finish within the time limit, five and a half hours.

4:06 p. m.—The wind is beginning to head off the boats and the Constitution has just made a short board on the port tack and crossed a short distance ahead of the Columbia, which was standing for the finish on the port tack. The race is a very close one between the yachts and it looks as if the Columbia might possibly win on time allowance. The yachts are about two miles from the finish. The wind has hauled to the eastward and the yachts have evidently made the last leg without any windward work.

Bateman's Point, Aug. 12, 4:26 p. m.—The Constitution crossed the finish line at 4:25:40. The Columbia crossed at 4:26:38 and has won the race on time allowance.

As the yachts have not been measured recently, the amount of time which the Constitution allows the Columbia is not known, but it is probably something over a minute.

Eveleth the Winner.

The Freimuth baseball team met defeat yesterday at the hands of Eveleth in a loosely-played game, the score standing 10 to 5. Two earned runs were made during the game, those being secured by the dry goods men. Eveleth was not as strong as when she met the Fashions here a week ago. Harrington was in the box. He was touched for seven hits, while the range people secured but four hits from A. Ryan, who did the twirling for the Duluth boys. Three errors were made by the range men and Freimuth's made about fourteen. Besides other things, the umpire was not at all satisfactory to the dry goods men.

Getting the Rate.

"Matters are quiet in the vessel line," remarked a prominent vesselman this afternoon. "The vesselmen are asking $2.50 for lumber to the lower ports and are getting it. There is no disposition on the part of the shipper to cut down the price, nor on the part of the owners to stiffen the rate. Everything seems to be satisfactory. The boats boats are coming in just about fast enough to take care of the lumber manufactured.'

STATE GEOLOGIST.

St. Louis, Aug. 12.—E. B. Buckley, assistant superintendent of the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History society and instructor of commercial geography in the University of Wisconsin, was appointed state geologist at a meeting of the Missouri geological board held here today. The position pays $3000.

WAGES CUT.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 12.—The Manufacturers' association this afternoon, voted to reduce the price of weaving from 19-8 to 17 cents per cut, which practically is a cut in wages of 14 per cent. The vote taken on the matter was unanimous. The cut goes into effect Sept. 3.

LUCKY WATTS.

Negaunee, Mich., Aug. 12.—Thomas Watts, a Cornishman, for twenty years a day laborer about the mines of this section, has received a legacy of $250,000 by the death of a sister in Cornwall and has left to arrange the probating of the will. The estate is about 60 per cent funds invested in mortgages and stocks. The rest is real estate.

ARRESTED ONCE MORE.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Emil Fred Biondin, the Massachusetts alleged wife murderer, is supposed to be under arrest at Richfield Springs.

DEMOCRATS

Believe They Can Win In Iowa With Good Man.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Aug. 12.—The failure of the Republican state convention to incorporate an equitable property taxation pledge in their platform has aroused so much opposition throughout the state that the Democrats are greatly encouraged. It has developed that the railroads are making an effort to bring about the nomination of a Democratic candidate who will smooth the issue, even though a courageous declaration of equitable taxation goes into the platform, as is now practically certain.

Since the Republican convention last Wednesday several candidates have been presented who are known to have been representatives of railroad interests, but the Democratic sentiment is so strong that the convention will, if necessary, draft a man like Cato Sells, who has the character and ability to command universal respect and will inspire the confidence of all who are opposed to railway domination and in favor of equitable taxation.

If the Democrats take advantage of the situation and make the campaign on taxation and other state issues, there is a growing possibility of unexpected results.

CONSUL DEAD.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—Edward Z. Brodowsky, United States consul at Solingen, died suddenly yesterday morning at the house of a friend, a surveyor named Kubicki, in Eberswalde. Mr. Brodowsky left Soligan Friday night and passed through Berlin Saturday, in perfect health. His wife has arrived at Eberswalde. The remains will be buried there. Mr. Brodowsky was originally appointed consul at Breslau, where the foreign office refused to grant him an exequator, whereupon his appointment was changed to Solingen.

ADMIRAL JOHNSON

Washington, Aug. 12.—Rear Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson, commandant of the Port Royal navy station, has been selected to succeed Rear Admiral Sampson as commandant of the Boston navy yard on account of the latter's ill health.

BISSERT SENTENCED.

Bissert, the police wardman who was convicted recently on an indictment charging that he had accepted a bribe as protection money from the Keeper of a disorderly house, was sentenced today to five and one-half years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $1000. Bissert's attorney gave notice of an appeal. Later his attorney secured a temporary stay in the case.

RACES POSTPONED.

New York, Aug. 12.—The first day's trotting meeting which was scheduled for today, has been postponed on account of the heavy rain. An effort will be made to complete the two days' program tomorrow.

Safeguard For Banking Interests.

It is proposed by leading financial men to place an additional safeguard on the banking interests of the country by means of a so-called "bureau of credits" designed something on the line of the commercial agencies which now furnish information to commercial concerns as to the standing of other concerns. The bureau would be designed for the benefit of bankers and a measure will probably be submitted to congress looking to the passage of an act authorizing such a bureau. It would necessarily have to be under the authority of the government, because of the supervision of the government over national banking institutions. It is proposed to have the bureau supported by contributions from all banks interested. Agents of the bureau would have authority to call for books and securities of all banks and to examine into their condition to assure themselves of their standing. Confidential information would be furnished through these agents to all banks, and measures could be taken through this information to protect their interests. It is realized that there would be great opposition to this from a certain class of banking institutions, but as the first-class institutions would have nothing to fear from such an institution those who are putting it forward hope to secure favorable action by congress. Any action that would safeguard the bankers and indirectly the people should have the encouragement of congress and there will probably be no difficulty in having a law enacted. Another suggestion which is made from the same source, but which will probably not seek for government sanction, is the insurance of stockholders of banks against loss through defalcations or banking complications. It is believed good returns could be secured from such business, and an attempt is to be made to work up such a line of risks. Several large insurance companies have had the plan presented to them, but while they state there seems merit and possibilities in such an enterprise, they hesitate to complicate their already diverse interests by entering the field of this kind of business.

The Defeat of Iowa Machine.

The passing of Senator Allison of Iowa is apparent. The nomination of A. B. Cummins for governor by the Republican state convention marks the beginning of a new order of things in Republican politics in that state. For many years the veteran senator has controlled the political machine. But a new generation has grown up that is inclined to consider him as superfluous in the political stage. As Allison represented the old order of things, Cummins and Dolliver represent the new. They were rival candidates for the seat in the senate made vacant by the death last year of Senator John H. Gear, but Dolliver won out. When the legislative caucus finally decided in favor of Dolliver, Cummins turned around and gave him his earnest support. In his turn Dolliver supported Cummins in his candidacy for gubernatorial nomination. Mr. Cummins was born in Pennsylvania fifty-one years ago of Scotch-Irish ancestry. Thirty-two years ago he first went to Iowa, where he secured a clerkship in the office of the recorder of Clayton county. He did not hold this position long, for two years later he was a deputy surveyor of Allen county, Indiana, of which Fort Wayne is the county seat, and a little afterward he was division engineer of the Cincinnati, Richmond & Fort Wayne railroad. Tiring of railroad life—he had before this been an express messenger for a short time—he studied law and was admitted to the bar at Chicago, where he remained until 1878, when he went back to Iowa, locating at Des Moines, the state capital, where he has since lived and practiced law and politics. Few men in the Hawkeye state have fought so many political battles. He suffered defeat in many of them, but was never driven from the field. He was always up and at it again at the next opportunity. He served a term in the state legislature, and for four years was a member of the Republican national committee. He was no favorite of the old organization, as was shown when it preferred Dolliver to him, but the very fact that the old leaders had to take Dolliver to head Cummins off showed what straits they were in. They headed him off for the time being, but now he is in the running and coming fast. hTat he will be elected governor is admitted on all sides. He still cherishes the ambition to represent his state in the United States senate. The question that interests Washington is this: Will Cummins try for Allison's seat, or will he capture Dolliver's place?

SCHWAB AND MORGAN.

They are telling a story in New York about strained relations between President Charles M. Schwab, of the steel trust, and J. Pierpont Morgan, and it is hinted that Schwab may resign his $1,000,000 a year position. There has been a split between these two men, it is claimed, over the way the great steel strike should be settled.

The story goes that Morgan informed Schwab that the demands of the strikers that all mills should be "union" must be agreed to. Schwab replied: "I don't think that will be a wise thing to do." That ordinarily would be enough to arouse Morgan's easily aroused choler, but he easily boiled over at the next. "Mr. Morgan," continued the usually obedient young man, "you and I represent different interests in the United States Steel, and we look at the matter from different view points. You look at this thing from a Wall street standpoint, and I look at it from the standpoint of a man responsible for the success of the great corporation, and with long experience in the handling of men. You, with your Wall street eyes, see the stock exchange, and you are immediately alarmed. I see only the future and the settlement of something which, sooner or later, every manufacturer must settle. It does not matter to me what the United States Steel is quoted at. I know its value, and I think I know how to enhance that value. We must meet these men in a fight, and the fight must be to a finish. In my experience the Carnegie company was never more prosperous in its career than it was after we had met the men at Homestead and whipped them. I have been trained to fight organized labor and we will fight it this time."

Then the rumor has it that the financier was on his feet when this statement was made and that his voice was heard in the busy bank outside, as he said: "You are merely an employe of the company, and employes are expected to obey instructions." To which Schwab is alleged to have replied: "I admit I am only an employe of the company, but I am put there by a man who has as much, if not more, power than you. If he tells me to change my policy I will do so. In the meantime I bid you good day. If you want to see me again I will be at the office of the company in the Empire building."

This story may be true, but the seeming exactness with which a private conversation is repeated casts doubt on its accuracy. But it is probably true that Schwab has steadily favored a fight to a finish. He has always been an enemy of organized labor, and he was in charge of the works at Homestead when the union was defeated after a hard and bloody struggle.

THE PENSION SHARKS.

Unprejudiced people sustain Commissioner of Pensions Evans in his efforts to prevent the government from being robbed by unworthy claimants through the frauds of pension attorneys. It is true that a great many veterans of the war, some prompted by rascally attorneys and others of unprincipled character who desire to share in the spoils, are opposed to the commissioners and are doing everything in their power to secure his removal. The exposition of the subject by Francis E. Dupp in the August Forum should open the eyes of those who are honestly hostile to Mr. Evans. The pension roll of the United States, without counting other military expenses, is almost equal to the largest expenditure for the national army of any European power, whose military footing runs into the millions, and it is shown that there are 50,000 men in the United States who derive their income largely from procuring pensions. Some are straight and square pension attorneys, but some are manufacturers of affidavits and others are prepared to furnish any kind of evidence in behalf of the claimant for a price.

There are men who make fat fees by discovering diseases and disabilities in perfectly healthy men and then the affidavit-mongers testify as to the time and place in the service of the United States that the disability was incurred. One man was so thrifty that he exacted $500,000 in fees during a single year by making pensioners divide their first payments. Within three years under this regime more than 500,000 names were added to the pension roll.

Another class of sharks are diseased and disabled rascals who impersonate a pension claimant before the examiner and thus aid the sound man to get government support on his disabilities. One pensioner was found drawing a pension for total deafness while he earned a fair salary in charge of telephone instruments, over which he received messages without difficulty. Several $72 pensioners for total blindness were earning wages as jewelers and doing other work which requires great nicety of vision. One who got $72 for total disability was discovered not long ago painting the side of a big warehouse and hauling himself up and down on a suspended ladder. A widow applied for a pension under the law of 188, running back to the time of her husband's death. Investigation proved that two weeks after her husband's enlistment she had skipped with a more convenient if not a handsomer man. As she was never married to the man she eloped with she was still technically the widow of the first. Her application was at first refused on the grounds of public policy, but she succeeded in getting her pension on an appeal.

Through the efforts of Commissioner Evans the above and thousands of other cases have been exposed, and a large share of the hostility to Mr. Evans is thus accounted for. It has come to pass that any commissioner who undertakes to obstruct those who get their living from the procuring of pensions is considered as an enemy and routed, if possible. Mr. Leupp lays the blame for the mixed condition of affairs upon a negligent congress, whose individual members are afraid of doing their duty for fear of alienating the soldier vote and the army of pension claim agents and lobbyists who infest the corridors of the capitol. Vote or no vote, Mr. Evans must stay.

White Earth Indians do not agree with the views of the Commercial club of Cass Lake and the Industrial association of Walker regarding the sale of pine and agricultural lands on the Mississippi and Leech Lake Chippewa Indian reservations. The Herald has received a copy of the minutes of a council of the Mississippi bands of Chippewas residing on White Earth reservation, which was held at the Industrial hall in the village of White Earth on Aug. 5. Resolutions were adopted expressing unalterable opposition to the sale or other disposal of the reservation at Cass and Leech Lakes, because the United States has "been unable to secure an honest and fair appraisal of pine timber" on the reservations; protesting against Capt. Mercer's system of selling the reservation timber; favoring the "Menominee system" of selling the timber, and opposing the disposal of the agricultural lands until the allotments have been completed under the Nice treaty. The fine work of the "half breed" is visible throughout the resolutions.

The fire loss in the United States during the month of July was heavy, amounting to a total of $15,740,000, or $2,000,000 in excess of the corresponding month last year and $4,000,000 in excess of the July loss in 1899. The total fire loss so far during 1901 has been $104,875,150, as compared with $116,989,000 for the first seven months of 1900 and $77,126,150 for the corresponding period of 1899. The prospect for 1901 is one out of which insurance interests can extract little comfort, and it is not strange that many once prosperous fire insurance companies are going out of business.

Loathsome diseases among the American troops in the Philippines are increasing with fearful rapidity. Gen. MacArthur's last report is accompanied by a report from Col. Greenleaf on the health of the soldiers, in which he says that this increase is the most serious phase of the situation from the medical viewpoint. From September of last year to April of this year, a period of only eight months, the increase was from 8.97 per cent to 20.42 per cent

The complete reports of the federal census of Alabama show that the colored voting population in that state has advanced in literacy far more than the white, a gain of 7.3 per cent being credited to the negroes and a gain of only 2.1 to the white citizens of voting age. They will soon have to devise some other method than the educational qualification to keep the negro from voting.

Australia is to begin with a navy costing $5,000,000 a year, and this navy is to be the first line of defense. Presumably it will be an active auxiliary of the British fleet in time of war. On the other hand, the Australian navy and army will come in handy in case the commonwealth should ever break loose from the british empire, and that may happen in the not distant future.

The Victoria Colonist wants the alleged dispute over the boundary line between British Columbia and Alaska arbitrated. But there is nothing to arbitrate. There has not been any doubt for forty years, and longer, what the legal line is; if its location is in doubt it is only a matter of surveying. The Canadians have simply been making claims and pretensions that never had any foundation whatever.

Dr. Washington Gladden is grieved because only 6000 votes were cast in Columbus, Ohio, on the question of a public electric lighting plant, while the city has a registered vote more than four times as large. He notes that 12,000 people were at the races the day before the election.

KITCHEN HELP STRIKE.

Madrid, Aug. 12.—The general feeling of discontent prevailing here has reached the royal kitchen and the principal chef and four cooks at the king's palace have gone out on strike.

IN MICHIGAN.

Alleged Hold-Up Man at Ishpeming Makes Escape.

Ishpeming—Carl Ohman, who was arrested by Officer James Ames, charged with being implicated in the many hold-ups that have been reported in this city during the past three weeks, escaped Saturday from Judge Kennedy's court, where his preliminary examination was to have been held. He was brought into court by Marshal Farm, who left him alone while he went into the judge's private office to hold a conference with Judge Kennedy. When the officer came out, his prisoner was gone, and up to a late hour no trace of him could be found. The whole police force is at work on the case. Ohman's escape is the talk of the town, and on all sides Marshal Farm is censured for his carelessness. It is probable that Mayor Johnson will call for his resignation.

Escanaba—Mrs. B. H. Scheltels, of Milwaukee, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Solomon Greenhoot, this morning. Addison's disease, from which Mrs. Scheltels had long been a sufferer, was the cause of death. She was 35 years old and leaves a husband, who will take her remains to Milwaukee tonight for burial.

Menominee—A most daring and cruel robbery was reported at Menominee. Gus Johnson, a farmer, was held up on a lonely road near Hermanville by two masked men. He struggled with his assailants until he was beaten into insensibility. He lay bleeding and prostrate by the road for several hours until picked up by passers-by. He was walking into Menominee when set upon. He was robbed of a gold watch, $15 in cash and some other valuables.

Crystal Falls—Paul Flemming, a young Belgian, of Crystal Falls, met a horrible death at Norway. He had arrived in Norway the previous evening to visit friends and went down to Vulcan. He boarded a train of empties at that place to return to Norway. At the Aargon mine crossing he attempted to alight, but slipped in some manner and fell on the track, a number of cars passing over him. His body was literally cut in two. Fleming was 25 years of age and unmarried.

SUFFERED UNTIL DEATH

Rather Than Worry Her Invalid Mother.

Ashtabula, Ohio, Aug. 12.—A martyr to affection for her mother, Miss Elizabeth Dadey is dead in Austinburg.

July 15 Miss Dadey came to Ashtabula to attend a circus, and while at the home of relatives fell through a trapdoor into the cellar, striking on her head and shoulders. She strongly urged those present to say nothing of the mishap, as the knowledge would worry her invalid mother. Not until several days after the accident was there any indication of serious effect. Then she was seized with a violent headache.

Several doctors were called after she had become nearly distracted and partially paralyzed. They were unable to locate the cause. Although she knew that her condition grew out of the accident, the girl persistently kept her secret until Saturday, when one of her Ashtabula friends, upon hearing of her condition, confidently told one of the doctors in attendance. It was then too late to render any assistance to the girl, as she had lapsed into unconsciousness, from which she could not be aroused.

It was found that the skull had been injured and that puss had formed and pressed on the brain.

HUGE BLACK SNAKE

Was Wrapped About Himself and His Child.

Zanesville, Ohio, Aug. 12.—While sitting on the porch of his home, Fred Stremmel and his little daughter were given a terrible scare by a large black snake. The snake crawled from the grass, unnoticed in the dusk of the evening, glided up on the steps, and before its presence was noticed had coiled itself about Mr. Stremmel and his little daughter, who was sitting on his lap. Neither Mr. Stremmel nor his child noticed the snake until it had completely encircled them.

Fortunately Mr. Stremmel did not become scared, and carefully and easily took hold of the snake's body, uncoiled it and threw it onto the floor. He then jumped on the reptile with his feet, but missed a fatal spot, and the snake succeeded in coiling itself about his legs and began squeezing him. He succeeded in throwing it off again, and a second jump ended in the death of the snake. It measured seven feet in length.

Aside from the scare, neither Mr. Stremmel nor his daughter sustained any ill effects from their adventure.

PLAYMATES

Removed Bag and Boy Plunged to Death.

New York, Aug. 12.—Frank Feeney, 9 years old, whose home was Paterson, N. J., is dead as a result of a mischievous act of his playmates. Feeney and his companions had been jumping from an awning at the corner of Mill and Elm streets into a potato bag held as a net by six boys.

When the net was in position and Feeney was about to jump the boy thought it safe to dive. Just as he did so the bag was drawn away and the little fellow landed heavily on the asphalt pavement. A cut on the back of his head was not thought to be serious, and the boy, without complaining, picked himself up and started for home. When he reached the house he collapsed, and when a physician arrived the boy was dead.

FOX TERRIER

Locked Up Nearly Forty Days and Lives.

Hillsboro, Ohio, Aug. 12.—That a dog can live for nearly forty days without food or water has been demonstrated in the case of a fox terrier belonging to William Boatman, a farmer living near this city. July 1 Mr. Boatman sent his son to securely fasten a school house in the neighborhood. The boy was accompanied by the dog, and after closing and fastening the windows locked the doors and returned home.

Next day the dog was missing. He could not be found, and it was decided that he had been stolen. Saturday Mr. Boatman sent some workmen to the school house to make some repairs. At the door when they opened it the little dog was found, apparently dying from the lack of food and water. A little milk and water was given it, and afterward more solid food and it will recover.

Mr. James Brown, of Putsmouth, Va., over 90 years of age suffered from a bad sore on his face. Physicians could not help him. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Max Wirth.

GERTRUDE'S FLIRTATION.

BY CHARLES EDWARD RICH.

(Copyright 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

"Oh, say, girls, this is just the jolliest flirtation ever. And so unconventional. Did you ever look right into his big brown eyesso solemn and earnest?"

"Look out, Gertrude, that those big brown eyes don't pierce your heart before you get through with your flirtation."

"Pshaw! Fall in love with a country bumpkin!"

Country bumpkins have souls, you know, and he doesn't appear to me so truly rural as you seem to think."

"Well, anyway, I have made up my mind to wear his heart home at my belt. One must have some amusement in this quiet old place."

Geertrude's dark eyes sparkled with fun and mischief as she spoke.

They were a party of everyday girls, typewriters and clerks from the city, passing their week's vacation together at an old farmhouse up in New York state. They were a jolly, human lot, full of the spirit of independence that comes of earning a place in the world by honest labor.

The person whose heart Gertrude had declared she would wear home like a scalp-lock at her belt, was the farmer's son, a big, bronzed Adonis in overalls and broad-brimmed straw hat.

"Here he comes now," said Gertrude as her victim emerged from the barn and came toward the group of girls on the veranda of the farm house. He lifted his unsightly hat as he approached them.

"If he only wouldn't wear those horrid overalls," whispered Gertrude, making a grimace.

"Ladies," he said leaning on the veranda rail in an easy and unabashed attitude that was strangely lacking in loutishness, "Dad's going to give you a little picnic this afternoon if you are agreeable. He thinks you would enjoy a ride to Eagle Rock, as none of you have been there. I shall have the buckboard ready in half an hour. Will that give you time enough?"

"Oh, we will be delighted," cried Gertrude, clapping her hands like a child, and speaking for the entire party, as if there were no other minds than hers. "It's awfully kind of your father, Mr. Stillings, and I—I hope you are going to drive us, you—you understand horses so well."

Gertrude leaned forward in her chair and flashed her dark eyes on him with a coquettish, pleading expression. Farmer Stillings' son flashed back a look full of amusement and admiration that brought the color to her cheeks.

"Yes, I shall drive you, Dad's too busy." Then he turned gravely away.

"Awfully bold for a farmer," said Gertrude, as she felt the blood still tingling in her cheeks; "I don't think I shall go."

But she did go, and stirred by the slight resistance she had met was more than ever determined to bring the farmer's son to her heels. When they reached their destination, a picturesque spot overlooking a pretty fall of water she lingered behind on the pretext that she wanted to learn how to harness horses, while the others strolled off into the woods. And John Stillings was not at all adverse to teaching her.

And as he harnessed and unharnessed the horses for her finally hitching them up to a tree so that they could browse comfortably, she could not help noticing how well manicured were his strong, brown hands.

"Do you like farming, Mr. Stillings?" she asked as he took some blankets out from the box of the buckboard and swung them over his arm.

"Well," he replied, turning and looking at her with that challenging, laughing glance, there are parts of the year when I am very fond of it."

"And what parts of the year are they, Mr. Stillings?"

"Why, that part when Dad has up a charming city boarder."

Again his laughing eyes met hers, and again she felt the blood in her cheeks and wished she had never tried to subjugate a farmer's son, at least, not one so bold as this one, who did not seem to have any of the characteristics that she had expected to find.

"Won't you come and see the view?" he asked becoming earnest again when he saw the flush on her face. "We will join your friends if you like. Are you equal to a little climbing? There is a spot up the rock where the outlook well repays the trouble of getting there."

"How well he talks," thought Gertrude, "I wonder if all farmer's sons are as well educated." Anyway, she determined not to be beaten by him so soon.

"Oh yes, I can climb. Let us see the view. We will call the others when we have found the right place."

He turned, and she followed him up a narrow steep path that wound to the summit of an immense flat rock. When they reached the top she was quite out of breath.

"What are you carrying those heavy blankets for?" she panted.

He spread them out on the rock before answering.

"I thought we might need them," he said. "Won't you be seated?"

"Well," she thought, he certainly is a very masterful sort of a farmer," but she was tired after the exertion of climbing, and she sat down thankfully on the carefully prepared blankets. When she had comfortably settled herself he threw himself down on the rock near her.

"Isn't it a charming view?" he asked.

"Charming," she admitted without looking at him.

"Do you like typewriting?"

"How did you know I was a typewriter?"

"Oh, Dad told me, I guess."

"Yes, I like typewriting some parts of the year."

She looked at him now with eyes full of mischief.

"And what parts of the year are they, Miss Nelson?" he asked with most earnestness.

"Why that part, which gives me two weeks' vacation up where there is an impudent young farmer."

She was sorry the next moment, although for the life of her she couldn't tell why she was not glad that he sprang to his feet with a very serious look in his handsome dark eyes.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Nelon," he said, "I assure you I had no intention of being impudent. Probably I forgot my place for the moment, you were so jolly and nice. Let me call your friends. You will be perfectly safe here until I find them."

Before she could say a word in reply, he had hurried down the path and was concealed from her sight by the thickly growing bushes. She felt very much like crying, and she was a very sober young person indeed when John Stillings had found her friends and piloted them to the rock, where he immediately left them, saying:

"I will see that the horses are all right. When you have had enough of the view there is some luncheon in the wagon. It will be a long drive home, as I shall have to go by way of the village and pick up the mail." Again he disappeared down the path, leaving the girls alone together.

"How come on your flirtation, Gertrude?" asked one. "Have you won the heart of your bumpkin yet? You've had him quite to yourself for an hour."

"Don't," said the distressed girl, "I'm a little fool," and the tears that she had so far restrained came to her eyes under the joking badinage of the girls.

"Oho! Those big brown eyes have pierced deeper than you thought."

"Don't, please."

It was dark when they reached the farm house, and as John Stillings helped Gertrude from the buckboard she held his hand a moment as she whispered:

"Please forgive me. I didn't mean to hurt you. It was all my own fault."

She pressed his hand just a little in her earnestness, and she felt his big one close on hers just a little closer than was necessary, which somehow seemed to set her heart beating faster.

"It was quite as much my fault as yours," he whispered in reply, with his brown mustache almost brushing her ear.

For the next week the last of her vacation, the girls saw very little of Gertrude. Sometimes she was out in the fields inspecting the haying, sometimes she was out after the cows, sometimes she was learning how to make butter, but whatever she was learning, John Stillings was always her instructor.

It was the morning of Gertrude's departure from the farm. She was the first of the party to return to her duties in the city. The girls were all gathered on the veranda to see her off. The best turnout in the stable was waiting in front of the door to take her to the railroad station, five miles away.

She made a startling pretty picture when she appeared dressed in a fluffy white costume, and her eyes were sparkling with life and happiness.

"Where's the bleeding heart at your belt, Gertrude?" asked one. "Do you suppose he is watching your departure with tearful eyes from behind the barn?"

"Now, this is between ouselves, girls, isn't it?" said Gertrude, her black eyes flashing with their accustomed mischief.

The girls nodded in the affirmative.

"Well, you see, I hate to admit to defeat, but while I was flirting with John Stillings, I became rather careless, and lost my own heart to a young lawyer who has been spending his vacation up here on his father's farm, and—and, well, we are engaged, that's all."

"What a shy one. Who's the man, and where did you meet him? Poor John, we shall have to take up your flirtation where you left it off. Why didn't you tell us about the other. Is he nice?"

"Well, naturally I think so, but you shall see for yourselves. He is going to drive me to the station."

At this moment Mrs. Stillings came out on the veranda and hugged and kissed Gertrude in a manner so effusive as to cause much surprise among the girls. Then Farmer Stillings saluted her warmly, and with much apparent enjoyment.

"I'm so glad, dear," announced Mrs. Stillings, again embracing the girl as they moved toward the wagon.

At this moment a big man dressed in a fashionable suit of light flannel and carrying a dress suit case hurried out to the carriage.

"That's Gert's lawyer," whispered one of the girls.

To their amazement he stopped and kissed Mrs. Stillings, shook Farmer Stillings warmly by the hand, solicitously helped Gertrude into the carriage, tucked the dust rope around her and jumped in himself.

Then turning to the assembled girls on the veranda, he raised his hat, touched the horse lightly with the whip, and they were off.

"Why, it's John Stillings," gasped the astonished girls as they watched the happy pair disappear in a cloud of dust.

LEPER FOUND

In St. Louis Will Cost City Much Money.

St. Louis, Aug. 12.—A case of Asiatic leprosy has been discovered in St. Louis, and is now in the care of the health department. Dong Gong, a Chinese laundryman, whose shop has been at 4815 Easton avenue for several years, was examined by half a dozen physicians and skin specialists. All agreed that it was a genuine case of leprosy. Years may elapse, the physicians say, before the final and fatal stage of the disease is reached. In the meantime Dong Gong will be an expensive luxury to the city. The present plan of Dr. Starkloff is to build a small house, near quarantine, for his sole accommodation.

SCHOOL LEVY

Belief That Four Mills Will Be Enough.

Figures That Bear Out This Expectation.

On the evening of Aug. 20 the board of education will meet to discuss the coming tax levy for school purposes. At that meeting it will probably decide whether it will levy the same amount as last year, or more. That appears to eb the only issue among the members of the school board.

The Herald has given the matter very careful attention, and the result of its investigations is a belief that the board can get along very nicely on a levy of 4 mills, or $104,000, instead of 5.7 mills, or $140,000, which was last year's levy.

It is true that that makes no allowance for a sinking fund, but a sinking fund levy that would answer the purpose would be about 3 mills of itself, and it is at least a debatable question whether it will not be the best thing to refund the bonds at a lower rate of interest when they come due rather than pay them at the cost of a heavy annual sinking fund levy.

It is also true that in May, 1903, the board may run short of funds for a short time, but that is something that happens to the city and county almost every year. If the city and county made levies that would not result in a shortage at some period, they would pile up a surplus in their treasuries, and that is what the school board has had for several years. There is a remedy for that temporary shortage that fills the breach completely. It will be referred to later.

In order to see how the board would come out on a levy of 4 mills made this year and a levy of 7 mills next yenr, the matter has been figured very carefully and the estimated receipts of the school district during the next two school years, given below, will be found to be conservative. If any error has been made it is in the district's favor, and if the returns show any change in these figures the difference will be that the district will get more money than is here estimated.

The estimated collections are based on averages of past years. The percentage of current taxes estimated to be collected is much smaller than the percentage of collections this year and last year. The back taxes are based on the amount outstanding, and the percentage of collection used was less than the experience of past years would indicate may be collected during the next two school years. Having no desire to see the school district crippled for funds, no effort has been spared by The Herald to assure careful and conservative figures in every respect.

The estimated expenses of the district for the next two years, based on an estimate of $25,000 per month for ten months and $10,000 per month for two months, July and August, are $540,000. The estimated receipts for the same period, based on a levy of 4 mills this year and 7 mills next year, are $631,000, divided as follows:

On hand Aug. 1, 1901	$202,000
November settlement, 1901	58,000
March settlement, 1902	37,000
June settlement, 1902	24,000
November settlement, 1902	45,500
March settlement, 1903	56,500
June settlement, 1903	128,000
Total	$631,000

The items that make up these settlements are estimated as follows:

November, 1901—Back taxes, $7000; local mill, $9000; state apportionment, $27,000; current taxes, $18,000; total, $58,000.

March, 1902—Back taxes, $4000; local mill, $9000; state apportionment, $11,000; current taxes, $16,000; total, $37,000.

June, 1902—Back taxes, $26,000; local mill, $13,000; current taxes, $45,000; total, $84,000.

November, 1902—Back taxes, $5000; local mill, $6500; state apportionment, $28,000; current taxes, $26,000; total, $65,500.

March, 1903—Back taxes, $2000; local mill, $8000; state apportionment, $12,000; current taxes, $35,000; total, $56,500.

June, 1903—Back taxes, $18,000; local mill, $14,000; current taxes, $96,000; total, $128,000.

This shows collections for the three years or parts of years from the following sources:

Collections in 1901—Balance, $202,000; back taxes, $7000; local mill, $9000; state apportionment, $27,000; current taxes, $18,000; total, $263,000.

Collections in 1902—Back taxes, $35,500; local mills, $25,500; current taxes, $37,000; state apportionment, $39,000; total, $187,000.

Collections in 1903—Back taxes, $21,000; local mill, $20,500; state apportionment, $12,000; current taxes, $131,000; total, $181,500.

In order to show the balances after each apportionment, the following table is given:

On hand Aug. 1, 1901	$202,000
November settlement, 1901	58,000
Total	$260,000
Less expenses for August, September, October and November, 1901	85,000

Balance April, 1, 1902	$112,000
Balance April, 1, 1901	$112,000
June settlement, 1902	84,000

Less expenses for April, May and June, 1902	75,000
Balance July 1, 1902	$121,000
Balance July 1, 1902	$121,000
November settlement, 1902	65,500

Balance Dec. 1, 1902	$ 91,500
Balance Dec. 1, 1902	$ 91,500
March settlement, 1903	56,500
Total	$148,000
Less expenses for December, 1902, January, February, March and April, 1903	125,000
Balance May 1, 1903	$ 23,000
Balance May 1, 1903	$ 23,000
Less expenses for May, 1903	25,000
Deficit June 1, 1903	$ 2,000
Deficit June 1, 1903	$ 2,000
June settlement, 1903	178,000
Balance	$126,000
Less expenses for June, 1903	25,000
Balance July 1, 1903	$101,000

From this it appears that the board will not ave quite money enough to get through May, 1903. In the past the city of Duluth has repeatedly been in the same shape, and it has secured advances from the county treasurer of sums large enough to make up its deficiency and tide it over until the June settlement became available. The June settlement is technically due on June 1, but it usually takes about six weeks to make it up and apportion the amounts due. However, if the school district is in need of funds after June 1, it has a perfect right to require them of the county treasurer.

As to the pinch before June 1, if it comes, the school district can do the same thing the city has done in the past. The public examiner has spoken of this practice as somewhat questionable, but he said at the same time that it was not necessary, because the treasurer and auditor can overcome the objection by making an apportionment at any time that they have funds on hand that are unapportioned. So if there is a shortage before June 1, 1903, there will be no difficulty about overcoming it without borrowing a dollar from anybody.

But these estimates have been so conservative in every respect that it is very doubtful whether the shortage shown in the table will occur. It is reasonable to expect that instead of there being a shortage, the receipts will be so much in excess of these estimates that the board will have a small surplus on June 1, 1903.

This is all based on a levy of 4 mills this year. If 5 mills, or $26,000 more than is allowed here, are levied, there is no possibility of a shortage. Any more will be more than is needed, and will be asking the taxpayers to contribute unnecessarily. If the levy is made as high as last year's, there will still be a surplus that is not needed by the district, and it is improbable that this will meet with the approbation of the public.

TOOK TO BUTTING.

Fight on Lake Awarded on a Foul.

What promised to be a very fast fight was cut short in the second round yesterday by the repeated fouling of the Duluth scrapper. Gleason, of Chicago, and Nelson, of Duluth, were scheduled for a 20-round bout on a barge out in the lake. The Chicago man had the best of it in two fast rounds, when Nelson started in to do billygoat stunts. He butted Gleason several times, and the referee awarded the bout to the Chicagoan on a foul.

Last Sunday Nelson lost a fight to a colored man on the same tactics.

Fights are getting to be hebdominal affairs in this city and the authorities don't seem in the least inclined to interfere. The sports are taken on the barge openly towed out on the water.

Next Sunday George Wyatt and the winner of yesterday's fight will come together. The men are to weigh 133 pounds at the ringside.

LOST HIS ROLL.

Sioux City Man's Trip Was Expensive.

Pickpockets got $200 and a gold watch as the result of three "dips" made in an excursion crowd yesterday.

A Sioux City saloon keeper, named Joseph Miller, claims that he had his pocket picked for $170 while taking the train for home at the Union depot yesterday afternoon. The money was in his inside vest pocket. Mr. Miller says that he was very careful of his money, but he got in a crowd at the Union depot and the "dip" was so cleverly made that he knew nothing of it till he got on the train.

Another man claims to have been robbed of $30 in money while trying to board an excursion boat. Still another lost his gold watch.

William P. McDonald Dead.

Saturday evening William P. McDonald died at his home, 320 East Third street, of tuberculosis. He was a well known pine land dealer and an old soldier. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the house and the body was taken to Grand Rapids, Wis., for burial. He leaves a wife. The deceased was a member of the order of Elks.

A Case of Sing Sang Song.

While endeavoring to talk fierce Chinese with a violent Scandinavian accent, Saturday afternoon, Hor Sing was roughly handled by Sing Wo and Sam Sing. Both mixed monologue and the heavy mixing occurred in the laundry of Sing Wo, on East Superior street. The police learned that what prompted Hor Sing to use the queer conversation in the first place was that he demanded more money from Sing Wo than Sam Sing thought Sing Wo owed Hor Sing.

AN EXHIBIT.

Arrangement For One For This County at State Fair.

Preparations are already being made for a proper exhibit for St. Louis county at the coming state fair. The directors of the St. Louis County Agricultural society have taken the matter up and have arranged with E. Bronson to prepare the exhibit. He is said to have prepared exhibits for the St. Paul & Duluth railroad several times that drew prizes. The idea is not, however, so much to get the prize money as to make a good showing of the resources and possibilities of the county. There is already a good supply of iron ore at the fair grounds, and all that will be necessary will be to get samples from the mines that have been opened up recently. Steps have been taken to gather fine specimens of grains, grasses, vegetables and fruits from the county.

The directors of the fair association will have a meeting this week, and it is hoped that at that time arrangements can be made for the coming fair. The grounds are in the hands of the court, but it is hoped that an arrangement can be made with Mr. Wheeler, the owner, by which the society can get them. The directors believe that if they can only get good weather for fair week they could in one season place the society on a good basis.

IS TOO THIN.

Transparent Explanation By Butchers of Higher Meat Prices.

In an article in the morning paper that manifestly comes from a retail butcher, some attempt is made to explain why the price of meat is held up, regardless of the wholesale price. It is there stated that the wholesale price is advancing; that though there has been a slight decline in less desirable carcasses, the choice ones have gone up. This is utterly impossible, and bears its own contradictions on its face.

As a matter of fact, as The Herald explained last Friday, the wholesale price of meat is suffering from an avalanche of stock and is considerably lower. Owners of stock are fearful of keeping it through the winter, with feed as high as it is, so they are rushing it on the market. The result can be only one way. The wholesale price is declining. The market reports show it everywhere.

There is always a difference between the price of choice carcasses and less desirable ones. There is also a difference between choice cuts and "less desirable" cuts. But they do not go in different directions at the same time, as the retailer naively claims. When the general price of meat changes, the choice and "less desirable" meats change in proportion, and they keep about the same relative distance apart.

The retailer's explanation does not explain. While the wholesale price of meats is going down, the retail price—in Duluth—is going up. By and by. When the surplus stocks of live stock are all cleaned up, there will be a reaction and the wholesale price will go up. Then watch the smoke of the retain butchers' trust in Duluth.

MEN NOT WANTED.

Thousands of Idle Men In North Dakota.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please warn all workingmen through the columns of The Evening Herald to keep away from North Dakota or they will be sorry. There are thousands of idle men no matter which way you go, and hundreds coming on each train, while they are also pouring across the border from Canada. The towns are so thronged with idle men as the Bowery in Duluth was last April. The crops are not coming in yet. Some cutting has been done here, while some is as green as leeks in July. The weather is wet and disagreeable. Many men are going back the best way they can.

If any man, after reading this, should still come out, he will be a wiser man if not richer by the time he gets back.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES WHYTE,
A Woodsman.

VACCINATE.

State Health Board Decides It Necessary For School Children.

No teacher or pupil who cannot show a certificate of successful vaccination since 1896 will be permitted to attend the public schools in the state.

This is the tenor of a series of resolutions adopted at a recent meeting of the state board of health, which realizes that small pox is, technically, epidemic and an outbreak may be expected when cold weather comes.

The resolutions adopted by the board are as follows:

"In view of the fact that smallpox is now epidemic in the state of Minnesota since 1899, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the school boards, school directors and boards of health in the various districts, insist upon it that all school children and teachers in the schools of Minnesota—public, private or parochial—must show a certificate of successful vaccination since Jan. 1, 1896, or, in lieu thereof, a certificate from a responsible physician to the effect that the party is immune to vaccination. Such certificate of vaccination or immunity must be presented to the proper authorities on or before Oct. 15, 1901.

"Resolved, that all lumbermen, mining superintendents, railroad superintendents or others employing many men, women or children, require a certificate of successful vaccination since Jan. 1, 1896, or, in lieu thereof, a certificate from a responsible physician to the effect that the party is immune to vaccination, as a condition of continuing such employes in service."

A conference of health officers, physicians, county commissioners and lumbering men will be held at Duluth, Tuesday, for the special purpose of discussing the smallpox situation.

It is for the purpose of deciding upon precautionary methods that the conference will be held. At this time Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan will be represented, and special attention will be given to lumber camps.

It has been reported that there would be a general burning of old lumber camps during the fall. Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, says that only in the case of abandoned camps will this be done.

At other places fumigation will be resorted to, and it is believed will be sufficient to prevent another outbreak. It is for the purpose of securing the cooperation of the lumbermen that they have been invited to attend the meeting.

THE DAKOTAS.

Mrs. Hearst Sends Check to Black Hills Churches.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Central City—When Mrs. Phoebe Hearst visited the Black Hills she made liberal donations to the churches of Lead and Deadwood, but the little churches of Central and Terraville were unintentionally overlooked. The pastors felt that if Mrs. Hearst's attention was called to the needs of these little places of worship, where many of the Homestake families attend, she would not hesitate to contribute, in reply to a request each pastor received a check for his church.

Aberdeen—Sheriff Braden, of Woonsocket passed through here Saturday with George Moody, a notorious cattle rustler, whom he captured at Hankinson, N. D. Sontag, a one-armed bandit, who was implicated with oMody in cattle stealing in Sanborn county, cannot be located.

Watertown—A test case will be made in this county at the next term of court of the new liquor law, which requires a license of $200 for outside salesmen who take orders for intoxicating liquors for less than five gallons. The representative of a Duluth house was arrested here for violation of this provision and was bound over to the next term of circuit court. This is the first test made of the new law in the state.

Lead—At the First Methodist church in this city, the wedding of James B. Hedge, Jr., editor of the Lead City Tribune, and Miss Laureen Hoffman, of Des Moines, Iowa took place. The young couple received many expensive gifts. They will reside in this city, where they are well known and are leaders in society.

Evarts—A mail route has been established between Gross, Campbell county, and Evarts, arriving here from Gross every Monday, Wednesday and Griday. The route to Bluebianket has been discontinued. A route from Evarts to Wakapia, Borman county, N. D., is contemplated by the postoffice department.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Sherbrooke—John Stein, a prominent German farmer of Steele county, died Friday night of tuberculosis, after an illness of long duration. He was 54 years of age, and leaves a wife.

Fargo—Andrew Christy Brown, synodical missionary for the Presbyterian church in this state, has about concluded to make his official residence in Fargo. When he first arrived some members of his church at Grand Forks are said to have promised him a residence if he would go to that city, but it seems they have failed to make good.

Milton—Conductor Hewitt of a work train was struck by a mall crane and severely injured. He was unconscious for an hour and is suffering from concussion of the brain and a broken rib. It is thought he will recover.

SHAMROCK II ARRIVES.

Lipton's Challenger Makes Quick Passage Across.

Sandy Hook, N. J., Aug. 12.—Shamrock II, Sir Thomas Lipton's second challenger for America's cup, in tow of her consort, the big steam yacht Erin, arrived off Sandy Hook lightship shortly after 11 o'clock Sunday night and anchored for the night just inside the lightship half an hour later. A newspaper tug and the tug boat James R. Lawrence, with David Barrie, Sir Thomas' personal representative in this country, aboard, had been cruising off Sandy Hook for two days awaiting the appearance of the foreign cup hunter. After passing quarantine the Shamrock will be towed to the man-of-war anchorage off Thompkinsville and later to the Erie basin, where she will be stripped and her mast stepped preparatory to going into dock.

Knight Templar Conclave—Cost of the Trip

A STIFF ADVANCE

Wheat Opened Strong and Sold at Big Advance.

Government Report Main Factor---Large Clearances Reported.

Higher Cables and Moderate Primary Receipts ---Corn Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 12.—The opening of today's market was anxiously awaited for it was a foregone conclusion that all grains would be buoyant under the influence of the government report which came out Saturday afternoon.

It was bullish beyond the expectations of the most sanguine bulls and the buying orders that swept in after the opening made trading very lively in the first few minutes. The opening of wheat in nearly all market was at an advance of about 2c and in some markets there was a wide divergence in the prices at which opening sales were made. Shortly after the opening there was a half cent decline, a rally and then another decline. The low point was reached at about 10 o'clock and from then on the general tendency was upward with a few reactions, the high point being touched shortly before noon. In the Liverpool market wheat closed at an advance of 1d for futures and spot wheat was up 1½d. At times during the morning there was a large amount of profit-taking but the market absorbed it well.

An incresae of 1,672,000 bus in the amount on passage was reported, as against a decrease of 896,000 bus last year World's shipments were 10,480,000 bus, against 5,647,000 bus last year.

Clearances were very heavy again today aggregating 1,595,841 bus for wheat and flour. Argentine shipments for the last week were 328,000 bus, last year 784,000 bus. Australia shipped 144,000 bus, last year 168,000 bus. Russian shipments were 752,000 bus, last year 880,000, Danubian 344,000 bus, last year 496,000.

The visible showed a decrease of 2,150,000 bus. Primary receipts were 1,151,000 bus, last year 1,689,000 bus. Shipments 900,000 bus, last year 598,000 bus.

Corn showed less strength than wheat, for while it opened nearly 3c up in Chicago, it lost steadily from the opening price, whereas wheat gained on its opening figure. The visible supply of corn showed an increase of 692,000 bus. The world's shipments for the week aggregated 3,704,000 bus, last year 3,755,000 bus. Primary receipts of corn were 484,000 bus, last year 536,000 bus. Shipments 423,985 bus, last year 870,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 146,919 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 386 cars, against 307 last week and 448 last year. Chicago receipts, 263 cars, 50 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was active on the Duluth board. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Large Demand For Both Wheat and Corn.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The government report together with higher cables caused a strong market in the wheat pit today, and although there were buying orders on all sides, sellers were scarce. September opened 1½@2⅝c higher at 73@74c. Around 73¼c there was considerable profit-taking, but offerings were well taken and prices held firm. There were an increase of 1,672,000 bus in the amount on passage compared with a decrease of 896,000 bus a year ago. World's shipments were 10,408,000 bus, against 5,647,000 bus a year ago. Northwest receipts were 386 cars, compared with 307 last week and 448 cars a year ago. Local receipts are 263 cars, 50 of which are contract.

Heavy clearances and an unexpectedly large decrease in the visible supply, caused a rally in September to 74½c. The close was 2¼@⅜c higher at 73⅜c.

Corn opened excited with a large demand for the deferred options. The government report of Saturday estimating the total corn crop of the country at about half the average crop of the past five years, together with higher cables, caused an advance of 2@2¾c on September, which opened at 60¼@61c. Most of the trading was around 60½c where the market quieted down. Local receipts were 120 cars, with 3 of contract grade.

Allegations that the government report of damage was largely exaggerated, brought considerable selling and September closed 1¾@⅞c higher at 60@¼c.

Oats opened excited and higher with heavy local demand and good outside buying. September opened 1⅛@1¾c higher at 37@37½c. The market dropped back to 36½c on realizing, but rallied again to 37c.

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Liverpool closed 1d higher for wheat in response to the moderate strength in this market, and also on account of the bullish government report. We have had a very strong market all day. The trade has been large and the buying from all quarters owing to the shortage in all feed and feed stuffs. It seems to us that the long side is the safe one, and that more will be made buying on the breaks, than on selling on the bulges, and that the general trend of prices will be to a higher basis.

Corn—Liverpool closed 2⅜d higher in response to the very bullish government report. Our market opened strong 2c a bus higher than Saturday's close and remained within a narrow range all day. There was more or less liquidation on the advance, but some very good buying We believe that corn will sell much higher. See no reason why it should not sell fully as high as it did in "'91," and believe that it should be bought on all soft spots.

Oats have been strong all day in sympathy with the government report, which is generally considered to be extremely bullish. We believe the movement of oats will fall off very shortly and that they will sel much nearer the price of corn. Advise their purchase on all soft spots.

Provisions shared the advance in grain to some extent, but as the chief shorts are the makers of the product, the forced buying was small and prices more steady. The market was strong throughout and the Northwest crop reports are of the same for a time. Hogs show improvement in quality, 233 pounds average last week against 229 the week previous. Estimated hogs for tomorrow, 20,000.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Chicago Record-Herald: The August government crop report completely disconcerted those who had been assuming the July heat and drouth losses had been exaggerated. It made the corn conditions the lowest ever announced, 54., and it dropped the sring wheat condition from 95.6 in July to 80.3. It made the oats condition only 73.6, which means the smallest yield since 1890. Some of the state corn per centages show the July havoc: Kansas, 19.; Missouri, 29.; Nebraska, 31.; and Illinois and Iowa, 57. There was no revision in the report of the corn area, although there has assuredly been, as in 1894, some acreage altogether abandoned. That will probably be announced in September. But if there had been no abandoned area, a condition of 54, would mean a corn yield of only 1,318,000,000 bus, and if there was such a loss of acreage as was finally announced in 1894, the total corn yield might prove less than 1,100,000,000 bus. The lowest condition ever heretofore announced, was in September, 1894, when it was 63.4. At harvest that year, the season of the 1,200,000,000 bus corn crop, the corn percentage was 64.2. As surprising to the speculators as the low corn percentage, was the drop in the spring wheat condition of 15 points, meaning a reduction in promise of about 40,000,000 bus from July. This will put the 1901 wheat yield under the 1898. It will not be possible longer to refer to this as a "bumper" wheat crop. The oats percentage, 73.6, suggests a yield of around 600,000,000 bus, more than 200,000,000 bus under last year and the smallest harvest since 1890. The report in tabular form suggests the following:

	August condition.	Yield per acre, bus.	Acres.	Total. yield, bus
Corn	54.0	15.90	82,920,000	1,318,000,000
Oats	73.6	22.80	26,325,000	600,200,000
Wheat:
Spring	80.3	13.25	17,468,000	231,450,000
Winter	87.8	13.80	28,267,000	413,000,000

The above results are assuming no reduction in the corn area from absolute abandonment. The wheat results are on the basis of 16.5 bus as par. The Washington people have declared in favor of 15.7 bus and Statistician Snow uses over 17 bus. The winter wheat figures are those of July, and suggests a total winter and spring wheat yield of 644,450,000 bus.

Charles E. Lewis, of Minneapolis, wires from Chicago: "Have had a talk with several of the most successful traders and they are all bullish. They believe wheat is absolutely safe to buy for 10c advance and also that May corn is sure to sell at 75c. May oats at 45c and eventually they expect to see provisions much higher. They say Wall street has had her prosperity run and that the grain and provision people are now about to have theirs. The best people say to buy corn around 61c, or May at 65c, and wheat is a purchase at any price."

* * *

Osakis, Minn.—From St. Cloud to Alexandria find returns from threshing very unsatisfactory; great deal of shrunken wheat, and it is nearly all off grade. Farmers around Osakis are very much disappointed.

* * *

Chicago—W. H. Bartlett says: I think corn and oats should be bought on all spots. I do not believe the government report shows present condition in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and believe if issued today would show the first two states at least 10 points lower and probably Ohio 20 points lower. We have raised considerably less corn and oats than in 1890, and our demands are very much greater and it certainly is not unreasonable to expect at least as high range of prices as prevailed in 1891.

ACTIVITY IN STOCKS

More Trading Than Usual and Prices Made Advances.

United States Steel Rose Two Points Above Saturday.

Rise In the Final Hour and Close Was Strong.

New York, Aug. 12.—Trading was more active than usual at the opening owing to the interest displayed in the government's crop report and the developments in the steel strike. Eight thousand shares of United States Steel com were dealt in at from 42 to 42½, compared with 41¼, Saturday' closing. The preferred was less active, but gained 1¼. Union Pacific ran off 1⅜ below Saturday on sales of 6000 shares. Railroad stocks were generally weaker. Traders forced the Atchisons and Rock Island down 1@2½ on the low condition for corn in the government report, and its strength in the grain market. St. Paul and the Southwesterns were weak, but Southern Pacific rallied sharply. U. S. Steel was in fair demand, and they advanced 1¾ each. Railroad stocks rallied strongly toward 11 o'clock and losses were largely wiped out.

Covering by shorts advanced People's Gas 1⅛ and National Salt pfd, 2 points. The market otherwise was dull and hesitating. U. S. Steel stocks were inactive and preferred lost ¾ below the best. Bonds were irregular.

A large part of the small dealings were ein Sugar, which declined steadily touching 129¼, compared with 133⅝ at the opening. Traders offered the stock down on talk of trade competition. Conditions were uninteresting in the general market, scarcely a stock moving ⅛ either way. One hundred shares of Northern Pacific pfd brought 96. Prices did not vary from the noon level aside from Sugar, which fell a point.

Traders covered short contracts in the final hour, causing a rise in prices to the best of the day. St. Paul, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, People's Gas and Western Union led the rise and sold from 1½ to 2 up from Saturday's close. Sugar ran up 2 from the lowest and the United States Steel stocks got up 2 points above Saturday's close. The market closed strong.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf gossip—Speculative sentiment, as reflected by this evening's comment, continues pessimistic and in spite of good earnings and large exports of breadstuffs some very good judges of this stock market think that the latter is passing into a new cycle of poor crops, less favorable earnings a few weeks hence and reaction in general business. It is recalled that railroad revenues and bank clearings are usually maintained for some weeks and even months before they begin to reflect the passing of the highest wave of commercial prosperity, and these signs are being closely watched now, notwithstanding their heavy volume, in anticipation of marked shrinkage a little later on, when they will begin to reflect the great loss of crops other than wheat and the consequent inevitable falling off in the shipments of merchandise and grain.

It is believed that this outlook will impel important interests to lighten their load of securities on all rallies and that such liquidation will result in a decided decline in the market during the next few months. It is pointed out that many railroads have enlarged their capitalization very heavily, the total increase in this respect in the last twelve months being estimated at $500,000,000, to which the largest contributors are the Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific and the Burlington. Hence dividend requirements are greater than ever before. The point is also made that these and other stocks of the railway list are quoted on a far higher level than a year ago, when crops were large and business prospects good. In this connection are mentioned stocks of much prominence which in August, 1900, were on the bargain counter, for example: Atchison commen, 27, preferred, 71; Rock Island, 106; St. Paul, 112; Missouri Pacific, 52; Northern Pacific common, 52, preferred, 72; Southern Railway preferred, 52; Union Pacific, 58, and Wabash preferred, 18.

Men of large experience having in mind the ghastly showing made by the August government crop report say that they look at the prices of a year ago and those of today and ask themselves if the value of stocks has been enhanced by the touch of some magic wand, that in the face of a great crop calamity they should be quited 100 to 200 per cent above the prices at which they sold only a couple of years ago.

The bureau report is the sole topic of conversation in stock circles and is evidently a severe blow to the optimists and theorists who have been arguing that the situation in the great corn belt was misrpresened by Chicago speculators in grain. It fact, it is now suspected that much of the selling of stocks attribuied to the West emanated from local interests which used the brokers of Western operators as a blind to conceal the liquidation from the public.

Pope's Comment on the Death of Crispi.

Rome, Aug. 12.—The pope was only informed of the death of Signor Crispi this morning. He exclaimed: "Providence has evidently really decreed that I shall be the last of my generation to go. Well, Crispi was a good fighter."

A few moments later the pope was on his knees at his prie dieu, praying for the soul of his ancient enemy.

PASSENGERS LANDED.

Tugs Bring People From the Halifax.

Boston, Aug. 12.—Tugs have reached here with passengers from the stranded steamer Halifax, including the famous scullers, McGuire, Whitehead and Wray, and members of the Philadelphia cricket team. An officer of the vessel says that the Halifax struck about 5 o'clock this morning, during an impenetrable fog. By her own efforts the vessel floated as the tide rose. Her fore compartments were full of water, and Capt. Pye decided to beach the craft, which he did on George's island. The Halifax carried 250 passengers and a cargo of miscellaneous freight. There was little or no excitement among the passengers. The steamer is in an easy position and is believed to be in little danger of further damage unless a northeastern storm should set in.

President Shaffer, Secretary Williams and Secretary Tighe, Vice President Chappelle, National Trustee John Pierce and Ben Davis were at strike headquarters. Mr. Shaffer was in his private office and refused to see any callers. Secretary Williams said:

"We are in a fight until an honorable settlement can be reached. We are issuing a call to the general public for financial aid. It will go out today."

President Shaffer made a brief statement at noon. He said:

"We have no official information about the situation in the West. I do not believe Vice President Davis of Chicago has accepted a superintendency from the trust, as reported. My only regret is that some men well known in the slave pens of the trust had not spirit enough to come out and join the strikers. I will not take any part in calling out the American Federation of Labor. Its action must be voluntary. The Amalgamated has not lost anything, but has made gains."

Secretary Williams said: "I think the greatest surprise of the strike will come to the steel officials, when they find we have invaded the Carnegie plant. We have reliable reports to the effect that the Lower city mill is tied up, and that but one mill in the Upper plant is on. We have not made known our plans and still have some surprises for the manufacturers."

The men of the sheet mill and tin plate plant at Cambridge, Ohio, 800 in number, have gone out.

The National Tinplate mill at Monessen started up this morning at 4 o'clock on the first turn with the full quota of non-union men. The strike leaders, after an all-night session lasting to 3 o'clock this morning, decided to abandon all opposition for the present. They had learned after Manager Perch of the Donners move in mobilizing a large number of the tin workers, who, in conjunction with the town authorities and special police, largely outnumbered the union men. The tin workers came to work in bodies and were on the lookout for interuption by the strikers, but no opposition materialized.

The employes of the Scottdale and Old Meadow plants of the American Sheet Steel company, at Scottdale, went to work as usual this morning. There were no signs of disaffection. The Mingo plant, at Mingo Junction, was closed, the men having struck Saturday. There was no change in the situation at Sharon. Not a mill has been shut down as a result of President Shaffer's order.

The departments of the National Tube works at McKeesport that are closed are as follows:

National Rolling mill, 2000 men; Boston Iron and Steel mill, 500 men, and Monongahela Steel mill, 400 men. The rest of the plant is running as usual, and mill men say that there is enough skelp on hand to last for eight days. Every man in the Boston mill joined the Amalgamated association. The McKeesport strikers severely criticise the action of the Chicago and other Western men in refusing to come out. Twelve mills were started at Wellsville today, making a gain of one mill since Saturday. The additional crew was made up of old men who were members of the Amalgamated association.

The Amalgamated association issued a general appeal to organized labor for financial assistance. The address was prepared on Friday and goes into the mail today.

The Clark mill was reported running the same as last week this morning. General Superintendent Brown said he hired about two dozen skilled men today and will put them to work as soon as the repairs on the ten-inch mill are completed, which will probably be tomorrow. The strikers are keeping away from the plant, and the furnacemen at the La Belle steel works, Allegheny, have voted one day's pay every two weeks to aid the strikers.

The Republic, Painters, Lindsay & McCutcheon and the Frankston puddling and rolling mills, of the Continental department of the National Tube company, were closed this morning. An attempt was made to start up the Republic Iron works, but the men refused to work and the fires were banked.

Three men were at work in the Annealing department getting steel out of the boxes which they put in on Saturday. The strikers declare these men will come out as soon as this work is finished. The strikers, numbering nearly 600, patroled the district all morning. The Frankstown mill employed about 500 men in the rolling department and these were out, but the pipe department resumed in full, with nearly 600 men on duty. They declared they had no connection with the Amalgamated association, nor would they obey any order or request from them; they have material to last three weeks.

At noon about 2000 strikers gathered about the plant of the National Tube company, at McKeesport, and when the workmen came out for lunch, good-naturedly guyed them for working. The workmen seemed to take no offense at their break and there was no disturbance or disorder.

FASHIONS GO DOWN

Ashland Team Takes the Two Games With Ease.

Duluth Batters Unable to Find Ball at Critical Times.

Revoir Pitched For Ashland Saturday and Augustine Sunday.

The Duluth Fashions went down twice before the baseball players from Ashland losing the Saturday game by a score of 7 to 4 and the Sunday one by a score of 11 to 5. The Fashions were outplayed in both games, they being unable to hit the ball when hits were needed and making errors at very inopportune times. In addition to loose and slow playing the clothiers played in poor luck and the brilliant work put up against the Eveleth team the week before was not even approached except at very few stages of the game.

Ashland has a fast lot of ball players and is ready to meet anything in the baseball line that this part of the country has to offer. They are in the game from the start and besides being a fast lot of ball players are first class rooters. Their team work put that displayed by the locals clear in the shade. Ware, the Ashland colored first baseman, is one of the fastest men ever seen in this part of the country and plays magnificent ball. There is hardly a weak spot in the visitors' team. Ashland backers give their team almost anything they want in the baseball line and the team that defeated Duluth was an all-salary yoyneezy y y

Between $60 and $70 changed hands on the Saturday game and a much larger amount went down to the south shore town yesterday.

Staub and Revoir pitched in the Saturday game. The blond cigarmaker walked the first man down while Gardener came up with a long drive to left field. Ware sawed the air and Walters followed suit while Wittkow sent a pop up fly into Randall's mitt, retiring the side. Duluth came out of the first inning without scoring but none fanned and Hickey secured a pretty hit in the direction of third. In the second inning Ashland went to the bench in one, two, three order. Lagger put a nice one out near Staub while Pleas fanned and Cole hit to Hickey. Randall started the batting in the grand stand by hammering out a long two-bagger past middle field and Kline followed with just such another, scoring Randall. Staub knocked the ball about fifteen feet in front of the base and Revoir waited for the catcher to scoop it up while "Loole" took third and scored on an error by Revoir, Girard went out to Lagger and Bennett flew out to short. Staub scored on Lambert's hit to left and the big center fielder crossed home on Shepard's hit in the same direction. The Duluth short stop, however, went out at second on a hit by Hickey. Then when Staub struck out Revoir and Erickson giving Gardener a hit towards right and when Ware went out on a high ball to Lambert the expectations and hopes of the crowd went away up in the air. The ball team went in the same place a few minutes later, Randall got a hit but was thrown out at second. Mullaney went out on a fly and the big catcher fanned.

Then the trouble began. Walters got a two-bagger. Wittkow made first on an error. Lagger hit to left field. Pleas hit to right field, when Lagger went out at the home plate. Cole was retired at third, but Revoir got to first on fielder's choice and Erickson took a two-bagger, but was left at second when Gardener went out to Shepard. Two of the men scored on a bad throw by Hickey to Kline. The fourth inning tied the score. The fifth made it seven for Ashland. Ware reached first on an error by Girard. Walters put out a two-bagger, scorin Ware. Wittkow hit a single. Lagger went out to Girard and Pease went out to Bennett, the latter making an exceptionally pretty catch, but was unable to send the ball back to Kline in time to put out Wittkow. Cole fouled out, but the score was 5 to 1 and there it stayed till the end of the game. Had the Fashions played without errors during that inning, Saturday's game might have required ten innings. All of the scores that the Fashions chalked up were made in the second inning, while those that the south shore people had to their credit came in during the fourth and fifth. Staub fanned ten men to Revoir's six. Both teams secured an equal number of hits and made an equal number of errors, the difference being that the hits for the Ashlands came opportunely and the errors for Duluth came at bad times.

The Sunday's game was worse than Saturday's. Mullaney was laid up from a strained tendon received the day before and Glenney was put in his position. He showed his lack of practice by making several costly errors. Augustine pitched for Ashland and although he was hit, he was not hit safely. "Red" Hanley, who pitched for the Fashions against Eveleth a week ago, and gave but one hit was put in the box, but could not pull the team from defeat. Errors were made profusely by the red shoe strings and Ashland did not secure one earned run out of the 11 she chalked up. Duluth got 5 runs, but could not put up the necessary team work.

Manager Van Praagh announces that he has closed dates with the Milwaukee Sentinels for four games to be played here next Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. He says that the people of Duluth by their attendance have shown that they appreciate the efforts to give Duluth a good team, and although the team was away off color yesterday, it will be materially strengthened by the addition of several new players next Saturday. It is thought that Dick Glendon will be secured to do part of the box work and several other fast ball-players that like this part of the country have been mentioned. The Fashion team is capable of much better ball than was put up yesterday and it is hoped that with practice every day and the addition of the new players they will be able to take some of the games from the Sentinels, who have the reputation of being faster than the Milwaukee state league team.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The bonds of Walter L. Dimmick, former chief clerk of the United States mint, who is under arrest charged with embezzling $20,000, have been placed at $25,000. Dimmick is in custody of the secret service officers and will be arraigned Monday.

A telegram received by Capt. A. J. Carroll, from the Apollo Mining company, of San Francisco, states that a gold brick valued at $2,000 was shipped from Unga, Alaska, via the steamer Newport about July 20, has not arrived in that city. The treasure should have reached San Francisco several days ago.

The engine of the Canadian Pacific way freight which left Toronto Junction Saturday while on the down grade between Dundalk and Markdale, left the track and thirteen cars were piled up. William Campbel, the engineer, and Brakeman McGraw were killed. Cleveland McCaughey, the fireman, was so badly scalded that it is thought he will die. Brakeman John Lancaster was also severely injured.

Mrs. George P. Ireland, noted for her works of philanthropy, died Sunday night from the effects of a fall from a street car last Monday. She founded the fresh air home and hospital there and was connected with nearly all the charitable organizations of Cincinnati.

Encke's comet was observed Sunday morning by Dr. William R. Brooks at Smith's observatory. The comet is in constellation Gemini, in the eastern morning sky. Its position this morning was right ascension one hour, thirty-five minutes thirty seconds and declination north 31 degrees 17 minutes. The comet is moving in a southeasterly direction and approaching the north pole. It is increasing in brightness, but is not visible without a telescope.

Mrs. Robert Pringle, while temporarily insane from illness today, fired three shots into the body of her 13-year-old daughter, Mildred, then fired a single bullet into her own abdomen and without losing the weapon was empty ammunition, fired at her 11-year-old son, Barton, and pulled the trigger. The boy grappled with his mother and took the weapon away from her, after which she fell to the floor unconscious and died last night. Mildred probably will recover. Mrs. Pringle was the wife of Capt. Pringle, of the lake steamer Helena.

According to mail advices received at Kingston from Colon there was a series of engagements last week in the neighborhood of Panama and the government was experiencing some difficulty in keeping out the insurgents. A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kans. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

CRISPI IS NO MORE

Italy's "Grand Old Man" Has Passed Away at Naples.

Married Thrice and Each Wife Had a Romantic Story.

The Brilliant and Beautiful Donna Crispi Survives Him.

Naples, Aug. 12.—Signor Crispi died at 7:45 o'clock last evening. He was surrounded by the members of his family and several intimate friends. The news was immediately sent to King Victor Emanuel and Queen Helen. The papers assert that the body will be conveyed by steamer to Palermo, where the municipality will arrange for a great public festival.

It is rumored that Signor Crispi's wife will authorize a prominent Italian politician to examine his papers and to publish his memoirs.

On account of the low condition of Signor Crispi Sunday morning the injections of stimulants and the administration of oxygen were stopped, the physicians recognizing that they were quite useless. Through the day he lay inert and insensible and he was virtually dead for hours before the physicians certified that life was extinct.

Some indignation was expressed when the public learned that the details of the funeral had been arranged before death came. It is rumored that the affairs of the deceased are in the greatest confusion and that Signora Crispi will have to depend solely on the proceeds of the sale of the memoirs. The body will be embalmed and will lie in state for three days in the drawing room of the Villa Lina, in Naples, the walls of which are adorned with frescoes representing the principal episodes of the Garibaldian epoch.

Signor Joratro, the sculptor, has taken a cast of the face. Seals have been affixed to the belongings of the deceased and Signor Laurenzia, of the chamber of deputies, has been appointed trustee of the will. Veteran soldiers firemen and police will act as a guard of honor during the lying in state.

A great state funeral will be held in Naples before the body is removed to Palermo. King Victor Emanuel will be represented at the funeral. His wife and daughter did not leave the bedside for fifty hours and their friends were compelled to use loving violence to induce them to quit the chamber. When all was over, Prince Linguaglossa fainted and had to be carried out by her husband. Friends declined to allow strangers to touch the body and they personally performed all the last and offices, placing the body in evening dress with the collar of the Order of the Annunciation.

It is rumored that the documents left by Signor Crispi contain compromising revelations regarding several politicians and unpublished details concerning the struggle for Italian unity and independence. It is asserted that all the property left by the deceased is heavily mortgaged. The death, although so long expected, has made a marked impression.

The "grand old man" of Italy, Francesco Crispi, is dead. In a stately room overlooking the blue waters of the bay of Naples, amid the cooling breezes that sweep in from the Mediterranean he had been calmly waiting for the end.

His beautiful wife, with her chestnut hair tinged with gray and with the sadness of unspeakable grief in her lustrous eyes, watched beside him. Their daughter, Peppina, counted among the beauties of Italy's fair skies, was there, too. The court and the imperial family of the house of Savoy demanded hourly tidings, and the heart of a great nation beat with but one thought and cried out but one name —Crispi.

All the world knows of Crispi's great life, his heroism,, his patriotism, his statesmanship and diplomacy. All the world knows of his political career and the distinction conferred upon the Italian nation by Crispi's premiership.

But these things are as naught to the heart of the Italian people, who waited in hushed dread to hear of the end. It is Crispi, the man, they love. It is the touch of romance shrined in the great statesman's life which has endeared him to the hearts of his countrymen. And of this the world at large knows less than of his public career.

This very romance, though, has had the closest relation to Crispi's public career. Signor Crispi has loved three women with truest and most chivalric devotion. The deepest happiness and the deepest gloom of his life have resulted from these three loves.

The first to win his favor was a beautiful young girl, who died after two years of married life. The second was the devoted Rosalie, a bourgeoise, to whom Crispi showed that peculiar chivalry which only a grateful heart can give. The third was the handsome woman of noble lineage who now sits drooping by his bedside.

The romance of Crispi's life began when he was 18, and in his second year at the university of Palermo. There he met a beautiful girl of 16, named Rosina, and they fell in love. Because of their youth, Francesco's father called him home. The young lover pined away in spite of parental attempts to solace him and their providing for him changes of scene and air. Then came news that cholera was devastating Palermo. Crispi clandestinely borrowed a neighboring farmer's horse and set out for Palermo and Rosina. His inamorata was the daughter of a widow and had three sisters and a brother.

Rosina was in need of Francesco, for when he arrived her mother was already dead, as were her eldest and younger sisters. Her brother was dying. Francesco sold the house to the postmaster of Palermo, and with the money thus obtained cared for Rosina and her one remaining sister.

In the meantime the mystery of young Crispi's disappearance had never been cleared up, and his family had mourned his as dead. One day the farmer's horse came along, driven by a stranger, and following the clue thus furnished, the Crispi family located Francesco, who was living happily with his childwife, her sister completing the household. Parental forgiveness was forthcoming and the three went to Ribera. The pretty Rosina lived but two years. After her death her sister would not have said nay had Francesco asked her to succeed Rosina as his wife, but this did not come about, and she became a nun.

After the death of Rosina, Crispi engaged in an unsuccessful revolutinary movement in Sicily. This cost him months in prison. It was here that the romantic affair began that cost him so much sorrow. A pretty laundress, Rosalie Montmasson by name, had access to the prisoner's apartments, and she soon grew to love the young Italian, whom she regarded as a hero. Crispi returned her love, and when he left prison she went with him.

Later he married her as he supposed legally. In succeeding years Rosalie showed her devotion to her husband, and on several occasions risked her life for him. She followed him from place to place.

Crispi's adherents of former days presented her with a diamond cross for her services to their cause; honors poured upon her; she had been presented to the king. She was surrounded and flattered by her husband's friends and complimented by amiable officials.

She had been born a peasant. She was uneducated, and so great a change in her fortunes as came when Crispi began to win political renown turned her head. She became a laughing stock and a great trial to Crispi. Finally she became shockingly inebriate.

At last the burden of union with her became more than Crispi could bear, and he poured into the sympathetic ear of a lifelong friend the story of his woe. To his great astonishment he then found that the ceremony performed between himself and Rosalie had not been a legal one, owing to the direction of this same friend, who had foreseen unhappiness from the union. This friend, Tamajo, now counselled separation, and Crispi, after making all provision for the comfort and support of Rosalie, left her forever.

Rosalie lived at Rome, retired and calm. Sometimes she was seen, decorated with her diamond cross, and followed by one of several dogs. Her conduct was irreproachable; she was a good bourgeoise, and a stout, good looking matron.

She has since expressed her deep devotion to the man whom she once called husband, and speaks of him with tears in her eyes. Crispi secured a legal annulment of his marriage.

In 1872 Crispi, while at Palermo, was entertained one evening at the house of a friend. There he met the lady who is now Senora Crispi, or, more correctly, Donna. She was the daughter of a Sicilian deputy. She had married at 14, and been divorced after two months of wedlock. She was beautiful, gracious, charming, a woman of the world. Crispi fell deeply in love with her, and after a short courtship married her. In all the years thereafter he was her lover. For her sake he, on more than one occasion, brought on serious crises in the Italian cabinet.

Sometime after his marriage to Mme. Filomena (the present Mrs. Crispi) Crispi's enemies, knowing of his connection with Rosalie, caused him to be tried on a charge of bigamy. He lost his position as minister for the time, but was subsequently triumphantly acquitted and restored to position.

It is on the Donna Lina that Crispi lavished all the tenderness of his great nature. She is a woman of vast ambitions, and with the supreme dictatorship she has been able to wield over her husband she has been able to reach a position of remarkable prestige.

She even saw fit to rebuke the lovely Queen Margherita in public.

The climax of her power was reached when King Humbert was compelled by Crispi to confer upon him the Order of the Annunciation, the members of which become, ipse facto, cousins of the sovereign, this prerogative extending to their wives, who follow immediately the princesses of the blood on all official occasions. Mrs. Crispi thus became officially the cousin of Queen Margherita, entitled to remain seated in the royal presence and to be publicly saluted with a kiss from the lips of her majesty. It is on the strength of this that Mrs. Crispi dropped the prefix of "signora" and assumed that of "Donna," coupled with her Christian name, "Donna" being, as a rule, reserved for the wives and daughters of the old patrician princes of Rome. The people of the Eternal City have humored Crispi's wife in this particular.

Donna Crispi is a woman of magnificent presence, now about 55 years of age. At her Thursday receptions during the season are to be found the most distinguished men and women in Italian society—senators, deputies, magistrates. She is an ardent patriot and the patroness of many benevolences. Her daughter, Peppina, who is an only child, is famed throughout Italy for her fine performances as a harpist.

However ambitious has been the wife of the great premier, all Italy has known that her deepest ambitions have been always for her husband, and now, as his life ebbs away, she sits in pathetic grief, clasping his hands in hers, forgetful of all worldy ambitions and mindful only of the dear and silent form before her.

A lazy liver makes a lazy man. Burdock Blood Bitters is the natural, never failing remedy for a lazy liver.

Rheumatism

Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison; and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kell, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The pain was so intense that I became completely prostrated. The attack was an unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well.

After having it filled twelve times without receiving the slightest benefit, I declined to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swift's Specific) recommended for Rheumatism, I decided, almost in despair however, to give the medicine a trial, and after I had taken a few bottles I was able to hobble around on crutches, and very soon thereafter had no use for them at all. S. S. S. having cured me sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned, and I am happy to be again restored to perfect health.

SSS the great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the ideal remedy in all rheumatic troubles. There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits.

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

WRECK IS SERIOUS

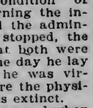

Stony Brook Junction Catastrophe a Far Reaching One.

Wreckage of Bridge and Cars Lies In Difficult Position.

Steel Bridge Is to Replace the Fallen One.

The wreck that occurred a week ago yesterday on the Eastern Minnesota road a mile and a half above Stony Brook Junction, when the bridge there went down has already been reported in the newspapers but the extent of the damage and the character of the wreck have not been generally known. It occurred about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Jerry O'Reilly, aged 19 years, a brakeman, was killed, Roadmaster Postal was seriously injured and Engineer Phillips and Fireman O'Dell were bruised and cut.

It was the first ore train over the new cut-off from the Carlton branch to the mines, and consisted of a 75 or 80-ton engine and thirty-five or forty ore cars, each with a capacity of sixty tons. The bridge over the St. Louis river at the place of the accident, to put it approximately, is three blocks long with the approaches. The river is about two blocks wide and quite deep. The bridge was a wooden structure, newly constructed last fall, with three large spans, and rested on two piers in the stream. The piers were made by driving in piling, around which were dumped many care of trap rock and whole. The pier nearest Francesco shaped ends pointing up stream to ward off the logs floating down the river. These piers were supposed to be substantial and were accepted from the contractors on the recommendation of the engineering department of the Great Northern road.

On the eventful day, when occurred the worst wreck that the Eastern railroad men say they ever saw in the Northwest, the ore train approached the long bridge at a slow rate of speed. It was the first heavy train that had been run on to the bridge, but the crew and officials of the road had no fear but that it would stand the strain. The heavy train crossed the first pier and was within a few feet of the second pier, when, without a moment's warning, the pier work gave way and the huge engine and sixteen ore cars dropped straight down twenty-five feet to the water below. The engine carried under it some of the bridge timbers, but was nearly submerged as the water is nearly nine feet deep. Jerry O'Reilly, the brakeman, was riding on the pilot of the engine. Engineer Phillips and Fireman O'Dell were at their stations in the cab, and with them was Roadmaster Postal. None of the crew left their posts of duty as the train fell, but it is doubtful if they had time.

Young brakeman simply turned and grasped the boiler braces as the huge machine plunged forward and when found had not relaxed his grip in death, although his body was horribly crushed and mangled. Some of the bridge irons were wrapped about the cabs as the bridge went down and so firmly bound down was he that the wrecking crews worked from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock Monday morning, sawing away the steel bars that held him, before the remains could be taken out. All this time the workmen were working by glim light of the head lights and were spurred on by the pitiful moans of the father who stood watching the progress from the wreck of the pier work twenty-five feet above their heads.

Roadmaster Postal made but one move, and that came near proving fatal. As the engine plunged he jumped out of the cab into the boiler and was thrown heavily into the wreckage, where he was rescued all bruised and cut, and with life almost extinct. Engineer Phillips and fireman went with the engine to the bottom of the river and swam to the surface, cut and bruised, but able to care for themselves.

Train Dispatcher Hall of the Eastern Minnesota road, who accompanied the train escaped by what may well be termed an act of providence. He had been riding on the pilot of O'Reilly's but got off about half a mile from the bridge to watch the train go over the sink hole that has been giving the company so much trouble. Had he staid on the front end of the engine he might have perished with the brakeman.

After the arrival of the entire wrecking crew accompanied by the officials of the road hurried to the scene as fast as one of the company's engines could pull the train, and men worked night and day the last week in the effort to get things cleared up. Several of the local officials of the other roads in the city have volunteered their services, but could suggest plans for clearing the wreck, but it is the general opinion that a great deal of difficulty will be encountered. The engine now lies in the river and has been turned but once. It cannot be reached by the wrecker. Between it and the pier also lie three of the heavy steel ore cars with their loads, while between the first pier and the broken end of the approach lie sixteen other ore cars. The last one rests at an angle of about forty-five degrees, the lower end on a wrecked car below and the upper end on the approach. It is said that this car did not lose a shovelful of ore.

In Superintendent Philbin, who has been at the wrecked bridge almost continually since the accident, the Eastern Minnesota company has a very resourceful official and he is directing energetically the details of the wrecking. A gang of bridge carpenters have been hurried to the spot and already preparations for a temporary structure that will do for hauling ore this fall, are under way. It is understood that the Eastern Minnesota company will put in a steel bridge this coming winter.

The wrecked engine and ore cars will not, probably, be taken out until the new bridge is built and the wrecking car can be used to advantage.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflammed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Senator Vest of Missouri Gives His Views Plainly.

Opposition to Trusts and Imperialism the Leading Issues.

Income Tax Also---Silver Shoved to the Background.

Cincinnati, Aug. 12.—Senator George Graham Vest, now at his country seat, Sweet Springs, Mo., in an interview with a correspondent of the Enquirer, outlined his ideas of what the Democratic platform in 1904 should be. The advice of the distinguished Missouri senator is of national importance, for he has studied carefully the mistakes of the party in the past and is a typical representative of the class known as "Jeffersonian" Democrats.

Senator Vest believes that the principal planks of the platform in 1904, providing, of course, there are no radical changes in present conditions, should be:

1. A declaration for a graduated income tax.

2. An unrelenting opposition to trusts.

3. A declaration against imperialism and the colonial system.

He believes that the silver question should not be the paramount issue, but is of the opinion that it will be again revived. The enormous production of gold and the improved methods of extracting it from the earth have raised the per capita circulation so that the money question has temporarily been relegated to the background. The senator is an ardent bimetallist and always has been.

The senator believes that William J. Bryan is responsible for the ratification of the Paris treaty, which resulted in the present colonial policy. Mr. Bryan, he said, urged the Democratic senators to vote for the treaty when it could have been defeated had it not been for the fact that Mr. Bryan lent his support to the side of the administration.

Mr. Vest does not believe that Mr. Bryan is a great leader, nor does he believe the Nebraskan can ever lead the party to victory.

"You have asked me what, under present conditions, should be our platform in 1904," said Senator Vest. "If I could write that platform without the intervention of any new issue, I would declare:

"1. For a graduated income tax, which is the fairest and most equal system of taxation ever invented. Our present system or national taxation in the shape of internal revenue and tariff duties makes the poor man pay the expenses of the government, while the millionaire, who consumes neither beer nor whisky, and imports nothing from Europe except clothing, pays nothing. But in the event of war the poor man fights for the millions of dollars belonging to the plutocrat, which is now exempt from taxation.

"2. I would make the principal issue of the campaign of 1904 stern and unyielding opposition to the trusts and syndicates which are now crushing out individual enterprises of the country. Ten years ago a young man with $15,000 or $20,000 capital could start in some legitimate business with a fair chance of success, but now he has no more chance against the trusts and department stores than an infant against the champion prize fighter of the world.

"I was told recently by a prominent broker of New York city—a very earnest Republican— that nine men in New York, four or whom—J. Pierpont Morgan, George Gould, John D. Rockefeller and James J. Hill—control the finances of the United States, and, as he expressed it, no man could go into a new enterprise or remain in an old one without the consent of these nine men.

"3. would declare against imperialism and the colonial system, for, while this issue was before the country in 1900, everything else was subordinate to the fact that the country was doing very well and ought to be left alone. If the people of the United States were to indorse the foreign policy of President McKinley, that, of course, is the end of it, but no Democrat should give his approval to the colonial system of Europe."

"What about the silver question?" was asked.

"As to the free coinage of silver I have always been an earnest bimetallist, and have not changed my opinions in the slightest. I do not believe that there is enough gold and silver in the world for the just and fair transaction of business, and I look upon the single standard of either gold or silver as doubling the power of oppression by the rich at the expense of the middle and poorer classes.

"I do not think the question of the free coinage of silver is dead, but the abnormal and unexpected production of gold, and especially improvements in the process of extracting gold from the earth, have given us more money in this country than any one could have anticipated. We have a larger per capita circulation than any other country in the world, except France, and there is no immediate prospect of any decrease."

"Do you think that bimetallism will ever be the paramount issue again?" the senator was asked.

"I believe that the time will again come when bimetallism will become the paramount issue but it is not now a question upon which the Democratic party can go into the contest in 1904," was the reply.

"There are thousands of good Democrats who refused to support Mr. Bryan in 1896 and in 1900 because they did not believe this country could maintain free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 against the opposition of the great nations of the world. It seems to me suicidal for us to thrust this issue again upon them, when they are anxious to come back to the party on all other questions. I have no fear that the gold advocates will take possession of the Democratic party, but I do fear that if we continue to quarrel over silver when there is no necessity for it we will again go through a slaughter house into an open grave.

"The Democratic party must come together on some honorable adjustment of the money question, for it will require the vote of every man who has ever been a Democrat to defeat the Republicans in the next contest. We must stop hunting around in corners and up canyons for Populist, Socialist and Single Tax votes, and go back to the doctrine of Mr. Jefferson, upon which alone we can achieve victory. If those people who denounce the Democratic party and only vote the ticket because they think it good policy to support the minority as against Republicans want to vote with us we shall be glad to have them. But they must come of their own accord, and their support must not be purchased by a surrender of the fundamental principles on which our party is founded."

When asked his opinion concerning the presidential possibilities now in the Democratic party and who have been mentioned up to the present time Senator Vest replied:

"Any discussion now as to who will be the Democratic candidate for president in 1904 is premature and can amount only to conjecture. The issues which will then come before the country may be entirely different from those we anticipate, and the candidate of the party will, of course, be selected with some regard to the issues which may confront us hereafter.

"I see it reported in the papers that Senator Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has recently said in a public speech that he personally favors David B. Hill, of New York, but that it would probably be best for the Democrats in 1904 to nominate some discreet jurist or obscure business man. I do not believe that Senator Jones said any such thing, and I would regret it very much if he had done so. Such a statement from the chairman of our national committee seems to imply that we should abandon the idea of naming a prominent Democrat by nominating a man about whom very little is known. It seems to me that this course would indicate weakness and would deceive nobody.

"As I have said, it is premature now to say anything about the issues or candidates of 1904, but if conditions remain as they are today the Republicans will elect anybody they choose. If their foreign policy does what they claim it will do and gives us the enormous advantage of trade which we had last year, and opens a market for agricultural and manufactured products in China and Japan, there will be little chance to change the administration."

DIED OF EXCITEMENT

When She Sighted Carriage of Bridal Party.

Washington, Ind., Aug. 12.—Noah A. Southerland and Miss Nettie Purcell, both of whom reside a few miles southwest of here, came to Washington, and at the parsonage of Rev. L. B. Johnson-pastor of the Second M. E. church, were united in marriage.

About the time they were expected home Mrs. Frank Purcell, mother of the bride, went to the door of her home in the country, to see if the newly-married couple were in sight. She stood in the doorway several minutes, and when she caught sight of the carriage on the roadway she was so overcome with excitement that she sank to the floor and died within a few minutes from heart disease.

WOOD'S TROUBLES.

Squatters Camped on Nearly All His Lots.

Fort Sill, O. T., Aug. 12.—J. R. Woods, the prize winner in the land lottery, who claimed a strip along the Lawton townsite to the injury of Miss Mattie Beals, a Kansas telephone girl, has appealed to ex-Governor Richards, who conducted the opening, to have government troops put the trespassers off his homestead. Telegraphic correspondence is said to have passed between Governor Richards and Maj. H. L. Scott, commanding officer at Fort Sill, but no official order has yet given.

Squatters are now camped on every lot in the 160 acres of Woods' homestead. Woods' lawyers declare that if his homestead rights are denied every other homestead entry is worthless and chaos will prevail.

LEASES HOUSE.

Morgan Will Attend Episcopal Council at 'Frisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 12.—J. Pierpont Morgan is to be a temporary resident of San Francisco soon. His agents have practically concluded a lease, it is said, of the old Charles Crocker mansion on the northwest corner of California and Taylor streets. The cause of his coming to this city is the Episcopal triennial council, which begins Oct. 2, and in which Mr. Morgan will probably serve as a lay delegate, as he had done at previous conventions. Mr. Morgan's daughter, now in Colorado, hunting wild game, is expected to join her father and mother here during their stay. The Crocker mansion is one of the most imposing of the edifices erected on Nob Hill by the California money kings. It contain a splendid art gallery.

In Gold Brought From the North By Steamer Humboldt.

Seattle, Aug. 13.—The steamer Humboldt arrived from the Lynn canal last night, bringing 135 passengers and $500,000 in gold, $400,000 being consigned to the Seattle assay office and local banks, the balance being owned by various parties on board.

Advices from the north state that while the water in the Yukon is at present high enough for navigation, many predict that light draft boats alone will be able to make two trips this year and that the larger ones will not be able to get back this season. Sand bars are giving much trouble and result in considerable delay to river steamers.

The construction of a road through the Copper River valley from Valdez is among the possibilities for next season.

George O'Brien, under sentence to be hanged, recently made an attempt at suicide, but was frustrated.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

For Dead Empress Held In Many Places.

London, Aug. 13.—A memorial service was held today in the chapel royal, St. James' palace, simultaneously with the funeral of the Dowager Empress Frederick at Potsdam. Among those present were the duke and duchess of Argyle, Lord Salisbury, the United States ambassador, Mr. Choate, Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Lady Harcourt, Lord and Lady Wolesley, Lord Lansdowne, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, A. J. Balfour and many members of the diplomatic corps. As the opening sentences of the services were chanted a royal salute was fired in St. James park, followed by the firing of 60 minute guns.

Dispatches from all parts of the continent announce the celebration of memorial services in honor of the Dowager Empress Frederick. Queen Wilhelmina, her husband and the queen dowager of Holland attended the services in the English at the Hague. Services were held at all the capitals of the German states and were attended mostly by the reigning princes.

LAWN TENNIS.

Championship Tournament Begins at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—With an entry list numbering fifty-six and including some of the very best talent in the country, the annual lawn tennis championship tournament began at the Casino today. There was little wind and the weather was warm enough to keep the muscles of the players limber. In spite of last night's rain the care given to the courts put them in good condition.

The greatest interest today, was felt in the match in doubles between the Eastern and Western champions. Little and Alexander, of Princeton, the Western champions, and Ware and Wright, of Boston, the Eastern champions. Among the players who were expected to meet in the early matches were several well known in Newport society socially, including Col. John Jacob Astor.

Summary: Championship doubles, Eastern versus Western—Lee E. Ware and eBals Wright (Eastern), beat R. D. Little and F. D. Alexander (Western), 6—1, 2—6, 6—0, 4—6, 6—1.

Singles—W. L. Foulke beat J. J. Astor, 6—2, 6—2, 6—4.

Man Killed Wife But Only Wounded Himself.

Shamokin, Pa., Aug. 13.—Jacob Gerhardt, a contractor and builder, killed his wife today in the rear yard of their home by shooting her through the heart. Gearhardt placed the revolver against his head and fired, but he did not succeed in killing himself, the bullet glancing and inflicting a severe scalp wound. He was arrested. Domestic troubles caused the tragedy.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—In spite of the discriminating duty against the United States, a ship load of rosin has just arrived here from Pensacola, Fla.

HUMORISTS

Bandits Hugely Enjoyed Robbing a Train.

Gave Diamond Rings and Stud to Engineer.

Denison, Tex., Aug. 13.—Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train No. 3, south-bound, was held up and robbed at Caney switch, I. T., at 1:30 a. m. today by five men. Two miles north of Caney two men crawled over the tender, pistols in hand, covered the engineer and fireman, and commanded them to stop at Caney water tank. There the men were joined by three others, and a fusilade of shots was fired alongside the train, which thoroughly alarmed the crew and passengers. Postal Clerk Tulley was compelled to go through the train, carying the sack in which the valuables were thrown. Every passenger was robbed, and then the robbers turned their attention to the express car. Both safes were blown open with dynamite and the contents secured. The baggage car was practically wrecked. The amount stolen is not yet known, although the robbers got some valuable jewelry. They gave diamond rings and a shirt stud to Engineer Lanhan.

After the work was done the robbers, who seemed to enjoy the situation, sat around and laughed over the matter. The whole affair was carried out without a hitch, and it is believed the men have had experience in this line before.

After holdoing the train two hours, the robbers left, going east into the dense bottoms. The trainmen cut out the wrecked express car and ran down to Caney, where they notified the officers in both directions. Within two hours posses of United States marshals with bloodhounds were on the trail, and it is rumored two of the men have been captured, but the reports lack verification. The express company claims it lost nothing and conductor Dolan estimates the passengers' loss at or about $200.

The country adjacent is gridironed with telephone wires, and if the robbers leave the bottoms they undoubtedly will be arrested or killed.

CHINESE SMUGGLED IN

Many Celestials Brought Into United States From British Columbia to Santa Barbara By Various Coasting Vessels.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 13.—It is stated that discoveries have been made which are believed to establish conclusively that wholesale smuggling of Chinese from British Columbia into the United States through Santa Barbara has been carried on. The revenue officials were notified several weeks, and for three weeks the revenue cutter McCulloch has been cruising in the waters of Santa Barbara channel in search of evidence. The smuggling scheme is outlined as follows:

Lumber laden vessels leave Puget sound for Southern California ports, and, after getting well out to sea, run over to Vancouver, B. C., and pick up Chinese, which are ostensibly shipped as part of the crew. Some of these vessels put into Port Hartford, San Pedro and other ports with crews more than twice as large as necessary. When sailing for the north the crews consist almost exclusively of white sailors.

Another method adopted is the landing of Chinese on one of the islands in the channel and they are brought to Santa Barbara as fishermen.

Opium is also said to have been smuggled into Southern California ports.

A WISCONSIN MYSTERY

The Disappearance of a Kenosha Man Solved By a Dog Dragging His Body From the Lake at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A big Newfoundland dog that dragged the body of John Werner from the lake solved one of the greatest mysteries that ever puzzled the people of Kenosha, Wis.

John Werner, was drowned at the foot of Twenty-ninth street. He was a son of Peter Werner, one of the best known citizens of the Wisconsin city, but the romance that had played an important part in his life had been broken by a lover's quarrel, and he left Kenosha fourteen years ago, declaring that he would never return. He kept his word until last evening, when a pine box took back to the Werner home the body of the son, who had been missing for so many years. All this time he had lived within fifty miles of his native town.

For years the Werner family had been searching for him. Three years ago, the father, Peter Werner, died, and left an estate. When the heirs sought to settle it in the courts, advisement were placed in the papers in all parts of the country, asking for some trace of John Wernsr, but if he saw the notices he was dumb to the appeal and never wrote. An insurance policy was all that identified the body.

AMERICAN CLAIMANTS

For South African Compensation Shown Up In Poor Light By the British Counsel For the Commission.

London, Aug. 13.—At today's session of the South African compensation commission, Newton Crane, counsel for the American claimants, made further representations regarding the claims of nine men who were expelled for complicity in the plot against Lord Roberts. Maj. Gen. Sir John C. Ardagh, representing the foreign office, read documentary evidence from the military authorities, including a letter from Lord Kitchener, to the effect that United States Consul Adelbert S. Hay had been invited to visit the men in prison and had declined to guarantee the integrity of these nine, or their worthiness to be allowed to remain. When Gen. Ardagh read an affidavit alleging that James J. Maloney, of New York, one of the claimants, was a drunkard and an associate of ex-convicts. Mr. Crane interposed, saying: "I'll inquire into the truth of the statement, and if they are substantiated, the American government's pressure in regard to this claim will be circumscribed."

Chairman Milvan jocularly replied: "We wont go to war about this."

One document asserted one of the claimant's whole property consisted of a baby carriage, a rocking horse, a stove and a few kitchen utensils.

EMPRESS AT REST

Final Rites For the Late Dowager Empress at Potsdam.

Remains Laid Beside Husband In Mausoleum of Friedenskirche.

Procession and Ceremony of the Most Impressive Order.

Potsdam, Aug. 13.—The remains of Dowager Empress Frederick were interred today beside those of her husband, in the mausoleum of Friedenskirche, near Potsdam:

Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning the bells of all the churches in Potsdam were tolled, with two intervals of rest. Shortly before 10:30 Emperor William, the other members of the imperial family and their visiting princes, assembled in the royal hall, at the Wild Park railroad station. The high court officials, military dignitaries, Count Von Bueolow and other members of the cabinet, the Knights of the Black Eagle and the members of the reichstag assembled at 10:25 o'clock in an adjacent hall.

Scon after 10 a. m. the special train ordered by the emperor to bring the invited guests from Berlin reached Wild Park station. Among the guests the foreign ambassador made a striking figure, wearing their highest official uniforms. The United States ambassador, Andrew D. White, however, was attired in simple black. He looked pale and weak and showed traces of his recent bereavement by the death of his son.

At 10:30 the signal was given that the funeral train was approaching. Conversation, which had hitherto been carried on in suppressed tones, entirely ceased and an air of solemnity possessed the assembly. The train rolled in slowly and noiselessly.

Twenty non-commissioned officers of the dowager empress' Hussar regiment came forward and bore the coffin to the royal hearse, which had in the meanwhile arrived from the new palace. Chamberlains and courtiers, with the royal insignia, participated in the transfer of the coffin from the funeral car to the hearse.

Slowly and solemnly the procession formed. Eight staff officers seized the reigns of the eight splendid black horses attached to the hearse, and four Knights of the Black Eagle took hold of the points of the pall cloth, while twelve royal chamberlains held the supports of the canopy covering the hearse and four other courtiers held the cords from the corners. Flanking these, to the right and left, were two staff officers and twelve captains.

The procession formed in the shady avenue extending from Wild Park to the new palace. The people had only opportunity to see the procession and got only the slightest view of it, although immense crowds had assembled upon the streets intersecting the road at right angles, and the people strained their necks to get a glimpse of the cortege. Preceding the hearse were squadrons of soldiers and marshals bearing the various insignias and emblems of the dead empress. Among them was Gen. Von Waldersee, who carried the dowager empress' crown. Numerous members of the imperial court and the court of the deceased empress also marched in the procession. Following the hearse came Emperor William, King Edward, the crown prince of Germany and the other royal princes and royal personages.

Then came the foreign ambassadors and ministers and personages from the emperor's and empres' entourage; members of the government parliamentary bodies. The procession moved through the tree-arched avenue to the new palace, and then through the park to the San Souci garden, all of which were closed rigidly against the public, though a few newspaper men were admitted by card.

When the procession started, the bells in the Friedenskirche (church of peace) began tolling, and all the other bells in Potsdam joned in.

When the procession reached the mausoleum, adjacent to the Friedenskirche, all those in the procession in advance of the hearse took up positions opposite the church. As the coffin was borne across the thresnold of the mausoleum the cathedral choir from Berlin intoned a solemn strophe.

Only the emperor and empress, the other members of the imperial family, King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the other members of the British royal party and the princes of the highest rank entered the mausoleum, which is small.

Dr. Persius, the chaplain, affered a prayer, after which the choir again sang.

When their majesties left the mausoleum the procession dissolved.

The empress, Queen Alexandra and the other ladies went in carriages directly from Wild Park to the mausoleum.

Two Men Killed By Smoke In New Mine Tunnel.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 13.—In the new tunnel of the Minaha mine at Wickes, Mont., while four men were working last night, 2600 feet from the opening, the shaft, through which smoke from a donkey engine passed off, became clogged. The smoke was forced back to the tunnel, where it originated. When the men discovered their danger, they egan a retreat and had reached a point 700 feet from the opening of the tunnel where two of them, Eli Gunvele and Marion Johnson, fell dead. The other two escaped to the open air, but were almost overcome.

SATISFIED

Say Both Sides to the Industrial Contest.

But Little Change In Condition of Strike.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—Complete returns from all the strike centers have not been received today, but as far as they have they indicate that there has been but slight change in conditions since yesterday. During the night the strikers made further gains from the National Tube works at McKeesport, and seem to have somewhat strengthened their position at Wheeling. The Bellaire plant was closed last night, but a determined attempt will be made to operate it today. The strikers are watching the plant and boast that they have it tied up and are in a position to keep it so. Preparations are being made here to increase the number of men in the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills, which have been operating with one non-union crew since last week, and also to start the big Painter mill, which has been idle since the first order to strike went out. The police here have shown that they will make a determined attempt to prevent violence or disorder, and the steel managers regard this as a favorable point to break into the strike with non-union men. It is apparent that no plans have yet been formed for attempts at resumption at McKeesport or Wheeling, and it is believed that the companies whose plants are either partly or completely crippled will wait until the excitement at those two points has subsided.

The American Tinplate company is moving to secure resumption at some of its plants and the officials here feel sure that they will succeed. Mayor E. L. Boyanton, of Niles, has issued a statement in which he says that the stories of attempts on the lives of the Lisbon tin workers yesterday, were exaggerated. Steel officials seen here today express their complete satisfaction with the progress they are making. They say that if they could get protection for their men and property at McKeesport and Wheeling that the strike would be quickly ended. They deny that the Amalgamated association has gained any ground at the Pittsburg plants of the Carnegie company and insist that the group of big plants shown to be with them on the general call are still standing firm.

Assistant Secretary Tighe was missing from the staff on duty at strike headquarters today and rumor sent him to half a dozen places. President Shaffer would not say where he was. One story was that he had gone to Chicago and another that he was at New Castle, from whence come reports of a possible break in the Amalgamated forces. President Shaffer said:

"I am satisfied with the situation. I have received no reports from Chicago and the West. I will leave at 9.20 tomorrow morning for Wheeling and Ben Davis is to go there with me. I do not know when I will return from Wheeling."

It has been asserted here that President Shaffer, of the Amalgamated association, was approached by a certain independent steel man with a proposition to aid him in continuing the strike against the United States Steel corporation in order that the independent plant might get the rush orders of the corporation. President Shaffer denied the story and declared he would not be a party to such an agreement.

It was said also that strikers at the Painters' plant on the South Side, heard the rumor and notified the management they would return to work just as soon as the plant could be put in shape for them. President Shaffer also denied this statement.

About 150 boys on the day turn in the butt welding department of the National Tube works at McKeesport, Pa., joined the strikers today and it was claimed the rest of the turn would come out before the close of the day. This action, it is said, will force the closing down of the entire department.

WORKS BANK CLEVERLY

Chicago Institution Buncoed Out of Thirty Thousand By a Smooth Depositor and His Little Check.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—It leaked out here today, says the Inter-Ocean, that one of the Chicago banks was recently victimized out of $30,00 in cash in a successful manner. An effort is being made to keep the matter secret and not even the name of the bank is given. It seems that a depositor of several years' standing appeared a few days ago in the bank president's office with a draft on London for £6000, which was perfectly good. The depositor informed the president he desired to deposit this London draft, and at the same time to check against it, presenting his check for $30,000 for the president to O. K. The latter put his initials on it and thought nothing of it. The depositor then went out into the bank and deposited his London draft and on the following day presented a check for $30,000, which was paid, the teller knowing that that amount was to his credit on the books. Later in the day he again appeared at the window and presented the check for $30,000 which had been initialed by the president. This check was also paid. Nothing more has since been seen of the depositor.

PROMINENT MEN FIGHT

Stabbing Affray In Front of the Gilsey House, New York, In Which Several Men Are More or Less Cut.

New York, Aug. 13.—A fight which resulted in the stabbing of two men occurred in front of the Gilsey house early today. The police can give very little information about the row or what led up to it, and no arrests were made. From what could be learned at the hotel, three men, said to be Boston politicians and whose names the police give as Joseph A. Conroy, Patrick Bowen and Joseph J. Norton started the fight. The wall paper manufacturers' convention is being held at the Gilsey house, and a number of the delegates were standing in front of the doorway when the three men crossed Broadway to enter the hotel. Conroy, it is asserted, had some words with some of the paper men, and in a moment a lively fight was in progress. William F. Francis, also said to be a wall paper manufacturer, was attracted to the scene from a neighboring restaurant and went to the assistance of his friends. Conroy received a stab wound in the back and Francis was wounded in the thigh. The wounds of the injured men were dressed and they said they would make no complaint, even if the police succeeded in finding the man who did the stabbing.

It was said that one of the Boston men was a congressman, another an alderman and the third a state senator.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Joseph A. Conry is a Democratic congressman-elect from the Ninth Massachusetts district and one of the leading members of his party in this city. Joseph J. Norton is a member of the Boston board of aldermen. It is thought here that the third member of the party is Patrick Bowen, a Boston alderman, who is in New York.

General Carriage Company Capitalized at Twenty Millions Passes Into Hands of Receiver, Autos and All.

New York, Aug. 13.—Justice O'Gorman has appointed O. F. Thomas, the treasurer of the General Carriage company, the receiver of the property of that corporation in this state. The appointment followed the appointment of a receiver in New Jersey. The General Carriage company has had a remarkable career as a corporation. It was capitalized at $20,000,000 and at one time sold at par, $200 per share. It had a franchise which permitted it to operate on any street in the city. Among the stockholders were Richard Croker, Edwin Gould, Joseph Leiter, Gen. Samuel Thomas, Louis Wormser, Cyrus Field Judson and Edwin M. Post.

The legislature of 1899 passed the bill granting the franchise immediately after its incorporation and the officials of the company announced that they would put on a system of omnibuses similar to those of London and Paris.

On Jan. 11, 1900, the company was reorganized and Cyrus Field Judson elected president. It was during the reorganization that Edwin Gould took $1,000,000 worth of stock. The company purchased a number of automobiles, and on May 3, 1900, bought for $1,000,000 the old Sixth avenue car stables on Sixth avenue, running from Forty-third to Forty-fourth streets. A year later the site was sold to the Century Realty company for $1,100,000. Since then the company has not been very active in its operations.

Man Killed Wife But Only Wounded Himself.

Shamokin, Pa., Aug. 13.—Jacob Gerhardt, a contractor and builder, killed his wife today in the rear yard of their home by shooting her through the heart. Gearhardt placed the revolver against his head and fired, but he did not succeed in killing himself, the bullet glancing and inflicting a severe scalp wound. He was arrested. Domestic troubles caused the tragedy.

HUMORISTS

Bandits Hugely Enjoyed Robbing a Train.

Gave Diamond Rings and Stud to Engineer.

Denison, Tex., Aug. 13.—Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train No. 3, south-bound, was held up and robbed at Caney switch, I. T., at 1:30 a. m. today by five men. Two miles north of Caney two men crawled over the tender, pistols in hand, covered the engineer and fireman, and commanded them to stop at Caney water tank. There the men were joined by three others, and a fusilade of shots was fired alongside the train, which thoroughly alarmed the crew and passengers. Postal Clerk Tulley was compelled to go through the train, carying the sack in which the valuables were thrown. Every passenger was robbed, and then the robbers turned their attention to the express car. Both safes were blown open with dynamite and the contents secured. The baggage car was practically wrecked. The amount stolen is not yet known, although the robbers got some valuable jewelry. They gave diamond rings and a shirt stud to Engineer Lanhan.

After the work was done the robbers, who seemed to enjoy the situation, sat around and laughed over the matter. The whole affair was carried out without a hitch, and it is believed the men have had experience in this line before.

After holdoing the train two hours, the robbers left, going east into the dense bottoms. The trainmen cut out the wrecked express car and ran down to Caney, where they notified the officers in both directions. Within two hours posses of United States marshals with bloodhounds were on the trail, and it is rumored two of the men have been captured, but the reports lack verification. The express company claims it lost nothing and conductor Dolan estimates the passengers' loss at or about $200.

The country adjacent is gridironed with telephone wires, and if the robbers leave the bottoms they undoubtedly will be arrested or killed.

CHINESE SMUGGLED IN

Many Celestials Brought Into United States From British Columbia to Santa Barbara By Various Coasting Vessels.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 13.—It is stated that discoveries have been made which are believed to establish conclusively that wholesale smuggling of Chinese from British Columbia into the United States through Santa Barbara has been carried on. The revenue officials were notified several weeks, and for three weeks the revenue cutter McCulloch has been cruising in the waters of Santa Barbara channel in search of evidence. The smuggling scheme is outlined as follows:

Lumber laden vessels leave Puget sound for Southern California ports, and, after getting well out to sea, run over to Vancouver, B. C., and pick up Chinese, which are ostensibly shipped as part of the crew. Some of these vessels put into Port Hartford, San Pedro and other ports with crews more than twice as large as necessary. When sailing for the north the crews consist almost exclusively of white sailors.

Another method adopted is the landing of Chinese on one of the islands in the channel and they are brought to Santa Barbara as fishermen.

Opium is also said to have been smuggled into Southern California ports.

A WISCONSIN MYSTERY

The Disappearance of a Kenosha Man Solved By a Dog Dragging His Body From the Lake at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A big Newfoundland dog that dragged the body of John Werner from the lake solved one of the greatest mysteries that ever puzzled the people of Kenosha, Wis.

John Werner, was drowned at the foot of Twenty-ninth street. He was a son of Peter Werner, one of the best known citizens of the Wisconsin city, but the romance that had played an important part in his life had been broken by a lover's quarrel, and he left Kenosha fourteen years ago, declaring that he would never return. He kept his word until last evening, when a pine box took back to the Werner home the body of the son, who had been missing for so many years. All this time he had lived within fifty miles of his native town.

For years the Werner family had been searching for him. Three years ago, the father, Peter Werner, died, and left an estate. When the heirs sought to settle it in the courts, advisement were placed in the papers in all parts of the country, asking for some trace of John Werner, but if he saw the notices he was dumb to the appeal and never wrote. An insurance policy was all that identified the body.

AMERICAN CLAIMANTS

For South African Compensation Shown Up In Poor Light By the British Counsel For the Commission.

London, Aug. 13.—At today's session of the South African compensation commission, Newton Crane, counsel for the American claimants, made further representations regarding the claims of nine men who were expelled for complicity in the plot against Lord Roberts. Maj. Gen. Sir John C. Ardagh, representing the foreign office, read documentary evidence from the military authorities, including a letter from Lord Kitchener, to the effect that United States Consul Adelbert S. Hay had been invited to visit the men in prison and had declined to guarantee the integrity of these nine, or their worthiness to be allowed to remain. When Gen. Ardagh read an affidavit alleging that James J. Maloney, of New York, one of the claimants, was a drunkard and an associate of ex-convicts. Mr. Crane interposed, saying: "I'll inquire into the truth of the statement, and if they are substantiated, the American government's pressure in regard to this claim will be circumscribed."

Chairman Milvan jocularly replied: "We wont go to war about this."

One document asserted one of the claimant's whole property consisted of a baby carriage, a rocking horse, a stove and a few kitchen utensils.

EMPRESS AT REST

Final Rites For the Late Dowager Empress at Potsdam.

Remains Laid Beside Husband In Mausoleum of Friedenskirche.

Procession and Ceremony of the Most Impressive Order.

Potsdam, Aug. 13.—The remains of Dowager Empress Frederick were interred today beside those of her husband, in the mausoleum of Friedenskirche, near Potsdam.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning the bells of all the churches in Potsdam were tolled, with two intervals of rest. Shortly before 10:30 Emperor William, the other members of the imperial family and their visiting princes, assembled in the royal hall, at the Wild Park railroad station. The high court officials, military dignitaries, Count Von Buelow and other members of the cabinet, the Knights of the Black Eagle and the members of the reichstag assembled at 10:25 o'clock in an adjacent hall.

Soon after 10 a. m. the special train ordered by the emperor to bring the invited guests from Berlin reached Wild Park station. Among the guests the foreign ambassador made a striking figure, wearing their highest official uniforms. The United States ambassador, Andrew D. White, however, was attired in simple black. He looked pale and weak and showed traces of his recent bereavement by the death of his son.

At 10:30 the signal was given that the funeral train was approaching. Conversation, which had hitherto been carried on in suppressed tones, entirely ceased and an air of solemnity possessed the assembly. The train rolled in slowly and noiselessly.

Twenty non-commissioned officers of the dowager empress' Hussar regiment came forward and bore the coffin to the royal hearse, which had in the meanwhile arrived from the new palace. Chamberlains and courtiers, with the royal insignia, participated in the transfer of the coffin from the funeral car to the hearse.

Slowly and solemnly the procession formed. Eight staff officers seized the reigns of the eight splendid black horses attached to the hearse, and four Knights of the Black Eagle took hold of the points of the pall cloth, while twelve royal chamberlains held the supports of the canopy covering the hearse and four other courtiers held the cords from the corners. Flanking these, to the right and left, were two staff officers and twelve captains.

The procession formed in the shady avenue extending from Wild Park to the new palace. The people had only opportunity to see the procession and got only the slightest view of it, although immense crowds had assembled upon the streets intersecting the road at right angles, and the people strained their necks to get a glimpse of the cortege. Preceding the hearse were squadrons of soldiers and marshals bearing the various insignias and emblems of the dead empress. Among them was Gen. Von Waldersee, who carried the dowager empress' crown. Numerous members of the imperial court and the court of the deceased empress also marched in the procession. Following the hearse came Emperor William, King Edward, the crown prince of Germany and the other royal princes and royal personages.

Then came the foreign ambassadors and ministers and personages from the emperor's and empres' entourage; members of the government parliamentary bodies. The procession moved through the tree-arched avenue to the new palace, and then through the park to the San Souci garden, all of which were closed rigidly against the public, though a few newspaper men were admitted by card.

When the procession started, the bells in the Friedenskirche (church of peace) began tolling, and all the other bells in Potsdam joned in.

When the procession reached the mausoleum, adjacent to the Friedenskirche, all those in the procession in advance of the hearse took up positions opposite the church. As the coffin was borne across the thresnold of the mausoleum the cathedral choir from Berlin intoned a solemn strophe.

Only the emperor and empress, the other members of the imperial family, King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the other members of the British royal party and the princes of the highest rank entered the mausoleum, which is small.

Dr. Persius, the chaplain, affered a prayer, after which the choir again sang.

When their majesties left the mausoleum the procession dissolved.

The empress, Queen Alexandra and the other ladies went in carriages directly from Wild Park to the mausoleum.

SUFFOCATED.

Two Men Killed By Smoke In New Mine Tunnel.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 13.—In the new tunnel of the Minaha mine at Wickes, Mont., while four men were working last night, 2600 feet from the opening, the shaft, through which smoke from a donkey engine passed off, became clogged. The smoke was forced back to the tunnel, where it originated. When the men discovered their danger, they began a retreat and had reached a point 700 feet from the opening of the tunnel where two of them, Eli Gunvele and Marion Johnson, fell dead. The other two escaped to the open air, but were almost overcome.

SATISFIED

Say Both Sides to the Industrial Contest.

But Little Change In Condition of Strike.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—Complete returns from all the strike centers have not been received today, but as far as they have they indicate that there has been but slight change in conditions since yesterday. During the night the strikers made further gains from the National Tube works at McKeesport, and seem to have somewhat strengthened their position at Wheeling. The Bellaire plant was closed last night, but a determined attempt will be made to operate it today. The strikers are watching the plant and boast that they have tied up and are in a position to keep it so. Preparations are being made here to increase the number of men in the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills, which have been operating with one non-union crew since last week, and also to start the big Painter mill, which has been idle since the first order to strike went out. The police here have shown that they will make a determined attempt to prevent violence or disorder, and the steel managers regard this as a favorable point to break into the strike with non-union men. It is apparent that no plans have yet been formed for attempts at resumption at McKeesport or Wheeling, and it is believed that the companies whose plants are either partly or completely crippled will wait until the excitement at those two points has subsided.

The American Tinplate company is moving to secure resumption at some of its plants and the officials here feel sure that they will succeed. Mayor E. L. Boyanton, of Niles, has issued a statement in which he says that the stories of attempts on the lives of the Lisbon tin workers yesterday, were exaggerated. Steel officials seen here today express their complete satisfaction with the progress they are making. They say that if they could get protection for their men and property at McKeesport and Wheeling that the strike would be quickly ended. They deny that the Amalgamated association has gained any ground at the Pittsburg plants of the Carnegie company and insist that the group of big plants shown to be with them on the general call are still standing firm.

Assistant Secretary Tighe was missing from the staff on duty at strike headquarters today and rumor sent him to half a dozen places. President Shaffer would not say where he was. One story was that he had gone to Chicago and another that he was at New Castle, from whence come reports of a possible break in the Amalgamated forces. President Shaffer said:

"I am satisfied with the situation. I have received no reports from Chicago and the West. I will leave at 9.20 tomorrow morning for Wheeling and Ben Davis is to go there with me. I do not know when I will return from Wheeling."

It has been asserted here that President Shaffer, of the Amalgamated association, was approached by a certain independent steel man with a proposition to aid him in continuing the strike against the United States Steel corporation in order that the independent plant might get the rush orders of the corporation. President Shaffer denied the story and declared he would not be a party to such an agreement.

It was said also that strikers at the Painters' plant on the South Side, heard the rumor and notified the management they would return to work just as soon as the plant could be put in shape for them. President Shaffer also denied this statement.

About 150 boys on the day turn in the butt welding department of the National Tube works at McKeesport, Pa., joined the strikers today and it was claimed the rest of the turn would come out before the close of the day. This action, it is said, will force the closing down of the entire department.

WORKS BANK CLEVERLY

Chicago Institution Buncoed Out of Thirty Thousand By a Smooth Depositor and His Little Check.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—It leaked out here today, says the Inter-Ocean, that one of the Chicago banks was recently victimized out of $30,00 in cash in a successful manner. An effort is being made to keep the matter secret and not even the name of the bank is given. It seems that a depositor of several years' standing appeared a few days ago in the bank president's office with a draft on London for £6000, which was perfectly good. The depositor informed the president he desired to deposit this London draft, and at the same time to check against it, presenting his check for $30,000 for the president to O. K. The latter put his initials on it and thought nothing of it. The depositor then went out into the bank and deposited his London draft and on the following day presented a check for $30,000, which was paid, the teller knowing that that amount was to his credit on the books. Later in the day he again appeared at the window and presented the check for $30,000 which had been initialed by the president. This check was also paid. Nothing more has since been seen of the depositor.

PROMINENT MEN FIGHT

Stabbing Affray In Front of the Gilsey House, New York, In Which Several Men Are More or Less Cut.

New York, Aug. 13.—A fight which resulted in the stabbing of two men occurred in front of the Gilsey house early today. The police can give very little information about the row or what led up to it, and no arrests were made. From what could be learned at the hotel, three men, said to be Boston politicians and whose names the police give as Joseph A. Conroy, Patrick Bowen and Joseph J. Norton started the fight. The wall paper manufacturers' convention is being held at the Gilsey house, and a number of the delegates were standing in front of the doorway when the three men crossed Broadway to enter the hotel. Conroy, it is asserted, had some words with some of the paper men, and in a moment a lively fight was in progress. William F. Francis, also said to be a wall paper manufacturer, was attracted to the scene from a neighboring restaurant and went to the assistance of his friends. Conroy received a stab wound in the back and Francis was wounded in the thigh. The wounds of the injured men were dressed and they said they would make no complaint, even if the police succeeded in finding the man who did the stabbing.

It was said that one of the Boston men was a congressman, another an alderman and the third a state senator.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Joseph A. Conry is a Democratic congressman-elect from the Ninth Massachusetts district and one of the leading members of his party in this city. Joseph J. Norton is a member of the Boston board of aldermen. It is thought here that the third member of the party is Patrick Bowen, a Boston alderman, who is in New York.

General Carriage Company Capitalized at Twenty Millions Passes Into Hands of Receiver, Autos and All.

New York, Aug. 13.—Justice O'Gorman has appointed O. F. Thomas, the treasurer of the General Carriage company, the receiver of the property of that corporation in this state. The appointment followed the appointment of a receiver in New Jersey. The General Carriage company has had a remarkable career as a corporation. It was capitalized at $20,000,000 and at one time sold at par, $200 per share. It had a franchise which permitted it to operate on any street in the city. Among the stockholders were Richard Croker, Edwin Gould, Joseph Leiter, Gen. Samuel Thomas, Louis Wormser, Cyrus Field Judson and Edwin M. Post.

The legislature of 1899 passed the bill granting the franchise immediately after its incorporation and the officials of the company announced that they would put on a system of omnibuses similar to those of London and Paris.

On Jan. 11, 1900, the company was reorganized and Cyrus Field Judson elected president. It was during the reorganization that Edwin Gould took $1,000,000 worth of stock. The company purchased a number of automobiles, and on May 3, 1900, bought for $1,000,000 the old Sixth avenue car stables on Sixth avenue, running from Forty-third to Forty-fourth streets. A year later the site was sold to the Century Realty company for $1,100,000. Since then the company has not been very active in its operations.

AT WEST DULUTH

The West Duluthians that have been urging the opening of Raleigh street for so long a time were doomed to disappointment last evening, when the city council turned the proposition down by a vote of 9 to 15, it requiring a two-thirds vote of the entire council to put the resolution into effect. As has been expected, the opposition to the measure in the council was due to the expense involved in the opening, which some of the aldermen thought would be too great. Another reason was because the adjoining property owners had not petitioned for the street, in order that the cost might be assessed against them. The West Duluth aldermen argued strongly in favor of passing the resolution. Alderman Cochrane said about 90 per cent of the people in West Duluth were in favor of it. He claimed that the engineer's estimate of $4042.50 was the cost of a finished street, and that the idea for the present was not for a finished roadway, but a walk for foot passengers and a little grading for teams.

Alderman Krumsieg opposed the resolution because the cost could not be assessed against the people benefited. Other aldermen could not see that the benefit derived would balance the cost; besides, they thought the road would be detrimental to the car works property. Protests against the extension of the street were received from the Merrill & Ring, Lesure and Mitchell & McClure Lumber companies. Aldermen Krumsieg, Moore, Rothermel, Neff, Trevillion and Wing voted against the resolution on the final vote.

The extension of Fremont street was also considered last evening, and the matter was put over pending the city's action in acquiring a right-of-way over the railroad tracks.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

William Olund, of the firm of Olund & Ecklund, had a very exciting and serious runaway accident on Grand avenue yesterday afternoon. The horse became frightened and beyond all control, dashing down the avenue at full speed. The carriage struck a telephone pole and Mr. Olund was thrown heavily to the pavement, while the carriage was demolished. Mr. Olund had his shoulder dislocated and sustained a broken arm. So severe were his injuries that he required assistance in reaching his home.

William E. Smith has made an application to the district court to have all the existing judgments against him satisfied of record on the ground that he has received a discharge from bankruptcy proceedings under the federal law. Mike Laita has filed a brief objecting to the discharge so far as it concerns his judgment, on the ground that his judgment is in the municipal court and therefore the district court has no jurisdiction, and on the further ground that his claim was not scheduled with Smith's main inventory, being added in a separate document after the first schedule of assets and liabilities was filed. A. N. McGindley is Smith's attorney and S. D. Allen appears for Laita.

NUMBER OUT.

Impossible to Tell How Many Men Are Not Working.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—The best estimates of the number of men who went out on the three strike orders place the figure at 60,000. That number is not idle now, however, as thousands of the men have gone to independent mills or found work in other places. No accurate figures of the number now idle are possible. The number that obeyed the final call of President Shaffer is roughly placed at 14,000, but all the figures conflict and are unreliable where mills were only partly crippled, or the men still waver in their allegiance to their employers.

The American Tinplate and National Tube companies are the heaviest sufferers by the strike, and, strangely enough, they were in no way concerned in the original dispute. The strikers have made their heaviest gains at McKeesport, New Castle and Wheeling, while the manufacturers have the advantage in Chicago, Detroit, Joliet, Columbus, Youngstown and the Carnegie and Kiskiminetas valley groups in Pennsylvania. A very small number of the men who went out are members of the Amalgamated, which includes only the tonnage or skilled men, but each skilled man carried several mechanics and laborers with him. Many of the latter went out unwillingly, while others strongly supported the strike. Today the strikers are gaining strength at McKeesport and Wheeling, while at all other points the manufacturers are holding their own and are planning resumptions here and at some of the outlying tin plants with non-union men.

HUNTING IS COSTLY

Andrew Olson Pays Fifty Dollars For Shooting a Deer.

Morgan Carlson Is Under Arrest on a Similar Charge.

Game Warden Green After the Illegal Hunters of Deer.

For killing a deer out of season, Andrew Olson, a prominent citizen of Two Harbors, paid a fine of $50 in police court this morning.

Morgan Carlson, a still more prominent citizen of Two Harbors, has $50 bail up to appear in court and answer to a similar charge tomorrow.

The arrests were made by Game Warden Green. He is making an energetic campaign to check the mid-summer killing of deer. Other arrests, and even stiffer fines, are in prospect.

The deer season is from Nov. 10 to Nov. 30, but every summer hundreds of deer are illegally killed in this vicinity. It seems that the Two Harbors men were out for meat rather than sport. They might possibly be justified in violating the game laws to secure meat if they lived in Duluth where there is a butchers' trust, but the Duluth butchers do not regulate the prices for Two Harbors, and it is well understood that meat in that city is well within the means of most people.

Warden Green boarded a Duluth & Iron Range train last night, near St. Louis. He had been making an investigation of illegal deer hunting, and had one live deer with him that he had taken from a farmer. On the train he noticed Olson and Carlson with their guns, and he also thought their packsacks seemed unusually well filled. On making an examination, Mr. Green found the sacks filled with choice cuts of venison.

The fine of $50 imposed on Andrew Olson this morning is the minimum, and it is not likely that others will get off that cheap in the future. Failure to pay the $50 fine would have meant forty days' hard labor in the county jail.

Deer killing at this season of the year is lacking in all the essentials of good sportsmanship, to say nothing of violating the state laws.

In mid-summer the deer are driven to the water by mosquitos and flies, and they become so tame that persons can paddle a canoe right up to them. Under such conditions there is just as much skill required in killing a dog with an ax as shooting a deer at short range when the animal shows no disposition to run away.

It is reported that up along the Cloquet river campers from this city and a few homesteaders have built platforms in the trees and shoot the deer from ambush. Mr. Green says that on his way down last night he could see one of these platforms from the train window.

The state authorities are determined to stop deer killing out of season so far as possible, but there is comparatively few men to cover the territory and the task is not an easy one.

St. Louis county has an area of 1584 square miles; Itasca, 1430 square miles; Cook county, 1520 square miles, and Lake county, 1299 square miles. It is estimated that it would take a small army of game wardens to look after this territory as it should be.

A CURIOSITY.

An Agate With a Petrified Minnow In It.

Louis Johnson, of 426 Sixth avenue east, has in his possession an agate the like of which has probably never been seen. Mr. Johnson a few weeks ago stepped into a Superior street store and purchased an agate for a watch charm. It is green in color and of the ordinary oval shape in which so many charms are made. A few days after his purchase he was examining the stone and noticed a peculiar formation shaped something like a fish. He secured a microscope and upon closely investigating the formation found that it was a perfectly formed fish. Since then the stone has been examined by scientific men and the formation is pronounced to be a sturgeon minnow about three-quarters of an inch in length and petrified in perfect form. With the aid of the glass the fins and even the eyes can be clearly seen. The minnow was evidently about three months old when petrified.

The stone is a wonderful curiosity and of considerable value.

FOULED INVADER

The Cadillac Disqualified In Third Lake Yacht Race.

Went Part Way Over the Course and Then Retired.

Milwaukee Finished With the Invader as an Exhibition.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Today's race—the third in the international yachting contest for the Canada's cup—was anticipated with no little anxiety by the friends of the Cadillac, the defender. The triangular course used on Saturday was sailed again and only a twelve-mile breeze was coming out of the south. There was not much sea and the conditions were considered favorable for the Canadian boat, though both boats were designed for just such weather.

The Invader is now held in far higher esteem as a dangerous rival since its decisive victory yesterday, and the possibility of the challenger lifting the cup has been the chief topic of conversation. When the Canadian boat came into port ten days ago, it was sized up by the talent as a "nice yacht," and undoubtedly faster than the ordinary 35-footer, but only a few believed it would be a really dangerous rival for th Cadillac, the pride of Detroit and the cup committeee's selection from the nine yachts entered in the Chicago Yacht club's trial races.

During the early morning it appeared probable that the weather was to be a repetition of yesterday's, which already is known as "Invader weather."

It is rumored that should the Invader be successful the Columbia Yacht club, a local rival of the Chicago club, will be prepared to hand Commodore George Gooderham a challenge for next year.

Measurement discussion is still very much alive and each side is said to admit its boat is over the limit.

Associated Press Dispatch Boat, Perfection, 11:45 a. m.—The race started with an unfavorable occurrence which caused flags of protest to be raised from both yeachts. The Cadillac crossed the line at 11 a. m. on the port tack, the Invader following a few seconds later, amid the cheers of spectators on shore. The Invader crossed on starboard tack, but so close were the rivals that this maneuver forced the Detroiter to come about. As she was right on the buoy, the Invader fouled her, running on the Cadillac's starboard quarter. Capt. Jarvis hoisted the protest flag and Skipper Thompson, of the Cadillac, did likewise. The Cadillac had the windward position at the start. The Invader pointed higher, but could not foot fast enough to cross ahead of her and so came about under the Cadillac's stern at 11:04:45, followed by the Cadillac at 11:05.

The Cadillac blanketed the Invader and the Invader came about again on the port tack and at 11:06 the Cadillac came about.

At 11:08 the Cadillac tried to cross the Invader's bow, but was forced to go about, both skippers showing great skill in jockeying.

The Invader pointed higher than the Cadillac and is to windward, but the Cadillac footed faster and is a few lengths ahead.

While the Invader had the right-of-way, being on the starboard tack, it seems the Cadillac may have a protest on her part as the Invader was forcing her on the buoy.

At 11:14:30 the Cadillac, after being spoken by the judges' boat, turned back. At 11:20 the Invader came about on the port tack and ran to the Cadillac and announced that the Detroiter had been disqualified by the judges. Commodore Shaw, who was following on the yacht Truant, came up, however, and ordered Thompson to proceed over the course. Thompson shook out the reef he had taken and started in pursuit of the Invader which was, by this time, well ahead on the port tack, beating for the south buoy.

Capt. Thompson megaphoned the Associated Press boat that he intended to make a protest against the Invader. When he started the Cadillac seemed nearly a mile to leeward.

It is evidently the intention of Capt. Thompson to run the race and bring up the protest to be settled later.

1:10 p. m.—The Cadillac held in shore, following her second start, at 12:06, and stood out towards the fleeting Canadian. The Invader rounded the buoy at 12:28:23 and there she crossed the Cadillac's course. The Detroiter turned about and started back for her moorings. The Milwaukee, having followed the course, took up the race when the Cadillac droned out, apparently to give the spectators at the east a taste of what they came for. Many did not notice the change, looking from a distance, and supposed the third race was still on. The Milwaukee turned the buoy a few lengths behind her competitor and clung close to her during the first half of the second leg, both running freely before the wind.

The judges were asked to give their reasons for disqualifying the Cadillac. Judge Warner replied that the yachting hope of Michigan had fouled the Invader and was, therefore, disqualified. He said it had no right to the position held at the start. When asked if Thompson would not have fouled the buoy had he not come about out of the Invader's way to prevent the foul, he said: "You were there and know as much about it as we do." He admitted that the Cadillac had shown protest flags. Commodore Shaw, owner of the Cadillac, when asked if he had ordered the Cadillac to continue the race, said he had done so merely for the sake of practice. When asked if his skipper had a good point of protest against the Invader, he said he was not in position to see.

Carter Harrison Crib, Aug. 13, 2:20 p. m.—The Invader is making for the home stake, running like a deer with everything set and drawing. The Invader is a wonder in light wind and smooth water. The Milwaukee has gone around the course with her and held her own fairly well, but the Invader is running away from her on this leg. The wind is dying down and the Cadillac would have stood but a poor chance against the slippery Canadian, even if she had been allowed to continue the race, as the Milwaukee, an acknowledged light weather boat, has been beaten at all points of sailing by the Invader.

STRIKE SITUATION.

Summary of Conditions at the Different Plants.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—The strike situation early today is briefly summarized as follows:

Lindsay & McCutcheon plant of American Steel Hoop company—The fires all lighted and the management declares that the plant soon will be in full operation. The strikers assert that the works may continue to run with a small force. The strikers' pickets are keeping close watch on the mill and say that but a few men are inside. Crowds are about but all is orderly and most of those present seem to be drawn there mainly through curiosity.

Republic Iron works—No effort is being made to start the mills. While the Amalgamated pickets are on duty all about, they say that they are practically assured that no effort will be made to start under present circumstances. There is no excitement and the pickets, thirty or forty in number, are simply performing their assigned duty of watching, without expectation of having any one attempt to enter or work in the mill.

Elba Iron works—Strikers pickets to the number of twenty-five are on duty on Second avenue and the streets around the rankstown mills. One watch on duty for the company says he knows nothing of any intention to start and no men are expected to go to work today. The fires in the furnaces are banked. Only the policeman is in the vicinity and everything is so quiet that but for the presence of the pickets, no one would suspect that there is a strike on.

Painter's mill—Fires were all lighted this morning, but no men appeared to work. It was expected this plant would try resumption. Police alone guard. Everything quiet.

McKeesport National Tube works—Work has been much delayed by the striking of 250 boys in the butt-weld department, who quit at midnight, but all the men are at work. The lap-weld boys have not quit as expected, though they still threaten. They are now doing double work, having been redistributed through the works to perform the tasks of the butt-weld boys as well as their own.

Monogahela Steel works and furnaces, McKeesport—No effort is being made to start work. Fires are all banked. Only watchmen and a few laborers about the plant. Strikers picket is in the neighborhood, keeping close watch for men who might appear to go to work.

Boston Rolling mills, McKeesport—No fires in furnaces. No effort to start.

National Rolling mill, McKeesport—No men appeared to go to work. Fires are banked. No chance of starting up this morning.

Monessen—No effort to start the steel mill was made this morning.

Niles, Ohio—The party of strike-breakers which was captured here left this morning for Lisbon, accompanied by five union men. The strikers are acting as escort and are Fred Harris, Ed Jones, John Thomas, William Thomas and John Trimble. The trip is thirty-three miles across country, and is being made in a closed road wagon. The departure was witnessed by a few strikers, officers of the law and newspaper men.

Bellaire, Ohio—An attempt will be made this morning to continue operations.

New Castle, Pa.—No change here.

Youngstown, Ohio—Following the meeting of the organized furnace workers today, it is expected that an effort will be made to extend the strike to the tube works and Ohio plant.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Riverside plate and tube mills are effectively tied up. The report that the steel mill will quit Sept. 7 is confirmed. Benwood, it is claimed, will strike Saturday.

ONE MILL STARTED.

In the Crescent Works at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Aug. 13.—The American Tinplate company succeeded in getting one mill out of the six at the Crescent works started today with non-union men, about twenty-five of whom arrived during the night. Most of them came from Monessen, Pa., and Irondale, Ohio, but the strikers declare there are not more than half a dozen experienced tinplate workers among them.

A large number of strikers and their sympathizers were gathered near the plant throughout the day, but beyond jeering the non-union men who entered, they made no attempt to interfere.

An Automobile Race.

A feature of the Buffalo exposition will be a race between automobiles representing all nations. Although it is claimed that France is ahead of us in the construction of these vehicles, it is hoped that American manufacturers will come in first. America generally keeps at the head of the procession in all lines of industry, science and medicines. No country in the world has ever produced so good a medicine for the cure of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For over fifty years it has been the standard medicine. It promotes sound sleep, restores the appetite and cures dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and billouness, also prevents malaria, fever and ague. Do not fail to try the Bitters, as it will surely do you good.

Song of the Sings.

Police court had a sort of cognominal vocal program today. This morning Hor Sing, Sing Wo and Sam Sing did stunts, while this afternoon Alex Sang held the boards.

The burden of the three Sings was the fact that they had to pay costs to get out of an assault case.

Alex Sang was on trial for blasting in such a manner as to cause residents of First street and Thirteenth avenue west to imagine they were being bombarded. The case was still on trial at a late hour.

Charged with drunkenness this morning was a tall, slim, straight man that looked like a Filipino. He was half Indian and half negro and his name was Mike Donovan.

CLOSE CALL.

Two Young Men Have Experience With Live Wire.

M. F. George and Charles Reed, of the Spalding hotel, had a very narrow escape at an early hour Saturday morning from being killed by a live wire. It was raining at the time and Mr. Reed was on his way home. Mr. George volunteered to give him the protection of his umbrella across the street, and the two started directly across in front of the Spalding hotel. The street railway employes were engaged in taking down a trolley wire at the early hour when there were few people about, and the two men, not noticing the wire, which hung just a few feet above the ground, started toward it. The umbrella was held tilted in a manner to hide everything from view a few feet ahead, and the young men were busily engaged in picking their way across the ties, rails and debris. They had just reached the wire when one of the street railway men saw their danger and shouted to look out for the wire. The shout naturally startled the men, and Mr. Reed, who had George's arm firmly grasped with one hand, involuntarily threw up the other hand to ward off the wire. The ground was wet, and when Mr. Reed's knuckles touched the wire the circuit was completed, and both men were knocked several feet by the shock, sparks flying from the point of contact. Had the wire been seized it is doubtful if Mr. Reed could have relinquished his hold. As it was, the young men received a great scare and are just recovering from the effects of the shock. The street railway employes say that the current was weak at the time they were removing the wire, or the incident might have had a fatal ending. Mr. George's arm was partially paralyzed by the shock and he is beginning to recover the use of the member today. On Mr. Reed's hand is a big blister about as big as a silver dollar.

Cold on North Shore.

A traveling man from St. Paul, who returned this morning from a business trip on the north shore, declares that the temperature in that region, about 100 miles above Duluth, is so low that a person going up there will come back and order his winter's coal. He says that at a hotel in Port Arthur yesterday the guests wore light coats into the dining room when the noon luncheon was served. He says the thermometer yesterday registered 55 at Port Arthur.

IS UP TO THE COURT

Bellinger's Case Is Now In Hands of District Court.

It Will Conduct His Examination If There Is One.

Relatives Can Get It By Filing Affidavit of Insanity.

The matter of the obliquities—moral and mental—of Burton H. Bellinger is now in the hands of the district court entirely. The moral part was already there, and yesterday afternoon the action of Sheriff Sargent in refusing to give him up to an examination in probate court added the mental portion to the district court's duty.

Late yesterday afternoon Harlow C. Bellinger, Burt's brother, filed an information of insanity in his case in probate court. Judge Bonham issued the customary order to the sheriff to seize and return the person of the alleged insane man. To which Sheriff Sargent made a return that it would be impossible for him to do so, because he was holding Bellinger by virtue of two indictments from the district court on charges of forgery in the second degree.

This exhausts the power of the probate court, as Judge Bonham reads the law, and there will be no probate court examination.

The law provides for a hearing before the district court, however, and it is probable that Bellinger's relatives will ask it. They may bring the matter up by filing an affidavit with the court stating a belief that he is insane. Then the court, under the law, is required to give Bellinger a hearing, no matter whether court is in session or not. The hearing may be before the court, or before the court and a jury, as is the judge that handles the matter determines.

If the result of this hearing is that Bellinger is found to be insane, he will be committed to the asylum, where he is to remain until he has sufficiently recovered to understand the district court proceedings, when the superintendent of the asylum is to notify the sheriff of that fact. The sheriff must then bring him back for his trial before the court, just as though he had never been insane.

All of this is provided for by the law, and if Bellinger's insanity continues it will be followed out as far as seems proper. There seems to be little relief for Bellinger in these proceedings, except that inmates of the insane asylums are not watched quite so closely as the lodgers in the penitentiary, and there is, perhaps, a little more chance for escape.

Bellinger's condition remains about the same. He is quiet, and continues to eat, drink and sleep regularly, but he persists in substituting a grunting or groaning sound for conversation and makes his wants known by signs.

Switchmen's Union Picnic.

The excursion given Sunday by Zenith lodge No. 28, Switchmen's union, was a brilliant success. In the morning eighteen coachloads left Duluth and made the run to Ely lake at Sparta. Fully 500 people were left at the depot here, the train not being large enough to take all. The day was pleasantly spent in dancing, boating and visiting the mines. Fully 1500 people went up.

GOOD CAMPAIGN STORY.

Senator William E. Mason of Illinois, whose political scalp Comptroller Dawes has started out to get is a good campaigner, and a great stump speaker, relates the New York Times. His wit and eloquence are not of the most refined order, but they are just the thing to catch a crowd. Mason is never at a loss for a retort, and enjoys being interrupted in a speech. During one of his campaigns he was getting his usual share of interruptions in a speech he was delivering at Springfield, Ill. Mason was enjoying himself, and was making a great hit with the majority of the crowd. There was one man, however, who tangled Mason up somewhat. This man had imbibed more alcohol than was good for him. He was on the outskirts of the crowd, and he was asking Mason questions in a thick voice. The senator could not catch the questions, and as he did not at first know what was the matter with the fellow he stopped and attempted to catch the question each time. He always failed, and this led to several awkward pauses. At last Mason became irritated. The next time an interruption came from the intoxicated one, Mason asked:

"Who are you?"

"Don't you know me, Billy? came the answer, in maudlin and swaying tones.

Mason paused. "My friend," said he, in a measured and metallic voice, "I don't recognize your voice, but your breath is familiar."

SMALLPOX MEETING

Health Officials, Lumbermen and Others Are Conferring Here.

Dr. Bracken Discusses Means of Stamping Out the Disease.

Vaccination, Isolation and Disinfection the Three Things Essential.

The meeting of health officials, lumbermen, county officials and all persons who come in contact with the smallpox epidemic, or have to deal with it, which was called by Dr. Bracken to meet in Duluth today, is being held here and there is a very fair attendance and the discussion promises to do much good and give a better understanding among all persons as to the best way of dealing with the disease. An earnest effort will be made by the health board to drive the disease out of the state this coming year, and the co-operation of all persons is needed to accomplish this.

The main meeting was held this afternoon at the city hall, but an informal session was held this morning in the parlors of the Spalding hotel preliminary to the main meeting. Health officers of some of the towns in the northern part of the state were present, while a number of lumbermen were also in attendance.

Dr. Robinson, of this city, was selected chairman of the meeting. There was an informal exchange of views in regard to some suggestions advanced by Dr. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, in regard to the sanitary control of lumber camps, mines, etc.

Dr. Bracken said that the danger of a smallpox epidemic lies mainly with the woodsmen, who are in the habit of leaving a camp after they have been exposed, in some cases without their pay, rather than submit to a quarantine, and the main discussion was over the way to keep them from carrying the disease.

One of the regulations suggested by Dr. Bracken was that in connection with every camp a building should be constructed, or a double wall tent, which should be used for the reception of any employes who became sick with any contagious disease, or any disease that was apparently contagious. Dr. Bracken said that he understood that most of the lumber camps throughout the state had provided such places for the care of the sick. If the proprietors of the lumber camps would take immediate action in every case where smallpox was suspected, a great deal of expense and trouble could be saved. It is Dr. Bracken's idea that whenever a man falls sick with any disease resembling smallpox, or other contagious disease, he shall be detained in quarantine until the nature of his illness is discovered, and no sick man shall be allowed to go from camp without having been seen by a physician. If it is found that a man has smallpox he shall be kept in quarantine until some disposition can be made of his case. In this case, Dr. Bracken said that in case of a pauper, the county from which the patient comes would be responsible for the care, and that he thought that it would also be responsible for the control, such as the quarantine.

Dr. Bracken said that there was a law that every person must report any contagious disease to the authorities as soon as he discovered it and he thought that if the owners of the lumber camps would this year report the cases of smallpox as soon as they were recognized, that it would be much easier to control its spread.

He says that it has been the practice in some camps the minute a man shows signs of weakness to pay him off and send him away. He thinks that if they hold back his pay and keep him in the camp until the nature of his disease is discovered, that fewer men with smallpox would be turned loose on the community.

"I understand it," says Dr. Bracken, "if a man gets smallpox some of the companies will give him his time and he will go to a city where he can spend his money. The first place he strikes is a saloon. Here he stays until all of his money is gone and then the saloonkeeper telephones the board of health that he has a case of smallpox. They are compelled to take him and take care of him at the expense of the community, whereas if his disease is reported before he gets a chance to spend his money he will be able to pay for his care and treatment. This is only a fair proposition and instead of turning the patient loose with his time check, the companies should notify the proper authorities."

One of the doctors present thought that the lumber companies were liable to a damage suit if they refused to let a man go when he wished and pay him when he quit, but Dr. Bracken said that if they put the man under quarantine he could not very well sue them.

Dr. Bracken said that he had read in the newspapers a good deal concerning the idea of burning all lumber camps where smallpox had been found. He designated such a measure as an absurd one, which might cause great loss to the companies. The only case where a lumber camp should be burned is where a camp having been exposed is abandoned, and might afford shelter to other people. In that case, of course, it would not be good policy to have the camp standing, but where the camp is a good one and intended for future use, a thorough cleansing and fumigation will do as well.

"The state of Minnesota is not going to give an order for the burning of all camps where smallpox has raged," said he, "but it will require them to be cared for. One of the most outrageous things I ever heard of, if it is true, is something I read in the newspapers about a company sending an infected outfit into Superior the other day."

Dr. Stocker, of Duluth, said that he agreed with Dr. Bracken's ideas and knew that if the lumbermen thought their cases would be well taken care of they would not be at all backward about reporting them.

Dr. Bracken said that the counties would pay so much a day for the patients if they were unable to pay themselves. He laid down this rule for the lumbermen. Whenever a smallpox case is found the patient should be first quarantined and then removed as soon as possible to the hospital. If it is not advisable to move the patient, then the case should be treated in camp.

Dr. Allen, of Cloquet, considered it would be unjust to the lumbermen if they could not pay off their men without a medical examination. He considered the isolation scheme a very good one if the lumbermen supplied guards, but said that this would necessitate a great expense.

Dr. Bracken replied that the state would pay for the inspectors, and it would be much cheaper to spend $5 or $6 for guards than $5000 or $6000 to take care of an epidemic started through an unguarded case.

A lumberman expressed his opinion that the best way out of the difficulty would be to require the camp owners to employ none but vaccinated men in the camps, providing vaccination is a preventative. Dr. Bracken replied that he thought that decidedly vaccination was a preventative. He said that vaccination, isolation and disinfection were the three things that will stamp out the disease. Dr. Robinson said that it was the intention of the health department here to vaccinate as many of the lumbermen as possible before they left Duluth, and that they would probably have men at the Union station to vaccinate them.

In speaking of the vaccination among the school children, Dr. Bracken said that a great many were vaccinated before the objections raised grew to serious proportions. The attorney general ruled that no general order to vaccinate could be given except in cases of epidemic. Dr. Bracken has seen the attorney general, who has decided that an epidemic exists throughout the state of Minnesota, consequently Dr. Bracken gave the order.

During the discussion Dr. Bracken stated that there were 6300 cases in the state last fall and 29 deaths.

After some discussion over minor points, the meeting adjourned until this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the Wisconsin delegation could be present.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

Regulations Proposed By Dr. Bracken.

The meeting this afternoon at the council chamber, in the city hall, was opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Hugo, who said that the city was sick of the smallpox epidemic and hoped that the gentlemen in session would be able to find some means to stamp it out.

Dr. Bracken read the following suggestions which he wished those present to discuss:

Reg. 1. The owner, manager, agent or foreman of any lumbering camp, mining camp, sawmill, smelting works or any other industry or of any railway construction camp located in any district, shall in connection with every such industry or works be responsible for the proper execution and inforcement of any regulation herein contained or of any clause or any health regulation governing in any case or circumstance.

Reg. 2. In connection with every camp, works or dwelling coming under these regulations there shall be constructed a building, or in lieu thereof a double wall tent or tents shall be kept on hand with floor or floors and with facilities for neat and ventilation for the reception of any employe who may become sick, and should any disease of a contagious nature, as defined by the public health laws, break out, the hospital building or tent, must be located by the physician in charge of the patient in a position satisfactory to any health officer authorized by the state board of health to inspect the camp or works.

Reg. 3. Printed regulations of the Minnesota state board of health in harmony with the public health laws of the state must be placed in a conspicuous position by the employer or managers of any works or camp, and sanitary offenses committed against any regulation therein contained may be punished is convicted before any properly constituted court.

Reg. 4. The location of the buildings of any camp or works shall be made with a due regard to its healthfulness and any new camp or works located without the previous approval of the authorized health inspector must be moved to a proper location, if afterwards the site is found to be undrained, unhealthy or wanting in any adequate or wholesome water supply, and any old camp or works or dwelling, if proved insanitary or unhealthful shall have instituted such drainage or have introduced such a water supply as is satisfactory to the authorized health officer.

Reg. 5. Employers of labor on works in lumber, mining or railroad camps shall contract with one or more qualified medical practitioners for the medical and sanitary supervision of their employees and works, and are hereby authorized to deduct from the pay due any employe a sum not less than 50 cents and not to exceed $1 per month, which shall be paid the physician having charge of such men, and he shall inspect the camp, dwellings or work at least once a month and oftener, if on the decision of the authorized health officer the health conditions of any camp or works or dwellings require it, and for supplying medical attendance and medicines to the employes.

Reg. 6. The owner, manager agent or foreman or other person in charge of any lumbering camp or other industry on which men are employed shall require a certificate of recent successful vaccination of each employe when he is engaged by the company or its agent, and where evidence is not forthcoming it shall be their duty before employing any person to obtain such evidence of such vaccination.

Reg. 7. Should any suspected communicable disease as defined under the laws, break out in any camp, works or dwelling, the employer or his employe or agent in charge of such camp, works or dwelling, shall immediately send notice to the physician in charge, who shall at once notify the state board of health or some officer thereof, of the outbreak. The employer or his employe or agent in charge of any camp, works or dwelling shall equally with the physician employed be responsible for any neglect to notify the state health authorities.

Reg. 8. Every measure required to be taken by a local board of health or any medical health officer, sanitary inspector or other health officer under the public health laws, or any regulation made thereunder in any organized municipality must at once be taken by the employer and his employe or agent or the physician employed by the same, whenever any suspected communicable disease included therein breaks out in any camp, works or dwelling, to which these regulations apply. Any neglect on the part of any employer, manager, foreman, or agent or the physician employed shall be punishable in the manner provided by the public health laws.

Penalty—Gen. Statutes, 1895, Sec. 6619: A person who willfully violated any provision of the health laws the punishment for violating which is not otherwise prescribed by those laws and by this code, and a person who willfully violates or refuses, or omits to comply with any lawful order or regulation prescribed by any board of health or health officer, or any regulation lawfully made or established by any public officer, under authority of the health laws is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail, not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars, or by both.

The Vitality of Disease Germs.

The doctors now disagree as to the vitality of disease germs when subjected to disinfection and the cause of the contention is found in the old training ship Vermont which was condemned with the recommendation that the hulk be burned as the only means of destroying the germs which inhabit the ancient craft. Leading New York physicians say it is all nonsense to destroy a valuable relic when complete disinfection would kill all life aboard. Surgeon Gen. Van Reypen of the navy, takes exceptions to these statements. He says the Vermont contains in her wood work disease germs of such a character as to render her unfit for use as a training ship and to the officials of the department he says that there is no doubt in his mind that all the disinfection in the world will not eradicate these germs. So far as the navy department is concerned, there is no sentiment in regard to the Vermont. As there are no historic memories connected with the ship to make her retention in the service advisable, and it has now been practically determined to sell her at auction, the protests will avail nothing. Meanwhile the Columbia will replace the Vermont temporarily. There has been no complaint officially as yet about the use of the Columbia for a receiving ship, although Admiral Melville is strongly opposed to such action. The Columbia is one of the fastest vessels in the navy. She is of the triple screw pattern, and, while some of the officers have objected to her on the ground that she is expensive to navigate, Admiral Melville holds that she is one of the most economical vessels, provided the officer in charge of her uses but one screw at a time while on long voyages. It is said, however, that the Columbia will not be used as a receiving ship permanently, and will be replaced at New York by some other vessel as soon as a suitable one can be provided.

Why Spanish Was Adopted.

Although there has been considerable adverse comment on the action of the Philippine commission in favoring the adoption of Spanish as the court language of the islands there seems to be excellent reason for the decision. In a letter to the war department Judge Taft, president of the commission says: "To make English the official language of the courts would drive out of the practice of their profession the Filipino lawyers. It is much easier for Americans to learn Spanish in a country where Spanish is generally spoken than it is for Filipinos to learn English. If it is found at the end of five years that the change involves hardship and failure to learn English is not due to the absence of effort by the Filipino bar, there is ample opportunity to extend the period. It then will doubtless be that all the Americans will speak Spanish and the pressure for a change to English for personal motives will not be as great as now. Nothing in all the history of extending the sovereignty of one country over another has created such a bitter feeling as forcing a new language upon an unwilling people. The Filipinos now of their own will wish to learn English. Force it on them and their attitude toward the learning of English may be greatly changed. It is conceded that only 10 per cent of the Filipinos speak Spanish, but that 10 per cent represents men of intelligence, property and the best interests. Ten millions of people are in the islands and one million speak Spanish. If soldiers and officers and civilians of the government are excluded there are not more than ten thousand speak English. I cannot help, therefore, in favoring the adoption of Spanish as the court language and believe it the best thing for the commission to do." This decision was made altogether with petitions from merchants and English-speaking people asking that English be made the court language, but from the reasons given by Judge Taft it is evident that he is honestly of the opinion that Spanish was to be preferred. It seems to be a sensible conclusion.

THE SCHOOL LEVY.

If the board of education of the independent school district of Duluth will permit a suggestion on its tax levy from an outside source, The Herald would strenuously urge that the levy be no more than 4 mills. Figures were published in last evening's issue showing that this will be possible, and if it is possible no further argument should be needed to show that it should be done. Taxpayers can have no patience with unnecessary levies, for they will hardly see the justice in having a civic body levy a surplus so that it will always have an ample margin on which to go. Such a surplus lies in the banks accumulating interest at the rate of 1½ per cent when, perhaps, the taxpayer has borrowed some of it at a much higher rate in order to meet his taxes.

There is no suggestion of a cut in the school expenses in this. That is altogether aside from the question. In the past the school board has so framed its levies that it has had a large surplus on hand, and it is the belief of The Herald that that is a pernicious practice and that the board should continue to cut its levies until the surplus is exhausted. The carefully prepared figures published last evening show that a levy of 4 mills will run the schools without any difficulty during the next two years, when the surplus will be exhausted. It will involve no hardship to the district, and it will involve no shaving of expenses necessarily and no sacrifice of any existing department of the system. It is merely a question whether the board should get down to a basis where it will no longer carry a surplus, or whether it will make a higher levy than 4 mills and have money on hand that is not needed to carry on the schools on their present basis of expenditures.

The Herald has before pointed out the obvious dangers of a surplus, and yesterday's figures show the levy that will carry the schools through without a surplus. In the interest of as low a general tax rate for the city of Duluth as possible, and in the interest of the welfare of the school system as well, it is earnestly urged that the levy be made no more than 4 mills. Every year means an increase in the assessed valuation of the city and more property to help bear the burden. Next year's valuation of the county outside of the city will be so much higher as to relieve the city of much of the county expense, and a higher levy can be stood much more easily then than now.

The figures presented yesterday show that late in the school year, ending in the spring of 1903, there may possibly be a shortage of funds, but the remedy was also pointed out, and it is a sufficient one of which the city has often availed itself. No allowance was made for a sinking fund, but a proper sinking fund levy at this time would make an impossible tax rate, and a refundment of the bonds as they come due, at lower rates of interest, will relieve the present generation and bequeath the payment of the bonds to the generation that is now reaping the benefit of the beautiful school system they made possible.

The Herald can imagine no arguments that will satisfactorily explain a higher levy for school purposes this year than 4 mills.

AN EXTRAVAGANT SPIRIT.

San Francisco capitalists and the government of Hawaii will find when the next mail reaches Honolulu that Uncle Sam has a firm guiding hand on the destinies of the island, and that conservative management must prevail. Some weeks ago the acting governor, Henry E. Cooper, asked permission for the territorial government to issue bonds in the amount of $799,000. He explained that the issue was necessary to meet the expenses of the government and to carry forward some internal improvements which are needed and have long been contemplated, and that New York and San Francisco bankers had arranged to take the issue. They can invest their money elsewhere, however, for the United States government has declined to approve the issue of bonds as asked.

Governor Cooper claimed the authority to issue the bonds under an act passed in 1896 by the territorial legislature, which provided for a loan of $2,000,000 secured by bond issue. Only a portion of the loan was floated, and their remains $799,000 to bring the total up to $2,000,000. The claim of the territorial government was that the original authority granted by the act of 1896 was sufficient at this time. In the regular course the matter was submitted to the department of justice, and it was decided that no such authority existed. The territorial government has been informed that it can only issue bonds in the amount suggested when specific authorization is secured from the territorial legislature.

It will also be necessary for the bond issue to come within the provisions of the general act, which provided a government for the territory of Hawaii. The act in question provided that the total indebtedness incurred by the territory or any of its subdivisions within a year should not exceed 1 per cent of the assessed value of taxable property; that the total indebtedness for the territory shall not at any time exceed 7 per cent of the assessed value, and that the total indebtedness of any subdivision shall not at any time exceed 3 per cent of the assessed value of property. The decision of the government, which has already started for Honolulu, is expected to indefinitely postpone the issue of the bonds contemplated.

There is evidently a spirit of extravagance prevalent among the members of the Hawaiian territorial government—an inclination to largely increase the debt of the island in order to pay current expenses, which include excessive slaries, and it is well that there is some power to restrain them.

ENGLAND LOVED US.

The American people have been made conspicuous by numerous articles which have appeared in the American press the last two years, that during the Hispano-American war England came to our relief and stood off the nations of Europe who were seriously contemplating an act of armed intervention in behalf of the Spaniard. At the time we knew that the French people were openly hostile and that the Germans were more than insolent; so much so that Admiral Dewey had to call down Admiral Diderich for his conduct in Manila bay. We were told at that time a story of an interview between Admiral Diderich and the commander of the British warships at Manila, in which the German, when he asked what would happen if he refused to recognize the American blockade, was told to "ask Dewey." The blockade was not tampered with.

Chaplain H. W. Jones, U. S. A., in a lecture in New York, told of the supposed attitude of England toward the United States during this period, and advised his hearers to thank Him for this deliverance. He (Jones) says that a British officer of the navy told him that there were sixty-three ships of the British navy ready to head off any hostile demonstration of the continental powers. There is more or less truth in this. England, no doubt, saved Uncle Sam much trouble by refusing to join in any coalition against the United States. Why? Some will say that it was because "blood is thicker than water." This may have had something to do with it, but not much. We all remember the time when this nation was sore distressed; when the national life was in danger, during the dark days of 1861, when England was openly hostile and threatened war within seven days unless her demands were complied with. "Blood was not thicker than water" then, because the commercial power of England thought that its interest lay in the supremacy of the South.

It was when this double trouble hung like a cloud over the land, that a Russian fleet appeared in the harbor of New York and another in the harbor of San Francisco. Silently they came and waited the march of events. They were here to balk the designs of Great Britain, had that nation seen fit to resort to open hostilities. In this, blood was not thicker than water, but Russia remembered Sebastopol and had no fear of the rising power of the United States.

There is little question that between the people of England and those of the United States now exists a very friendly feeling. Old animosities are rapidly disappearing, but we must not depend too much on the "blood is thicker than water" principle. Whenever national or business interests intervene, nations are apt to become hostile. We saw it in England in 1861. England saw it in the United States when Cleveland issued his celebrated Venezuelan message. In England today there is arising a sentiment hostile to American commerce which threatens to become a prejudice. England loved us during the Spanish war because we are her cousins, but more because British capital by the million is invested in United States securities.

It is stated that the owners of the oil wells in Texas are facing a serious problem in finding ready markets for their product. There is a prodigious quantity of oil, so much that they do not know what to do with it. The gushers can fill 70,000 barrels a day, but the shipments amount to only 39,000 barrels a day. Transportation facilities are inadequate and must be enlarged. Every effort is being made to solve the transportation problem, and doubtless the companies will do it successfully. Pipe lines between the fields and New Orleans and Houston are being rapidly laid, while lines of tank steamers to ply between Texan and foreign ports are being arranged for to enlarge the foreign market for the oil.

Ocean commerce at San Francisco is approaching a standstill because of a strike of wharfmen and those in allied occupations. Shipping is largely tied up, and when owners of vessels now in port appeal to the authorities at Washington for leave to use their Chinese sailors in unloading their ships they are told that this would clearly involve an infraction of the Chinese exclusion act. The Chinese sailor cannot so much as put foot on a San Francisco wharf, no matter how strongly the ship owner pledges himself that the Chinaman shall not go beyond the wharf.

Prince Henry of Orleans, who died the other day, was something more than an ordinary "pretender." He had shown himself a daring and successful explorer both in Asia and in Africa, although like most Gallic aspirants after the vanishing vision of royalty, he had his days of wildness and extravagance—a good many of them, taken altogether.

Bookkeepers generally will be interested in the fact that for five weeks the clerks in the office of the New York receiver of taxes have been working hard trying to find an error of $449.54 in the tax books. The mistake was found finally in the 585th book.

It is reported that Professor R. L. Garner has become acquainted with a race of pigmies, as well as with the language of the monkey in Africa, as a result of his investigations in the dark continent. The professor will be a great card in the lecture field.

Some time ago defenders of the trusts were claiming that one of their most important public advantages was that they would do away with strikes. But here is the biggest trust of all with a strike on hand within five months of its organization!

The way in which the French have taken the lead in the development of the automobile, the submarine torpedo boat and the flying machine, shows that they are far from being a "decadent" nation in certain respects.

And now it is said that not coal oil, but castor oil, is the most effective weapon with which to fight the mosquito. Many a small boy will subscribe to the belief that castor oil is bad enough to kill anything.

It is possible to go from Boston to Philadelphia now—357 miles—practically all the way by trolley. This shows the great extension of the electric lines in the Eastern states.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The ideal husband is the man who hasn't got married yet.

Marrying a drunkard to reform him is like frying fish to make beefsteak out of it.

When a woman is dead sure that she has a man she is never dead sure that she wants him.

A woman is never so much afraid she may lose a man's love as she is that some other woman may gain it.

No matter how much of a past a man has had, there are always some women who can teach him more than he knew before.

He Knows It All.

Two Harbors Iron News: The Duluth News Tribune has started after Admiral Schley in dead earnest, and he might as well give up his fight for vindication. It is a sensible idea to let this controversy be settled by the tribunal to which it has been assigned. The Tribune's article in Wednesday's issue, headed "Ask Schley; He Knows," evidently struck the writer thereof as a destructive broadside, but it did the admiral no injury. The report pleased the Tribune that's all. As't the writer, he knows.

POINTED REMARKS.

Detroit Free Press: "Several expeditions, Mrs. Sassafras, are trying to find the north pole," remarked the summer boarder.

"Who lost it?" asked the honest farmer's wife.

American Brooms and Muscle.

New York Tribune: American brooms sweep clean. They have swept Havana entirely clear of yellow fever and the Cubans have learned such lessons in scrubbing and in sanitary precautions of all kinds from the Yankees that this pestilential malady is likely to be extirpated in the West Indies and to exist no longer as a menace to the health and prosperity of the ports of our Southern states. Spain was never sufficiently energetic in its efforts to stamp out disease. A thoroughly cleansed Cuba will be almost an earthly paradise.

"You ask me, in effect, my dear boy, whether you should give up love or art?"

Thus spoke Richard Brayton, the handsome, middle-aged millionaire, connoisseur, of Arthur Sargent, the young painter.

"It is a very delicate question," pursued Mr. Brayton, thoughtfully fondling a fine cigar which he was smoking after a good dinner. "Who am I, to decide whether love or art is the greater? But I am willing to give you my ideas. I suppose most men are willing to talk indefinitely on such a subject.

"I am no cynic, whatever my reputation may be. I believe that a man who is truly in love is the happiest man in the world. There is nothing on earth more beautiful than a beautiful woman except the woman one loves. I do not blame the man who gives up all for love, or who spoils his prospects for a woman, to put it more prosaically. One's chances of material happiness in this world are very limited at the best, and I believe that the best way of finding it is in love, although few, alas, are lucky enough to do so. If you were to ask me wether you should choose between love and money I should not hesitate one moment to say 'Love.' I wish I were poor and loved.

"But you are talking about art. That is something immortal—in a higher sense than love. Love being at least in our own selfish affections. True art is for all mankind and all eternity. It is the greatest thing in the world, in my opinion. Art is the most exacting despot conceivable. You should and must give up everything to it. No other interest should stand in its way in the slightest degree. If you love a girl and think she will take your time from your work, however little, you should throw her overboard.

"But every man following the profession of an artist is not called upon to make such a sacrifice. Only if he feels his calling in the very highest sense is he bound to do so. In short, my boy, if you know that art is greater than everything else give up everything else for it. If you are not certain marry the girl. Make sure of one thing or the other.

"And by the way," concluded Mr. Brayton, "if you are going in for art entirely I shall consider it a privilege to do what I can for you. I like your little pictures, and you can sell me enough of them to keep you in Europe for three or four years."

"I think I have made up my mind," said Sargent rather sadly. "But I am going to wait for three days before telling you, Mr. Brayton."

This conversation took place on the terrace of a beautiful villa at Newport belonging to Richard Brayton. He was one of the few great millionaires in New York society with a genuine knowledge of art. He possessed the greatest collection of modern French paintings in the world, a number of old masters and much Chinese porcelain of the Ming dynasty. He had unknown treasures hidden in great houses in Paris and London. He was also the owner of a transcontinental railroad.

Young Sargent had had the good fortune to attract the friendship of the great millionaire. The artist found the knowledge and sympathy of the older man remarkable in one who lived apparently in that region of New York society known as the four hundred. Mr. Brayton was, in fact, burdened with a wife who lived only for "society." Unattractive, artificial, arrogant, bad tempered, uneducated, loaded with hideous and expensive raiment, she was nevertheless regarded as one of the most brilliant leaders of that society which is unlike anything civilization has yet known. She openly despised her cultivated husband and preferred the society of a divorced man who was frequently drunk.

Arthur Sargent had just confided to Mr. Brayton that he loved Eleanor Griswold, a remarkably beautiful girl whom he had met at one of Mrs. Brayton's receptions. She had glorious dark red hair, a classical figure and a disposition as sweet and unspoiled as her beauty.

But he had been saying to himself that marriage, apart from his comparative poverty, must necessarily keep him in some degree from the undivided pursuit of art, which he believed he loved with the singleness so eloquently described by Mr. Brayton.

In an indescribable agony of mind he had confided in the only man he believed capable of appreciating the case—Richard Brayton. He had received the answer which we have heard. It decided him in favor of art.

On the following day he told Mr. Brayton that he had made up his mind. He then went away without saying a word to the girl he loved—or thought he loved—and who he had reason to believe loved him. He felt as mean as he was miserable, but yet his reason told him that he was doing the right thing. He went away to Europe to study in Paris and Rome and other places where the true spirit of art may be found.

* * *

He had worked in Europe three years. He had become more than ever convinced that he was right to give up all for art. The image of Eleanor Griswold was still enshrined in his heart. She remained the only woman he ever cared for. But her memory now caused him less poignant grief. He heard nothing of the Braytons.

In Rome one day he picked up a New York newspaper, a thing he rarely saw. A page of it told of the marriage of Richard Brayton, the famous multi-millionaire, and Miss Eleanor Griswold, the daring and original beauty of the four hundred. The latter part of the article told some ancient history that was news to Sargent. Mr. Brayton, it appeared, a year before had paid his disagreeable wife to obtain a divorce, allowing her to name him as the defendant. She had then married her drunken divorced man. He had married the beautiful girl. Miss Griswold's education in New York society manners had evidently progressed enormously since Sargent knew her.

"Was Brayton quite disinterested when he advised me so eloquently to go away?" mused Sargent. "And even if he was not disinterested, may he not still have been right?"

Caught a Severe Cold. Brought on Summer Catarrh.

MISS BLANCHE MYERS.

Miss Blanche Myers, 3120 Penn street, Kansas City, Mo., has the following to say of Peruna:

"During each of the past four seasons I have caught a severe cold, when suddenly chilled after an evening party, and catarrh for several weeks would be the result. One bottle of Peruna cured me, and I shall not dread colds any more as I did."—BLANCHE MYERS.

Miss Anna Cramer, 1950 Second avenue, New York City, writes:

"I can bear witness to the fact that Peruna is the best remedy for catarrh. I have already brought it to the notice of many. My sister and her husband keep it in the house all the time, and are convinced that there is no better remedy for colds. If every one would keep Peruna in the house to guard against colds much needless suffering would be spared. If any one doubts I am ready to testify, for Peruna cured me of catarrh after I had suffered for ten years."—Miss Anna Cramer.

Miss Nellie Underwood, National Press Correspondent Ladies of the G. A. R., writes from 901 Hamilton street, Chicago, Ill., the following:

Gentlemen—"Every summer when the weather changes so suddenly I seem to catch one of those tedious colds. I have tried several remedies, but two years ago I tried Peruna and found it most efficacious. It cured me completely in six days. Last summer I had another attack. I at once took Peruna and in three days was well. I find that by taking it occasionally it keeps my system in a healthful condition, and I therefore gladly endorse it."—Miss Nellie Underwood.

Summer colds, though not as frequent as winter colds, very often prove more dangerous. At the first symptoms of catching, Peruna should be taken. It is sure to stop the cold at once, and save needless suffering, and perhaps catarrh.

Peruna as an internal systemic remedy acts promptly on the inflamed mucous membranes wherever the cold has settled. It strikes at the root of the matter, and thus cures promptly and permanently.

THE DAKOTAS.

An Eleven Million Dollar Pipe Dream From Deadwood.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Deadwood—After a search for 22 years, relatives of Peter Nelson Oague found him on a farm near Piedmont in the Black Hills, where he has been known as Peter Nelson. When the man left his Denmark home he dropped his last name. That was for reasons of his own. He left this morning for Denmark to take possession of a fortune awaiting him amounting to $11,000,000, which has been ready for him twenty-two years. He had letters that proved his statements. He is related to wealthy people in Denmark who stand high in the army.

Huron—Cattle shipments from Kansas, Missouri and other states where feed is short, to ranges in this part of South Dakota, continue, and many ranchmen and stock dealers are sending large numbers of their fat cattle to Eastern markets. The live stock business is unusually brisk, and the Great Northern Railway company has put on a special stock train between this city and Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Hon. Thomas H. Null, attorney for the state board of railway commissioners, has returned from Sioux Falls, where he argued the now famous Milwaukee railway rate case before Judge Carland, with much interest throughout the entire Northwest.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fort Yates—The treaty of 1878 with the Indians stipulated that the government would provide them sustenance till such a time as they should become self-supporting. Now, after a quarter of a century from his boundiful hand, Uncle Sam concludes that some of his wards upon the Standing Rock reservation should have become self-supporting. Consequently the interior department instructs Indian Agent Bingenheimer to make no more allotments to those whom in his estimation, are deemed able to support themselves. As a result, 300 names were stricken from the rolls. Of this number, 32 are white men married to Indian women, and being all the whites, together with their families living upon the reservation. The rations of only one fullblood Indian was stopped. Others will be discontinued from time to time.

Fargo—Two small children have met with tragic death. The 2½-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson drank some liquid fly polson and died in the yard where it was playing with a little sister.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Kennedy, north of Fargo, a pail of boiling water had been set on the kitchen floor. The little 3-year-old daughter was playing near and fell backwards into the water, dying a few hours later.

Laisbon—North Dakota's Women's Christian Temperance union convenes here Sept. 13, and will be in session until the 17th. A large attendance is looked for. Among the prominent workers who are expected are Miss Bell Kearney, the well-known Southern speaker, and Mrs. Nell Burger, the national "Y." organizer. Mrs. H. S. Grover is at the head of the local committee on entertainment. Mrs. C. H. Mott is chairman of the general arrangements committee. Mrs. C. W. Sprague controls the musical feature of the convention, and former County Treasurer and Mrs. W. H. White will look after the postal arrangements.

Cooperstown—Patrick Ryan, working for a farmer west of town, fell from a load of hay on Saturday, striking on his head and shoulders. His body is paralyzed from his hips down and his chances of recovery are very slim.

Wahpeton—Word was received that Curtiss Sweigle, an attorney of this place, died from the effects of an operation in a St. Paul hospital.

Tramps are now put at work on the streets and are consequently growing scarce.

Jamestown—Contractors on the Bowden branch of the Northern Pacific, discouraged with the results obtained from bringing in white employes, have imported negroes from Illinois and Tennessee.

SOME SCRAPPY ADVICE.

In battling for success in life,
My boy, be brave of heart,
Be not a skulker in the strife;
Stand up; do well your part.
Turn not the other cheek if luck
On one should plant its blows;
Get action on your manly pluck
And swat it on the nose,
My boy,
And swat it on the nose!

If knocked to earth, regain your feet,
And closer watch your guard;
Give not a thought unto retreat;
Just set your grinders hard
And spar to get an opening
Through some defensive flaw
In hard luck's rigid guard, then swing
And smash it in the jaw,
My boy,
And smash it in the jaw!

A solid nerve and craw well filled
With sharp, courageous sand,
A brain by scheming coolness chilled,
A strong and ready hand,
Is bound to win, though hard the fight,
Will down the foe at last,
If but the battling cause be right,
And that's no hot air blast,
My boy,
And that's no hot air blast!

Though you may stagger from the ground
Disfigured by the blows,
Your shoulders by a sore head crowned,
And with a wealth of nose,
You'll leave the adversary there
Inanimate as clay,
The future will your hurts repair,
And things will come your way,
My boy,
And things will come your way!

A GREAT SUCCESS

Society Vaudeville at Lyceum Delights a Large Audience.

Songs, Operatic Skits, Monologue and a Clever Sketch.

Miss Adelaide Thurston Gives Fine Dramatic Recitation.

It was a brilliant audience that filled the Lyceum theater last evening and witnessed the production of "society vaudeville." All society was out and the house was a pretty picture, filled as it was from pit to gallery, boxes occupied and the ladies with their summer gowns of varied colors.

The program was cleverly conceived and cleverly carried out and had the variety essential to vaudeville. Some of the numbers were of more than ordinary interest to the audience.

Especially was this true of the recitation by Miss Adelaide Thurston, the Duluth young woman who has won a high position in the dramatic world. It was the first public appearance she has made here for several years. A recitation is not well adapted to displaying dramatic powers in their fullnes, but the brilliant recital of "Herve Riel," by Browning, which was Miss Thurston's number, could not but make felt the strong dramatic instinct which the young star possesses. In her delivery there was force, fire, enthusiasm and best of all, magnetism, for it is that which wins audiences. The spirit of the dramatic selection was communicated to the audience and the storm of applause at the close testified to the enthusiasm which had been infused into her hearers. For an encore she gave a short humorous number.

Miss Julia Donovan, who is also entitled to be numbered among the "professionals," made a tremendous hit. She sang a pleasing operatic song and received a double encore, responding with "Mavourneen" and "You're My Honeysuckle, I'm Your Bee." The latter was particularly catchy and was as catchily sung. Miss Donovan's voice, always full, rich and mellow, is developing wonderfully.

A particularly taking number was the reproduction of one of the big hits from "Floradora," the song, "Tell Me Pretty Maiden," given by a double sextet consisting of Mrs. A. D. McRae, Mrs. James McAuliffe, Miss Farrell, Miss Frazer, Miss Dickinson, Miss Swan, C. D. Shepard, Marvin McLaren, G. H. McCarthy, L. R. Alexander, L. R. Robinson and Cyril Tyler. The costuming of the original production was followed and it was as pretty as it was catchy. The audience demanded its repetition and even then was not disposed to be content.

A clever conception was "Sweetheart Dreams of Yesterday," written specially for this occasion by G. A. Tomlinson. There was a suggestion of Sol Smith Russell's "Christmas Eve" about it. A bachelor, dining alone, calls up memories of former sweethearts and to each addresses a few words and as each was called she appeared in a vision cleverly arranged. The different parts were taken as follows: Country maiden, Miss Sabin; scubrette, Miss Fisher, of St. Paul; the yachting girl, Miss Josephine Peyton; the tailor-made girl, Miss Robinson; the society girl, Mrs. Lansing Robinson; the widow, Mrs. Cheesebrough; the golf girl, Miss Crowley; the debutante, Miss White. Larry Kitchell was the bachelor and was very good.

Mr. Kitchell also appeared in a monologue and gave impersonations of various actors. They were very clever but were marred somewhat by the fact that Mr. Kitchell had not gauged the size of the auditorium very well and was heard with difficulty.

The vocal numbers were all of high merit. Miss Rena Smith received an ovation as fine as that accorded any one. Miss Noble, a Superior young woman, sang a brilliant operatic selection and displayed a charming voice. Cyril Tyler sang Nevin's ballad, "Because I Love You, Dear," and was recorded a fine encore.

Mrs. Alexander D. McRae and L. R. Alexander gave the funny pickaninny sketch from "The Runaway Girl," and made a great hit, having to give it a second time. Miss DoraSwan sang "My Honolulu Queen," and a quartet of diminutive pickaninnies assisted, one little tot fairly bringing the house down. Blake and Davies gave a clever exhibition of tumbling. Company C presented the Bedouin drill from its "Pageant of Nations," and during it Miss Georgia Alexander sang the gypsy girl song by Donizetti, rendering it in a very pleasing manner.

A mandolin number by Messrs. Faulkner, Mourin, Graham and Stendahl was cleverly executed. Flaaten's orchestra gave several fine numbers also.

The entertainment was arranged by Circle No. 8 of St. Paul's church. A. F. M. Custance was in charge of the music and Lansing Robinson had charge of the stage.

"DAUGHTER OF DIAMOND KING."

Charles A. Taylor's great scenic production, "Daughter of the Diamond King," will be the attraction at the Lyceum tomorrow evening. The characters and places have been taken from parts of New York city and New Hampshire, with an exceptionally strong cast, headed by the charming La Belle Laurette, supported by W. A. Whitecar, an actor of considerable fame a faithful conception of the author's idea is given. The charming love scene between La Belle Laurette as Nellie Golden and W. A. Whitecar as Dwight Perkins, preceding their marriage, in the first act of the play, is said to be one of the prettiest pieces of acting that it has ever been a person's good fortune to look upon. The plot of the play is a simple one, prettily told and with scenery from Frank E. Hodge of the Herald Square theater, New York city, under the personal supervision of Charles A. Taylor, the author and manager, it seems safe to say that local theater-goers have a treat in store for them.

Roof Fell In.

Yesterday afternoon the roof of the new Polish Catholic church, which is being erected at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Fifth street, fell in and sixteen men working under the framework narrowly escaped being crushed to death. The men were warned in the nick of time and had time to get out. The braces of the frame had been removed and the roof collapsed just as one of the timbers was being pulled up into place. The brick walls, however, stood firm.

ARE ANGRY.

Normal Board Members Displeased With Board of Control.

All is not lovely in the family of the Minnesota state board of control. An Associated Press report from St. Paul says that signs of a revolt against the board of control may be looked for at a meeting of the normal school board at the state capitol Saturday morning.

Some months ago the normal board decided to waive the defect in the law and leave the financial supervision of the normal schools to the board of control. The understanding then was that the board of control should superintend the fiscal affairs of the schools, but leave details to the normal board.

The board of control, however, seems to have lumped the normal school's light in with the other institutions, having required estimates from them, and contracts having been let for all the supplies, except those purchased locally.

In this the board of control attacked one of the cherished prerogatives of the old board. The members of the board living in the cities where normal schools are located have been acting as purchasing agents. The office is a pleasant one and pays $300 a year. As stated Saturday, the board of control decided to have the presidents of the schools act as purchasing agents without extra pay.

This was the last straw. At the approaching meeting, it is understood, the normal board will issue an ultimatum that the board of control keep hands off, and permit normal board members to serve as purchasing agents. If the board of control refuses, the normal board will cast loose entirely, taking the same stand as the university regents. Technically, the normal schools are not under board of control supervision, and if a break comes, the normal school board will hoist the flag of independence.

NEW PLAYERS.

Several to Be Added to the Duluth Fashions.

The prospects are that when the Milwaukee Sentinels get here Saturday they will receive a much warmer reception at the hands of the Fashions than did the Ashland team. Duluth fans ought to see some good ball playing out of the four games that will be played with the newspaper team which comes up with such a reputation.

The Duluth Fashions will be strengthened up with three new players. Dick Glendon has been telegraphed to at four different places, so that if he can be located he will probably play the remainder of the season with Duluth. The other two men in sight have not been heard from as yet, but they are very fast players from state league teams, and if they come, will be on hand with the best of ball playing all of the time.

One of the men wired, who has a reputation in league ball, has several personal friends in the city, and it is thought that he will start as soon as the message reaches him.

THE BOARD REPORTS

The Water Board Gives Statement For Six Months.

Asks Council to Pay Its Bills More Promptly.

Council Declines to Order Opening of Raleigh Street.

The council last night:

Received the semi-annual report of the water and light board.

Report shows an earning of $26,049 in the past six months.

Indicates sweeping reduction in gas rates on Jan. 1.

Resolution passed compromising East Duluth company's assessments.

Resolution authorizing extension of Raleigh street did not pass.

Peter Quinn, employment agent, will be given committee investigation.

The semi-annual report of the water and light department was submitted to the council last evening.

This report shows that in six months the department's earnings amounted to $75,563.77, while the expenditures amounted to $49,513.79. This makes an earning of $26,049.98.

Had the rates this year been as high as those last year the earning would have been fully $20,000 more.

The growth of the business of the department has been so rapid, that, together with a decrease in the cost of operation and maintenance, the commissioners anticipate still further reductions in rates.

By the first of the year the department expects to announce a cut of 25 per cent in illuminating gas rates, which will make the rate $1 per 1000 feet.

During the past six months water and gas mains have been extended considerably and by fall the department will have expended all of its cash available for purposes of construction. This would indicate that the council will have to take some action to furnish the department with $40,000 or $50,000 to carry out extensions planned for next year.

The financial statement of the receipts during the past six months is as follows:

Gas rates	$35,446 98
Water rates, meter	32
Water rates, annual	11,778 89
Gas meter deposits	483 00
Gas lamps	1,988 97
Gas stoves	769 59
Insurance rebate	2 10
Water meters	1,259 89
Service extensions	1,951 18
Water services for repairs	37 72
Gas services for repairs	2 28
Real estate rev. and exp.	296 14
Water construction	13 95
Plumbers' license	96 05
Pumping works, sale of materials	1 00
Hydrant rentals	6,448 34

The report contained a criticism of the council to this effect:

"The management of this department, the results obtained by its construction and its reputation as a business institution are and have always been matters of personal pride to the members of the council, and we wish to call your attention particularly to certain matters that affect us very materially and over which your honorable body has full and absolute control.

In the first place, bills rendered by the department against the city and about which there can be no question are delayed in payment many months, at times, although funds that cannot be used for any other purpose are in the city treasury during all that time. Bills rendered to this date and unpaid, amount to about $11,279, not including $645 hydrant rentals from Jan. 1 to April 1, received by us Aug. 7.

Delays by the city in paying its bills to this department, together with the amount we are obliged to carry against the water company of West Duluth, pending result of suit now being tried, make it necessary for us to have much larger accumulations for a working capital than would otherwise be required.

Bills rendered by this board and which are invariably presented to your honorable body early in each month, are very rarely paid before the last of that month, or the first of the month following the date of such presentation. Prompt payment of our obligations is necessary in order to enable us to secure the lowest rates in making purchases.

It seems to us that neither of the delays above referred to are at all necessary and we trust that after your attention is called to the matter you will see to it that our matters are handled more promptly."

The council authorized City Attorney Mitchell to arrange a settlement with the East Duluth company for assessments made in 1892 and 1893 for the opening and improving of London road and Superior street. Originally the East Duluth company was assessed $3,623 for this improvement. The company paid $38,424, leaving a balance of $20,119 over which there has been litigation for many years involving three assessments. The accrued interest and penalties raised the $20,119 to about $30,000.

The council authorized the settlement for $20,000, which is regarded as an exceptionally good arrangement all around, by those that have gone into the case and realized the possibilities of the pending litigation. Had the East Duluth company come in some time ago when the city was accepting 35 per cent of the assessed valuation as a basis of compromise, the company could have gotten out of the deal much cheaper.

The aldermen refused to authorize the opening of Raleigh street at West Duluth though nine of the fifteen present voted in favor of it. It required a two-thirds vote, making eleven necessary.

It was proposed to open Raleigh street from Fifty-fifth to Fiftieth avenues west, right through the property on which the car manufacturing plant is situated. The Morrill & Ring, LeSuer and Mitchell & McClure Lumber companies protested against the opening.

Many West Duluthians desire the opening, however, and it is possible that an effort may be made to have a reconsideration of last night's vote.

The case of Peter Quinn charged with being employed by Joseph Sheehy, was referred to the police and license committee for investigation. The seriousness of the charge staggered Mr. Quinn somewhat, but he recovered sufficiently to deny each and every allegation.

Coal Barons Have Entire Situation In Their Control.

The anthracite coal market seems to have been marked out in undeviating lines throughout the West this season, so far as the wholesalers are concerned. It would be difficult to find out if the action was a concerted one or not, but it is true that the receipts at the head of the lakes, and the other lake ports as well, are far behind those of last year, and unless there is a rapid increase from now on until the close of navigation, predictions are being made that the Western country will have a slim supply of coal for the coming winter. Country shipments became active with the first of the month, and inroads are being made in the local coal stocks.

It is a condition which, however, does not worry the coal companies. They commenced at the opening of the season with a good high price list, from which they are said to have offered concessions for all coal bought and taken before the end of the first month of the season. At the beginning of the next month they announced a reduction in the discount of 10 cents per ton, and at the beginning of each succeeding month they have made similar deductions. On the first day of September the discount will have been wiped out and coal will sell at list price.

In previous years it is said that buyers have been permitted to contract at almost any time during the summer at the current prices, and have the coal delivered when they wanted it. Under present conditions, it is claimed that if a person buys coal on the last day of the month and has it delivered on the first day of the succeeding month, the coal costs 10 cents more per ton. The trouble does not lie with the local dealer but with the "higher powers," and cannot be remedied. Ordinarily the price of coal depends largely on the supply and demand, but under present conditions there is said to be only such demand as is forced by the unwillingness to pay next month's prices.

The coal barons announced their policy for the summer, and many thought that they would not be able to carry it out, but it has been as inevitable as fate. Just now the prospect confronting the coal consumer is the probability of a further raise in prices on the first of next month.

OLD TIME GAMBLER

Charles Avery Gave Away Fortunes and Died Penniless.

His Purse Always Open to Those Less Fortunate.

Won and Lost Big Sums In Chicago's Early Days.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—With the burial in Graceland of Charles D. Avery—a simple ceremony, attended mostly by white-haired friends—there passed a man who is accredited by his Chicago associates of half a century ago with giving away as much as $500,000.

And yet Avery was not a philanthropist, as the world understands the word nowadays. He was a gambler—a "square" gambler, his friends say.

Avery won and lost fortunes. When he was "on his luck" his purse was open to those who were less fortunate. Twenty years ago, when gambling still was at its height in Chicago, Avery dropped from sight. He died on Thursday, aged 71 years, in the home for incurables. He was penniless.

Avery—Charles Avery, as he was known—did not owe all his winnings to luck. He was a shrewd calculator and could figure a percentage in ten seconds with more accuracy than most men could in as many minutes. This genius was inherited from his father, who for more than fifty years was professor of mathematics in Hamilton college.

Young Avery was a student in this college in the days when the West was booming, and one night he left a note to his father saying he had decided to seek his fortune in the new country. The father went on instructing his classes in the New York school, while the son wandered first to Detroit and then to Chicago. He reached Chicago in 1850, and in the ensuing twenty years was at the height of his prosperity.

Of what happened later one of the old-time gamblers, who long since has retired, had the following to say:

"Charley Avery, by instinct, physical attributes and social disposition, was a gentleman and a sport. Indeed, not long after his arrival here he became known as the 'gentleman gambler,' but it should be known that the term 'gambler' did not mean then what it does now. There were no 'shoe string' gamblers in those days, or if there were they were not recognized by the gamblers who regarded honor and square dealing as the chief articles of their creed. The men of that day saw little more harm in going against a faro bank or a poker game than against the possibilities of the board of trade.

"Charley Avery, soon after his arrival here, became interested at various times with Ike Anderson, Barney Wells, Curt Gunn, and other keepers of games at which 'high rolling' was a feature. But Charley always found more pleasure in playing the bank than in having any personal stake in its winnings. It was an intense pleasure to him to break a bank, though many times with his winnings he would set his victims on their feet again. During his career he must have given away nearly $500,000, and it is doubtful if he got much of it back. He had no love for money beyond the pleasure it could bring and the good it could do—that is, from his standpoint.

"One of the noted games in those old days was between he and 'Cap.' Hyman bucked a bank as rivals. Hyman lost $17,000, which he had on deposit in the Third National bank, of which J. Irving Pearce then was president. Avery won $22,000, which up to then was probably the biggest winning ever made at one sitting by any one in the West.

"Avery was a great lover of horses and of billiards. He owned some fast trotters, and a race between him and some other owner of a lively nag was no unusual thing. The stakes might be for a supper, but more oftener they were for $250 to $300 a side.

"Otis & Field's billiard room in Dearborn street, on the site of the Unity building, was a great resort for the gentlemanly sporting element in those days, and it was here that Avery played a series of games with Andy Daniels that was famous. This contest lasted throughout a week, the stake for each game being $250. At the close of the contest Avery was ahead four games, and so was winner $1000. The room was crowded and betting ran high, not only on the final result, but on some one game by outsiders.

"Finally Avery bought a farm of 640 acres some sixty miles west of Chicago and lived there on and off for several years. Later he returned to Chicago, but gave up gambling about twenty years ago.

"During much of his life Avery was known and liked by leading citizens of Chicago. Among his friends I might mention Stephen A. Douglas. In those days Chicago was full of adventurous young men, who were high-toned but broke. These preyed on Avery's generosity, and more than one of the substantial business men of today owe their start to money furnished by Avery.

"Like many other unselfish men, Avery died without means. A year or more ago his mind became enfeebled and his life ended at the Home of the Incurables. His wife died ten years ago. Three sons and a daughter survive him."

A NEW RULE.

Grain Inspectors to Keep Off Boards of Trade.

Hereafter all assistant chief inspectors and deputy inspectors of the Minneapolis branch of the state grain inspection department will have to keep off the trading floor of the chamber of commerce, and though the order has not yet reached Duluth, it is expected that it will also apply to the Duluth examiners of the department in reference to the board of trade.

The order comes from Chief Grain Inspector Marshall, and it has the full approval of the railroad and warehouse commission. It is expected to end a practice that it is said has been embarrassing and that might become dangerous. Chief Inspector Marshall stated yesterday that it was for the best interests of all and would put the inspection bureau on a more independent basis.

The assistant chief inspectors and chief deputies in the Minneapolis inspection bureau have for years made a practice of appearing on 'change every morning. Their intention originally was to watch the results of the daily inspections made in the railroad yards by deputy inspectors. But abuses grew out of the practice. It was found that the wishes and judgment of grain owners were frequently neglected in the decisions made by the former chief deputies. In many instances they have favored the grain dealers, perhaps against their own good judgment. They formed friendships on 'change, and sometimes would give their friends the benefit of a far-fetched doubt. No charges of dishonesty, so far as known, have been made.

Other reforms are under discussion, and it is expected that before long a radical change will be made in the present methods of handling and issuing car seals.

In the grain inspection departments, when a sealer wants some seals, he merely goes to a box and takes a handful. He never accounts for those lost, broken or defective. A car loaded with the highest quality of wheat and sealed in Minneapolis may arrive in Duluth with its seal broken. In the meantime the car might have been run on a siding somewhere and the contents doctored. Another seal could be affixed, as the seals are not counted and recorded. Hereafter sealers must record the use of every seal, whether used, broken, found defective or lost. For every seal unaccounted for he must pay 25 cents.

Escanaba Will Observe Labor Day In an Elaborate Manner.

Escanaba—Labor day is to be given an unusually elaborate observance at Escanaba this year. It will be held under the direction of the Trades' and Labor council. The aldermen and city officers will participate in the parade, which will be a feature of the morning program. The day will be filled out with sports, games and picnics.

Calumet—E. W. Winter, of St. Paul, ex-president of the Northern Pacific railroad system, has been touring the upper peninsula of Michigan in a private car with General Manager Fitch of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway.

Chatham—Leo Geisnar, superintendent of the agricultural experimental station at Chatham, is going to experiment with the growth of potatoes planted in the fall. He has interested Messrs. Fred Greenwood and J. J. Riley, of Schoolcraft county, who will each plant a small patch this fall. Should the fall planting prove successful the farmers will be able to market potatoes about a month earlier than at present. The superintendent is anxious for many farmers in Schoolcraft county to become interested and co-operate with him.

Menominee—The Chatauqua assembly at Marinette is being largely attended by Menominee people, they helping appreciably to swell the crowds on the grounds. It is this general interest on the part of the Michigan people that assures the continued success of the assembly, which could hardly be supported by Marinette alone. The Chatauqua has had a good season and the prospects for its continued popularity are of the brightest.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler is being lionized by Newport society. Recently he was the guest of honor at a dinner party given by Mrs. William Astor. The dinner took place in Beechwood, and was a pretentious affair, the guests numbering twenty-six. It was Mrs. Astor's second entertainment of the season, and the party included many prominent persons, among them being Col. J. J. Astor, who was with Gen. Wheeler at the time of the Santiago campaign.

AT PANAMA.

Traffic Is Unhindered and Predatory Warfare Causes No Alarm.

New York, Aug. 13.—Senor Arturo de Brigard, consul general for Colombia, in this city, has received the following cable dispatch from Acting Governor Aristrides Arjona, of Panama:

"Traffic continues unhindered. Predatory warfare carried on around the railroad has produced no alarm. General situation is satisfactory."

The railroad referred to is that owned by the Panama Railroad company, for the protection of which President J. Edward Simmons has asked this government to send a warship.

Consul General de Brigard characterized as untrue the assertion by the revolutionists that they have 9000 men under arms in the department of Panama.

"It is also untrue," he said, "that the government has done nothing to conciliate the liberals. President Marroquin has issued several decrees guaranteeing freedom.

"The government does not, as has been stated persecute the families of the revolutionists. In fact, the family of Gen. Uribe in Bogota now enjoying the same privileges as mine would were they there."

The steamer Alene has just arrived from Sevenilla and Cartagena. One of her officers said:

"Very little news is permitted to get out, although it is known on the coast that some desperate fighting has recently taken place in the interior."

CLOSES STEADY

Wheat Started Weaker But Stiffened Before the Close.

Lower Cables Practically the Only Bearish Influence.

Large Clearances and Decrease In the World's Visible.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 13.—The wheat market opened lower this morning but before the close stiffened up and closed a shade stronger than yesterday. The situation at the close seemed to be decidedly in favor of the bulls. The cables were not favorable to higher prices this morning, Liverpool showing a decline of ½d for spot wheat and ¼-⅜d for futures. The clearances were very heavy, however, aggregating 1,550,000 bus. Bradstreet reported a decrease of 1,600,000 bus in the world's visible, receipts in the Southwest were reported as decreasing and there was steady buying from the outside. Reports to the effect that France would draw on this country for a large amount of wheat the coming year were also encouraging to the bulls. Primary receipts of wheat aggregated 963,000 bus, last year 1,075,000 bus. Shipments 622,000 bus, last year 763,000 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 262 cars, against 137 last week and 309 last year. Chicago receipts, 405 cars, 84 of contract grade.

Corn was weaker today. Primary receipts aggregated 472,000 bus, last year 431,000 bus. Shipments 148,000 bus, last year, 294,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 64,000 bus. Bradstreet's report of the world's visible showed an increase of 175,000 bus.

Trading in futures was active on the Duluth board. September wheat opened ⅝c off at 72½c, sold at 72⅝c at 9:31, reacted to 72¼c at 9:35, sold up to 72½c at 9:40, eased off to 72¼c at 10:45, recovered to 72⅝@¾c at 11:44, declined to 72⅝c at 11:50, sold at 72¾c at 12:07, at 73 at 12:45 and closed at 73¼c which was yesterday's closing price. Chicago and Minneapolis closed at a very slight advance.

Cash sales were 15,000 bus at ¼c over September for wheat to arrive and ½c over for wheat in store.

September flax was 1c up and October ¼c up. Cash and to arrive were 2c off. Corn was off ¼c and rye ¼c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Lower Cables Had Depressing Effect on Wheat.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Lower cables had a depressing effect on the wheat market today, and the opening was quiet and lower. Traders appeared disposed to hold off in view of the uncertainty regarding conditions affecting the market. Outsiders bought sparingly and their wants were readily supplied by locals. The Illinois state report, sowing a yield of 31,000,000 bus, the largest crop since 1894, was a weakening factor. September opened ⅝@⅝c lower at 73⅛c to 73⅝c, rallied to 73⅞c on covering and dropped back to 73½c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 262 cars against 137 last week and 309 a year ago. Local receipts were 405 cars, 84 of contract grade.

Dullness prevailed throughout the latter part of the session, and the close was a shade lower at 73⅝@¾c.

On increased receipts and in sympathy with wheat, corn opened a shade lower. Trade was small. September opened a shade to ½@⅝c lower at 59½c to 60c, advanced to 60¼c on covering and eased off to 60c. Local receipts 169 cars, 2 contract.

On selling by local bulls the price declined to 59½c, but reacted and closed ¼c lower, at 59¾@⅞c.

There was a very light trade in oats and the opening was lower in sympathy with other grains. September opened ⅛c lower at 36⅝c but later advanced to 36⅞c. Receipts were 608 cars.

Provisions opened steady under light trade, and prices were practically unchanged. September pork opened at $14.05, lard $8.77½ and ribs $7.90, a loss of 5c on the latter.

Close: Wheat—August, 73c; September, 73⅝@¾c; October, 74⅝c; December, 75⅞@76c; May, 79⅝c. Corn—August, 58¾c; September, 59¾@⅞; October, 60½c; December, 62⅛@¼c. GRAIN GOSSIP.

Grand Forks—There was a heavy rain and hail storm yesterday afternoon starting at Larimore, and turning south to Blanchard, where there was considerable damage. No details as yet only from passengers on the evening trains who said the damage would be heavy not only from hail, but from heavy wind and rain that fell in torrents. Reports from Thief River, Minn., late last night indicate that the same storm traveled in that direction and probably the damage was heavy.

• • •

New York—The Herald says: "France will have to import during the coming year 56,000,000 bus of wheat, according to the report received at the state department from United States Consul General Skinner at Marseilles. As shortages have been reported in several of the Russian wheat districts the prospects are good for good foreign demand for American wheat and remunerative prices."

• • •

Chicago—Charles E. Lewis says: "The people who bought wheat yesterday are standing pat this morning and say that the market will take care of itself. They say the country at large does not fully realize what the damage to our corn and potatoe crop means and when they do prices will advance rapidly.

• • •

Chicago—Last year at this time every miller in the country had all the wheat he could stock up against a day of anticipated exhaustion. Minneapolis millers had their agents in Kansas and Nebraska shipping the grain to them and comparatively little of primary receipts reached the seaboard. Now millers are not stocking up, but the seaboard is getting the receipts three times as much as a year ago, and the grain is being exported instead of being in the mill warehouses. This is one of the strong bull factors, but heretofore unmentioned.

• • •

A Washington special sayes that farmers of the United States who have large crops of wheat undoubtedly have a bright season before them as the partial failure of the corn crop will make a larger demand for wheat and in addition to this France, which has not imported any wheat for three years, will require nearly 60,000,000 bus because of the shortage in its wheat crop.

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Wheat—Liverpool closed a farthing lower for the day on wheat. Our market opened weak in sympathy with the decline on the other side, but has ruled very steady all day, closing at about the highest price. A great many reports are coming from the Northwest of disappointing returns from the threshers and the feeling is growing that wheat is the only surplus grain crop we have and will be sold at a low price. The clearances were heavy. We believe that wheat is a safe purchase on all soft spots.

Corn—Liverpool closed ⅛d higher and their cables not very good c. i. f. demand and light offerings. We believe that the exporters will be taking corn from this market inside of a month. Today the New England demand has been much better than it has been any day for two months past. They have evidently made up their minds that they will have to buy this corn on basis of present prices. As there are no stocks anywhere in the East, we look for the demand for our cash corn to improve from now on. While we lok for a fluctuating market, we would not be surprised if it breaks a cent or 2c a bus. We believe there is a large profit in buying corn on weak spots and holding it.

Oats have been very strong all day and closed at the highest point. While receipts continue good, the Eastern demand is increasing every day and they were large buyers in this market today of cash oats. We believe oats are cheap as compared with corn and believing as we do that corn is going to sel higher, we advise the purchase of oats on all recessions.

In provisions two important features developed. A considerable broadening of the market and extensive purchases of ribs by the packing interests already identified with the long side. After the first flurry occasioned by the drop in grain, brokers absorbed all offerings of ribs and the tone was very firm throughout. Pork and lard neglected. Cash demand reported as improving. Estimate, 36,000 hogs for tomorrow.

SYMPATHY FOR WHITE.

Emperor William Condoles With American Ambassador.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The correspondent of the Associated Press learns that Ambassador White's return here for the funeral was upon the specia linvitation of Emperor William. After the services at the mausoleum, Mr. White was about to withdraw with the other ambassadors, when the emperor sent for him and expressed his warmest sympathy with him in his recent affliction.

A memorial service for the late Dowager Empress Frederick was held here today in the English church, which was built through her assistance. Prominent members of the Anglo-American colony were present. Mr. White's stay in the United States will be only two weeks.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Monday's Late Rise Was Continued at the Opening.

Market Depressed By Profit-Taking But Quickly Rallied.

Steel Stocks Hung Back But Ended With Small Gains.

New York, Aug. 13.—A continuation of yesterday's late rise continued in the stock market and feeling was assisted by the advance in London. St. Paul led the railroad group with a rise of 1⅛. United States Steel stocks were advanced ½ for the preferred and ⅝ for the common, the latter selling from 43¾ to 44 on purchases of 5000 shares. Union Pacific was dealt in for 4000 shares simultaneously at from 96¼@½, compared with 95⅝, last night's close. Sugar opened unchanged, but soon ran off 1¼ without influencing the general market.

Profit taking depressed the market slightly, but there was a general rally later to above opening prices. The rise started in the Eastern trunk line stocks, but later extended to the grain carrying roads and St. Paul rose 2⅛. The United States Steel stocks moved narrowly and irregular. The preferred got up to 93⅜, but the common ruled under 44 Sugar lost two points and rallied one. Stocks yielded again when St. Paul reacted a point. Bituminous coal road stocks then came into general demand and Norfolk & Western crossed 53. The market otherwise was dull and steadier at noon. United States Steel stocks were quiet and did not vary much. Bonds were firm.

Western and Pacific stocks weakened and the latter group lost all of their earlier gains. Industrials also declined in sympathy with selling of Sugar and People's Gas. The United States Steel stocks fell ½ each from the hihest. Prices were rising again at 1 o'clock. A large demand arose for Pennsylvania, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio, which rose from 1⅜ to 3¼ with New York Central leading. This strength encouraged the bulls to bid up the grain-carrying roads and they reached the best prices of the day. St. Paul and Atchison advanced over 2 points. The United States Steel stocks did not sympathize with the movement and ruled at the lowest. The market became very dull toward 2 o'clock and eased off.

St. Paul was taken in hand again in the closing hour and carried about 3 points above yesterday's final price. Other grain carrying roads showed improvement and there was an advance of International Paper and Union Bag of 2@2½. The Steel stocks continued to hang back but ended with small gains. The closing was quiet and strong.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf gossip to Edwards, Wood & Co.—Although an effort was made to emphasize the fact that the market did not experience any special decline today as a result of the government report, it is still believed and pointed out by many that the crop report was a wet blanket on the market and the crop conditions will undoubtedly have a similar effect for some time to come. The reports of conditions of crops given out by several of the larger grain-carrying roads made a more favorable showing than that given in the government report, but it seemed to be the opinion of close interests that the government figures come the nearest to the true conditions regarding the crop damages. The reason that the granger stocks did not suffer a marked decline was said to be because these issues are largely held by strong interests and that as soon as a disposition to sell on the part of outsiders develops liberal support is given. This is said to have been particularly noticeable in Missouri Pacific for some weeks past. The opinion is held that stocks are selling too high and that if there is any decided movement in the market within the next few weeks that it will be downward and not upward. The heavy selling of Sugar while attributed principally to a well known Wall street operator it is said, however, to represent the opinion of a considerable number that the stock is to sell much above its intrinsic value, and that in spite of reports that the company is doing a large business the stocks is scheduled for a material decline.

• • •

Town Topics.—The speculative position is stronger as a result of the practical defeat of the steel strikers and by the removal of the uncertainty regarding the extent of the damage to the corn crop. There is a large amount of stock being offered. The banking interests are bullish although not in the market. The steel strike is expected to fizzle out before the end of the week and we look for a better and higher market.

• • •

Ridgley to A. R. Jones & Co.—The market will continue very dull, therefore be careful about selling it short. The Herald calls the corn report a "national calamity." The market will continue to buy on little breaks and a sale on rallies. The bank reserves are not in very good shape, but by next Saturday the tendency of money will be clearer.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Aug. 13.—Cotton opened easy with prices 7 to 8 points lower under liquidation. There was a feeble rally soon after the call on covering, but no new business came in and prices once more turned downward. Good rains in Central and Northern Texas were chiefly responsible for the decline. October eased to 720, January to 726.

Cotton spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 8c; middling gulf, 8¼c; sales, 759 bales. Cotton futures closed quiet and steady. August, 7.11; September, 7.14; October, 7.23; November, 7.24; December, 7.25; January, 7.27; February, 7.27; March, 7.30; April, 7.32.

New York, Aug. 13.—Money on call nominally, 2@2½ per cent. Prime mercantile, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.87¾@$4.88 for demand, and $4.85¼@½ for 60 days. Posted rates, $4.86@½ and $4.88½@$4.89. Commercial bills, $4.84½@$5.00. SATISFIED

Many of the strikers assembled about the tube works at McKeesort today and trouble is feared there. They are doing missionary work among the men still at work and intercept them at every opportunity. A wave of unionism has swept over McKeesport and bids fair to include men of several callings. The painters met last night and formed a union. It is announced that over 100 joined the lodge and that many more have declared themselves ready to join at the next meeting. It is thought that by the end of the week, all of the bartenders, teamsters, painters and carpenters in McKeesport will have joined one of the various labor organizations. A call has been issued for a meeting for the organization of a senate of labor in McKeesport Thursday evening. The object will be to combine all of the labor organizations in McKeesport under one general advisory board. It is reported that the McKeesport lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will also take a hand in the strike. They will decide on a line of action at a meeting this week.

President Shaffer was not prepared to make a statement as to the number of men affected by the strike and will not give one out until he is more fully informed. He would not talk on the refusal of the Federal Steel company employs to enter the general strike. It was expected some representatives of the Western lodges, who turned down the order to quit work would come to headquarters with an explanation of the action taken, but none came. Secretary Williams says the call for financial aid, sent out yesterday, already is meeting with responses. Many checks were received here this morning.

NEWS OF THE LAKES

Lively Scramble For Tonnage Expected For End of Season.

The Grain Shippers Have Already Secured Considerable Contracts.

One Dollar Ore Not Improbable Before Middle of September.

There is said to be a strong undercurrent locally, and reports from the lower lake ports seem to confirm indications of a lively scramble for tonnage during the closing months of the season, and it is said that this hustling is just beginning to be felt. It is pretty well known by this time that the grain shippers have been on the still hunt for boats for some time past and have succeeded, on the quiet, in securing considerable tonnage. Marine men say the indications are that unless something unforseen happens in the ore trade, such as the spread of the steel strike to the mines, there will be a general stiffening up of the situation about the middle of next month, when all trades begin to think of getting every available bit of their freight moved, and when the time for filling contracts has become limited so that it is imperative that they should begin to get their business moving.

The grain shippers are said to have been hustling and looking far ahead and it is to be taken from their actions that tonnage will be scarcer during the last two months of navigation than it is now. They are said to be making arrangements to carry a large amount of grain which will be handled this fall.

Boats have been chartered from Oct. 1 until the end of the season of navigation at 3 cents, which is equivalent to about $1.15 on ore. Only Tuesday last a contract to ship 1,000,000 bushels beginning Oct. 1, was closed at this figure and it is said that there are instances of other similar transactions.

Information from maritime circles says that comparatively little coal has been shipped up the lakes, when it is taken into consideration with the amount shipped in other years. This, they claim, means that the coal men will have to hustle to finish at the close. It has been conceded that all the ore that has been taken down the lakes can be used and that there will be a shortage even at that. All three trades, ore, coal and grain, are said to be strong bidders for tonnage that has not already been covered.

One prominent marine man, one who controls several boats, is quoted as not being surprised to see $1 ore by Sept. 15, but he does not think grain rates will go above 3½ cents.

NEW BOAT LINE.

Syracuse Company Will Build a Large Fleet.

The organization of a new lake transportation fleet was accomplished yesterday in Syracuse, N. Y., and the beginning of next season will see the new vessels of the company in operation. An Associated Press dispatch from Syracuse, telling of the organization of the company, says that it will be a $2,500,000 corporation and will be known as the National Transportation company. Contracts for the fleet of vessels have been let to the American Shipbuilding company and they are to have a capacity of 27,000 tons. The contract calls for their completion on March 15, 1902. The builders of the vessels have plants in Cleveland, Duluth and at other points along the great lakes.

Lyman C. Smith, of Syracuse, is to be president of the company, with Capt. W. W. Brown, of Cleveland, as secretary and H. W. Smith, of Syracuse, as treasurer. The following are directors: L. C. Smith, William Nottingham, Charles M. Warner, George B. Leonard, H. A. Smith, Horace S. Wilkinson, of Syracuse; W. W. Brown and J. B. Coyle, of Cleveland, and Dr. A. G. Brower, of Utica.

Chicago, Duluth and intermediate points will be the ports visited. A number of the stockholders are interested in the Globe Navigation company that a few months ago organized a big company to operate similar vessels on the Pacific coast.

THE ORE RATE.

Cleveland, Aug. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore shippers could reduce the Escanaba rate if they thought advisable to do so, but some of them are interested in coal and they fear the effect of driving more vessels from the Lake Michigan trade.

RATE WOULD BE LOWER.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—If shippers had any corn to offer vessel owners today the rate would be 1 cent a bushel. A small lot of oats was on the market at ⅞ cent, but up to noon had not been taken.

EARLY LAKE CRAFT.

Samuel Kirby, of New York has contributed to the current number of the Marine Review an article on the first screw propellers on the lakes, which contains data of great importance and value. Samuel Kirby resides in New York and is referred to as the father of the Kirbys, who are so well-known in shipbuilding circles. His letter is illustrated with a number of pen drawings by himself, which give added value to the matter published. Mr. Kirby says the Vandalia, built in 1839, was the first boat to be equipped with the screw propeller on the great lakes. She was originally intended for a sailing vessel, but was changed to a propeller before she was launched. Her dimensions were 95 feet over all, 80 feet keel, 19½ beam, 10 feet molded depth.

Relating his first experience aboard a screw propeller, the Chicago, Mr. Kirby tells of reaching Milwaukee in the fall of 1846, where a load of 4000 bushels of wheat at 24 cents a bushel, twenty tons of pig lead, a dozen casks of potash at equally good prices was taken aboard for Buffalo. The ship burned wood, twenty-five to thirty cords being taken aboard at one time. It was loaded on the upper deck from end to end of the ship and the watch on deck was repaired to pass the fuel below to the firemen. This occupied nearly all the time on deck, one man steering and all the others amusing themselves handling wood. He says coal was not used until 1852, and then not generally until 1857 or 1858.

Mr. Kirby also describes the brig Ramsey Crooks of the American Fur company, built in 1836. She traded between Detroit and the Soo and he spent two years aboard her in 1843 and 1844.

Pen pictures of the screws of early days show that there was little essential difference in those of that time and the propellers of today. Instead of four blades, however, the screw was composed of six blades rivited to a drum and resembling more a screw than the modern propeller. Besides the six blades attached to the outside of the drum, shaped much like an ordinary belt pulley, the inside of the drum was fitted with three smaller blades. A greater relative surface was thus presented to the water by the old wheel.

WHY IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST ?

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY—
It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN—
It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

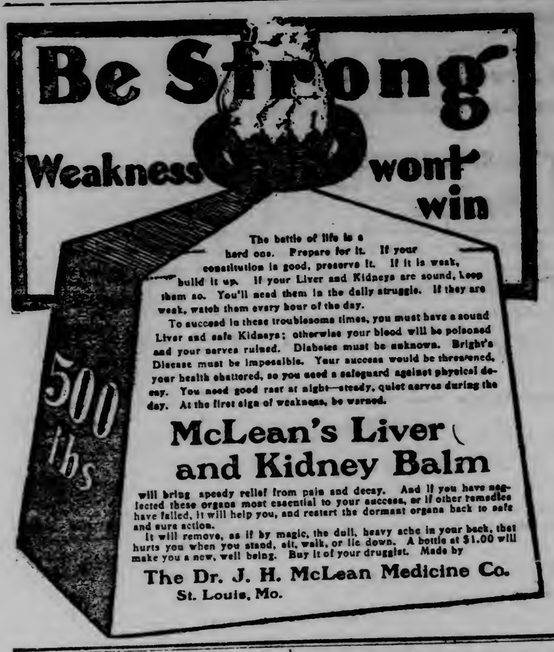

SAFE—
As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP—
By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

AT CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An addition is being built to the Lincoln school. Provision is being made this year to accommodate about 250 additional scholars, and the problem of "overcrowded" rooms is not yet solved.

Two box cars were derailed i nthe yards while making a flying switch, on Saturday afternoon. After leaving the track they bumped along on the ties for a little distance, and then turned over, effectually blocking the right-of-way for two or three hours. It took a large crew of men and some hard work to get things in running order again.

A meeting of the school board was held Monday evening to elect teachers to fill existing vacancies.

The library board will hold a meeting this evening, in the temporary quarters, to consider plans submitted by the architect.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. McCullough returned from Buffalo, N. Y., Sunday morning.

John Long returned home from northern latitudes on Sunday.

Word comes from George D. Muggah, ex-postmaster, that he hopes to return to Cloquet at an early date. At present he is attending to personal business matters in Sydney, Cape Breton.

The plat of Wilson's addition to Cloquet has been filed with the register of deeds.

A cute trick was played last week by two Indians on a berry buyer of the Jewish persuasion, who lives at Carlton. They persuaded him to advance some $47 to buy berries, and then having made the purchase, turned the berries over to other buyers. In the meantime, they induced him to go on the reservation and see if he could not buy berries on his own account, and when he demanded his money back, or its worth, threatened to lay information that he had been trading on the reservation without a permit.

DROWNED IN MILK.

Peculiar Death of an Arcadia Infant.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 13.—Louise, the 1½-year-old daughter of George Schmidt, residing near Arcadia, was drowned yesterday in a large can of milk, while at play in the milk house. The child had been playing about in the yard and when it was missed search was made. No trace of the little one could be found. Finally its mother went into the milk house and began to dip out milk. In one of the tanks she found what she thought to be a bit of cloth, but upon investigation discovered it was part of her child's clothing. The body lay at the bottom of the tank and life was extinct when it was taken out.

Lambert is alleged to have insulted a woman whereupon Gardener seized a spade and peeled a large piece of the man's scalp from his skull and inflicted injuries to the carnium which will probably result fatally.

In view of the interest taken in the question of whether or not animal tuberculosis can be communicated to human beings, T. L. Monson, state dairy commissioner of Colorado, offered himself as a subject for a thorough test of the matter, provided a suitable annuity for his family is assured in case of fatal results. Mr. Monson has made a study of the matter and is a strong believer in Dr. Koch's theory.

Schlitz

The beer that made Milwaukee famous

You drink some beers that cause bilious headache. Perhaps you think that all beers do.

The cause of biliousness is the lack of age—too much haste to put the beer on the market. To ferment beer thoroughly requires a process of months. Without it the fermentation takes place in your stomach. That is the cause of biliousness.

Hurried beer is unhealthful. Schlitz beer is kept for months in refrigerating rooms with a capacity of 265,000 barrels—kept almost at freezing point until it is well fermented. Schlitz beer is never marketed until thoroughly aged.

TO BEGIN PRACTICE

High School Football Athletes to Commence This Week.

Expect to Get Dr. Park For Coach This Season.

Enthusiasm Runs High and Fine Team Is Looked For.

And now the athletes of the gridiron will hold full sway in Duluth for the next four months. The pigskin will begin to revolve Thursday afternoon, while arnica, witchhazel and court plaster will be obtainable in wholesale quantities at all of the prominent drug stores Thursday evening.

Commencing Thursday afternoon the high school athletes will commence football practice on Mendenhall's field across from the high school. For the first three days light practice will be indulged in; the heavier work to begin the following week. A football meeting has been called by Summer Smith, the president of the Athletic association, for Tuesday evening, Aug. 20, at the high school, when the ways and means of raising money for expenses will be discussed. A full attendance of all the old and new players are requested to be present.

Although there is not quite such good material to work on this year as before, the football prospects are especially bright, and a championship season is looked forward to by those interested. Last year's team was the first successful team that Duluth has had since '95, and had the weather been more favorable there is no doubt that there would have been sufficient funds in the treasury to enable the '01 team to start off with a clear future. As it is the money question is about the only one that bothers the high school boys. Seven of the old players will be back in the team with the goods this year and there are a number of the second team of last year who will be ready for the harder work this season.

Dr. J. D. Park will undoubtedly be the coach this season, although nothing refinite has been arranged. It is doubtful if any other man could possibly be secured that can do as much for the boys as Dr. Park can. All of the boys in the high school swear by him, and he can get about twice as much work out of them as they could do alone. With Dr. Park for coach the boys believe there is no reason in the world why the Duluth Central High school should not have a team that would even eclipse the record of the '00 aggregation. The matter of the coach will be brought up at the meeting Tuesday.

There has been very little concentrated football agitation here this year, but when the Athletic association does get to work it will be with a vim and vigor that promises to carry all obstacles before it. Duluth was worked up to a very respectable football enthusiasm last year, and for this reason the management of this year's team will have fewer difficulties to contend with.

The election of officers for the Athletic association was held at the close of the school term. They are as follows: President, Summer Smith, '02; vice president, Edward Congdon, '02; secretary, Joseph Harrison, '03; treasurer, Jim Richards, '03; recorder, Marshall Allworth, '03; sergeants-at-arms, George Fredin, '03; Miller McDougall, '03.

Professor Hutchinson is the manager of the football team and Fred Mallet is the captain. Mallet is in the class of '03 and was the star half back of last year's team. He is an exceptionally fast and hard player, and is one of the most popular men in the high school.

Thrilling Experience In the Woods In Wisconsin.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 13.—Joseph Lancour reports a thrilling experience he had with several bears in the woods while returning from Miller's dam, thirty-eight miles north of Boyd, in this county. There is a tract of timber twenty miles long through which no road has been cut. Through this forest Mr. Lancour traveled without road or guidance. In the center of the forest, he says, he was attacked by bears, and it was with difficulty that he escaped. He had no weapon, but after the first attack procured a bludgeon, and it was well he did so, for he had occasion to use it before he reached a habitation. At one time three bears chased him for more than a mile, but he succeeded in beating them off until he could reach a clearing in which was a small sapling. He climbed to the top and for several hours the hungry beasts remained in the vicinity, waiting to taste his blood. When night came on Lancour stole stealthily through the woods, traveling for many hours. Darkness made it impossible for him to follow his line and he did not arrive at Boyd until midnight Saturday night.

INDIAN TIMBER.

Agent Farr Proposes a Compromise Settlement.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Special Agent Farr has reported to Commissioner Jones a compromise proposition for the settlement of the government's claim against the Scanlon-Gipson and Cass Lake lumber companies for green timber cut in their camps last winter. Farr has been in Cass Lake and these camps for a month or more with representatives of the companies reinspecting the green timber with a view to arriving at some oasis of settlement satisfactory to the government and the companies, and has just concluded his labors.

Commissioner Jones has not gone into the report to see just what the compromise is, but the main proposition appears to be settlement for the white pine, at the rate of $11 a thousand feet instead of $12, the prices first demanded by Farr. The proposition for settlement is subject to approval by the commissioner. If it is accepted, it will mean a loss of several thousand dollars to the Indians, but it is said the price is higher than could be obtained if the logs were segregated and sold at public sale.

WILL ULTIMATELY YIELD.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—The Cologne Gazette's St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that Japan persists in her demands for the concession of 800,000 square metres upon the island of Mas-San-Pho, adjoining the Russian concession. The Corean government, stiffened by Russia, the correspondent says, has thus far declined to accede to the demand, but it is expected that it will ultimately yield to Japanese pressure.

CONSOLIDATION

Of Passenger Association to Be Effected.

New York, Aug. 13.—Says the Times: An attempt will be made to consolidate the South-western, the Western and the Trans-Continental Passenger associations. The reason assigned for such action is that through the financial re-arrangement of the ownership of the various lines comprising these associations, the existence of so many bodies, composed particularly of the same men, involves an unnecessary expense. By consolidating these associations a material saving could be effected. Another reason is stated to be the easier settlement of disputes, rate matters and other affairs by on association than could be accomplished by two or more covering partly the same ground. It is understood that the higher traffic officials favor this plan.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Governor Odell has the New York city police situation under consideration, but has not reached any determination as to what action he may take. In an interview he said:

"I have not come to this city to confer with the attorney general or any other person, relative to the pool room matter. No conclusion has been reached by me as to what may be done in the police situation. I have not decided to call a special grand jury to consider the matter."

I tried a great many different times to get relief, but no medicine I could find gave me any material benefit. It was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procured a box at W. A. Abbett's Drug store and used it. I obtained relief right away and since then I have never had them fail to relieve me promptly whenever I had a slight recurrence say from catching cold or straining myself."

CODE OF SIGNALS

At Cienfuego Was Not Given to Admiral Schley.

Justified In Remaining There Until He Was Satisfied

That the Spanish Fleet Was Not In the Harbor.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Admiral Schley is said to possess information which it is stated will justify him before the court of inquiry for his delay at Cienfuegos during the war with Spain.

He will show that he left Cienfuegos for Santiago the moment he was convinced that the Spanish fleet was not in the former harbor. An examination of the logs of the Marblehead, Brooklyn and Iowa has already developed information which, in the opinion of his friends, entirely justified him in the course he pursued. The flying squadron, in obedience to instructions from Admiral Sampson, got under way at 8:20 a. m. on May 19, for Cienfuegos, where it was generally believed the Spanish squadron would take refuge. A few hours after the flying squadron left, the Marblehead, Eagle and Vixen arrived at Key West direct from Cienfuegos, and Capt. McCalla, of the Marblehead, reported to Admiral Sampson that he had arranged a code of signals with the Cubans and had fixed a rendezvous on the shore where they could be communicated with, and where information could be exchanged. Admiral Sampson directed this information to be communicated to the commander of the vessels of the fleet, and it was given to all then at Key West, including Capt. Evans, of the Iowa.

At this time Admiral Schley, with the flying squadron, was on his way to Cienfuegos May 21, 22 or 23. Capt. Evans supposed that Admiral Schley had the signal code, and did not communicate it to him, and it was not until the next day when Capt. McCalla joined the flying squadron, with the Marblehead, Eagle and Vixen, that Admiral Schley knew of the code. Capt. McCalla upon his arrival communicated with the insurgents and ascertained that the Spanish squadron was not in the harbor. As Admiral Schley had been directed by Admiral Sampson to mask his real direction upon his departure, he waited until after dark, when he steamed for Santiago.

It will be contended by Admiral Schley that he was justified in remaining at Cienfuegos until he had definitely established whether the Spanish fleet was in that harbor, and that under instructions given him he was required to obtain exact information before he sailed for Santiago de Cuba. To have left that point for Santiago, when the Spaniards might have given out information showing that Cervera's squadron was at that point as a ruse, would have been, in his opinion, grave error of judgment.

A PROFITABLE MINE.

Two Men Are Taking Out $14,000 Daily.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 13.—Fourteen thousand dollars' worth every day in a week is what the two Finch brothers are getting. They own a little gold mine in Norwegian gulch, near Norris, in Madison county, which is fast making them rich men.

The mine consists of a little vein of gold-bearing quartz, between five and seven inches wide. No complicated machinery is needed to work this mine. The two brothers extract the ore and crush it in a little hand motor and then wash it in a common gold-washing pan.

Every day for the last week they have cleaned up about $14,000 a day, and still there is no sign of a let up in the production of their mine. A few days ago a third brother, who originally owned a third interest in the mine, fell sick and disposed of his interest for $15,000 cash, as he had to seek a change in climate.

IN THE RAPIDS.

Party Drowned on Board Private Yacht.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 13—Charles White, James Whitney and Edgar Lane were drowned in the Galoups rapids yesterday afternoon by the sinking of the private yacht Rhea. Whitney, who was the owner of the yacht, had as guests on board the boat Lane and and White, Hugh Raney, the Misses Whitney and the Misses McPherson.

The four ladies and Mr. Raney got out at the head of the lock to walk to the foot of the rapids. The other three men remained on board the yacht, which, after passing the first swell of the rapids, entered what is known as "The Cellar" and disappeared, carrying the three men down with her. The bodies have not been recovered. All of the parties resided at Prescott.

Died.

At 8:30 last evening Alfred, the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jutin, of No. 428 Seventh avenue east, died and left a home overshadowed with pain and sorrow. The little child was enjoying the best of health on Sunday, but was suddenly stricken yesterday morning. The funeral will occur from the home of the deceased at 2 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 14. The Rev. J. E. Krantz will officiate. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends.

QUIET AT PANAMA

Guerrilla Bands Thereabouts Are Causing No Uneasiness.

Withdrawal of Colombian Minister Is Not Understood.

The Machias Will Sail For Panama Very Soon.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Mr. Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires at Washington, received a letter today from the Colombian consul general at New York, stating that the latter has just received a cablegram from the acting governor of Panama saying that the guerilla bands thereabouts are causing no uneasiness. The governor, according to recent advices, has gone to Cartagena for soldiers and supplies. Other than this Mr. Herran's official mail from Colombia, which reached him today, gave no information on the situation in South America. In the absence of official advices, the only construction which the Colombian legation can place upon the reported withdrawal of the Colombian minister, Senor Rico, and his legation staff, from Caracas is that, having found his position in the Venezuelan capital unbearable, perhaps threatened by mob violence, he has left for the Colombia capital, where he can better co-operate with the officials than through the medium of telegraphic or mail correspondence.

Mr. Pulido, the Venezuelan charge, arrived in Washington last night from a summer resort, but he, too, states that he has received absolutely no advices from his government. Both of these officials feel sure that unless there is an interruption in their respective lines of communication, they would be immediately advised if the situation had assumed the aspect of actual war between the two countries. The state department received no telegraphic reports from either country today, and knows nothing of the reported departure of the Colombian minister from Willemstad. The department, however, has received mail advices from Minister Hart at Bogota, Colombia, giving a general resume of the trouble and the view taken in official quarters as to the uprising.

Lieut. Commander Nathan Sargent will remain in command of the Machias, which is expected to sail for Panama in a day or two. Much reliance is placed upon the tact and good judgment of this officer by the navy and state departments. He was in command of the Scorpion at Lagura during the trouble in Venezuela some time ago and acquitted himself with much credit. He is thoroughly familiar with South American affairs.

Minister Hart's letter to the state department is dated July 8, and reports the arrest and imprisonment of prominent friends of Dr. Sanclenete, the former president of Colombia, as they were suspected by the ruling government of joining in the revolutionary movement with the Liberals.

J. P. Morgan is still absent from the city. Inquiry today as to his movements was met with the reply that he is still at Newport and that he has not intimated the date of his return. The report that he may go West to meet his daughter now in Colorado is news to those who profess to be close to Mr. Morgan. One of his friends said: "If he does it will not be for several weeks in my opinion."

IN FOUR AND HALF DAYS

English Parliament Grants Permission to Build Piers In Ireland For Rapid Line Steamers to United States.

London, Aug. 14.—The house of lords took an unusual step this morning in suspending the sessional order with the object of passing on its second reading the bill granting special powers to build a pier and other works at Beresaven, Ireland, in connection with the proposed fast steamship line from Berehaven to the United States, by which it is hoped the voyage will be accomplished in four and one-half days. The bill had already passed the house of commons.

Lord James of Hereford remarked that such important interests were concerned that the government desired to pass the bill at the present session. Lord James added that the promoters desired to construct harbor works, with the object of inaugurating a line of steamers to the United States. The steamers will be built in Great Britain and will accomplish the voyage in four and a half days. The assent of the admiralty officials, who are constructing naval works at Berehaven, have been given for the building of the proposed works on the foreshore.

NOT LARCENY

When Man Gives a Check and Draws Out Money.

New York, Aug. 14.—Justice O'Gorman in a decision just rendered, holds that the delivery of a check on a bank does not constitute an assignment of the funds in the bank of the drawer of the check and that a person withdrawing the amount of his credit in the bank by a second check prior to the payment of the first check does not commit larceny. The case was that of Dr. Adam H. Straub, who was arrested on a charge of grand larceny in proceedings growing out of the Northern Pacific corner and instituted against him by the firm of Schalk, Ward & Warner, brokers. He was held by a magistrate to await the action of the grand jury, but appealed to the supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus and was discharged from custody.

DRAMATIST ILL.

New York, Aug. 14.—Lorimer Stoddard, dramatist and actor, is reported to be seriously ill and in a critical condition in a sanitarium at Liberty, N. Y. His dramatizations of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," "In the Palace of the King" and "Napoleon Bonaparte" are well known to the public. He is a son of Richard Henry Stoddard.

COLUMBIA.

Manager Morgan Considers Her Better Than Constitution.

New York, Aug. 14.—In view of the conflicting opinions among yachtsmen as to the respective merits of the Columbia and the Constitution as defenders of the America's cup, an interesting, even significant, statement comes from Newport to the effect that E. J. Morgan, manager of the Columbia, pins his faith in the old boat. In a special to the Herald it is stated that Mr. Morgan has been making overtures to purchase the old cup defender, his intention being to race her against the Shamrock II.

HAVE RESUMED WORK.

Pueblo, Col., Aug. 14.—About twenty-five structural iron workers here in the employ of the American Bridge company who struck when the steel workers' strike began in the East, have resumed work. The strikes of iron moulders and union bricklayers at the Pueblo Steel works are still on, but have no connection with the Eastern strike. A number of non-union bricklayers are working.

FINNISH RECRUITS.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 14.—The number of Finnish recruits, under the new system, has been fixed, preliminarily, at 560.

BOTH GAIN

Strikers Close the National Tube Works.

Combine Starts Painter and Crescent Mills.

Pittsburg, Aug. 14.—Rumors of a settlement of the strike are again being revived, but confirmation of them at any source is impossible. It is related circumstantially that the Amalgamated knows it cannot win; that the United States Steel corporation fears the loss of both skilled men and orders to the independent mills, and that they are close to terms which will be satisfactory to both.

Pittsburg, Aug. 14.—Both sides made material gains today in the great strike being waged against the United States Steel corporation by the Amalgamated association. The remaining force at the plant of the National Tube works at McKeesport joined the strikers and that great plant is now practically silent. The strikers also made some gains among the men at the lower union mill of the Carnegie company in Pittsburg, but there is a direct conflict in the claims made by either side as to the exact condition of that plant. The strikers say that they will force it to close down, while the managers insist that they have not been hurt and that the plant will be kept moving.

The material gains of the manufacturers were at the Painter mill in this city and the Crescent mill of the American Tinplate company, Cleveland. At the former a surprise was sprung on the strikers and two mills, one with a crew of old employes, who struck on the first order, were working before it was known that any such move was contemplated. It is asserted that another crew will be put on shortly and the managers assert that many of their old men will come back. There was no disorder at the mill today and it is said that the old employes will not do picket duty for fear of being blacklisted in the future. The American Tiplate officials say that they have half the mills in the Crescent plant moving. They gave a reporter of the Associated Press the following official statement today:

"As the result of the attempt of the American Tinplate company to start its Crescent works at Cleveland in twenty-four hours, half the mills were put in successful operation, manned largely by former workmen who have seceded from the Amalgamated association, stating their belief that the officers of the association have done wrong in violating their written agreement with the company. The start at Cleveland having succeeded, the company will, in a short time, make a similar move elsewhere."

The situation today can be generally summarized as follows:

In round numbers the last strike order by President Shaffer has been obeyed by 20,000 men, and the total number of men who struck or were rendered idle by all three orders is now placed at 65,000 men. The manufacturers continue to hold their ground at Chicago, Joliet, Bay View, Youngstown, Columbus, the Kisminnetas valley and in all the Carnegie plants, except the Lower union mill in Pittsburg. In the latter the strikers have made some gains, but the general result there is still in doubt. The steel managers also count the refusal of the furnace men of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys to strike as a victory.

The steel corporation also scored today in reopening two mills at the Painter plant in Pittsburg, and in forcing the opening of the crescent tinplate at Cleveland. The strikers scored heavily at McKeesport today, when nearly 3000 men and boys employed by the National Tube company joined the forces of the strikers and tied up the plant. They claim to have further extended their organization among the men of the Carnegie mills in this city, and say that before the end of the week they will have the works stopped. They also expect to completely close down everything in the Wheeling district, and assert that the last man will go out, after the mass meeting to be addressed today by President Shaffer. The strikers are also completely in control at Bellaire and Mingo Junction. Good order still rules.

President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association left for Wheeling, where a large union demonstration was held at the state fair grounds at 9:30 this morning. He went alone and made no statement as to the situation or his plans. His departure left the strike headquarters in charge of Secretary Williams, who is engaged in pushing the scheme for financial aid, and said that the strikers are getting liberal contributions.

Apparently no action has been taken with respect to the Western men who refused to go out.

WILL HAVE GOOD EFFECT

French Warship Will Undoubtedly Have a Salutary Influence Over the Combatants at the Isthmus.

Washington, Aug. 14.—No important developments in the Columbia-Venezuela situation were received at the state department during the early part of today, and the reported death of Gen. Uribe-Uribe could not be confirmed in any official quarter. It is expected that the Machias will complete her coaling and taking on of ammunition by tonight, and will be off for Panama by tomorrow morning.

In this connection it has been noted that the French warship Suchet already has arrived at Colon. Although the French are understood to have considerable property on the Isthmus, it is thought that there is no provision in the treaty between France and Colombia, similar to that between France and the United States, requiring that free transit shall be kept open. However, it is not doubted that the presence of the ship will have a salutary influence in quieting disorder. The statements made in the French press, to the effect that the incident might lead to an American acquisition in that quarter, receive no attention or credence in the best posted official circles.

SURROUNDED BY MILITIA

Bank Robbers Corraled In the Woods and the Ohio National Guard Called Out to Capture Them.

Millersburg, Ohio, Aug. 14.—An attempt was made to rob the James D. Adams bank here early today. The robbers are now surrounded by militiamen in a strip of woods fifteen miles west. Dal Shoup, who lives next door to the bank, heard the burglars at work. Hastily sumoning assistance, he prepared to give battle.

A picket had noted the alarm and the bandits took flight in two carriages stolen from a farmer. They were located during the morning and a part of Company I, Eighth Ohio National Guard, has gone to the scene to assist in their capture. They are now surrounded and a battle is possible.

FORESTERS.

Annual Convention of the Catholic Order at Detroit.

Detroit, Aug. 14.—The Catholic Order of Foresters, in annual convention here, elected the following officers today:

President, Thomas H. Cannon, Chicago; high secretary, Thomas B. Thiel, Chicago; high treasurer, Thomas H. Callen, Milwaukee; high physician, Dr. J. P. Smith, Chicago.

The salaries of the first three officers, who were re-elected, were fixed as follows: President Cannon, $500; Secretary Thiel, $250; Treasurer Callen, $50.

At the opening session, Bishop Foley, of Detroit, delivered a formal address of welcome. This afternoon the delegates went to the St. Clair Flats on the steamer Promise.

BOURSE WILL BE CLOSED.

Paris, Aug. 14.—The Bourse will be closed tomorrow, on occasion of the feast of the assumption.

OVER NEW CHANG.

Czar Has Proclaimed Russian Suzerainty.

London, Aug. 14.—A special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Aug. 14, says the Russians at New Chwang have proclaimed the czar's suzerainty over that district, have abrogated the Chinese laws and have prohibited the natives from referring their disputes to the arbitration of American or British merchants and missionaries. All disputes must be referred to the Russians for settlement.

LIPTON STARTS

Owner of Shamrocks on His Way to the United States.

Cheering Crowd of His Friends Saw Him Off at London.

People of Glasgow Not Over Confident of Victory.

London, Aug. 14.—Sir Thomas Lipton started for the United States today, leaving a cheering crowd of acquaintances and well-wishers who had assembled at the station to bid him farewell. His compartment on the train was half filled with flowers, including a model of Shamrock II, the hull being of manganese bronze, from the trimmings of the plates used on Shamrock II, gold plated; the rigging of gold cords, and the sails of woven flowers. It was the gift of Miss May Morell. Sir Thomas' party included Charles Russell, J. B. Hilliard and Robert Ure. George L. Watson, the yacht designer, will join the party at Liverpool.

When the time drew near for the train to leave, the crowd cheered Sir Thomas, singing "For He Is a Jolly Good Fellow," and called for a speech. Sir Thomas thanked those present for their kind wishes and expressed the hope that Shamrock II would fulfill all expectations.

"We have done all on this side that could be done," said he, "and the boat is in the hands of the most skillful yachtsmen in the United Kingdom. If we fail we shall know we have been beaten by generous, high-feeling sportsmen, who know more about the game than we."

Sir Thomas stepped on the moving train amid outbursts of cheering.

New York, Aug. 14.—A dispatch to the Herald from Glasgow, says: Mr. Watson, with Messrs. Hilliard and Ure, will leave Glasgow tomorrow (Wednesday) to join Sir Thomas Lipton at Liverpool on the Teutonic. They have the good wishes of Glasgow people, but hopes are not so strong for victory as they were in the case of the Thistle, Valkyric or Shamrock I. Still there is nothing of the forlorn character about the business as was the case with Lieut. Henn's yacht, Galatea.

It is satisfactory to note that while odds of as much as five, and in some cases seven to one, were laid against Sir Thomas' boat when in the south after her first spin off Arrar, there were plenty of people who indulged in a gamble in this direction ready to take seven to four.

The tender nature of the metal of which she is constructed created the impression that she would get strained and warped in her trans-Atlantic passage; but from advices to hand, she has come well out of this ordeal and will be got quite ready for tuning up by Aug. 23, when she will be taken firmly in hand by her owner and parties mentioned.

In her early trials at Weymouth, in the Solent, it is thought that Mr. Watson, as admittedly he did with Thistle, had followed the principle of paring away the surface forward so far as to spoil her windward qualities. At the very outset she certainly was inferior in weather going work to the old challenger. Much of this, however, it has now been accepted, was due to her enormous sail plan and the placing of the solid butt splice of fishing rod in the top of her hollow steel mast. This many declare to have been the real cause of her dismasting at Cowes.

Those who have watched every bit of work done with the twelve foot paraffin models in the Denny's tanks have always declared, however, that, as in the tanks with a towline intermittent bursts of speed shown under canvas would gradually be made consistent if the trials and tests could be carried out in a similar practical manner. This has been done and the boat has come out quite equal to the full realizations of the tank test, one of the models of which was that of Shamrock I, her trial boat.

If it is safe to reckon the latter to be, in her alleged improved form, equal to Columbia, it is only the opinion that at best the new challenger should be twelve minutes ahead of the old defender on a triangular course and about ten minutes on a windward one of fifteen miles out and home.

WILL RESIST.

A Serious Labor Strife Impending at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 14.—A labor strife over the cut down in wages in the print cloth mills of Fall River is impending. Already the unions have voiced their intention to resist the cut down proposed by the manufacturers, the mule spinners unanimously declaring that they will starve before they accept the new schedule. The mule spinners' committee has asked that the unions in the various New England mill cities be urged to give financial assistance. The National Mule Spinners' association will be asked to pledge its assistance.

At meetings of the carders and weavers' committees, the talk is much calmer. The sentiment seemed to be unanimous to resist, although it is pointed out that the actual feeling of organized labor in this city will be shown at the textile council Thursday evening.

INJUNCTION GRANTED.

Garment Workers Must Not Interfere With Others

New York, Aug. 14.—In the supreme court, Justice O'Gorman has granted the application of Finkelstein & Maget, clothing manufacturers, for an injunction restraining the United Garment Workers of America, Henry White, their general secretary; the Pants Makers' union, the Jacket Makers' union, their officers and all their members from interfering, by intimidation or force, with the employes of the plaintiffs, or with persons desirous of getting work from them, or from picketing in like manner or permitting their members to do so.

FRIGHTFUL CASUALTY

Ten Men Perish at Cleveland Waterworks Crib.

Several Suffocated While at Work In Tunnel.

Others Were Forced Into Lake and Drowned.

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Fire early today destroyed a temporary waterworks crib two miles out in the lake, resulting in the death of at least ten men, while two others probably were fatally injured. In addition to a large number of workmen who were in the crib, eleven others were at work in the tunnel leading thence, 200 feet below the bottom of the lake. As air, which was pumped from the crib to supply the men working in the tunnel was cut off as a result of its destruction, it was at first supposed that these men had all perished. Subsequently, however, nine of the men in the tunnel were rescued after heroic work upon the part of their fellow workmen.

At this writing it is said that two men are still in the tunnel, but those rescued state that one of these, Victor Kaufman, of Canton, is dead. Following is a list of the dead so far as now known:

JOHN MARTIN, drowned.
MIKE SNYDER, drowned.
ARTHUR HASTICK, drowned.
VICTOR KAUFMAN, Canton, suffocated.

Five men, names unknown, burned to death.

The injured are: John Lee, brocken back; O. Braddock, frightfully burned.

Fire and harbor tugs with rescuing parties on board reached the crib soon after the flames broke out, but when they arrived the structure was a seething mass of flames, and all hope of saving it was abandoned.

Men could be distinguished swimming and floating in the water shouting for help. Others were clinging to ropes which they had hitched or tied to the rafters, but the flames were burning the ropes away, while the men were stark naked, and one by one they were falling into the lake.

The tugs circled around the burning crib, picking up men from the water, and meantime playing heavy streams on the flames.

After an hour's hard work the flames were diminished enough so that the firemen could climb up the charred steps and fight the fire from the interior. Then the horror of the calamity was first realized. Everything was a total wreck. While the firemen were pouring water on the flames there was a roaring cauldron which could not be reached. But the firemen clung to their places and fought every inch of the way until the fire was under control. After two hours of hard work five charred human bodies were found burned beyond recognition. Two were in the attitude of prayer. They must have been awakened by the fire but could not escape. They were caught like rats in a trap. One body was burned to almost nothing. All that could be found of it was a skull and some bones. The bodies of two other men lay close to those that were on their knees, and it looked as if they never knew what happened to them. They must have been suffocated before the flames reached them.

As soon as the five bodies were discovered the tug Kennedy returned to the harbor at once and notified the coroner of the discovery. While this was going on ways and means were being devised to reach the men imprisoned in the tunnel, whose air supply had apparently been shut off entirely by the burning of the compressed air machinery. At one time it was thought that voices could be heard down below, and the life-savers and the firemen peered down with ears intent, but the sounds ceased again. At the mouth of the shaft it was like a furnace, and the iron work was red hot from the flames.

The water that was thrown on it turned into steam at once. Finally, as a deluge of water had been thrown on the smoldering shaft entrance, a voice was heard from the bottom calling for help. A line was quickly dropped down the shaft and as it tightened a shout of joy went up from those about. Slowly the man was raised. It was William Curry, of Canton. His pallid face, covered with slime, his staring eyes and heaving chest, told of the horror of the hours he had spent in the tunnel.

As soon as he could gasp Curry said: "They are all at the bottom of the shaft, hurry up."

In quick succession seven others were brought up from the foul and stifling air of the tunnel. All were in a most pitiable condition. They reported that two other men were lying unconscious at the bottom of the shaft. A workman volunteered to rescue these men, and he was quickly lowered into the shaft.

In a few moments the unconscious men were brought up more dead than alive.

One or two men are supposed to be lying dead in the tunnel too far away from the shaft to be reached.

Tugs that hurried out to the scene as soon as the fire was discovered succeeded in rescuing no less than twenty men, who were found clinging to wreckage and ropes tied to the burning structure.

The tunnel, which has been under course of construction for several years, and is still far from complete, has been the cause, all told, of the loss of more than thirty lives.

Four years ago an explosion in the shore section of the tunnel resulted in the suffocation of eighteen men. Two years ago, in a similar accident, several more men were killed near the scene of today's catastrophe, which adds at least ten names to the death list.

The fire today was due to an overheated boiler smoke stack. The boiler exploded soon after the flames broke out. The crib itself was of pine timber. The men who were asleep in their bunks sprang up to save themselves. Down in the shaft, under the lake, eleven men were digging away, unconscious of their danger until the air supply was cut off.

EXPERTS APPREHENSIVE

Shamrock II Is the Cleanest and Swiftest of Any Yachts That Ever Sought or Defended the Cup.

New York, Aug. 14.—John R. Spears, the World's yachting expert, in his comments upon the new Shamrock today, says among other things: The appearance of the new Shamrock as she rides the water at the Erie basin is most disquieting. In nothing that was written on the other side was she adequately described, and nearly every description of her that was sent here was seriously misleading.

For, without any exception, the new Shamrock above water is the most beautiful and the cleanest and swiftest of any that ever sought for or defended the cup. Let it be fully understood that these adjectives are applied only to what can be seen above water. Her lines under water may be wrong in various respects though that is scarcely possible. In her proportion of bow to stern Shamrock II is perfect, according to the best American ideas.

Shamrock II is not a bulldog on a greyhound's errand like Shamrock I.

Judging from what can be seen of her above water, the most cheerful optimist is full of apprehension.

WERE JEERED.

Non-Union Men Brought to Frazer & Chalmers Plant.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Amid the hooting and jeering of 100 or more union pickets stationed around the Frazer & Chalmers plant, twenty-nine non-union men were today safely landed inside the works of that company to take the places of the union strikers. The men were brought from the East and were conveyed to their destination in two busses, under the escort of a squad of police. A report had been circulated early in the morning that a considerable number of non-union men were to arrive today, and a crowd quickly assembled around the plant. No serious demonstrations occurred, however, the union men contenting themselves with yelling at the new comers.

TO RISK LIFE.

Denver Man Willing to Test Theory of Dr. Koch.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 14.—T. L. Monson, state dairy commissioner of Colorado, offers to sacrifice his life, if need be, to prove or disprove the correctness of Dr. Koch's latest theory that animal tuberculosis is not communicable to human beings. There are physicians in Denver who would rather be shot at at close range than do what Monson offers to do. Scientists assert that Monson will practically commit suicide if his offer is accepted and he carries it out in good faith.

Mr. Monson, who is in robust health, is fully aware that he offers to risk his life to test an unproved theory, but he is in earnest.

He declares that some one must make the sacrifice in the interests of humanity. His offer is as follows:

"Firmly believing in Dr. Koch's latest theory that animal tuberculosis is not communicable to human beings I am willing, providing a suitable annuity is provided for my family, to offer myself as a test of the theory.

"If proper provisions are made I will either eat or allow in any manner whatsoever tuberculosis germs to be introduced into my body, providing such germs are all taken from cattle or other animals.

"This offer is made in all sincerity and is instigated by a born tide desire to test a valuable theory and by my own belief that Dr. Koch is right."

Dairy Commissioner Monson has been attracted by the dissenting doctors, who say that Dr. Koch may or may not be right, but that there is no possibility of making an experiment. Their belief is that the eminent German savant ran no risk of damaging his reputation because it would always be impossible to get a human being on which to test his theory.

In order to show that he is in earnest, Commissioner Monson goes into practical details. He has given the matter considerable thought and his proposal was not announced without premeditation. Discussing his offer tonight, he said:

"If citizens or scientists interested in the prevention of contagion will provide a sum of $25,000 to create an annuity for my family in case my experiment terminates fatally, I shall be willing to subject myself to any test or tests with animal tuberculosis germs which they may prescribe.

"I would not add the money requirement were it not for the fact that I feel it is my duty to make some provision for my family in case of my death."

While Mr. Monson did not inform any member of his family of his intention to make his startling proposition he says now that it has been made, he will not allow any persuasions to interfere with the carrying out of his part of the experiment, providing it is accepted. He does not minimize the risk, but he says the man who proves the correctness of Dr. Koch's theory will contribute much to scientific information concerning one of the most deadly disease foes of humanity.

"The doctors told me my cough was incurable. One Minute Cough Cure made me a well man." Norris Silver, North Stratford, N. H.—Because you've not found relief from a stubborn cough, don't despair. One Minute Cough Cure has cured thousands and it will cure you. Safe and sure. Max Wirth.

SAXTON ABUSIVE.

Charge Made Against Mrs. McKinley's Nephew.

New York, Aug. 14.—As a result of a recent squabble between Herbert Saxton, Mrs. McKinley's nephew, who is supervising inspector of the contract labor department on Ellis island, and William E. Junker, a clerk, assigned to boarding duty, the latter threatens to prefer charges of conduct unbecoming a government officer against Saxton.

Commissioner Fritchie reluctantly admitted that there had been trouble between Saxton and Junker, and that information concerning the wrangle may have already reached the authorities at Washington.

According to an employe conversant with the quarrel, it was learned that it arose over the non-arrival at Ellis island of some baggage from the Italian steamship Nord America. Junker, it seems, was looking after the immigrants on that ship, and he was the object of Saxton's abuse. He sought to explain the delay to Saxton, who completely lost his temper, it is said, and used abusive language to Junker.

Efforts were made to appease Junker, but he was so worked up about Saxton's treatment of him that he threatens to take charges against him. Saxton is said to be unpopular at the island because he has been advanced rapidly over older employes.

Mr. James Brown, of Putsmouth, Va., over 90 years of age suffered from a bad sore on his face. Physicians could not help him. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Max Wirth.

RICH WIDOW ROBBED.

Home on Long Island Looted By Thieves.

New York, Aug. 14.—A $5000 robbery was reported to the police by Mrs. Edward Kelly, of Premium Point, Long Island Sound. Mrs. Kelley is the widow of Commodore Edward Kelley of the New Rochelle Yacht club, who died a few weeks ago just on the eve of an entertainment which he had arranged in honor of Admiral Schley.

The homes of C. Oliver Iselin, Col. H. H. Baxter, Henry Holt, Col. Appleton, and other wealthy New Yorkers are on the point, and the entrance is carefully guarded by watchmen, which leads Chief Timmons of the New Rochelle police to think the thieves were on a yacht and that they anchored off the millionaire's home and then went ashore on the private pier to pillage the house.

The thieves carried large drawers of silver and cups won by Commodore Kelley's racing sloops, the Huguenot and New Rochelle, down into the basement, where they drew chairs up to the servants' table and tested them with acid. The plate, after being tested, was wrapped in table cloths for removal. A set lined with gold was also taken.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Sidney Bolas Is Gathered In By Minneapolis Police.

Appeared Here a Year Ago as a Returned Klondiker.

Much Stolen Property Found In His Possession at Minneapolis.

Sidney Bolas, the king of deceivers, is in difficulty again. He has been captured in Minneapolis with much stolen property in his possession.

Bolas came to Duluth a year ago. He represented himself an Englishman of good estate, just returned from Alaska with $35,000 in gold. He registered at the St. Louis and then mysteriously disappeared. His friends on short acquaintance claimed foul play, and a newspaper reporter dreamed that he had lost the $25,000 on Paradise alley. The bay was dragged and there was wild excitement in certain quarters.

All this time Bolas was acting as cook for a Woodland family and enjoying his notoriety and obituary notices, some of which were fairly well written.

The mysteriously missing hero finally turned up in police court for attempting a brutal assault on a little child. He was sentenced to pay a $60 fine and he acknowledged that he had not had $60 in several years. He served a two months' term in the county jail, and last winter was cook at the poor farm.

Down in Minneapolis he goes under the name of Sidney Dolisthrope, and has used the names of many prominent Duluthians in his efforts to get out of trouble.

USED BAD LANGUAGE.

Trouble Among the Nations on the Midway.

More trouble on the Midway.

A small Assyrian boy used a cascade of beautiful assyriological monologue in conversing with the queen of the colony. There was wild excitement among the Greeks, Chinese, Cubans, Icelanders and Egyptians, to say nothing of what happened in the colony of Assyria.

As is customary, the police were called on to quell the disturbance and when Officer Gillon reached the scene the Midway from Eighth avenue west down to Fifteenth avenue west was preparing for the worst.

The officer arrested Saline Salone, the boy with the assyriological murmur and quiet was restored.

The queen of the colony claims that young Salone called her a "tempestuous anykji axigjk jixger" and an awful "ogxzkep vigxojpi."

The accusations were written in brain-shattering Assyrian, and, after attempting to read it at this morning's police court session, Judge Gearhart complained of feeling ill the remainder of the day.

Not Yet Right.

The condition of Louis Felix, injured on July 27 in the street car accident at Thirty-second avenue west, had changed very little in two weeks. Mr. Felix is still at St. Mary's hospital, but his recovery is very slow. Much of the time he is still unconscious. It is one of the most peculiar cases that has come to the attention of local physicians.

Imbibes Inspiring Drinks.

Like one of those sudden affairs, poetically termed "a bolt from the blue," was the manner of L. A. Mossefin as he entered police headquarters this morning.

Mr. Mossefin is from Crookston, and while walking down Superior street this morning he took just a few drinks. Later, instead of walking down the street, he ran at top speed, imagining that pink monkeys were pursuing him with frivolous intent.

He careened into police headquarters begging for protection. Later he cooled down and begged the officers not to turn him out on the street again. He was locked up.

The celebrated harpist, Signor Valenaz, and contralto, Signora Valenza, will give a concert recital at the First Swedish Lutheran church, corner Second street and Second avenue west, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

UNCHANGED.

Bellinger's Condition Continues as It Has Been.

The condition of Burton H. Bellinger, who now occupies the center of the stage amid the glare of the lime-lights about the court house, is unchanged. He is still insane, at least as much insane as he has been, and his condition shows no signs of becoming any better. Neither does he relax his imitation of insanity, if it turns out that that is what it is. But his present phase is considerably less exhausting than the first kind of insanity he evidenced, and he will probably be able to keep up the pretense—if it is a pretense—indefinitely.

Nothing further has been done in his case. No affidavit of insanity has been filed with the district court, so no examination has yet been arranged for.

A FOOTBALL TEAM.

Talk of Getting One Up In the City.

A city football team is being worked up among the footballists of the city who are not in attendance at the high school and it is very probable that a fast aggregation of pigskin kickers will be the result.

Five or six of the players on the '00 high school championship team may stay in the city for the coming year and enough old football men around the city can be found to complete the eleven. Some very good games could be arranged. A series of great interest could be played with the Superior city team and exhibition games could also be arranged between the high school team and the city team for unfilled dates so that a good football interest would be worked up in the city. Si Bennett is the promoter of the city team scheme and thinks that it can be started in a short while.

Report That Trust Will Import Foreign Workmen.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Assistant Secretary Taylor of the treasury department, has directed Milton Smiley, the immigrant inspector stationed at Columbus, Ohio, to proceed to Bellaire, Ohio, to investigate reports that have been received that the steel trust is preparing to import foreign workmen to take the places of the strikers. A number of communications have been received from various sources to this effect., The suggestion is that the steel company proposes to find workmen in Europe and bring them to this country in such a manner as to secure their admission. If any can be found in Canada, it is claimed the same thing will be done.

RUNS TO MILLIONS

Government's Loss By Undervaluation Will Be Very Heavy.

Impossible to Tell Yet the Amount of the Frauds.

All Depends on Correctness of Classification and Weight.

New York, Aug. 14.—In an interview today touching the investigation as to the alleged undervaluation of Japanese silks, etc., Appraiser Wilbur says: "I returned one invoice yesterday. I found what I expected to find."

"What will be the total amount of the frauds?"

"That I cannot say—certainly not at this stage of the investigation. That it may have been a considerable amount you can tell from the fact that the duty on silks varies from 90 cents to $3 per pound. If goods that ought to have been classified so as to pay $3 really paid only 90 cents, the difference would be considerable, especially if the weight returned were less than the real weight."

"Would the loss to the government reach $1,000,000?"

"All I can say is that if the sort of thing I refer to has been going on for several years, the loss to the government would be a very large sum."

LAWN TENNIS.

Ward and Davis Win Challenge Cup For Third Time.

Newport, Aug. 14.—The match to settle the question of the national tennis championship in doubles was the chief event of the second day of this year's tournament at the Casino today, and the men who were to contest were Ward and Davis, whose previous victories had placed their names twice upon the challenge cup, and Ware and Wright, who yesterday defeated Little and Alexander, the Western champions.

The second day was a repetition of the first as far as weather was concerned. The haze of the early morning burned off in time to insure good tennis. The policy of keeping the courts in constant use, begun yesterday, was pursued today so as to insure the finish of the sixteen matches of the first round, the preliminary round having been disposed of yesterday.

Ward and Davis, the present national tennis champions, defeated Ware and Wright, challengers, in three straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—1. Having won the championship three times, the challenge cup becomes the property of Ward and Davis.

Most of the matches in the singles were won in three sets. Summaries: Championship singles, first round: J. Seabury beat Harry Oelrichs, 6—4, 6—2, 6—1. R. Stevens beat I. C. Wright, 8—6, 6—4, 6—0. R. D. Little beat D. A. Appleton, 6—1, 6—2, 6—1. W. J. Clothier beat A. Stillman, 6—2, 6—0, 6—1. W. L. Foulke beat T. C. Eldredge, 6—1, 6—3, 6—0. W. A. Larned beat F. B. Alexander, 6—2, 6—2, 6—2. W. D. Kurtz beat N. H. Mundy, 6—0, 6—2, 6—0.

BIG SPARS.

Shamrock II Has the Largest Ever Put on Yacht.

New York, Aug. 14.—The sky scraping pole mast of Shamrock II was completely rigged today, and the bowsprit was placed in position. The racing main boom, which arrived from Glasgow on Tuesday, is in one of the shops at the Erie basin. It is without exception the longest main boom ever carried by any racing craft schooner or single sticker. It is made of steel and is 112 feet long, six or seven feet higher than that of the Constitution, and the main sail of the challenger will thus be the largest ever set. It is believed she will probably have to give the cup defender time. Work was pushed as rapidly as possible on the steam yacht Erin in order to get her out of the dry dock and get Shamrock II in. With this end in view an extra force of painters was kept busy all the forenoon, but so much remains to be done that the challenger may not be docked until tomorrow.

IMPROVEMENTS

To Be Made at Brooklyn Navy Yard.

New York, Aug. 14.—Improvements at the Brooklyn navy yard, to cost about $2,000,000, will soon be commenced by the yards and docks department. Within the next few weeks the department will advertise through the authorities at Washington for bids on the construction of four new structures to cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. These buildings, with the erection of a great coaling pier from the Cob dock, a number of buildings on the ordnance dock and the completion of work already under way, will call for an expenditure of about $2,000,000.

UNDER OLD CONTRACT

School Board Buying All the Coal It Can Store.

Old Contract Price Less Than Price That Prevails Now.

New Contract Will Have to Be Made September 1.

Though for coal purchased under the contracts that are being made for the year beginning Sept. 1 the independent school district of Duluth and St. Louis county will have to pay as much as anybody, both of them are taking advantage of the contracts made a year ago to buy as much coal as they can at the old rate, which is 50 to 75 cents per ton cheaper.

Thus they will get ahead of the coal deal a few dollars, which is an accomplishment that will cause great admiration and considerable envy among less fortunately settled corporations and individuals who have no contracts and who will therefore have to burn up their mahogany furniture or buy coal at the rates charged by the companies. These ates are now $7, and they will be $7.25 on Sept. 1, according to the statements made to the school board and the board of county commissioners. The bids for furnishing coal supplies that were put in some time ago were all based on the price Sept. 1, and they were at $7.25, though the current price at that time was $7 per ton.

Another interesting fact was that all the bids of all the companies were exactly the same, which the public officers that received them regarded as a most curious circumstance, considering the furious competition that exists in the coal business, especially among the local retailers.

The county has ordered seventy tons under its old contract, and that amount will fill the bins. If it is possible to find room for more, more will be purchased, in order that as little as possible may be bought at the new prices. The county last year burned 292 tons of coal.

FOOTBALL.

High School Team Practice to Begin Actively Tomorrow.

Much interest is manifest over the announcement in last night's Herald that football practice would begin Thursday afternoon and it is probable that by Monday at least, a full turnout of all the high school athletes will be secured. The St. Paul high school squad has already commenced practice and is in the field for the championship of the state.

The high school here has not as good material this year as it had in 1900, and the boys realize the fact that they will need extra coaching to equal last year's record. A greater school spirit was noticeable last fall in the high school team on account of the football enthusiasm and the fact that Outing gave Duluth such a high place in the review of the high school teams of the country, has tended to make the football spirit even stronger this year.

It is expected that all of those interested in the sport will be out at the meeting of the Athletic association Tuesday evening at the Assembly hall of the High School, when the financial matters of the team will be discussed.

Capt. Fred Mallet said this afternoon that he thought the chances for a winning team were as good as last year on account of the extra practice which the boys would have.

"We are determined to have Dr. Park for our coach," said he, "as all of the boys are of the opinion that there is no use in having a team without him. He has more control over the fellows than anyone else ever will, and they will work much harder for him."

Several ways of raising the requisite amount of money to begin practice are being arranged and it is thought that with the proper sort of work there will be very little difficulty in getting that part of the affair arranged.

HE HAD HIM.

Detective Troyer Grows Facetious With One Henry Morton.

Henry Morton is one of the most accommodating men ever arrested by a local detective. The officers thought that they would have to go to the Union depot for him, but Morton surprised them just when they wanted him most by jumping off a Lakeside street car almost in front of police headquarters.

This morning Detective Troyer received a telegram from Mountain Iron saying that Henry Morton, a railroad man, had been living such a fast life that he had beaten a $56 board bill in a sort of handicap race. Morton was then on his way to Duluth on the Iron Range train.

The detectives decided that they would get him at the Union depot, but accidentally learned that two men had jumped off at Lakeside.

Detective Troyer reread the Mountain Iron telegram, which mentioned the fact that Morton had a long, curling mustache. The officer then went out and lingered against a telephone pole at the street car transfer point between police headquarters and First avenue east.

When the Lakeside car came up, off jumped a man with the fierce mustache.

"Hello, Henry," said the detective, who had never seen him before.

"You have me," answered the railroad man with a puzzled expression.

"You're Henry Morton, are you not?"

"Sure."

"Well, I guess it's just as you say, I've got you.'"

THE FOURTH.

Another Forfeited Tax Sale to Be Held Sept. 9.

The fourth forfeited tax sale within two years, and the second this year, will be held at the court house Monday, Sept. 9, and preparations are now being made for the sale. It will include only property bid in by the state at the forfeited tax sale held under the law of 1899, and the number of descriptions to be sold will not be very large, nor will the property be particularly valuable in many cases.

The law provides that the property may be redeemed before Sept. 1 by the payment of 50 per cent of the amount of the tax judgment, together with all subsequent taxes and all penalties, costs and interest. Purchasers at the sale will have a fee title to the property, subject to redemption by the owner upon payment of the full amount of the judgment, with interest at the rate of 1 per cent a month from May 20, 1901. This rdemption can be made within sixty days of the filing with the county auditor of proof of service of a notice of the expiration of redemption. The purchaser will get back what he paid and the balance will go to the county.

No sale can be made under this law for less than half the amount of the judgment.

The children have been at the Children's Home, but the father has not been paying their board regularly. It has been a long time coming but Mr. Haig prizes it none the less.

WERE NOT TO BLAME

Men Shipped to Washington Complain Against Employment Agents.

Say the Situation Out There Was Grossly Misrepresented.

Agencies Claim Ignorance --- Stopped Shipping on Learning Truth.

The Herald is in receipt of a letter from one A. B. Cartledge, written from Spokane, Wash., Aug. 9, in which the writer takes occasion to warn workingmen against going out to Northport, Wash., to work for a smelting company, and roasting several of the local employment agencies for sending men out there when they knew that conditions were not such as to warrant the expense of going out there.

Mr. Cartledge writes that he was sent out to Northport in company with eighteen others, on Aug. 6, and arrived in Spokane Aug. 8, when the men discovered that there was a strike on at the Northport Smelting works, one that has been in progress since May 25, although they claim the employment agents told them there was no strike on, but that men were scarce and wages were from $2.40 to $3 per day. The Duluth party refused to go farther than Spokane when they learned of the situation and demanded their baggage. The railroad company refused to deliver it to them at Spokane, even when they offered to deliver their tickets, and it was brought through to Northport in spite of the protests of the owners.

Mr. Cartledge says that while in Spokane he met John McMillan, of West Duluth, who started for Northport several days before his crowd, and was told that the few men at the plant were working inside of a stockade and were not allowed to leave it even for their meals. He says the party he was with refused to go to work in a "prison." Mr. Cartledge says that the men were told that ten hours constituted a work day at Northport, but they have found that a work day means twelve hours. He says that a number of the men he is with are stranded at Spokane and are puzzled as to what to do. He advises workmen to keep away unless they have money enough to tide themselves over. Wages are about the same in Spokane as in Duluth. He thinks his party can get work by shipping out from Spokane, but will then be no better off than if they had remained in Duluth.

The matter was taken up this morning with the employment companies mentioned in the letter, and the agents were unanimous in declaring that they were assured by the company's agent that there was no strike in progress and shipped out a number of men before they had word of a strike. They say that their signs were taken down as soon as they received the information, and the tickets of other men ready to start were cancelled, the men getting back their money. They claim that the strike did not begin until after Aug. 6, and that the men who went out the week before were among the strikers. S. A. Doyle, formerly the chief of police at West Duluth, was here in the company's interests, and the employment men say that as soon as he received a telegram that there was a strike on, he notified the officers here. Mr. Doyle left this morning for Northport.

SOMEWHAT PREVIOUS.

Fresh Individual Drives Over New Pavement.

The first man to drive over the new Superior street paving was placed under arrest.

At noon today David Jamison, of Lakeside, drove down First avenue east, and seeing the new paving on Superior street between the car tracks he drove over a small barrier used to blockade the street, and whipped his horses merrily over the new paving.

One of the inspectors objected because the cement foundation was not hard enough to permit driving, and he tried to stop Jamison and tell him that the street would not be open to travel for a week.

The Lakesider became very angry and threatened to use his whip on the inspector, Officer Wilcox noticed a blue streak of violent profanity, and tracing it to its source, like a plumber hunting a gas leak, he caught up with Jamison. The Lakeside man would not even believe the policeman when he told him that the street was not open to travel, and he was placed under arrest.

WOULD PAY.

Superior Street Property Owners Ready to Pay Their Assessment.

Superior street property owners are now ready to pay their assessment for repaving the street. This would prevent the necessity of taking about $65,000 from the permanent improvement revolving fund, and it is strongly urged by large property owners that the paving contract be extended from Third avenue east to the junction of London road and Superior street.

John Megins, who is largely interested in Superior street property, says that he has talked the matter over with many of the other property owners interested and fully 50 per cent of them are in favor of paying for the improvement at once, thus getting a 10 per cent rebate on the assessment and at same time keeping the permanent improvement revolving fund in such condition that Superior street can be paved out to London road.

The assessment for the Superior street improvement, however, will not come up till the contract is finished, which may be a couple of months from now.

It has been claimed by the city officials that the improvement of the street between Third avenue East and Ninth avenue east would have to be paid for out of the general fund, as the property owners in that vicinity are not in favor of petitioning for it.

Under the new charter, improvements involving an assessment, are effectually prevented unless petitioned for by 25 per cent of the property owners, owning 25 per cent of the property to be assessed.

The Herald's "want" columns continue to grow in volume and in usefulness. This is conclusive evidence where to obtain the best results.

WOMEN SCRAP

Witnesses on Opposite Sides In an Assault Case.

Two very able and delightful women mingled feminine loveliness, pulchritude stiff jolts and flashing jabs, were in the jury room of police court this morning.

They were star witnesses on opposing sides in a sensational assault case, and a mistake was made by putting the two in the same room.

During the mixing, blonde millinery was pushed off the pedestals of intellect and there was a general rough house. An innocent bystander, who had evidently been attending certain fake prize fights and wrestling matches, awarded the fight to Bertha Bratz on a foul, claiming that Rosa Subousky had violated prize ring rules by jerking a rosette off her opponent's hat.

As a matter of consolation, Rosa Subousky secured a warrant for Bertha's arrest.

The case in which the two women were interested was a double-headed assault affair between three brothers and a step-child.

Frank Marshall, of 15 East Fourth street, accused his brothers, George and Henry, of breaking his arm in a fight which occurred last Friday. Mrs. Mary Marshall, also accused them of doing other great bodily injury to Mr. Marshall's step-son. George and Henry Marshall were fined $10 and costs, to be paid within five days.

SAWING DEAL.

Scott-Graff Company Contract With Richardson & Avery Company.

The Richardson & Avery Lumber company of this city has just closed a contract with the Scott-Graff company, whereby the latter company is to log, saw and dock a large quantity of logs for the former. The deal is said to amount to about $20,000, and includes about 30,000,000 feet of standing pine north and west of Two Harbors, on the north shore.

The Scott-Graff company has been cutting all summer on a contract with the Street-Chetfield Lumber company, of Chicago. This contract called for the cutting of between 6,000,000 and 10,000,000 feet of pine near Maple, Wis., which has been hauled to the mill here by the Bayfield Western logging trains and crews. It is expected that the Street-Chetfield contract will be finished this fall and the Scott-Graff company will begin immediately on its contract with the Richardson & Avery company.

HARD TO FIND.

Fashions Are Vigorously Searching For Glendon, the Pitcher.

Wanted—Present address of Richard Glendon, Esq., baseball pitcher. Last heard of in Mason City, Ia. Any person knowing such will confer a great favor on the Duluth baseball fans generally by sending same to L. Van Praagh, manager Duluth Fashion baseball team.

Dick Glendon is a much wanted young man. Some time ago he wrote Manager Van Praagh of the Fashions from Aberdeen, S. D., asking for a berth here. Last Sunday when the Fashions decided to strengthen up four telegrams sped out over the wires to as many different places after the twirler but he could not be reached. It was learned that he played that day at Mason City, Ia., but word from there was that he has gone out on a trip with the team and a messenger boy is following him up. It is thought he will be reached in time for him to come up for the Saturday game. Cooney, of Superior, will cover second base. He is a very fast man and a good pitcher and will be a real addition to the red shoe strings. Hickey will probably be played in the outfield and a Sheboygan third base man will be secured. Although no word has been received from him it is probable that he will come. Hickey's batting ability makes him a valuable man.

With the three new players Duluth will see four extremely fast games of ball when the Milwaukee Sentinels get here. They are about the best semi-professional team in the country and the games cannot fail to be interesting. Mullaney's leg is much better and will be in shape to let him into the games.

INVADER LIFTS CUP

Canadian Yacht Secures the Much Coveted Trophy.

Defeated the Cadillac Thrice Out of the Five Races.

Columbia and Constitution Fail to Finish In Time Limit.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The fourth day of the international yacht races for the Canada's cup broke clear and warm, with all the weather signs favoring a light sailing breeze and an almost smooth sea. Although both boats were built for such conditions, it was generally conceded they suited the Canadian boat better than the Cadillac, and there was considerable apprehension that the Invader might win again today and lift the cup.

This feeling was not altogether founded on a belief in the Invader's superiority in anything but heavy weather, because it had come to be realized that the Canadian yacht has the better crew. However, the great uncertainty which enters so largely into yacht racing was not overlooked by shrewd sailors, who by no means were ready to concede ultimate victory to the Canadians.

Today's course was to be nine nautical miles to windward and return, or just the opposite. If the wind holds as at present, the rival yachts will start with a light beat to weather out into the lake with a spinnaker run for the return trip, but a shift of wind may make it necessary to sail to leeward along the shore and beat back.

11:01 a. m.—The starting gun was fired at 11 o'clock, Cadillac crossing the line first. They apparently were 200 yards apart.

11:41 a. m.—Cadillac seems to be leading by 100 yards. Her canvas drawing well. Both on starboard tack.

11:49 a. m.—Cadillac comes about on port tack, Invader following immediately. They are now nearly abreast.

11:58 a. m.—Cadillac is leading by a length.

12:02 p. m.—Cadillac is maintaining her lead and pointing well into the wind with both crews lying like dead men on deck. The wind has freshened somewhat.

12:42 p. m.—Invader apparently is half to three-quarters of a mile to windward. Both boats are on port tack. From this point they appear like faint streaks on the horizon, nearly obscured by haze and smoke which hangs close to the water.

2:45 p. m.—The wind has veered to the east and freshened to five or six knots an hour. The yachts can be made out in the distance further to the north than the point of disappearance and probably a quarter of a mile apart.

2:50 p. m.—It seems practically certain that Commodore Gooderham, of Canada, will have the Canada's cup in his possession tonight.

Present indications are that the Invader will finish three or four minutes ahead of the Cadillac.

Jarvis brought his bont around the turning buoy ahead of the Cadillac and headed for home, running freely before an east wind with balloomer hoisted. The Cadillac also broke out her balloon jib, but in the ten-knot breeze was outfooted. The sprinter from Canada is now about 600 yards ahead of her pursuer.

3 p. m.—The wind is lighter and the Invader is profiting thereby. She now leads by about half a mile.

The Invader crossed the finish line at 3:07 p. m. (unofficial). The Cadillac crossed the finish line at 3:09:30 (unofficial). This gives the Canada's cup to the Invader.

CALLED OFF.

Columbia and Constitution Fail to Finish.

Bateman's Point, R. I., Aug. 14.—With a record of six wins each in races thus far this season, the Constitution and the Columbia prepared for another 30-mile contest, over the course off Brenton's Reef lightship today. This was the last of the New York Yacht club's Newport series for the cup defenders, the yawls and 70-footers, and was for fifteen miles windward or leeward.

11:48 a. m.—The yachts have started, but the start was a very poor one, as both were over the line before the gun fired at 11:45 and each had to return. At the second attempt the Constitution crossed first, followed over half a minute by the Columbia, and the boats left the line with the Constitution a few hundred yards to weather of the old boat.

The apparent time of the start as seen from shore was s follows: Constitution, 11:46:20; Columbia, 11:46:50.

Both boats made several tacks on the line, Constitution finally getting off on the starboard tack, but as the Columbia went over on the port tack, the new boat swung around a half minute later on the Columbia's quarter. The wind at the start was very light. The course is fifteen miles south-southeast of the lightship and return.

12:46 p. m.—The yachts have sailed about four miles of the course, the Constitution still leading the Columbia although the latter has gained some during the last fifteen minutes. The wind is very light and it looks like a very slow race.

2:20 p. m.—The yachts are now within five miles of the outer mark. The Constitution is leading the Columbia by about half a mile.

2:15 p. m.—The Columbia has had a favorable slant of wind in the last fifteen minutes, and it looks now as if she was leading the Constitution. The wind is very light, and it seems as if there was little probability that the yachts will finish within the time limit, which expires at 5:15.

3:10 p. m.—The Columbia is now lowering her mainsail and her tender is alongside to tow her into the harbor. A tug has also taken the Constitution into tow. When the race was called it looked as if the Columbia had a slight lead on the Constitution.

THEIR DEFENSE.

Basis For Union's Refusal to Strike.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14.—Michael Kelly, former corresponding secretary of Bayview lodge of the Amalgamated association, has left this city for Pittsburg, where he will confer with President Shaffer.

The Bayview men will base their fight against the strike order on section 1 of section 27 of their constitution, which reads as follows:

"Every member shall interest himself, individually and collectively, in promoting his trade and the business of his employers, who are under contracts with the association. This, however, shall not be construed to mean that any member shall work for anything lower than the adopted schedule of prices."

The incident is regarded as emphasizing the excellent official relations between Germany and Russia.

RUN WITH GASOLINE

Unique Private Car Is Used on a Maryland Railway.

It Makes Between Thirty and Forty Miles an Hour.

Story at the Expense of Secretary Long's Department.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Special to The Herald.)—General Manager J. S. Norris, of the Maryland & Pennsylvania railroad, has startled the natives along the line by speeding over the track on a novel and unique looking machine that he calls his private car. Countrymen dropped their work in the fields and watched the smoothly running car until it passed out of sight. They were well acquainted with the old handcar, operated by turning a crank, but while this car looked something like the handcar, it was not the same. There was no steam and they could see a man seated on its as idle as a passenger in a regular coach.

What the thing was and how it was made to go so fast was too much for them. So, after talking it over and saying to each other "I wonder what strange thing we will see next?" they picked up hoes and plow handles and resumed work.

General Manager Norris' private car is something new in his section of the country. It is called the Sheffield gasoline motor car No. 5, and, as its name indicates, a little tank of gasoline furnishes the motive power. Patterned something like the old handcar, it is 5 feet 2 nches wide, 5 feet 5 inches long and 30 inches high from the rail. It rests on four flanged wheels, each 17 inches in diameter, with steel tire and wooden center. On the car is a tank that looks like a little water cooler and holds two gallons of gasoline.

Near it is what is called an electrical sparker operated by an eight-cell dry battery. The sparker explodes the gasoline as it drops from the tank and these explosions in alternate chambers drive the piston rods that drive the wheels. The speed is regulated by the sparker. It being arranged that any or all of the battery cells can be used. A hand bar extends upward from the sparker, by which the operator runs the car. Mr. Norris occupies a seat on the rear of the car and manipulates the bar.

There is a long seat on the front of the car that will accommodate four persons and is called the observation department. The car can make between thirty and forty miles an hour on a 20 per cent grade, and a tank of gasoline will run it a distance of between seventy-five and 100 miles, according to the rate of speed. The car weighs 475 pounds and cost about $300.

Mr. Norris got the car a few weeks ago for use in making inspection trips over the road. As the company is putting in a lot of new bridges along the road, Mr. Norris must make frequent trips, and he finds the car very serviceable. He is his own engineer, fireman, conductor and brakeman.

In view of the oft-repeated statement that to the French engineer, L'Enfant, is due the plan of the city of Washington, D. C., Mrs. James Hewes, of Baltimore, whose husband is a direct descendant of Andrew Ellicott, scientist, astronomer and professor of mathematics at West Point, calls attention to the following extract concerning the career of Andrew Ellicott. The extract is taken from the biographical and historical accounts of the Fox, Elliott and Evans families, collected and compiled by Charles W. Evans, of Buffalo, N. Y., and published in 1882. It is as follows:

"In 1790 President Washington, in pursuance of the law passed by congress, appointed three commissioners to locate the boundaries of the District of Columbia and to lay out the city of Washington as the future seat of government. Washington took personal interest in all the details of that important measure. In March 1791, the commissioners appointed Major L'Enfant, a French engineer, who was well acquainted with the large cities of Europe, to superintend the surveys. The commissioners appointed Andrew Ellicott as the principal surveyor and he used his transit instrument to secure perfect accuracy in the lines, and also used it in surveying and laying out the avenues and streets of the city. He also surveyed and determined the sites of the capitol, president's house and the different departments of the government.

"In a letter to one of the commissioners, dated Nov. 20, 1791, President Washington expressed himself as not being pleased with the perverseness of Major L'Enfant, and referred to Mr. Ellicott as a man of uncommon talents in surveying and of a more placid temper than L'Enfant. President Washington was himself a surveyor in early life. The original plan of the city was the work of Major L'Enfant, but the final plan and the one submitted to congress was by Andrew Ellicott.

A gentleman in this city who has taken much interest in the Sampson-Schley controversy, and who, although a staunch Republican, believes that the navy department has been unjust to Admiral Schley, tells this story at the expense of Secretary Long's department:

"Something over a year ago," he said, "an Irishman, who had enlisted in the United States army, was sent to the Philippines for service. One day he was shot in the head and, after the bullet was removed he was ordered home. While in the hospital the surgeon became attached to the private for his cheerfulness and wit under trying circumstances.

"In removing the bullet the doctor accidentally removed a little piece of the soldier's brain. After the soldier had returned to the United States the surgeon wrote to the soldier telling him of the piece of brain which had been taken out with the ball, and asking facetiously if he wanted it returned. The soldier answered as follows:

"'Thank you, no. I shall not need it, as I have a situation in the navy department.'"

HARD-HEARTED UNCLE.

Spoils a Romantic Marriage For His Niece.

New York, Aug. 14.—Somewhere in New York is Ralph Bingham, a comedian, engaged in the most serious play of his life. He is searching for Miss Isabella Carmera, who, in addition to being extremely pretty, is reputed to be worth several millions of dollars. B. V. Andrews, the young woman's uncle and guardian, also, is here, striving to prevent Bingham from finding her.

The presence of these folk in New York is the sequel to a sensational elopement which excited Atlantic City on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Andrews, who is a millionaire fruit grower from Pasadena, Cal., went to Atlantic City two weeks ago with his niece, who is 18 years old. They registered at the Hotel Dunlap, where Mr. Bingham chanced to be stopping. Not many hours had elapsed before the comedian discovered the young heiress. They became acquainted, and soon their acquaintance ripened into an attachment, but Mr. Andrews did not suspect. He learned the situation on Sunday afternoon, when he found in his room this note, written in a feminine hand:

"My Dear Uncle: I have gone away with the man of my choice. I know he will make me happy. Forgive me, I love him and cannot help myself.

ISABELLE."

Dumbfounded, Mr. Andrews read the note again and again. Then with the chief of police he drove over the speedway to Longport and the drive to the steamboat landing was made at a furious pace. The irate uncle jumped from his carriage before the steamboat to Ocean City arrived.

"Oh, we are caught," the young heiress exclaimed as she saw her uncle approaching. Bingham seized her in his arms and turned to face their pursuers.

"You're going back with me this instant," Mr. Andrews shouted.

"She is going to do nothing of the sort," Mr. Bingham replied calmly.

"I demand that you arrest them," the infuriated uncle said to Chief of Police Eldridge.

Miss Carmera pleaded, and when Bingham joined in the discussion Mr. Andrews grabbed him by the collar. Further trouble was averted by Chief Eldridge, who seized the young woman and placed her in the carriage. The girl and her uncle came to New York and Bingham followed.

ACCEPTS CALL.

San Francisco Minister Coming to Minneapolis.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Rev. Dr. G. S. Hutsinpiller, pastor of the Central Methodist church in this city, has accepted a call from the Hennepin Avenue Methodist Episcopal church of Minneapolis, Minn.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflammed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Cases of Interest.

FAILURE TO DELIVER TELEGRAM.—Mental anguish as ground for damages for failure to deliver a telegram has been recently considered by the supreme court of Indiana in the case of Western Union Telegraph company vs. Ferguson, 60 Northeastern, 674. This court had hertofore subscribed to the so-called "Texas doctrine," holding that compensatory damages could be recovered by the addressee for mental suffering caused by failure to promptly deliver a message relating to urgent family matters. In an opinion by Baker, J., the case of Reese vs. Telegraph company, 123 Ind. 294, 24 Northeastern, 163, in which this doctrine was first exploited in Indiana, is expressly overruled, and recovery on the ground mental anguish alone is denied. This question s fully considered in notes which will be found in 11 C. C. A. 571, 15 C. C. A. 250 and 28 C. C. A. 62.

COURTS OF HAWAII.—The circuit court of appeals for the Ninth circuit has held that under the act of April 30, providing for the government for the territory of Hawaii, suits in admiralty pending in the courts of the republic when the act took effect must be continued to final judgment in such courts, and are not appealable to the circuit court of appeals, but can only be reviewed by the supreme court of the United States. This point was held in the case entitled Wilder S. S. company vs. Hind, 108 Federal, 113.

CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT.—It has been held in the case of Territory vs. Ketchum, 65 Pacific, 169 recently decided by the supreme court of New Mexico, that the law prescribing death as the penalty for assault upon a railroad train with intent to commit murder, robbery or other felony, does not prescribe a cruel and unusual punishment within the meaning of the Eighth amendment to the United States constitution. The court said: "The provision of the constitution was never designed to control the legislative right to determine upon the adequacy of the punishment, but is merely applicable to the modes of punishment."

PREJUDICE OF JUDGE.—A change of venue was asked for in the case of state vs. Grinstead, 64 Pacific, 49, on account of the prejudice of the judge against the defendant because the latter was himself prejudiced in feeling towards the judge, and had violently opposed him in political campaign and had published libelous newspaper articles calculated to arouse in the judge feelings of resentment and prejudice. The attack was renewed after the election, in which the judge was successful, and was one of the factors in a subsequent contest in the state senate. It was determined, however, by a divided court, that the motion was properly denied where the judge filed in court a statement disavowing all feelings of prejudice against the defendant.

USE OF RETURN COUPON OF RAILROAD TICKET.—In the case of Tiedy vs. Erie Railroad company, 49 Atlantic Reporter, 427, the plaintiff, who was riding from Newark to New York, was arrested for refusing to pay cash for his passage after the conductor had refused to accept his ticket marked "New York to Newark." The court holds that he is entitled to prove the custom of the company to honor such tickets, and that he might reasonably and honestly believe that the ticket so written was a lawful payment of his fare, and that, having this belief, he did not incur the penalty or subject himself to the arrest sanctioned by the statute.

INTERFERENCE WITH USE OF BURIAL LOT.—An interesting point was brought before the court of appeals of Texas in the case of Krugel vs. Trinity Cemetery company, 63 Southwestern Reporter, 652, where the plaintiff sues for damages because the cemetery company permitted a third party to bury his wife and child in the lot sold to the plaintiff. The court says that but one similar case has come to its notice, and this holds that the injury to the feelings of the plaintiff may well be taken into consideration. Unfortunately the decision of the Texas case goes off on the question of limitations, and the question of damages for the mental anguish suffered is not decided.

DEPRIVATION OF LIBERTY.—The supreme court of the United States has ruled, in the case of Simon vs. Cratt, 21 Supreme Court Reporter, 826, that a person is not deprived of his liberty without due process of law by being adjudged a lunatic in his absence, where the sheriff has served a notice to have the person present, if consistent with his health and safety, and a certificate of a practicing physician is produced by the sheriff at the trial showing that in the opinion of the physician it would not be safe to produce the alleged lunatic.

BURGLAR.—The charge of burglarizing an old house in which corn was stored, the doors of which were closed by rocks, sticks, etc., and the windows gone, is held not to be sustained in the case of Beason vs. State, 63 Southwestern Reporter, 633. The court holds that, under the circumstances it is possible that the corn may have been stolen and still no burglary committed.

REASONABLE DOUBT.—Being asked for a further explanation as to the term "reasonable doubt," the court, in the case of Lenert vs. State, 63 Southwestern Reporter, 564, delivered itself as follows: "I understand that you desire an additional charge upon the meaning of the words 'reasonable doubt.'" Upon receiving an affirmative answer from the jury, the court told them verbally that the two words were words in common use, and the jury could understand them as easily as the court, and that the court had a reasonable doubt as to whether he could charge them as to their meaning.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.—The courts of New York had recently before them a case entitled Mason vs. West, 70 New York Supplement, 475, involving an action to recover damages which resulted from a horse becoming frightened at an automobile, and held that the use of the streets must be extended to meet the modern innovations of rapid locomotion. The machine in question was of crude and unusual construction, and gave forth a loud noise which could be heard for two blocks. Notwithstanding this, the court awarded damages only because of the negligence of the owner of the automobile.

BRINGING OF CIVIL ACTION BEFORE TERMINATION OF CRIMINAL PROSECUTION.—The court of errors and appeals of New Jersey has recently decided that the old common-low rule that the criminal prosecution must have been terminated before a civil action can be brought for damages does not obtain in that state. In this case, which is entitled McLain v. Edgar, 48 Atlantic, 600, the court holds that the necessity for this rule does not exist with us as it did formerly in England, where it was the duty of everyone against whose property a crime had been committed to prosecute the guilty one to conviction, but that in this country an action can be brought at any time after a complaint in a criminal case has been filed.

THEATER FIXTURES.—The question of what are fixtures in a theater was considered by the circuit court of appeals for the Second circuit in the case entitled Life Insurance company v. Allison, 107 Federal Reporter, 179. A mortgage was executed upon certain real estate, including the building known as the "Olympia Theater." The court first decided that the rule established by the decisions of the courts of New York must govern this question. The court holds that dynamos and electric light plants, stage scenery and other movables are not part of the realty, but that theater chairs must be considered as part of the realty as between mortgagor and mortgagee.

TRESPASSER ON TRAIN.—The right of a conductor in charge of a railroad train, who discovers a person stealing a ride thereon, to require such person to come into the train and pay his fare, has been upheld by the supreme court of Georgia in Griffin v. State, 38 Southeastern, page 844. The court holds, furthermore, that, although satisfied that the person would not pay his fare, the conductor could, without stopping the train, compel him to come into the same for the purpose of investigating the matter; and in the event of the trespasser refusing to comply, and displaying a deadly weapon with the manifest intention of resisting the train officials, the employes had a right to arm themselves as might be necessary for their own protection, and to enable them to force the trespasser to come into the train. It may be mentioned incidentally that in Georgia a conductor of a train is a police officer of the state, and has authority to retain a trespasser in custody and deliver him to the state authorities.

INSULAR CASES.—By far the most important of the recent cases are the so-called "Insular Cases," decided by the United States supreme court on May 27 last. In brief, the prevailing opinions decided that Porto Rico was territory of the United States from the date of the signing of the treaty of peace; that prior to that event, during the military occupancy, the president, as commander-in-chief of the army, could levy such taxes as he deemed expedient; that, being territory of the United States, and not being one of the states, congress had power to levy such taxes as it saw fit; and, last, that between the time of the signing of the treaty and the passage of the Foraker tariff act no tariff duty could be legally levied. The majority and dissenting opinions in all of the cases may be found in 21 Supreme Court Reporter, pages 742 to 827 inclusive.

JURISDICTION IN BANKRUPTCY.—The jurisdiction of a district court has been held, in the case of Dressel vs. North Star Lumber company, 107 Federal, 255, to extend to proceedings in bankruptcy against a corporation which carries on the business for which it was incorporated, and has its property and assets entirely within the district, notwithstanding the fact that the company was incorporated in another state, and that its articles of incorporation provided that its principal office shall be at a place named in such other state.

DISSENTING OPINIONS.—A unique procedure provided for in the state of South Carolina has recently been put into effect by the supreme court of that state in the case of Wilson vs. Southern Railway company, 38 Southeastern, 865. In cases where there are differences of opinion among the members as to the question under consideration they may call in all the judges of the circuit courts for aid and advice in order to finally determine the question involved. We are hardly prepared to suggest that the supreme court of the United States resort to this procedure and call to their assistance all of the circuit and district court judges for consultation whenever they are hopelessly divided in the settlement of an issue, but some such step might happily tend to avoid the cheapening influence of the dissenting opinion.

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS.—Where charges were made against the president of a college affecting his personal character and his competency, and the president, in a speech in his own defense, in an investigation held by the college board of trustees (which was the proper tribunal for such investigation), used defamatory language respecting one of the witnesses against him, but kept within the bounds of pertinency and relevancy to the issue, such speech, although afterwards published with the other proceedings of the investigation, has been held by the supreme court of North Carolina, in the case of Gattis vs. Kilgo, 38 Southeastern, 931, to be a privileged communication.

Full reports of any case cited from the Reporters can be supplied by the West Publishing company, St. Paul, for 25 cents.

Plain Diet of Young Man Attempting to Evade Officers.

Ishpeming—August Ohman, the prisoner who escaped from Marshal Farm, Friday morning, is again in the city jail. For the past three days he has been wandering around in the woods and Tuesday returned to his home entirely exhausted. He was found in the barn covered with hay, and had not one of the neighbor's informed the boy's father of his return, he would not have lived many hours, so weak was he from hunger and exposure. Young Ohman lived on raw potatoes and water while sojourning in the forest. As soon as the boy's father heard of his whereabouts he informed the police, who took him into custody. Ohman is charged wth committing many petty robberies here some months ago and is suspected of being implicated in the recent holdups.

Sault Ste. Marie—Seven representatives of leading bond houses were in the city Monday to submit proposals for an issue of $120,000 4 per cent waterworks bonds. The lowest bid was $750 below par and the highest $4225 premium and accrued interest by the Ohio National bank of Columbus, Ohio. There was a difference of $3950 between the highest and lowest bids. For some reason the Ohio National bank people withdrew, by wire, their bid for the waterworks bonds.

Champion—Mrs. Amos Thompson, of Calumet, committed suicide here Tuesday by swallowing a dose of paris green. She lived for ten hours after taking the poison and died in great agony. She was visiting at the home of her brother, Ben Benson. Family difficulties are said to be the cause of the suicide.

Escanaba—Fred S. Bailey, a wealthy banker of Champaign, Ill., and Miss Mabel Bennett, of the same place, arrived here on the steamer Atlanta Monday afternoon and were united in marriage two hours later.

Menominee—John Prendel, a well-to-do farmer of Elena, Wis., writes to officers here offering $25 reward for his wife, who has eloped. He thinks she came to Menominee, but there is no clue of her here.

The above cut represents the McKinley Nose Glass. The advantages of this glass are a big field of vision for close work, lightness and simplicity. For a deep nose and long slender faces it is the handsomest pance-nez made. Such faces as the President, Lyman Gage, Gen. WORK FOR ALL MEN

No Able Bodied Man Need Be Idle Now.

Employers of Labor Actually Suffering From the Scarcity.

Street Railway Company One of Largest Employers Now.

The employment agents of the city say that there is no excuse for a man to be idle at the present time, if he is able-bodied and wants to work. The demand for men on work in the city alone is far in excess of the supply, and some of the large contractors even have agents on the street to hail every man that they see unemployed and ask him to work. The wage scale for common labor remains at $2, where it was fixed a few weeks ago, and from the present conditions of the labor market it is doubtful if the figure will be reduced for a long time to come.

It is said that every available man in the Northwest is employed, and that there will be a shortage until the men commence returning from the West. Every day a few come back to the city from the Western wheat fields, where they went to harvest, expecting to earn from $2.50 to $3 a day, and those returning claim that a still larger number of men would be coming back now, but that they are broke and cannot pay railroad fare. The men, many of them, had just enough money to take them out to the wheat country, and when they found no work in sight, were left in bad condition. One man that returned from Aberdeen, S. D., yesterday says there are 600 men in that place waiting for work, and that some of them will have to be fed by the authorities unless something turns up pretty quick.

The rush to the harvest fields was a heavy one, because of the reports of big crops and good wages, and the labor market has been depleted all through the Northwest. Reports from Minneapolis show that few men are going West now, and the local employment agents say that the warning given to the laboring men through the papers as to the labor situation in the West has been the means of stopping others that were contemplating leaving Duluth. They say the men are content now to accept $2 a day and work in the city or go out on railroad contract work at $2.25 per day. All the railroad contractors are said to be paying $2.25 now and free fare added.

The street railway company is one of the largest employers of labor in the city at the present time and is hiring every man that is willing to work at $2 per day.

"DAUGHTER OF DIAMOND KING."

Tonight at the Lyceum "Daughter of the Diamond King" will be given. It is said to be a powerful play, as bright as a diamond; the company of twenty people is headed by La Belle Laurette, one of the young stars of recent discovery. She is beautiful, versatile and has the charm of youth. She is supported by the sterling actor, W. A. Whitcar, the well known leading man for years with popular productions. In the cast are many well known favorites. Charles A. McGrath plays the attorney; H. F. Clarens, the justice; Virginia Clay, the spinster; little Juliette de Grignan, for the past three seasons with Jacob Litt, the bad boy, and sweet Dolly Kemper, her companion part. The Lenton trio of grotesque comedy acrobats, the New York Ladies' quartet, Fred Melville, John de Gez, Frederick R. Seaton, Ida H. Wynn, the opera singer, Baby Edith and many others.

Humors

They take possession of the body, and are Lords of Misrule.

They are attended by pimples, boils, the itching tetter, salt rheum, and other cutaneous eruptions; by feelings of weakness, languor, general debility and what not.

They cause more suffering than anything else.

Health, Strength, Peace and Pleasure require their expulsion, and this is positively effected, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, by

CLAN STEWART EXCURSION

Large Number Go Out on the Argo.

The Clan Stewart excursion last evening on the steamer Argo, under the auspices of Clan Stewart, No. 50, O. S. C., was a very pleasant one. The number attending was limited only by the capacity of the boat and was estimated at between 700 and 800 people. Over 700 tickets were collected, but children under 12 were allowed free and this increased the number considerably. The committee on entertainment, consisting of Messrs. Simon Clark, John Christie, W. B. Henderson and Chief Taylor performed their duties well, and from the time the steamer left the dock till she returned again dancing was indulged in to the strains of Di Marco's orchestra.

On the upper deck those who preferred to enjoy the lake breeze and watch the panoramic view of the city, with its brilliant array of electric lights, the steamer having gone down the north shore as far as Lakewood, were regaled with the bagpipes. The night was an ideal one, scarcely a ripple on the water.

During the evening Professor Smith's pupils gave exhibition dances—little Jeanie Gordon and her brother, Ross, dancing the Highland fling and the sword dance, while Miss Bonlore and Henry McLean gave the Highland schottische. The excursion was a huge success and everyone was thoroughly delighted with it.

FIFTEEN TO GO.

Knights Templar to Attend the Triennial Conclave.

About fifteen Duluth swords will attend the twenty-eighth triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of the United States, which will be held in Louisville, Ky., Aug. 27 to Aug. 30. The local triennial committee, which consists of M. M. Gasser, chairman; Paul Sharvy and Jesse Norton, is making all arrangements for that number, and though the conclave is nearly two weeks away, everything is practically complete. A letter received from Grand Commander J. W. Chamberlin, of St. Paul, states that the Wisconsin Central and the Monon route have been selected, and arrangements have been made to take the Minnesota swords down on a special train which will leave St. Paul Sunday noon, Aug. 25, and will arrive in Louisville Monday noon. The Duluth delegation will leave here on the evening of Saturday, Aug. 24, over the Eastern Minnesota, arriving in St. Paul to join the state contingent and take the special train Sunday. The quoted rate is $21.50, but it is expected that a rate of $19.50 will be granted before the date of leaving.

The grand encampment of the white-plumed Knights Templar is one of the most important and most interesting of all the national gatherings, and this year's conclave is expected to be the largest ever held.

REMOVING THE TANKS.

Oil Receivers on Garfield Avenue Are Going.

The Standard Oil company, which has for the past two or three years maintained two large supply tanks at the edge of the swamp near the head of Garfield avenue, is removing the tanks. They were located on ground belonging to the Northern Pacific company and very close to the spot selected for the new round house. The latter company is pushing its improvement work steadily and already has filled in and graded considerable trackage in the yards between the Union depot and Garfield avenue. The big sand sucker Northwestern is pumping sand into the swamp at the head of Garfield avenue, but it will take some time and a large quantity of material to fill the place up to a height that will make it available as a railroad yard. The sand is pumped from the bottom of the bay and piped several hundred yards.

HE LIKES DULUTH.

Dr. Ohage of St. Paul Is an Admirer.

Among the medical men in attendance at the meeting held here yesterday to devise means to fight the smallpox epidemic was Dr. J. Ohage, city physician of St. Paul, who has become widely known throughout the Northwest through his fight for public baths in St. Paul. He enjoyed the day in Duith immensely and put in a considerable portion of the time eating planked whitefish. He has been here before and a trip to Duluth and planked whitefish are inseparably associated in his mind.

Dr. Ohage is an admirer of Duluth and says frankly that the day will come when it will outstrip the Twin Cities. Its commanding location assures that, in his mind. He is pleased to see a brick pavement going down and believes it will give better satisfaction here than asphalt would.

MEASURES ADOPTED

Smallpox Conference Decides Upon Regulations to Control Disease.

Vaccination, Isolation and Disinfection Agreed to Be Necessary.

Lumbermen Will Do All They Can to Aid Work.

Vaccinate, Isolate and fumigate.

These are the measures decided upon by the meeting called yesterday by Dr. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, for the purpose of making suggestions to the state board of health whereby an epidemic of smallpox may be avoided this year.

Dr. Bracken's suggestions as printed in The Herald yesterday afternoon called forth a great deal of discussion. Parts of them were modified to some extent, but they were not changed a great deal.

There was a dash of debate in the afternoon meeting that aroused considerable interest. Dr. Bracken, of Minneapolis, made a short address in favor of the compulsory vaccination of workingmen and he put particular stress on the request that lumbermen should insist that all woodsmen applying for work in camps this fall should produce certificates of recent vaccination. The frequent references to lumbermen caused quite a stir among the operators of camps, and Ralph N. Marble, assistant general manager for the extensive Alger-Smith interests replied to Dr. Bracken, as follows:

"I notice throughout these proceedings that special reference is made to lumbermen and lumber camps. You seem to regard the camps as a sort of hotbed for smallpox. I will admit that I do not know much about medicine, but it is my honest opinion that men do not get smallpox in the pine woods. The disease is taken into the camps from the cities, the towns and villages.

"The lumbermen in this vicinity have been just as earnest in fighting this disease as the local boards of health. For the lumbermen I can simply say that I do not like the tenor of the opening remarks of this meeting. We are here to do business and we are anxious to cooperate in any way that may tend to wipe out this disease."

Dr. U. O. B. Wingate, of Milwaukee, said that it was incumbent on every citizen of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan to co-operate in the fight against the infection. Continuing he said:

"In these three states it is estimated that there are 30,000 cases of smallpox which is twice as many as there was at this time last year. We've got to fight it and fight it hard.

"There are two conditions with which we will have to contend. The first is with certain physicians who refuse to recognize smallpox. To my mind this class of physicians is our worst enemy.

"Then again in the present epidemic there are many cases of smallpox that are so light that no physician is called, until many people have been exposed. If we fight the disease successfully we must find some means to rectify these two handicapping conditions.

"I believe that in the past the epidemic has gained much headway because the local boards of health did not recognize the imperative necessity of taking active steps to prevent the spread of the disease. In the future we must take the most accurate measures. Vaccination is the only means we have to thoroughly control the disease."

Dr. Solon Marks, of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin state board of health, expressed the opinion that men working in mining, lumbering, and railroad camps should be vaccinated. He had no faith in certificates, but wanted to see every man innoculated with the virus.

Dr. H. B. Allen, of Cloquet, started a lively discussion by moving the adoption of the regulations drawn up by Dr. Bracken. This debate was participated in by Dr. F. C. Deuster, of La Crosse; Mayor Hugo, Dr. J. D. Budd, of Two Harbors; M. Richardson, of Soudan; Dr. F. W. Patton, F. B. Poole, of Cloquet, and William Graves, of Northfield.

Some additions, suggested by different physicians, were adopted. A good deal of trouble had been experienced by some of the health officers present in getting their local authorities to receive contagious diseases so that the following resolution was introduced and passed:

"That the country board of health make arrangements with local authorities to receive contagious disease cases at a reasonable per diem rate, or, in lieu thereof, establish county quarantine hospitals at reasonable points."

In the matter of the suggested burning of all camps where smallpox existed last winter, Dr. Bracken reiterated his statement made in the morning, that it would be entirely unnecessary to burn all camps and would work a great injustice to the lumbermen if such action were taken. The health authorities present thought that if all camps where smallpox had existed the previous winter were immediately disinfected, or quarantined until they had been disinfected or burned, that such action would be all that was necessary. A resolution to that effect was passed, providing for the same regulations to apply to the contents of all such camps. The expense of disinfection must be borne by the owner of the camp, and the disinfector employed must be subject to the endorsement of the state board of health.

The suggestion that same means is necessary to keep smallpox patients from spreading all of the money foolishly before their cases are reported to the authorities, making it necessary for the community to care for them, was again brought up, and the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, that all employes of laborers withhold from such employes who may become infected with a contagious disease, and to whom a salary is due at the time of such infection, all moneys of wages due him, until his discharge from the hospital or place of detention; that moneys or wages be withheld from any such employes with suspicious symptoms until the diagnosis of the disease has been determined by a competent physician."

At the conclusion of a running debate which lasted over two hours, the resolutions as reported in last night's Herald, were adopted with the changes mentioned.

Anti-vaccinationists were conspicuous by their absence at both meetings yesterday, and it was the general opinion of the meeting that vaccination was absolutely essential for the prevention of the epidemic. Dr. Bracken's idea that vaccination, isolation and disinfection are the three things which will stamp out the disease, was declared to be the basis upon which the work of stamping out the disease shall be done, and from the way in which the lumber men talked yesterday afternoon, they will do all in their power to help the health officials in their work.

This morning the delegates will hold a meeting in Superior. Dr. Bracken, however, will not be present, as he left for a lake trip last night.

FIGHTING IT.

Opposition In Superior to Street Railway Franchise Extension.

The opposition that has developed in West Superior against the extension of the street railway franchise in that city is working tooth and nail to have the proposed ordinances granting the new franchise defeated at the session of the city council which will take place this evening. Meetings have been held by those interested in defeating the measure, and plans have been discussed as to the best way to bring pressure to bear on the aldermen to turn down the ordinance. The opposition is made on the ground that the city is asked to give an extension of the franchise without receiving any remuneration. One of the local papers claims that nine of the aldermen are known to be opposed to the franchise, and it would only require two more to make a vote on the question a tie, in case Mayor Parker should vote in favor of the ordinance.

The Trades and Labor assembly of West Superior met last evening and adopted resolutions against the passage of the proposed ordinance. In the meantime grass and weeds are thriving on the piles of gravel that the street railway company has deposited along Belknap avenue toward the East End, and the new ties are beginning to look weatherbeaten. No work is being done on the track to Old Superior either in the way of new trackage or repairs, and travel over the line is little short of a terrible nightmare. It is understood that the street railway company will not make a move until it knows the fate of the ordinance for the franchise extension. There is some speculation as to what the company will do if the council turns down the ordinance, but the consensus of opinion is that no money will be expended on the East End line unless the company has assurance of a longer franchise.

LEAVE EARLY.

Largest Attendance of Pupils Is at Eight Years.

The small number of pupils in the higher classes of the public schools indicate a fact that most people are familiar with. That is that comparatively few pupils are able to continue in school to enjoy the full measure of the educational facilities offered them. But a table prepared by Superintendent Denfeld, and included in his annual report, now being prepared, shows the melancholy fact that the children begin dropping out at the early age of 8 years, and that after that age there is a steady decrease in the number, many pupils each year dropping out of the dwindling procession bound for the distant heights of high school seniorship.

The fact is surprising, but the figures can hardly be read any other way. A similar table prepared showing the number of pupils in each grade indicates that the falling off begins with the first grade and continues steadily up through the grades from there.

The fact that a very small percentage of the children that begin with the first grade are able to complete the common school course is self-evident and well known, but it will be a surprise to almost everybody to see by these figures how early the decrease begins and how steadily it keeps up. The figures are based on last year's attendance, that is for the school year beginning in September, 1900, and ending in June, 1901. They show that while there were 1939 pupils in the first grade, there were but 382 in the eighth grade, the last grade of the common schools, and 75 in the twelfth grade, which is the senior or graduating class of the high school. Assuming that these figures are an average representation of conditions, they mean that of the pupils that enter the school with the first grade only one out of every five are able to complete the common school course, and one out of every twenty-five that complete the high school course. Only one pupil out of every five that finish the eighth grade go through the high school.

The number of pupils in the schools last year of various ages, from 4 to 23, was as follows:

Four years, 41; 5 years, 488; 6 years, 997; 7 years, 1099; 8 years, 1198; 9 years, 1047; 10 years, 1023; 11 years, 952; 12 years, 924; 13 years, 775; 14 years, 686; 15 years, 577; 16 years, 350; 17 years, 209; 18 years, 119; 19 years, 62; 20 years, 33; 21 years, 6; 22 years, 1; 23 years, 2.

The number in each of the several grades, the last four representing the freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior classes of the high school respectively is as follows:

Kindergarten, 888; first grade, 1939; second grade, 1516; third grade, 1411; fourth grade, 1117; fifth grade, 1181; sixth grade, 903; seventh grade, 632; eighth grade, 382; ninth grade, 290; tenth grade, 151; eleventh grade, 99; twelfth grade, 75; postgraduate, 5.

WARM WEATHER BREAKFASTS

GRAPE-NUTS

Require No Cooking.

EASY FOR THE COOK.

As the warm days approach, it is well to give some thought to an easy way to prepare breakfast. A food that is already cooked and simply needs to be treated with a little cold milk or cold cream, is ideal on that point, and such a food can be found in Grape-Nuts, at 15 cents per package.

It is sold by all grocers, and is so highly concentrated that not more than three or four teaspoonfuls are required for the cereal part of the meal. This makes the food very economical and does not overtax the stomach with a great volume.

PAY FOR TIMBER.

Acceptance of Farr's Proposition Is Accepted.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Indian Commissioner Jones has directed Capt. Mercer to accept the compromise agreed upon by Special Agent Farr and representatives of the Scanlon-Gipson company and of the Cass Lake company, in the settlement for the green timber cut by those companies. White pine is to be paid for at $11 a thousand feet and Norway pine at $6.50 and $7.50 a thousand. The difference in favor of the contractors is about $1400.

Canada's Humiliating Showing.

Bitter as is the population p111 which Canada has had to swallow since the official announcement of the census of the Dominion has been made public, it has been made more nauseating by the caustic comments right and left throughout the country. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "In Canada's case the what-might-have-been must be peculiarly tormenting and humiliating to that locality's intelligent and ambitious citizens. If Canada had accepted the invitation of the thirteen colonies in 1776 to join with them in rebellion against England she would today have had a population of 20,000,000 o 25,000,000, instead of 5,000,000. Montreal would be as large as Chicago. Toronto would be another Philadelphia. Each today is only about a sixth of the size of the American city with which its name is here coupled. Canada would then have been an integral part of the greatest nation in the world, instead of being, as now, a dependency of a country 3000 miles away, with no recognized place among the world's peoples. The day when the continental congress' overtures to join the American patriots were rejected by our Northern neighbors ought, as the day of Brennus' capture of the seven-hilled city was in Rome's case, to be marked in black on Canada's calendar." For months the Canadian papers have boasted that with the discovery of the Klondike gold fields the percentage of growth of inhabitants in the decade just ended would be much greater than that of the United States, and would exceed that for any other ten-year period in their history. As there has been a heavy immigration into the gold fields in the past four years, there was a chance that the predictions of the Toronto, Montreal and Quebec press would come at least in sight of realization. Such has not been the case, however. Canada's population in 1901, as seen by the published returns, is 5,300,000. This is only a trivial increase in the past ten years. The gain between 1871 and 1881 was 19 per cent. It was 11.7 per cent between 1881 and 1891. It was only 9.7 per cent between 1891 and 1901. The growth of the United States in the past ten years, on a much larger basis to start with, has been approximately 21 per cent. To the population of Canada an addition of 500,000 was made in the past ten years. To the population of the United States there was an increase of 13,000,000 in the same time, not including Porto Rico, Hawaii or the Philippines. Manifestly, the gap between the United States and Canada is rapidly broadening instead of narrowing.

The Development of Mexico.

American money is pouring into Mexico in an unprecedented manner. One after another of the capitalists of this country have become interested, and the advantages of the development of the staid old country have become so apparent that there is more or less rivalry to invest. Mining is the great incentive and the copper mines have been the most developed of late. It is now known that the Arizona district extends down the western costal states of Mexico. Many mines which were worked by the Mexicans and Spanish years ago for silver are now being worked as copper mines, and are proving paying property. Ton after ton of good copper ore is being taken from the big dumps beside these old silver mines, and the dumps, which, until a few years ago, were useless, are now proving paying investments. The way in which the country is becoming Americanized is astonishing. Formerly one never saw an American-made vehicle, but the old ox carts, and the use of burros offered the only means of transportation in the mining districts. Now, one sees several well-known makes of wagons which make easy and satisfactory means of transportation, except in the mountains. The railway mileage is being rapidly extended, and it will not be long before every part of the republic can be reached in the train. Americans are getting into control in the mining enterprises, the banks and the railways and everywhere their influence is felt. Both the peon and ruling classes are friendly to the Americans who come to the country, either to follow a commercial line or to engage in mining. The former are friendly, and welcome the Americans, because American capital is rendering their dormant and useless property valuable and productive, and the latter, because the Americans pay them four and five times as much as they have been used to getting from the employers of Mexico. There is perhaps a total of 3000 productive mines in Mexico today. Silver is the principal product, but gold is rapidly coming forward in the mining showing of the country. In the last five years the production of the yellow metal has increased from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000. Silver mining has been made to pay, notwithstanding the low price received for the metal. There is a steadily increasing profit in silver mining in the republic, and the production has reached $25,000,000 per annum.

THE SMALLPOX MEETING.

Undoubtedly good results will follow the meeting held in Duluth yesterday with a view of adopting measures for preventing a recurrence of the epidemic that prevailed last winter in the lumber camps in this section of the country. There were present representatives of the Minnesota and Wisconsin state boards of health, of the lumber and railroad companies, and of the local health boards and physicians and city officials connected with the administration of the laws touching on this subject. Of course, the action taken at this meeting was not conclusive, the resolutions adopted being put in the form of recommendations for the state board of health, but it is very probable that the latter board will give its approval to the plan that has been prepared to deal with the prevention and suppression of the dread disease.

If cases of smallpox can be kept out of the lumber camps, it is believed that the disease can be kept within narrow bounds. Duluth had a number of cases last year that were directly traceable to the lack of precautions at the lumber camps. It is now proposed to provide for compulsory vaccination of all employes of lumber camps, railroads and institutions employing large numbers of men, and to disinfect or burn all camps in which smallpox existed during the past year. These are the precautionary measures recommended. It is also proposed to have medical inspectors visit suspected cases of contagious diseases in districts where there are no medical health officers, and to have all those ill with contagious diseases placed in suitable places for quarantine, which are to be provided at all camps and works. These and other measures are to be strictly enforced, and it is believed they will be effective in stamping out the disease, especially as the health officers have been assured of the hearty co-operation of the lumber firms, railroads and other employers of labor. If similar precautions be taken in Wisconsin and Michigan, smallpox will soon be eradicated from these states. The people generally should cheerfully aid the health officers in their work.

THE WAR ON MOSQUITOES.

That the mosquitoes are most annoying and oftentimes dangerous little pests, all will admit, and the action of the health authorities in various cities looking to getting rid of them, by some means or another, is warmly welcomed. If the experiments now being made prove effective, the plan of extermination will be adopted all over the country. But the sufferings of the people in this country from the ravages of the mosquito are as nothing compared with what the residents of certain parts of Italy have to contend against. Whole tracts of territory have been given over to the little insects in some parts of that country, but owing to recent scientific discoveries in the treatment of mosquito bites and their relation to disease, much of the trouble is being overcome.

Extensive areas of fertile land in Italy are almost wholly deserted in the malarial season. The shepherds who feed their flocks on these lands in winter, go to higher country in summer. The few peasants who remain behind and attempt to till the land are forced to take a long trip every night to the neighboring hills where experience teaches there is less danger of contracting fevers. Until the relation of the mosquito to malaria was worked out, it seemed impossible to remedy the difficulty and prevent the total waste of extensive tracts that otherwise would be productive. For example, on the Roman campania the question of drainage on a large scale is impracticable. The whole campania is a collection of lava basins with a somewhat scanty but highly fertile covering of soil. The water that collects in these hollows has no escape except by evaporation. It affords an ideal breeding place for mosquitoes. Flight from the infected regions has, in the past, been the only escape from disease.

Unfortunately certain persons, notably railroad employes, have had to stick to their posts through the unhealthy season. It is hoped to remedy all this by providing railroad employes in unhealthy districts with mosquito proof houses and clothing. The protection is afforded by means of wire gauze and like material. The windows and doors of the station houses are carefully screened. Switch houses of wire gauze are provided for switchmen, who formerly stood in the open, exposed to insect assaults. Verandas of a like character are provided so that the open air may be enjoyed on warm nights. Head covering, not unlike the netting used in America by men handling honey bees is provided for employes whose duties require them to move about. The clothing of railroad men is also made of a material which has been found by experiment to be impenetrable to the sting of mosquitoes. Except in certain cases, not much is to be expected from the drainage of individual pools and the destruction of larvae by the spreading of oil on water surfaces. Generally the mosquito breeding area is so extensive as to render such measures futile.

In this country, however, relief may be expected from the methods now in the experimental stage.

SANTOS-DUMONT, HERO.

Santos-Dumont is a hero. He has attracted the attention of the world by constructing a flying machine which came pretty near earning him $20,000. He is a hero for other and more weighty reasons. He was publicly kissed by divers and sundry women in the streets at Paris. When a man reaches the point where the women kiss him for the romance of it, he is entitled to a place in the hall of fame. The reasons for this popularity of the man with a married name is the hairbreadth escape from the wreck of his balloon and an iron bar, protruding from a tenth story window.

The stunt which Santos had to perform to secure the $20,000 was no easy matter. He was constrained to get up steam in his aerial engine, fly or sail three and one-half miles to the Eiffel tower, round that buoy and come back to the starting point in thirty minutes by the watch. Once he tried it but his gasoline gave out and he was compelled to come down from his high perch. Again he tried, made the first half of his journey in good time, rounded the buoy and was plowing the air on the home run, with the $20,000 almost within his grasp, when an unfriendly gust of wind bunched his gas, tipped his balloon until his propeller got mixed with his guy ropes and left him unmanageable in mid-air. He would have alighted gracefully upon mother earth had not a tall building stepped in the way. On the corner of this obdurate structure the gas bag caught and exploded with a sound that was unpleasant to hear as well as to smell. The gas escaped, but Santos could not. Luckily for him, he found a perch upon an iron bar that protruded from a French window. French windows were originally intended to catch balloonists, but they are seldom used for that now. Santos remained there until a good big crowd had gathered and then descended unhurt.

Now, Darius Green, when he came down after his attempt to fly, did not light among friends, but found himself in the barnyard among the most unsympathetic pigs and kine. Not so with Santos; he came down among friends, lady friends, who received him with open arms. Lucky Santos! Was Santos-Dumont dismayed? Not a bit of it. He went to work, mended his pants, sewed up his balloon, untwisted his ropes and is now in readiness to go up or come down with his airship. That $20,000 still lures him on, and the memory of the kisses he received sweetens his cup of adversity until he cannot distinguish it from nectar.

The next clear calm day which visits Paris will witness Santos in his third and successful attempt to accomplish a great feat and gain renown and $20,000. What the result will be on the women of Paris is hard to proclaim. As a matter of fact, that does not matter. What the women of Paris do is of no importance except to Santos, Mrs. Santos, and the women themselves. What will be the effect upon the world of the demonstration of aerial navigation? It will not differ materially from the effect of the kisses. It will be a pleasant thing to know that the air can be navigated to a limited extent on a calm day. That is all. As to the practical advantage, there will be none. The air is not adapted to the demands of man as a medium of transportation, and until we can overcome the force of gravity, or until we can build a balloon for lifting purposes which will present little or no surface to the action of the wind, airships as practical vehicles of navigation will be failures. Like certain people, they are all right when they go with the wind, but they have no power of opposition—their power of propulsion is too weak for their bulk. The scene will soon close and the curtain will fall on Santos-Dumont, airship, women, kisses and all.

THE PROPER SPELLING.

The geographical department at Washington is ever on the alert to assist the people of the United States in becoming familiar with the official and correct way of spelling the various cities, towns, rivers, mountains and other features of our new possessions. Sometimes its efforts to officially establish an old-fashioned spelling where a modern one has been adopted by this country, are not always successful, as in the case of Puerto Rico, but as a whole the work is most valuable.

Another pamphlet has been published dealing with the Philippines. It is a very concise dictionary of the geographical nomenclature of the islands and it also gives a handy glossary of the Spanish and Malay words used to designate about all of the common geographical features of the islands. In the main the Spanish terms are closely allied to the English so that an American would have little trouble in recognizing a considerable number of them. Thus laguna is lagoon, punta is pont, isla is island, cascada is cascade, provincia is province, village a village and volcan activo, an active volcano. On the other hand an American might not recognize, without an introduction an ensenada as a creek, a restinga as a sand bank, a fondadero, as an anchorage, or the mar as the sea. It is surprising, however, what a large proportion of the common names of geographical and coastwise features are intelligible to an average American, and the use of the less familiar ones in dispatches will soon bring the entire vocabulary into easy comprehension by the people of the United States.

It has been recalled that the recognition of the colonies in the formula describing the place of the sovereign of Great Britain was proposed in 1876, when the previous royal titles bill, declaring Victoria empress of India, was before the house of commons. Moreover, in 1858, when the assumption of direct government of India was announced, the proclamation bore this declaration: "Victoria, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the colonies and dependencies thereof in Europe, Asia, Africa, America and Australasia, queen and defender of the faith."

Gen. MacArthur pays scant respect in his last report to the duty and destiny argument as to the causes and objects of our presence in the Philippines. "The presence of America in these islands is simply one of results, in logical sequence, of great material prosperity," he says. In other words, remarks the Springfield Republican, syndicated commercialism is back of it all.

One of the principal features of the convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters at Detroit this week is expected to be a debate over a resolution for the 83,000 members of the order to pledge themselves never to "treat" any one to drinks at a public bar. This is a good idea, and it would be well if such a custom became universal. "Treating" is responsible for many men's downfall.

The new Virginia society for the suppression of spurious titles notes in its constitution that "seemingly all privates were killed in the civil war, and there are left few officers of lower rank than colonel." That has been noticed by many observers. What has become of all the privates?

It seems hardly possible that Queen Victoria ever made a pun, but it is alleged that, commenting upon the story of Cornelia, the mother of Gracchi, saying of her sons, "These are my jewels," the queen observed: "She should have said my Cornelians."

And now the Hawaiians want a little protection. Their legislature has asked that congress tax all coffee imported into the United States, "and in this way protect that industry in Hawaii." And why not?

A few American newspapers incline to favor Sampson rather than Schley in the controversy in which the two admirals are leading figures, but the New York Sun is the only one that favors Maclay.

If Uncle Sam should be compelled to take a hand in the Colombian revolution, he would quickly make the revolutionists fired of their job.

Chicago is to have a department store that will be open all night. Late bargains will be advertised in the midnight editions of the evening newspapers.

South Carolina is second only to Massachusetts in the manufacture of cotton goods. This fact shows the wonderful advance the South is making.

Abuse of the Injunction.

Springfield (Mass.) Republican: The stoutest defenders of the injunction process as used against striking workmen must admit that it is being rapidly pushed to extremes. From the very nature of the case this is a result to be expected. The power which the courts are using is very elastic and not clearly defined. A review of the last thirty years would reveal the fact that it has grown amazingly, not through legislation by the people, but through the reasoning and the decisions of the courts themselves. There are hundreds of judges in this country, working under the codes of forty-five different states and the nation itself, and each of them may extend the injunction process to suit himself, subject only to the restraining power of a higher court of appeal. As labor conflicts have continued, the tendency to make the injunctions more and more sweeping has become very marked in all parts of the country. A little extension of the theory of judicial contempt at one time makes it easy to effect another extension at a later time, so that things have reached a serious pass in this summer of 1901.

Tom Reed's Idea of Success.

In a letter appended to a sketch of the late William L. Wilson, former speaker Reed says: "I had great respect for Mr. Wilson, because he had convictions and was true to them. There was something very pathetic in his last struggle, death-struck as he was, with that greatest of all human forces, popular feeling gone wrong. That feeling is doomed to revulsion does not lessen its power. Human life is too short for the vindication of the wise man while yet alive. Many suns may set and many dark nights cover the earth with clouds before the truth is compelled into fruitage. He is happier who is wrong when others are wrong; but no Darwinian "survival of the fittest to survive" will ever convince the manly man that there is not something higher than happiness. Doing your duty, and facing the consequences, is success itself."

Sprucing Up In Dress.

Boston Transcript: Gen. Chaffee tells the army in the Philippines that now the war is over the time has come for it to brace up in the matter of appearance, to button its blouses, keep its shoes polished and its buttons bright. Campaigning in a rough country under a tropical sun plays havoc with requirements that become routine in times of peace, and handsome is as handsome does. But Gen. Chaffee has a deeper motive than fastidiousness. He knows, as every officer knows, that neatness of costume and preciseness in the way of wearing it are powerful aids to discipline and efficiency. Gen. Chaffee has not acted any too soon. An army that looks slouchy is liable to act slouchy. If relaxation spreads, as it is apt to do, to things more important than appearance.

Business on a Steady Footing.

Philadelphia Ledger: Despite rumors of a corn famine, great industrial disturbances and excitement in the stock market, business now appears to be on a steadier footing and prosperity more general than was the case a year ago. In this way only can the fact that the business failures in July last passed were fewer in number by ninety-six, and nearly $3,000,000 less in aggregate amount than in July of 1900, be explained.

Not So Decadent After All.

New York World: France is the only great nation in Europe that has had the strength of mind and of purpose to establish a republican form of government. It is the only nation on earth which has made successful attempts to solve the problem of the unequal distribution of land. Its percentage of pauperism is the lowest in Europe, its percentage of individual efficiency in production is the highest among the great nations.

Too Much of a Good Thing.

Brooklyn Eagle: Times do change, even in England. Hitherto certain of my lords and gentlemen have insisted on their ancient and admitted right to kiss the monarch at coronation, but Edward draws the line at having a quantity of tobacco-smelling whiskers rubbed against his countenance. It was time to make this reform. The spectacle of a couple of fat, elderly persons of the same sex making love in a church arouses qualms.

ROMANCE OF THE SECOND FLOOR AND THE TOP FLOOR BACK.

BY ADA PATTERSON.

(Copyright, 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

Charles Clifton was the pride of Mrs. Gilhooly's heart. He "took her whole second floor by the year," she was wont to explain, and always added that "he had been with her so long that he seemed like one of her family."

Mr. Clifton didn't look as though he might be a member of Mrs. Gilhooly's family. The Gilhoolys were red of face and short and compact of figure, while he was pale and tall and stooped a bit. He looked most at home in his library, which was the largest room on Mrs. Gilhooly's second floor. He was 42 years old and a bachelor. His landlady described his business vaguely as "having something to do with books." The fact was that after spending half his life at the task he had established a publishing business. Having paid his youth and the sacrifice of all the wayside joys of life as the price, he had at last his business. And by way of compensation for what he had missed he had his library. It had come to be a sentient thing to him. He loved it instead of the wife he had never had and the children that were denied him. Sarah Ann, Mrs. Gilhooly's housemaid and fides Achates, declared that she heard him "muttering and chaffening in there," and believed that he was telling his secrets to the books, that would never repeat them, as Sarah Ann would certainly have done could she have heard.

Mrs. Gilhooly used a phrase not unknown to society when she spoke of Mary Hilliard. "I know her but very slightly." Miss Hillard was small and unobtrusive, and occupied the hall room at the top floor back. Beyond collecting her small rental promptly every week, Mrs. Gilhooly really did know but little of Miss Hilliard. She was satisfied from her "references" that she was employed in an office down town.

Mary Hilliard had reached an age that well-groomed, well-cared-for women make redland. It is the women who have survived and paled under uncongenial and monotonous work who have associated it with the word passe. Mary Hilliard belonged to that class. Her eyes were heavy from too close application to her work of copying maps in the land office. She had the yellowish pallor of the anemic. Her skirts were too scant, and she wore black from economy. Mary Hilliard, as Charles Clifton saw her when she passed him on the stairs occasionally, was not attractive. It was not surprising that he did not know her from the other women in the house.

One evening he left the library door open when he went down stairs to dinner. Walking upstairs quietly after dinner he saw a small, black-frocked figure standing in the doorway. She leaned forward a bit in a childishly eager way, and her face had the pleased look of a child. He watched her as her eyes wandered over the shelves of books, the reading table of carved oak, the desk, whose burnished sides reflected the crackling fire from the pine-scented logs on the hearth, the great leather-covered chairs that wooed tired limbs and brains, the big, many-curved lounge, and the cheerful red silk shades on the chandelier and the reading lamps. She clasped her hands with delight, then the pleased look faded. She sighed. The tired eyes looked heavy again and she turned and began the ascent of the three flights to the "top floor back."

The next morning Mr. Clifton interrupted Mrs. Gilhooly's voluble inquiries about his health with, "Who is that small, childlike person in black I noticed in the diningroom this morning?"

"The one who sits in the corner farthest away from the windys?"

"Yes."

"That's Miss Hilliard. She's in an office down town, and has my fourth floor back. I know her but very slighily."

"I—I think I know a friend of hers, and I would like you to tell her with my compliments that she is welcome to use my library whenever she likes. Tell her I am out all day and won't disturb her. Don't forget."

Mrs. Gilhooly didn't forget. On the contrary, she told the story in wide-eyed astonishment to Sarah Ann. "Just think, his blessed libr'y, Sairy Ann!" she said. "But she'll have to have the pass key since he's ordered." She stopped Miss Hillard as she commenced her tollsome flight to the fourth floor and delivered the message and the keys, which the woman whom she knew but slightly, blushing and wondering much, accepted.

Mary Hilliard spent a glorious hour curled up in the big chair reading "Pendennis." When she closed the door softly and went upstairs the tenseness had left her face and her eyes were humid.

Every afternoon she read thus, always curled up in the biggest chair chasing the tired look from her face by those blessed wrinkle eradicators—new and pleasant thoughts. There was only one thing to mar her pleasure—the thought that the owner of that haven might return sooner than usual and find her there. She watched the ormulu clock anxiously, looking up at it in a frightened way in the most interesting situation in a plot, or the most exquisite portion of a poem, to see how far off the dreaded half past six might be. And promptly at twenty minutes past six she closed the book, however interesting the portion, and ran away to avoid the good-natured ogre.

It was exactly nineteen minutes past six one evening when the dreaded happened. The door opened and the master of the library entered. Mary struggled painfully to her feet. "Martin Chuzzlewit" fell from her hand and her blushes scorched her thin face.

"I beg your pardon," she said earnestly. "I thought you never came until half past six, and I was just going. I—I wouldn't have had this happen for the world. I—I sent my thanks by Mrs. Gilhooly. You are very good. Good evening."

She escaped and ran upstairs. Clifton smiled, then frowned. Finally he laughed and did an extraordinary thing. He picked up that traitorous ormolu and turned it back twenty minutes.

"You must do better next time," he advised the offender, as he set it down with a peculiar smile.

"Why, I'm home earlier than usual!" said Miss Hilliard the next evening. "It is just as well, for I shall leave at a quarter past this evening."

And so she would have done had not Mr. Clifton arrived at six. This time tears of chagrin filled her eyes.

"Please do not go," he said, leaving the door very much ajar. "Pardon me, but I like to see you here. Let me show you a new set of Balzac that has just arrived."

She lingered a few minutes, admiring the Balzac edition, thanking him shyly for the privilege of the library, then hurried away.

"What bright eyes and pink cheeks!" he mused. "By Jove! She is almost pretty. I wish she would come back!"

He winked and nodded at the clock, and turned it back ten more minutes.

Miss Hilliard became accustomed to these interruptions, but never tarried long after them. She grew suspicious of the traitorous clock, and brought her own with her to regulate her readings.

Mr. Clifton surprised Mrs. Gilhooly by complaining that the light at his table was too strong. "It hurts my eyes," he declared, craftily. "Now, why can't I sit at that third table on the right?"

"It's dark, and the fixtures ain't so good," objected Mrs. Gilhooly.

"I prefer that," he said, and so it came about that he sat at the same table with Miss Hilliard, who was forced to the alternative of running away or starving. She stayed.

The guileful Mr. Clifton had his reward. Acquaintance progresses over steak and coffee, and Miss Hilliard grew less afraid of him. Once she even remained in the library fifteen minutes, long enough for a man of his directness of speech and purpose to propose.

"This dear library," she said tenderly, after he had made some of the superlative remarks to which lovers are addicted. "It has been our match maker."

"We will duplicate it in our new home," he said, "and I'm going to have a picture of you as you stood looking into it like an eager little girl.

"I knew then what was going to happen," he said, peculiarly; then, more humbly, "or hoped it would happen."

When the Lamp Is Shattered.

When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead;
When the cloud is scattered,
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Loved accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendor
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruined cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell.

When hearts have once mingled,
Love first leaves the well-built nest;
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possessed.
O Love—who bewailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your home and your bier?

Its passions will rock thee
As the storms rock the heavens on high;
Bright reason will mock thee
Like the sun from a wintry sky.
From thy nest every rafter
Will rot, and thine eagle home
Leave thee naked to laughter,
When leaves fall and cold winds come.

His eyes are balls of polished steel;
His lungs are sponges dried;
His blood is bouillon-concentrate
In veins of leather hide.

His muscles creak like pulley ropes
When hurried into play;
His hair is like piano chords—
Some chords are lost, they say.

His heart's a little globe of punk—
A house of constant gloom,
For love can never burn within,
Because there isn't room.

His appetite has dwindled down
To fit his little food,
Till fruit is water in a pose
And bread is "so much wood."

Hot apple tarts and pumpkin pies—
He reads of them aghast;
And waffles brown and chicken stew
Are "terrors of the past."

And, smiling, from his vest he slips
A tiny box of tin,
With capsules brown, and pellets pink
All rattling within.

Then, with a gulp, he swallows down
His dinner from the can—
This product of the health-food school
The concentrated man!

STRANGE ANOMALIES.

Minneapolis Journal: There are some queer klaeidoscopic changes in politics. The latest novelty is the opposition of George R. Laybourn, of Duluth, to an extra session.

Mr. Laybourn was the author of the tax commission bill, which he rushed in as house file No. 1. He talked and voted for it in its amended form, and declared that the state could not have a revision of the tax laws too soon. The bill passed, requiring a report by next February, but Mr. Laybourn is opposed to an extra session. He would not have the new tax code taken up until the session of 1903. A change seems to have come over the spirit of Mr. Laybourn's dreams.

On the other hand Senator T. V. Knatvold, of Albert Lea, one of the few members to oppose the tax commission bill, wants an extra session. Discussing the subject yesterday, he said:

"I did not see the imperative need of a tax commission. Our tax laws are in pretty good shape now. But we have created the commission and it is composed of good men. I understand their report will contain some valuable recommendations, and if there is anything in it that will improve the system or bring more revenue to the state, we cannot put it in operation too soon."

These two shifts of opinion are only samples. The Duluth delegation is almost solidly opposed to the extra session, as are other members in different parts of the state who stood with them on corporation questions. Yet these members were all shouters for the tax commission bill. After the passage of the gross earnings bill, they seemed to lose all interest in the tax commission.

An extra session is likely to bear down hard on certain corporate interests. Those members of the legislature who have fathered anti-corporation legislation will be right on the ground, and if the tax commission report is to their liking, they will undertake to fight it through. If it does not go far enough, they will endeavor to amend it in the desired direction. Whatever happens, everybody will have to walk circumspectly, for the primary election will not be many moons away, and the average voter will keep his weather eye on the record of his representative.

There is another strange anomaly. J. F. Jacobson, of Lac qui Parle, is opposed to an extra session. He thinks it might do some good, but again it might not, and is opposed to it on the ground of expense.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: When a woman is 30 she can wear around an old love affair almost as long as she can a $15 piece of black jet.

Every married woman knows at least one other woman that she believes would flirt with her husband if he wasn't so good and honorable.

When a man flirts with a married woman the women call it "the murder of a home;" when a married woman flirts with a man they call it "leading him on."

A girl's pleasure in having all the girls she knows see her engagement ring is always embittered by the knowledge that all the strange men will too.

A girl's idea of a romantic thing is to have two men call to propose to her the same evening and do the talking herself while they glare at each other.

IS NOT IN POLITICS

Tom Reed Would Not Become Mayor of New York.

He Prefers to Practice Law and Amass a Competence.

Consul at Dawson Reports on Rich Output of Klondike.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story recently circulated that an effort to induce former Speaker Thomas Brackett Reed to stand as a candidate for mayor of New York city is considered one of the most ridiculous hot weather stories put forth from Washington, New York, Boston or elsewhere in the East during the present summer. Mr. Reed, as is pretty well known by everybody he is acquainted with or who has read of him, retired voluntarily from the second office within the gift of the people of the United States, namely, the speakership of the house of representatives. Perhaps he was disappointed over his failure to secure the Republican presidential nomination at St. Louis in 1896, when William McKinley very easily captured this prize.

Shortly thereafter, as is well known, Mr. Reed resigned his position as the representative in congress of the First Maine district, giving up with it, as he did, the speakership to become a member of a firm in New York city at the salary, it has been stated, of $50,000 a year. He took this position to make a little money for the support of himself and his family, which he could not do either as the representative of one of the Maine districts or as speaker. The story that Mr. Reed might be induced to become a candidate for the mayoralty of New York City is probably a "pipe dream" upon the part of some New York newspaper man.

Mr. Reed himself put a quietus on this story. Further than this, it is evidently not considered that Mr. Reed will be unwise enough to listen to the siren songs of the politicians to induce him to permit the use of his name as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1904.

Mr. Reed's friends say that he is out of politics for good; that he has discovered that the presidency is not an honor coming to him, and that, as he announced when he resigned his position in the house of representatives, he is now a private citizen and is engaging his talents as a lawyer to make sufficient money to keep himself and family from want. That his ambition in this direction will be more satisfactory than as the former speaker of the house of representatives is conceded. With a salary of $50,000 a year and the perquisites that come to him, it will make him independent financially and will probably convince him that chasing political rainbows is not the most satisfactory occupation in the life of any man, no matter what his station of life may be.

It is an easy matter to eliminate Reed, as will be seen from the above, as a possible presidential candidate from the Empire state. There are only two men in New York regarded at this time as available as Republican presidential candidates in 1904. The two men referred to are well known. One is Theodore Roosevelt, vice president of the United States; the other is Benjamin B. Odel, governor of New York.

People in the East have believed reports, said to emanate from Dawson City, Alaska, that that town is dead. They are pretty certain to change their views when they read what the United States consul, J. C. McCook, stationed at Dawson City, has to say about conditions prevailing in Dawson and vicinity in his last report to the state department. Consul McCook says that Dawson is improving rapidly; modern dwellings and warehouses are going up, a new court house is about completed, and work has been started on the new administration buildings and a residence for the governor.

Notwithstanding the long, cold winter, there was a continuous flow of pure water from a well sunk on the bank of the Klondike river. The water is pumped direct into the mains from the well, under such pressure that the pipes are kept open. Taps are located on the sidewalks all over the city. Ice costs only 2 cents per pound, or $40 a ton, the lowest price this luxury has been in any summer yet. Rents are not lower, but in the near future they will probably be reduced.

The gold output will, it is said, fall short of the estimate made earlier in the year, one reason being the long winter. I think $20,000,000 a fair estimate for this year's product. Many of the richest claims have not yielded as much this season as formerly. While there is a very large gold-bearing area in this territory, the miners must learn to work more economically.

On the Hootalinqua river and at other points there are good indications but the prospectors will not go there yet, as the grounds are too far away from a base of supplies. After the placer mines near Dawson are worked out—say, in ten years—the attention of the miners will be turned to fields in this territory not yet opened up.

By orders from Ottawa, the whole country has been thrown open for prospecting, no claims being reserved for the crown, as formerly. The royalty on the gross output of the mines has been reduced from 10 to 5 per cent. In taking gold out of the state, a certificate from the gold commissioner is required, stating that the royalty has been paid thereon. This is given to the police at White Horse before one is allowed to leave on the train for Skagway. Without this certificate, the dust is liable to confiscation.

The government is building good roads to the mining sections near Dawson, which will be of great advantage to the operators, as their supplies can be handled at less cost. Good roads are badly needed in the mining country in Alaska.

Encouraging reports are heard from Chandlar river in Alaska, some 100 to 150 miles north of Fort Yukon; also from Charley river and other points. When the miner can get his supplies at reasonable rates, it will be found how rich this part of Alaska is.

Adjt. Gen. Corbin, who is now in the Philippine islands, it is expected will return to Washington about Oct. 1. Upon his return it is also expected that he will be able to give to President McKinley and other officials of the United States government a great deal of valuable information regarding the situation in these islands. Until the return of Gen. Corbin and his associates there, it is not likely that this government will undertake anything further, from a civil standpoint, in making provision of an additional nature regarding the management of these islands at the present time.

It is not at all likely either that any new disposition will be made of the United States army forces stationed in that archipelago, nor will there be any change in the United States naval fleet at Manila or elsewhere in or about the Philippine archipelago.

It is a well-known fact that Gen. Corbin went to the Philippines against his own desires, but at the earnest request of President McKinley, Secretary Root, Secretary Long and other officials of the government interested in bringing about a settlement of the difficulties which now beset this government in the far East.

One reason, it is understood, why Gen. Corbin was sent on this mission was to prevent, if possible, any legislation by the coming session of congress in opposition to this administration's plans or dealings with the islands, but especially with the warring natives.

Brief cable dispatches from Manila have, from time to time, indicated that Gen. Corbin has discovered a good many things during his stay in the Philippines, which will be valuable to President McKinley, to congress and to the natives of the Philippine islands. It appears to be certain that the standing army of the United States, at present stationed at various points in the Philippine archipelago, will not be disturbed until the United States is able to subdue the natives of the islands opposed to the United States' control of that territory.

When Gen. Corbin left Washington for Manila, he held to the opinion that the troops on these islands could be largely reduced within the next few months. After his arrival at Manila, and after a brief tour of these islands, the cable dispatches told that he had arrived at the conclusion that it would not be wise for this government to reduce the number of troops until Governor Taft and his civil associates were able to negotiate, with the Filipinos, a settlement of the pending war satisfactory to all concerned, and particularly satisfactory to this government.

STRENGTH GROWING

The Revolt Against Platt Rule In New York.

Is Now Said to Be Assuming Serious Proportions.

Every Assembly District In the Great City Represented.

New York, Aug. 14.—As Irving Hall and the County Democracy developed in strength against Tammany Hall until they compelled a reorganization, so now strong Republican influences are uniting in building up an anti-Platt Republican organization, which soon will be known as the Lyric Hall Republicans.

Despite the fact that Platt machine agents have succeeded in having this other Republican organization precluded from representation in the general conferences of anti-Tammany forces for the mayoralty campaign, there is indisputable evidence that Lyric Hall Republicans represent an element destined to defeat certain Platt agents before many years.

As to the strength of this Republican organization, compared with that of several so-called organizations which it pleased the bosses' purposes to have admitted into the anti-Tammany conferences, there can be no difference of opinion. The executive committee of this independent Republican force will meet on next Thursday, when a campaign committee of seventy-five to represent the anti-machine Republicans in the mayoralty contest, will be made up and announced.

Platt machine men will be surprised when they hear the names of some of those who have agreed to be recognized as leaders in this revolt against boss rule. They would be surprised even more if they could hear the dissatisfaction with prevailing methods and the deep interest and sympathy in this new revolt expressed by many voters in the Republican machine's ranks, whose timidity will not permit them becoming active factors in the revolt just yet.

Many new names, not enrolled in what was known as the "Brookfield organization," four years ago, have been added to the list of Lyric Hall Republicans. In making up the campaign committee care has been exercised to have all sections of the city represented, and the leaders have been fortunate in obtaining adequate support. When the campaign committee is complete every assembly district in New York county will have one or more members.

As soon as the campaign committee has been formed this independent Republican organization will meet in Lyric hall and adopt a set of principles. When the anti-Tammany municipal ticket is selected and agreed on by the other elements this Republican organization will indorse it, and will try to do even more effective work than it did for Seth Low in 1897.

There is only one question relative to the campaign on which the independent Republican leaders appear to agree with Platt—that an independent Republican, not Mr. Low or any other Republican, should be nominated for mayor.

Among the best-known campaign leaders of the Lyric Hall Republicans are four men who held high office in Mayor Strong's administration—William Brookfield, Adelbert H. Steele, Samuel McMillan and Robert J. Wright. Mr. Brookfield was commissioner of public works, Mr. Steele deputy commissioner of public works, Mr. McMillan president of the park commission, and Mr. Wright commissioner of corrections.

Then there is Professor Gunton, who has eschewed the Republican machine since he saw Collector Bidwell and Lemuel E. Quigg run a congress district convention and defeat for the party nomination the candidate for whom the voters had declared in the primaries.

WENT INSANE.

Station Agent Causes a Wreck and Loses His Mind.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Aug. 14.—James Green, station agent at Otho, a town on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railway, a few miles north of Fort Dodge, yesterday morning, through confusing orders sent out a gravel train to meet the fast freight coming from the North. When he discovered that a collision was inevitable, Greene lost his reason and became violently insane, being prevented from self-destruction by those around him. He is now under the influence of chloroform. It is feared his reason is permanently impaired. Greene received orders to let the gravel train go to pass a freight at Fort Dodge, but later orders notified him that they would pass at Otho. By mistake he gave the first orders to the gravel train, which had gone too far to be recalled before he noticed the blunder. He wired Fort Dodge, but the freight had already left. Then his mind snapped under the strain. The trains came together on a heavy grade, but the crews jumped and escaped injury. The engines were badly smashed, but aside from this the damage was slight.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

Workman Torn to Pieces on a Windlass.

St. Paul, Aug. 14.—Emil Herman, employed on a steam sand pump at the foot of Wacouta street, met a horrible death yesterday. Caught in the machinery of the pump, he was whirled about a windlass, his body beating the deck until his left arm and left leg were torn from the trunk. Herman was 23 years old and unmarried.

The sand pump is on a barge out in the river. Herman was loading coal from another barge to the sand pump barge. Along the side of the barge where Herman was working runs a heavy rope used as a regulator for the sand pump. It turns over a windlass revolving at the rate of 100 times a minute. In some way Herman became entangled in the rope.

One scream escaped him as he felt himself drawn toward the windlass. The next instant his body was dismembered. The left arm was torn off at the shoulder, while the left leg was parted at the hip.

Engineer Dunn of the sand pump ran to Herman's assistance as soon as it was realized what had happened, but succeeded only in keeping Herman's body from falling into the river. The body was removed to the morgue.

Adjutant—F. McCusick, succeeding Frank Mead.

HEART IS BREAKING.

Only Daughter's Return Will Save Her Life.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—All will be forgiven Marie Fous if she returns home before her mother dies. On her deathbed the careworn parent is praying that her child will come back to the little home which Marie left three weeks ago after a quarrel with the man she had recently married. The heart-broken mother's wish was given expression in an advertisement for her missing daughter.

Last November Marie Trestik married Frank Fous, who had boarded with her mother for four years and who had watched his landlady's pretty daughter grow to womanhood. When she became 19 years of age he asked for the girl's hand and Marie, whose circle of acquaintances was practically limited to the neighborhood, accepted him. Then plans were laid to better the home surroundings.

When the husband consented to let his wife work in a down-town store, to aid him in saving $90 with which to buy household furniture, he laid the foundation of his own future unhappiness. Marie became acquainted with a pleasure-loving set, and, after a time, began to spend several evenings a week away from home.

About a month ago she took home a photograph which, when her mother saw it, she explained was the picture of an actor whom a girl friend of hers was to marry. A quarrel between mother and daughter was followed, a few days later, by Marie's disappearance.

It was learned that Marie's girl friends, who first name was Mary, went to Minneapolis, and the police of that city were asked to look for Marie there.

The health of the mother, Mrs. Barbara Trestik, has given way under the strain attending the grief over her daughter's absence. She lies on her deathbed, her heart alternately torn by hope and despair. Yesterday this notice was inserted in a newspaper:

"Marie Fous (nee Trestik): Return home; mother on deathbed; everything will be forgiven."

At the Trestik home last evening, a physician said that the only thing which could save Mrs. Trestik's life was Marie's return.

From the money that had been saved to buy household goods, a reward will probably be offered soon if no trace of her is found through late advertisement.

Poison Oak Poison Ivy

BOTANICAL REPTILES

Their Sting Sets the Skin on Fire and Fills the Veins with a Violent, Lingering Poison

These plants seem to partake of the nature and character of the serpent; in winter time being comparatively harmless, but when warmed into life by spring and summer heat they become extremely venomous and spiteful, emitting a milky juice that burns and blisters like a fiery acid, producing quick inflammation and painful swelling. Some persons are so susceptible to these vegetable poisons that coming in their vicinity will produce almost as much discomfort and pain as handling them; their thin and sensitive skins seem to absorb from the surrounding atmosphere the acrid juices emanating from these plants. There is seldom a picnic or family gathering in the woods but that some member of the party comes in contact with Poison Ivy, Oak or some other hurtful plant or weed, and through the open pores the poison is carried to the overheated blood. Poison Ivy is found clinging to tree trunks, fences or rocks, sometimes reaching great heights; the leaves are nearly square in shape, smooth and shiny and three on each stem; the flowers are of a greenish white color, and the berries pale green or white. The Oak is a small shrub, seldom more than three feet high, its size depending upon the nature of the soil, location, etc.; the leaves are long and pointed with saw-like edges and a downy appearance underneath. While the two plants are entirely unlike in appearance, the poisonous effects are very similar. After the swelling subsides the skin remains for a long time in a rough and inflamed condition, dotted here and there with bad looking ulcers and little festering sores. It is truly remarkable with what regularity and certainty the disease returns, and always on schedule time, appearing the same month, day and hour, almost, that it did the year before. Don't be deceived should all the signs of the poison vanish soon after the first attack—the acrid juices have been taken through the open skin pores into the blood, and the most persistent and faithful use of external remedies can never dislodge them, and next season, and for years to come, you may expect to endure the same bodily tortures; the blood in the meantime becoming so saturated and charged with the poison that each succeeding attack leaves the body weaker and recovery more uncertain and slow, and thus the once simple malady ends disastrously.

BLOOD SATURATED WITH POISON OAK.

Mr. John Friel, of Bear Station, Del., writes: "I was poisoned with poison oak which went through my blood, and my condition became so serious that the doctors all said I could not get well. I remained in a precarious condition, confined to the house, for six months, when I saw S. S. S. advertised and began its use, soon realizing that it was doing me good. I continued the medicine and was cured entirely. I think it the best blood medicine made."

RETURNED EVERY SPRING FOR 18 YEARS.

Mrs. A. N. Bennett, of Toccoa, Ga., whose case is similar to thousands of others who come in contact with these plants, says: "When eight years old my little brother and I were poisoned by handling poison oak, and it broke out on us every spring for eighteen years. Some one recommended S. S. S., which cured us completely, and we have seen no signs of the eruptions for several seasons.

LOSES ITS ADVANCE

Wheat Opened Higher But Could Not Hold the Gain.

Clearances Were Smaller and Primary Receipts Were Liberal.

Corn Weak and Adds to Bearish Feeling In Wheat.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 14.—It looked like another bull day when the wheat market opened this morning. Under the influence of higher foreign markets the opening was at a stiff advance. The gain could not be held, however, and the opening prices were high for the day. The general tendency was downward in spite of reactions now and then. The Northwest was selling as it has been for several days and the Southwestern people were the buyers. Primary receipts were rather large and clearances showed considerable falling off, aggregating less than 1,000,000 bus, the smallest for many days. Corn, too, was not strong and this increased the weakness of wheat. Liverpool closed at an advance of ⅝d and Paris and Berlin were stronger.

Primary receipts of wheat aggregated 1,176,000 bus. against 1,027,000 bus. Shipments 632,000 bus. last year 886,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour equalled 973,000 bus.

Corn was weaker again today under fresh offerings from sections where great damage has been supposed to exist. Primary receipts were 404,000 bus. last year 322,000 bus. Shipments 173,000 bus. last year 206,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 80,647 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 290 cars, against 120 cars last week and 213 last year. Chicago receipts, 181 cars, 20 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was active on the Duluth board. September wheat opened ⅝c up at 73¾c, declined to 72⅝c at 10:21, reacted to 72¾c at 10:22, slumped to 72c at 11:50 and recovered to 72⅛-¼c at 12. It sold at 72⅝c at 12:50 and closed at 72⅛c, a decline of 1c. Chicago declined ⅝-¾c and Minneapolis 1⅛-¼c.

Cash business was light, aggregating only 10,000 bus. Four cars of new wheat were among the lot and two graded 1 northern, one 2 northern and 1 rejected. The premium continued at ¼c over September for wheat to arrive and ½c for wheat in store.

Flax was weaker, October declining 2½c, September 1c and cash and to arrive 1c. Rye advanced ¼c and oats fell off ¼c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No 1 hard, cash, 75⅛c; to arrive, 75¼c; September, 73⅛c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72⅝c; to arrive, 72⅝c; September, 72⅛c; August, 72⅝c; October, 72¼c; December, 73⅛c. No. 2 northern, 67⅜c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat and Corn Opened Steady and Higher.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Higher cables imparted strength to the wheat market today and September opened ⅜@⅞c higher at 74⅛@74⅝c. Local offerings induced by the lack of strength in corn and liberal Northwestern receipts carried September off to 73¾c, at which figure there was fair commission house buying. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 290 cars, against 120 cars last week and 213 cars a year ago. Local receipts were 181 cars, 20 of contract.

Under continued liquidation there was a still further decline to 72¾c, and the close was ⅝@¾c lower at 73c.

In sympathy with wheat, corn opened steady and shade higher. Light receipts and a better shipping demand were bull factors. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c higher at 60@60⅛c, and on realizing declined to 59¼c. Local receipts were 69 cars, one of contract.

Under steady liquidation, September closed ¾c lower, at 59@⅛c.

Oats opened a shade higher with a fair general trade. September opened ⅛c higher at 37c advanced in sympathy with a good outside demand for May, to 37⅛c, and reacted to 36⅝c on profit-taking. Local receipts were 227 cars.

Provisions opened rather easy on lower prices for hogs and volume of trade was small. September pork opened 2½c higher at $14.22½, lard was shade lower at $8.77½, while ribs opened 2½c higher at $8.07½.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Chicago Record-Herald: Ocean grain freights are as low as they can possibly get, ½d on grain from New York to Liverpool and 1d to London. At anything under this the vessels would take water ballast. Rates have been demoralized for some months, but in June there was a temporary improvement, Liverpool getting to 1½d and London to 2¼d. The absence of the corn movement is the reason for the low figures. There is a fair movement of cotton. "I expect that the spring wheat movement will improve the ocean rate situation," said an ocean freight man yesterday. This very low rate on grain, 1c per bus. has in part inspired the recent very heavy winter wheat exports. The seaboard people have hurried wheat exports. The seaboard people have hurried the wheat out on the low freights, fearful there might be an advance.

* * *

Chicago Record-Herald: The only corn deliverable on Liverpool contracts is American. That is one of the reasons shippers feel certain the export demand for this coarse grain will begin before long. Shipping bids yesterday were about 4c out of line. Of the world's shipments, 4,126,000 bus last week, the Danube and Argentine contributed about 3,000,000 bus. Europe apparently requires weekly about 4,000,000 bus corn, and for some time has been getting the most of it from quarters other than America. The Argentine supplies are supposed to be about exhausted. When the offerings from that direction are over, the corn bulls assume that some business will begin with this side irrespective of the price.

* * *

Chicago Morning gossip—Wheat—Notwithstanding the fact that foreigners have already bought large quantities of our grain and the stuff is headed toward them, cables keep on advancing. Weather reports show some little interruption of harvesting by rains. Sentiment is strongly bullish and it is the belief of many that wheat is in for a good advance, notwithstanding the fact that a great many are crying heavy receipts and large stocks.

Corn—Liverpool cables on corn are up about ⅜d and it is reported 340,000 bus cash corn worked here yesterday. The latter argument is one which has been waited for by a great many of the weak bulls who have their eye on the large stocks which are here and the big discount under the futures at which it is selling. There are some reports afloat that there is a large concentrated interest in the September kind at the moment although to all appearances the market has no congestion.

* * *

The government crop bulletin for Iowa shows corn condition generally materially improved. Late corn is filling fairly and will yield larger than expected. Nebraska late planted corn somewhat improved; Kansas late corn improved in eastern and western sections; Illinois, Indiana and Ohio suffering for rain.

* * *

Chicago—Bartlett, Frazier & Co.—As evidence of the decided improvement in the corn market on the other side we have today sold 86,000 bus, ten loads c. i. f. Liverpool September from the seaboard, which nets in stock here ½c better than the best bids c. i. f. lake ports. This for mixed corn. We predict that within one week Europe will have to come to this country for its supplies.

CROP REPORTS.

Wheat Yield Not as Satisfactory as Expected.

The North Dakota crop report says that yields of whaet are not as satisfactory as expected. The report is as follows:

The fore part of the past week was very favorable for harvesting and haying, but was followed on Thursday and Friday by heavy showers, accompanied by high winds, in nearly all portions of the state, which stopped work in the fields, and caused heavy grain to lodge badly. This was followed by frosts in the northern portion, not heavy enough, however, to do any damage to grain or other crops.

Wheat cutting is general in nearly every section of the state, and is nearing completion in the southern portion, while but little has been cut in the extreme northern portion. Yields are reported to be disappointing in most places; the berry being shrunken as a rule, and the heads not well filled. Some threshing has been done, but no yields reported.

Oats and barley have also been cut in most sections, and as a general thing, the yield is good, although oats are rusty in some places making the yield light.

Corn is growing fast, but is still considerably behind the season, and it is feared that some of it will be caught by frost before it can mature.

While flax has improved some in the northern portion, it still remains poor, as a rule, and is decidedly below the average.

While haying has been finished in some sections, it was still in progress in others, and considerable that was on the ground and had not been soaked was wet and spoiled by the recent rains. The crop is a good one, however, and a large amount has been put up.

The Minnesota report is as follows:

"The temperatures during the week were moderate. The weather was dry in most parts of the state till the general rain of the night of the 8th, which was followed by light and widely scattered showers on different dates. The harvesting of all the small grains, except flax is practically finished south of Clay and Becker counties, while north of these counties the cutting of early sown wheat, oats and barley is well advanced. In northern counties, wheat sown late and on spring plowed land is not doing well, there being considerable rust in it. In the region where the harvest is over, stacking and threshing from the shock were going on rapidly till stopped by the rain. The rain delayed work in the grain fields from half a day to two days. In the south third of the state stacking is about finished. The rains have benefitted the pastures, corn and gardens, but unless more rain falls soon the benefit will be only temporary. It is said that with the most favorable conditions from now on, there cannot be better than poor corn and potato crops. On some corn there are no indications of its making grain, and this is being cut for fodder. Flax is poor in northern portions; elsewhere it is variable, but poor to fair crops are more general than good ones; it is being out, and in some places threshed in the southern half of the state. A little plowing is being done in southern counties, but in most fields the ground is very dry and hard."

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Wheat—Liverpool cables close 1 ⅝d higher for wheat. They were stronger on wet weather throughout England. Our market opened higher, but on the weakness in the coarse grains broke quite sharply. There were no special reasons aside from this for the break. We feel friendly to wheat and think that it is a safe purchase on al soft spots.

Corn—Liverpool closed ¼c higher for corn and not much better c. i. f. demand. There was considerable corn worked from here today on direct cable acceptances from abroad. This was made possible by the break, but shows how close our market is to an export basis. We believe corn should be bought on all breaks and that eventually it will sell much higner. While there is some little improvement in the West it is more apparent than real and is more than counter-balanced by the continued loss in condition east of the Mississippi.

Oats have been relatively firm today and while closing ½c lower than last night still showed a great deal of strength. The movement in the country is not increasing and the cash demand is very good. We believe oats are a purchase.

Provisions were dull and sagging, except October ribs in which the bulk of the trade has centered. The recent large buyers sustained them while the January product was sold by scattered longs, and the scalpers on reported larger run of hogs and the weakness in grain. Estimate for tomorrow, 29,000 hogs.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Paucity of Demand Gave Bears a Chance to Raid.

United States Steel Resisted Better Than Other Shares.

Buying For the Short Account Caused a Strong Close.

New York, Aug. 14.—The stock market opened fairly active and with an upward tendency. St. Paul was the feature, 7000 shares changing hands at a gain of 1¼. Union Pacific and other leading railroad stocks rose sharply. Sugar moved up 1½ and United States Steel issues were dull, but each ⅜ higher.

Opening gains were generally wiped out in sympathy with the heaviness of St. Paul, Sugar and United States Steel. Buying to cover rallied the market again and St. Paul advanced 2½ to 164. Atchison, Sugar and the Pacifics recovered to the highest and Baltimore & Ohio reached par. There were material gains in numerous less prominent stocks and speculation was quite strong at 11 o'clock. The United States Steel stocks were sluggish and barely held at last night's prices.

Good gains were made by stocks which were conspicuous for strength yesterday, especially Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, New York Central and Rock Island. Trading then became quiet and prices eased off. United States Steel stocks were neglected and without important change. Bonds were firm.

There was a revival of activity in the United States Leather stocks at advancing prices, the common gaining 1 and the preferred 1¾. The general tone was firmer, but there was not much improvement over the noon level. United States Steel common held well at yesterday's close, but the preferred was a little below.

Profit-taking in St. Paul lowered it a point and other active stocks yielded slightly. Canadian Pacific advanced 1⅝ and Consolidated and General Electric 4 points each. United States Steel scarcely fluctuated ⅛ point between 1 and 2 o'clock.

The paucity of demand for stocks encouraged the bears to raid the list and they forced St. Paul down 2 points and other active stocks 1 to 1½. The United States Steel stocks resisted the pressure more successfully than other shares and did not get below earlier prices. Some buying for the short account occurred in the final dealings causing a strong close.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf gossip to Edwards, Wood & Co.—Considerable skepticism regarding the strength of the market for the last two days has developed in conservative circles. Although the market has been strong it is argued that conditions have not warranted such a market and that apparent strength is not of a healthy kind. Several movements of manipulative character have been observed and it is thought some of the various pools that were and are now supporting the more active stocks may have decided to make an effort to advance prices with the hope of relieving themselves of a part of the burden they are now carrying. It is thought the first movement of this kind will be in the Gould stocks. Prominent interests in these issues have been taking very hopefully of late and giving out some statements regarding the prospects of various companies. The opinion is expressed that it would not be surprising if an effort was made to advance Missouri Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern and Texas Pacific a few points further. On the other hand it is argued that it would be exceedingly difficult to advance stocks in any marked way as the public is not optimistic regarding the general situation. The almost entire absence of buying orders on the part of the public is still said to be one of the most prominent features of the present market. Therefore it is argued that so long as the public will not buy stocks the market cannot be advanced in a healthy way. Much has been said about the damage to the corn crop, and private advices received daily only confirm the opinions of conservative interests that the damage has been very great. Little has been said about the damage to other crops. It is known that the damage to crops will bring a material decrease in railroad earnings.

* * *

Town Topics.—It is a traders' market and profits should be taken on any bulge today and stocks bought back on reactions of a point or two. Sentiment is bullish and the tendency is upward and we look for a better market before the end of the week.

* * *

Ridgley to A. R. Jones & Co.—Prices have advanced pretty sharply since Monday morning and the short interest is largely responsible for this. Today will be the third day of the rise and would be merely prudent to take profits if prices are strong.

* * *

McIntyre and Marshall.—"We understand that support will be forthcoming from the large market interests to bring about a further improvement so as to check the spread of the bearish sentiment on the crop situation, and prevent outside speculation. The fact that commission houses are carrying so few stocks at present and that a good short interest in the grangers will be further helpful in this movement and consequently we think the general list will sell higher before the close of the week, and that such stocks as those not directly affected by the corn crop situation can be bought for moderate profits."

HEARD TEDDY.

Vice President Greets G. A. R. Men at Hutchinson.

Hutchinson, Kas., Aug. 14.—Vice President Roosevelt, en route home from Colorado, stopped here for a short time today and, from the rear platform of his train addressed several thousands of G. A. R. men in state reunion. He spoke for fifteen minutes and aroused the command to great enthusiasm. He thanked the old soldiers, in the name of the American people, for their past valor and sacrifices, and, referring briefly to civic life, warned them not to envy a life of ease.

"We can never hope to make the country all it should be," he said, "until we honor the man who works, until we accept the principle that man is to be judged on his work as a man."

As the train began to pull out many of the old soldiers, with their wives and children, ran behind the car seeking to shake hands with the vice president.

To WALTER G. HUDSON & CO., Boston;
Heavy flow of oil from Export well today; gusher is certain; probably come in Monday. (Signed) W. B. SHARPE: Driller.

Beaumont, Texas, Aug. 9, '01.

To WALTER G. HUDSON & CO., Boston;
Nine hundred sixty-five feet down tonight; Manhattan, hundred twenty-five feet southeast, comes in at ten hundred thirty feet.
(Signed) ELLIS E. BEEBE, Auditor.

The above telegrams from the officers and driller of the Export Oil & Pipe Line Co. explain themselves.

We are at present offering a limited issue of the company's stock at

75c. A SHARE,

(par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable); but in view of the rapid progress of the well we anticipate early instructions from the directors to either withdraw the stock from sale or ADVANCE THE PRICE TO PAR, IF NOT HIGHER.

We are therefore unable to say how long this opportunity will remain open. We can simply say that it is open now, and that, comparing its present condition and its prospects with those of other successful oil companies, we see no reason why its shares should not be worth and bring ten times par at least.

No company outside of those already producing oil offers a greater certainty of rich returns in the Texas oil fields than the Export Oil & Pipe Line Co.

We believe it is the best investment before the public today.

Subscriptions should be sent in EARLY (this is a case where time bids fair to be money, and big money), either to the company at Beaumont, Texas, or to its fiscal agents as below, with check or draft payable to the order of

DEMOCRATS

Of Virginia Meet In State Convention at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 14.—The Democratic state convention to nominate a state ticket was called to order at noon today. Indications were that Attorney General Montague's name would be the only one placed in nomination for governor.

United States Senator Daniel arrived late last night, but he is not a delegate for the first time in many years and, therefore, will not be chairman of the committee on resolutions.

It is believed the platform will be brief. General opinion seemed to be that there should be no declaration of national principles and no reference to any particular national platform heretofore promulgated, either at Kansas City or elsewhere, but there may be an appreciative allusion to Bryan.

Mr. Montague's prospective colleague on the ticket for lieutenant governor is Capt. Joseph E. Willard.

WILL LOSE CHARTERS.

Amalgamated Lodges Which Refused to Strike.

Pittsburg, Aug. 14.—The Associated Press correspondent at Wheeling reports that President Shaffer has arrived there in company with Rev. Dr. Fitzwilliams, of Atlantic City. Shaffer is credited with saying that the charters of the Western lodges which stayed in will be revoked and their offers of money spurned if Secretary M. F. Tighe shall fail to win them over. A great crowd assembled to greet President Shaffer.

ALGER IS AT HOME

Has Returned From European Trip In Good Health.

Europe Nervous Over the Growth of American Trade.

He Did Not Hear Any Talk of Tariff Retaliation.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14.—Gen. Russell A. Alger and Mrs. Alger have arrived in Detroit after an absence of three months in Europe. They reached New York Saturday.

The general was in poor health when he went away, and he spent a month at Carlsbad taking baths. He returns in first-rate health.

Speaking of the growing trade of the United States in European countries, a matter that is creating a good deal of attention there, he said:

"I would not want to say that the people are alarmed at our growing trade. Probably the best word to describe their condition is nervousness. I did not make any particular inquiry into the subject, still I talked with more or less people about it. An Englishman, a member of the house of lords, asked me when our trade was going to stop growing. In fact, that is a question they are all asking. This same Englishman told me that with our inexhaustible resources, and the large balance of trade in our favor, he couldn't see but that our European market would be a great deal larger than it now is.

"What is there to the reports that some of the European governments are trying to form a union to restrict American trade?"

"I heard nothing about retaliation," replied Gen. Alger. "I do not believe that it is seriously contemplated yet by any government.

"Do you think European manufacturers will bestir themselves and check the growing American trade without their governments lending assistance in the form of high tariff laws?"

"No, I do not. The people of Europe—that is, the commercial people—have their eyes open to the sporting business, and they are wedded to these ways. They can manufacture scarcely any article of commerce so cheaply, so well, and so quickly as American manufacturers. They never will until they put more energy into their business and appreciate more fully the value of young blood.

"Apart from manufactures, I am convinced, will continue to outstrip the European manufacturer everywhere in the world."

"Did you hear much about Germany's new high tariff?"

"No; the fact is, I did not spend very much time in Germany, although at Carlsbad I met a good many Germans. Generally they expressed friendliness for American commercial interests. Germany, by the way, from the few towns I visited—Munich and old Strasburg, among others—is enjoying great prosperity. In these two towns there is a wonderful lot of building going on. The emperor appears to have inspected his troops every year into the entire nation. I could not, however, fail to observe the drain Germany's large army is making on the country. For instance, in doing all kinds of work that in this country only men do.

"I have seen women in Germany even loading coal cars. In fact, in Germany women do most of the work in the fields than men. They will tell you that a reason for this is that so many of the men are serving in the army."

"Did you meet Governor Pingree in Europe?"

"No, and I did not know even that he had returned from South Africa until I read of his death in the Paris edition of the New York Herald. It was a great shock to me. While I knew him no more intimately than many other men in Detroit, I had a very high regard for him. He was a strange combination of characteristics. Once his mind was fixed on a policy, no one could swerve him. I never doubted his sincerity nor his integrity. I had supposed that he was in rugged health, so you can understand my surprise when I read that he died in London alone except for the presence of his son. It was a pathetic end."

Capt. Fred M. Alger and bride will sail from London this week.

SHE WANTS DAMAGES

New York, Aug. 14.—Miss Victoria R. Ansell, who lives in costly apartments at 1153 Fifth avenue, will sue the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company for $1000 because a motorman, as she says, "murdered" her "Pomeranian dog," a thing of beauty, by running a car over it. Miss Ansell insists the dog was killed purposely.

Dowieite Kills His Hogs to Cure His Daughter.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Iroquois—A case of South Dakota Dowieism is reported here in a family which is a firm believer in Dowie. In the family is a daughter who is in very poor health, but because of her faith is denied medical treatment. The head of the family wrote to Dowie telling him of the sickness of the daughter and asking him what to do to relieve her. Dowie wrote him to kill his hogs and his daughter would get better. The father therefore killed seven hogs, but there has been no apparent change in the conditions of the sick girl. He thinks this is due to the fact that he had sold one hog before he received the message from Dowie and he is hard at work trying to trace the whereabouts of that hog so he can cut its throat and remove the spell that binds the child. In the meantime the health of the girl continues to grow worse.

Sisseton—The $150,000 payment to the Sisseton Indians is progressing rapidly under the new Sisseton agent, Earl McArthur, who is assisted by Special Agent McComas. Last week when the payment began, the Sissetons held a council and decided to ask for more strict regulations against the large number of collectors who gather about the agency and seek to make their collections both night and day. The demands of the Sissetons were granted by the Indian department. Special police were stationed at short distances along "The red flag line," which encircles the agency, and which at all points is about a half a mile from the place of payment. Across this line no persons except Indians were allowed.

Redfield—Mrs. B. E. Lovejoy was found by her husband dead in her bed. Mr. Lovejoy occupied a room by himself and their little son slept with Mrs. Lovejoy. The boy says his mamma had a coughing spell in the night, but that is all that is known. Dr. ---utnewsky was called and found that Mrs. Lovejoy had been dead several hours. She was one of the older settlers, coming here about fifteen years ago as a teacher in the city schools. She came from Byron, Minn., and her maiden name was Sinclair, one of the oldest families in Olmsted county, Minn. She leaves one son about 8 years of age. She had been in poor health for several years and had kept up by her indomitable will power.

Yankton—Some scoundrel in Lesterville is visiting the hog yards of that town and stabbing the hogs with some instrument about the size of a pitchfork tine. The wound is made under the front leg and is so small that no blood flows from it. It pierces the heart.

Armour—The first violator of the South Dakota chicken law in this city was brought up with a short turn by Game Warden James Berry. John Schroeder, manager of the Fullerton Lumber company, dropped two birds just outside town. Mr. Berry nabbed him with the result that it cost him $10 and costs, and his dog and gun, which he had to buy back at $30. The sports of the town had signed an agreement to leave the chickens alone until Aug. 15, when it was generally understood they could get out without the warden seeing them. Mr. Schroeder was one of those who had signed, but ignored the agreement.

Sioux Falls—The body of a man about 28 years of age was found floating in the Sioux river here Tuesday morning. Appearances indicated that the body had been in the water at least a week. From letters found in the pockets it is supposed the remains are those of Harlow Bound. Two letters bear the Prictor-knott, Minn., post mark. Another is dated Oskaloosa, Iowa, while another, dated Hamilton, is signed, "Thomas, Edith and Little Fan."

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—The case against Leroy Sherman, a Wheatland boy, who was charged with being in E. O. Powlson's store, had been dismissed by Judge Pollock. The evidence was regarded as too weak, and it is further shown that the boy contributed to the support of his mother.

Farmers are rushing harvesting and threshing in order to get fall plowing done while there is lots of green matter to be turned under. The wet weather has started a second growth of grass and weeds in the wheat fields that is coming to the front since the harvest begun. If this is turned under soon, while it is tender, it will be as good as a dressing of fertilizer for the soil.

CROWNINSHIELD'S PLAN

For Barracks at Navy Yards May Win.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Rear Admiral Crowninshield has laid an adroit plan to carry into effect his scheme for building barracks at navy yards. It will require an immense sum of money to carry out this pet idea of Crowninshield, and will take at least $500,000 to construct suitable edifices at the navy yards where Crowninshield thinks there should be barracks and dormitories for recruits.

These barracks are intended to take the place of receiving ships.

The first serious block which Crowninshield has experienced is found in the report of a board of officers which met at the Brooklyn navy yard, and which found that the Vermont, the old receiving ship, could be easily continued on service, and that it would not be necessary to convert the costly cruiser Columbia into the subordinate purpose of a receiving ship.

The board finds that it will take at least $30,000 to put the Columbia in condition for service, and under the most crowded conditions not more than 400 men can be accommodated on board the vessel.

It would take nearly three ships of the size of the Columbia to accommodate as many men as were on board the Vermont, which with its wide and spacious decks, had ample berthing facilities for more than 1000 recruits.

Rear Admiral Bowles, chief constructor, is in favor of continuing the Vermont on the service, and in this position he is joined by Rear Admiral Melville, head of the steam engineering bureau. The naval surgeons are against continuing the Vermont in this work, and they say the vessel cannot be properly fumigated, although the board which looked into the matter has recommended that the men be quartered on the upper deck while the fumigating process is carried on below.

The greatest trouble with receiving ships is that they are never put out of commission, and that the opportunity is never afforded of docking and cleaning them. The utilization of new and costly vessels of war for receiving ships is recognized as a part of a plan to force the navy department into favoring Crowninshield's scheme of building barracks, which would be cheaper, of course, than utilizing three vessels of the Columbia class at the Brooklyn navy yard for receiving ship purposes.

PAID WEDDING BILLS,

Gave Groom Money and Secured Him Work.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 14.—A wedding tinged with romance and some mystery occurred at the Grand hotel. A man who registered as T. B. Armstrong, of Louisville, said he had come here for the purpose of making a wedding match for a friend. Armstrong was gone during the morning and returned with a couple that gave their names as Clarence Surffco and Miss Katie Stam, of Alexandria. A license was secured and the couple were married by the Rev. Sidney Bennett at the hotel. Mr. Armstrong assumed practically the role of father to the couple, attending to the details, paid all the costs, including hotel service for a limited time, then gave the groom some bills from a large roll of money. Armstrong said that Surffco was his friend and was worthy of having a better time than he had enjoyed.

Armstrong then made application for a position for the groom in the hotel and he was given a job as waiter. Armstrong wished the couple much happiness, bade them good-bye and left for Louisville.

FLAVORED BUTTERS AND PIQUANT SAUCES.

"Experience joined with common sense,
To mortals is a providence."

It is the unexpected in housekeeping that puts even the most skillful manager to the test and often causes her endless worry and distress. The housekeeper who has passed through one or two nerve-racking experiences of being called upon to provide an elegant little emergency meal from a hopeless larder will endeavor to guard against a reoccurrence of such a contingency. If she values her reputation as a model hostess and housekeeper. The most extensive volumes on cooking cannot give more than general hints on the great diversity of subjects it must treat of, and unless good judgment and wise forethought are exercised, the most complete guide to the practical application of rules and instructions for the housekeeper and cook cannot protect her from just such trying ordeals. Let her profit by one unpleasant experience. To be able with calm, unruffled brow and perfect peace of mind to receive the notification that the unlooked for guest is already within your gates is a condition to be attained only by accepting the fact that all things desirable in this life are acquired only by diligently applying ourselves to the end in view. Housekeeping is not child's play, as every inexperienced housekeeper discovers as soon as novelty and neatness of the years of "keeping house" to a jar, cover with waxed paper and keep in a cool place. Lay a tablespoonful of this on a hot dish which you serve beefsteak chops or any kind of tender meat and you add greatly to the flavor of the dish. Plain boiled potatoes become poiame de terre a la maitre d'hotel with this outter served with them; it also improves stewed potatoes, and may be added to anything for which parsley is needed and not always to be obtained fresh. Two letters found in the pockets it is supposed the remains are those of Harlow Bound. Two letters bear the Prictor-knott, Minn., post mark. Another is dated Oskaloosa, Iowa, while another, dated Hamilton, is signed, "Thomas, Edith and Little Fan."

TOASTED WHEAT FLAKES

Sold by Grocers.

Actually the only thoroughly cooked Cereal Food.

Magnify a flake of Toasted Wheat and note its translucent heat-browned structure. The quadruple cooking to which it has been subject has dried every pore and portion of it. The "pastiness" of the starch of the wheat does not exist in this greatest of all foods because the starch has been "heat-digested" and thereby converted into dextrine, ready for immediate assimilation to Blood, Bone, Brain and Brawn. This food does not become a pasty mass when moistened.

TOASTED WHEAT FLAKES are widely imitated, even in Battle Creek, so in order to protect the public in securing the genuine, and ourselves, we have placed a picture of the Battle Creek Sanitarium on each package. Don't accept substitutes.

Battle Creek Sanitarium Food Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

When serving for fish add a teaspoonful of chopped parsley; but serve plain with poached eggs.

BROWN AND WHITE THICKENINGS.

Under this head come two articles that may be used to simplify the art of cooking and relieve the mind of the housewife who cannot remain in the kitchen to attend to the especially critical branch of cooking herself, the making of sauces. The foundation of white or brown sauce is not always understood by the cook, but if she knows that she has but to take a piece of "blanc" or white thickening and put it into the milk while it is heating and allow it to slowly dissolve while coming to the boiling point, stirring it at intervals, and she can have a white sauce above reproach, half the battle is won. When the sauce is ready to take from the fire, stir in two level tablespoonfuls of butter to half a pint of sauce. Brown sauce is made by adding a piece of brown thickening or "roux" to a cup of soup or stock and slowly dissolving it. These two thickenings with brown butter or beurre noir with brown flour and a good glaze are the stand-bys of the French cook and when supplemented with the flavored butters they are ready for almost any emergency.

The roux is made by slowly melting half a pound of butter over the fire; skim carefully and let it settle; then dredge in half a pound of sifted flour and stir over the fire until a light brown, then put away in jars, well covered, for future use.

Blanc is made in the same manner, only do not allow the butter or flour to brown or even change color.

BROWN FLOUR.

This is very convenient to have on hand, as it saves considerable time when one must prepare sauces hurriedly. Bake the flour in the oven until it is a pale brown, but not allow it to get dark or it will be bitter. It must be spread in a thin layer on a bakign pan and stirred frequently so it will brown evenly. In using it to thicken sauce, stews, etc., remember that the browning process has destroyed the thickening power of the flour to a considerable extent, and this fact must be allowed for by adding a little more browned flour added than when white is used.

PIQUANT SAUCE FOR FISH.

Thicken a cup of broth or stock with a piece of the roux; add a teaspoon of tarragon vinegar or lemon juice and one tablespoon each of chopped muchrooms, onions, capers and gherkins or olives; add half a teaspoonful of sugar and dash of paprika.

TOMATO TARTARE SAUCE.

Separate two eggs and stir the yolks just enough to break them; then add a gill of salad oil, drop by drop, at first; when well mixed, beat in a tablespoon of tarragon vinegar or good cider vinegar and season with salt and pepper to taste and a teaspoonful of made mustard. Take a small bunch of parsley; hold it in boiling salted water for a few seconds, then squeeze dry in a cloth and chop very fine; there should be a teaspoonful when chopped; add this with a tablespoonful of mixed gherkins, chives or onions and olives chopped fine and two tablespoonfuls of tomata catsup. Mix well together, season to taste with salt, pepper and a few drops of tobasco sauce or a little cayenne.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

(No attention given to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly written).

Mrs. O. M. B. writes: Will you kindly give me two receipes, one for making chow chow and one for mixed pickles, and tell me when it is time to do each?

CHOW CHOW.

Take one large white head of cabbage, five quarts of very young, wax beans, twelve heads of celery, two heads of cauliflower, fifty small cucumbers, four ripe cucumbers, five red and three green peppers. Chop these all fine and soak over night in salted water, keeping the peppers and cucumbers separate from the rest. In the morning wash well and drain thoroughly. Then heat sufficient vinegar to cover the pickles well, adding to it two tablespoonfuls of mixed ground spices, and two cups brown sugar. Tie the spices in a muslin bag. Boil all together. Add the chopped vegetables and boil until tender. Just before removing from the fire mix three tablespoons of tumeric with one cup of flour and moisten to a paste with a little vinegar; stir this into the chow chow and cook a few minutes longer. Keep in glass or stone jars, covered but not sealed.

MIXED PICKLES.

Slice one quart of green tomatoes, twelve small onions and four green peppers; cut one quart of young string beans in inch lengths; shave fine two large heads of white cabbage; separate three heads of cauliflower by breaking off each floret; soak these with 200 tiny cucumbers for twenty-four hours in a strong bring of salt and cold water. Let drain for three hours; then mix in quarter of a pound of white mustard seed, quarter of a pound of brown mustard seed, and a large tablespoon of black pepper; cover with vinegar and boil; then drain again and when cold stir in half a pint of ground mustard mixed with a little cold vinegar. Cover with good vinegar and put into glass jars. Tumeric may be used if you wish to color them. This pickle can be made at this season.

WEAR RUBBER SHOES.

Block of Houses Is Charged With Electricity.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14.—In two business blocks, near the center of the town of Abingdon, which seem to be charged with electricity, strange occurrences have taken place in forty-eight hours. The fluid takes strange freaks, and several accidents have occurred. Ever since the last electoral storm there have been slight disturbances, but no serious results were noticeable until within a few days ago.

First, the occupants of the bank building noticed that lightning seemed to play at intervals during the day. Treasurer G. A. Beal, of the Abingdon Savings bank, was at work on his books Friday when a huge ball of fire darted from the globe suspended from the ceiling. The light radiated like the spokes of a wheel, accompanied by a snapping noise like the jingling of a telephone during a storm. The sky was clear and there was no sign of a cloud.

In about an hour there was another display of electrical pyrotechnics that fairly flashed the room. In the Selectmen's rooms on the floor above the bank a radiator seemed to be fairly alive with electricity, and even the chairs were charged, and the occupants did not know whether to sit down or stand up. Every one who came in was cautioned and advised to wear rubbers and rubber gloves. There was such a demand for the latter that every pair in town was sold. Scores of occupants have suffered shocks, and it has been found dangerous to use the electric light knobs without the protection of rubber gloves.

The electricians cannot explain the phenomenon.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN

Because Parents Did Not Carry Out Contract.

New York, Aug. 14.—Annie Coleman, the belle of Gowanus, says that Reuben Kempner, a Brooklyn merchant, jilted her, and sues him for $5000 damages for breach of promise. Reuben makes a novel defense.

When the wedding, which was set for a few weeks ago, was not celebrated, the explanation was made that it had been postponed for family reasons, but the real reason is explained by the filing of the suit.

Mr. Kempner has sought advice from the law firm of House, Grossman & Vorhaus. The engagement to Miss Coleman is not denied. Kempner says he promised to marry, but when he came to reckon up his assets he discovered that his income was not sufficient to permit him to take so important a step. He says his failure to marry Miss Coleman is due to his inability to properly support and maintain a wife.

He says he told Annie's parents of the state of his finances and they sympathised with him. Then they said:

"If you will marry Annie we will make you a present of $1000 and set you up in business." Reuben accepted the proposition.

Now he sets up as a defense that Miss Coleman's parents have never carried out their agreement, and he therefore brings a counter claim against them for breach of contract. "No $1000, no wedding, is my motto," he declared yesterday.

AT WEST DULUTH

Max Shore, of West Duluth, had a warrant taken out for Mrs. Edward Gibbons, charging her with stealing a stove. The defendant pleaded not guilty and the hearing was set for Aug. 23. It appears from the statement of the plaintiff that he loaned the stove to a friend and that Mrs. Gibbons moved into the house when the friend moved out. Mr. Shore says he went after the stove, but it was not to be found, and some trouble ensued. He went alone and says that Mrs. Gibbons assaulted him with a broom, and that in protection to himself he took the broom away from her. The defendant, on the other hand, charges Mr. Shore with assaulting her with a board, and says she has a witness to prove it. Mr. Shore made a complaint against Mrs. Gibbons and asked for a warrant charging assault and battery, and Mrs. Gibbons shortly afterward asked for a warrant for Mr. Shore, making a similar charge. The warrants had not been issued in either instance this morning. It is said that the stove controversy could be settled out of court, providing the assault and battery cases were dropped, but this Mrs. Gibbons refuses to do and wants a jury trial. The matter was taken under advisement by Justice Stone.

Another West Duluth case was settled this morning. Yesterday Hibbie Price, a lad about 11 years of age, was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Emma Hase, who charged him with assaulting and beating her daughter, who is about the same age as the boy. The testimony showed that the girl aggravated the boy, and the trouble got into court more from neighborly wrangling than from damage done. This morning Judge Stone assessed the boy the costs of the suit, after giving him a fatherly talk about striking girls or women. The boy's father settled the costs.

PETITIONING THE BOARD.

Many residents and taxpayers of Oneota have signed a petition to be presented to the board of education, asking that Miss Ella R. Stringer be appointed principal of the Oneota school. Miss Stringer has taught there for the past six years, and the past three years has been assistant principal. She is well liked and the people in that district are using every endeavor to have her promoted.

NIGHT RUNS STOPPED.

The Merrill & Ring mill has shut down on night runs, commencing with last night, and will do no more sawing nights for the rest of the season. This action was necessary because of lack of dock room. The lumber docks of the company are filled up and it can take care of no more lumber than is cut by day runs. The Merrill & Ring mill has been sawing steadily day and night since the opening of the sawing season. The Mitchell & McClure company also has crowded docks, but has a little advantage in ample yards where some grades of the new cut lumber are being piled.

MACHINERY NOT HERE.

The Duluth Match company is still delayed by the non-arrival of some of its machinery. The plant is ready for operation just as soon as the machinery is here. The match machinery now placed was put in operation for a trial yesterday and a few matches turned out. The machinery is said to have worked perfectly and the finished product was fine. A number of West Duluthians have samples of the matches made yesterday.

STOLE A MONKEY.

Son of a Havana Lawyer In Trouble.

New York, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Rosalie Abreu, who is said to be a wealthy resident of Cuba, who spends most of her time in the United States, laid a complaint in the Jefferson market police court against Joachquin Calabiero, whose father is said to be a lawyer in Havana, that he had stolen a monkey belonging to her.

She said she had given the young man a trip to the Pan-American exposition recently because he had assisted her in finding some jewels. Later he came to her house at Long Branch and forced himself on her as a guest, although her house was full.

She was finally forced to ask him to leave, and shortly after his departure she missed a pet monkey. The next day she heard from Calabiero from New York. He offered to return the monkey for $500. She came here, and finally agreed to pay this, but when Calabiero saw what "easy money" she was he also demanded a bracelet she wore worth $2000. She refused this, and then Calabiero threatened to kill the monkey. This led to great excitement and the police were called and Calabiero arrested.

KILLED A TIGER.

Two Illinois Boys Have an Exciting Experience.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 14.—Joe Gregoire, 17 years old, and Joseph Le Brun, Jr., about the same age, claim to have killed a 6-foot tiger on a small island in the Kankakee river, five miles from this city. The boys started plover shooting and rowed to the island, where they saw an animal lying in the grass close to the water's edge.

The boys thought the object they could indistinctly see in the twilight was a dead hog until they noticed the gleam of its eyes and saw its flanks moving. The startled hunters retreated to their camp, where they procured cartridges charged with buckshot and two 44-caliber revolvers.

The animal had apparently not moved when they returned. Gregoire fired three shots, the first striking the animal in the ear. The beast rose with a snarl and fell back dead. Gregoire says he and his companions quarreled over the skin. Gregoire returned to camp, and when he went back to the island the beast's carcass had disappeared. Le Brun refused to say where it was. Gregoire has a reputation for truthfulness. It is supposed the animal escaped from some circus. Gregoire says it was gaunt, as though it had been without food for several days.

NOMENCLATURE.

Zoologists Argue on Proposed Changes.

Berlin, Aug. 14.—The most important question of the meeting of the zoological congress came up today, in the committee on nomenclature. Two propositions were presented. The French delegation proposed to make the existing nomenclature conform with the classic Latin, gramatically and etymologically. The American delegates proposed to make no changes, except in the case of obvious typographical errors. The Germans made a compromise proposition which did not find favor. After a warm discussion the French proposition was accepted, the Swiss delegates giving the deciding vote for the proposal. The Dutch delegates and part of the German delegation voted with the Americans. The British delegates voted with France.

GERMANY'S SYMPATHY.

Naples, Aug. 14.—The widow of Signor Crispi has received a telegram from Count Von Buelow, the Imperial chancellor of Germany, in which he says: "Germany deeply shares Italy's sorrow and will preserve faithful the memory of the eminent statesman and self-sacrificing patriot. The friendship which Francesco Crispi always showed for myself is counted by me among my most treasured memories."

Discuss Important Matters at Annual Convention.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The most important action to be considered at the present meeting of the American Association of Opticians, which is now holding its fourth annual convention in this city, is a plan to set a standard for opticians by making examinations under the auspices of the association. As contemplated, the opticians will be expected to have the equivalent of a high school training and two years' special study in opthamology. The examinations, as planned, will be given under the supervision of a board of regents appointed by the association.

The branches proposed as subjects for the examination are as follows: English, mathematics, physics, chemistry, anatomy, physeology, hygiene, mechanical optics, ocular pathology.

OUTRAGES AT MALTA.

Discontented Natives Disfigure Queen's Statue.

Valetta, Island of Malta, Aug. 14.—The discontent here, arising from the language question and other grievances, is growing more acute. Sunday the Union Jack was torn to pieces in the street, by a large body of demonstrators. This was followed by the disfiguring of Queen Victoria's jubilee statue last night. The marble was deluged with damaging acid. The perpetrators of the outrage have not been discovered.

FLAGLER DIVORCED.

Separation From Wife Under New Law.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 14.—Henry M. Flagler, the multi-millionaire oil magnate, has secured a divorce under the new Florida statute, which provides that insanity of four year's standing is sufficient ground for a divorce. The case was heard in chambers by Judge Miner S. Jones of the circuit court.

Former Governor Fleming, Mrs. Flagler's guardian ad litem, represented the defendant, but there was no defense. Mr. Flagler is 72 years old.

NEW ORLEANS FLOODED

Heavy Rains and Wind Caused Water to Back Up, Overflowing Low Parts of City and Causing Much Damage.

New Orleans, Aug. 15.—The storm which developed here yesterday afternoon, continued throughout the night and a heavy wind was still blowing today. Wind and rain were general along the coast and many trains are belated.

Reports from the Mississippi sound indicate that considerable damage has been done to bridges, bathing piers and wharves. Some small boats were damaged, but no lives were lost. Wires running to Port Eams are down. The backing up of the water in the river caused the overflow of much lowlands along the banks around and below the forks.

Much of the low section of the city is under water and scows have been brought into play to convey people to places of safety. Several factories have been closed. Lake Pontchartrain has been up into the old and new canals. Both overflowed their ganks for a considerable distance.

In the rear or low portions of the city, a thickly populated territory two miles in width, is flooded to a depth of two feet. There is considerable suffering among the poor.

A Louisville & Nashville train from the East, due at 7:20, has not yet arrived, nor have the coast trains over that road. The high water in the lake and the flood in the rear of the city doubtless have caused the delay. Hundreds of business men of New Orleans live along the gulf coast during the summer, and thus far have been unable to reach the city.

No advices have been received today by the Fort Jackson & Grand Isle road from Grand Isle and Cheniere Caminada. Many Louisiana people are spending the summer at Grand Isle, which is adjacent to the Cheniere. Over 2000 lives were lost at the latter place when that neck of land was swept by storms a few years ago.

The tug boat Neptune is reported to have capsized.

HE DISPERSED THE MOB

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 15.—A mob of fifty men entered the jail here early today with the intention of lynching Henry Pratt and another negro, charged with attempt at committing rape.

Sheriff Kyle was asleep in the jail. Gaining entrance to his room, members of the mob demanded the keys to the part of the jail containing the prisoners. The sheriff said they were in the safe in his office.

On the way to the office the sheriff managed to secure a shotgun. He then faced the crowd and drove them from the jail.

PUGNACIOUS

Shaffer Will Brook No Interference.

Conditions of Strike Remain Unchanged.

Pittsburg, Aug. 15.—President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association left the strike headquarters at 12:15 o'clock and made the following statement to newspaper men in waiting:

"I will say officially that the Amalgamated association has submitted no proposition to the Steel corporation, nor has the Steel corporation offered any proposition directly to the Amalgamated association. We have not heard from the corporation officially since our last conference in New York. I will say, however, that certain men are interfering in the matter, and interfering with our fight. They had better keep out of it or they will get the worst of it. Personally I wish the fight were settled, but now that we are forced into a fight and called upon to defend ourselves, we are fighting on successfully. I know of no plan for a settlement and can assure you that no representative of the Steel corporation has been to these headquarters. The statement in a morning paper that there is a movement to depose me and that we are not working in harmony is a lie."

Rev. Fitzwilliams interrupted to say: "Brother Shaffer, you ought to go East and hold a meeting. They don't understand the question there."

"That's right," said Mr. Shaffer, "and we may get down there yet. I have no reports from Mr. Tighe, at Chicago. He went with full authority to act for me. If the lodges do not come out their charters will be taken. Brother Tighe knows my mind fully and has the authority. Mr. Kelly, of Milwaukee, and Mr. Adams, of Joliet, are here, but I have not had time to talk to them. If closing down mills and winning men are successful, we are successful. Personally I wish the strike were settled. I have no reports from the Lower Union mill, but our fight goes well. I cannot disclose our plans or tell you of our hidden strength. That will be shown when the men come out."

Pittsburg, Aug. 15.—There was no material change in the strike situation today. No moves were made on either side in the vicinity of Pittsburg and reports from the other strike centers were to the effect that quiet prevailed. It is believed the officials of the Amalgamated association are considering plans to extend the strike to the Western mills, despite the decision of the local lodges to remain at work. Their organizers, who were so successful in the Wheeling district, have, it is said, been instructed to hold themselves in readiness to start West. There is a secret conference in progress at strike headquarters today, but its nature and participants are not known. One report is that Michael Kelly, special representative of the Milwaukee lodge, has reached here and is closeted with President Shaffer and his associates. President Shaffer, when asked by a representative of the Associated Press if Mr. Kelly was at headquarters said:

"I cannot tell who is meeting with us. Later in the day I may tell you something. The general situation is very satisfactory. We had a splendid meeting at Wheeling yesterday and I am very well pleased."

None of the other officials would talk for publication. President Shaffer said that the nomination for the presidency of the United States, offered to him at Wheeling yesterday, was a joke.

The short crews at work in the Painter and Lindsay & McCutcheon mills resumed work today, and no attempt was made at either place to add to the force. Two crews are at work at the former and one at the latter. The Lower union mill of the Carnegie company is still in operation, but the final result there is in doubt. The Amalgamated men are making every possible effort to get the force reduced to a point where the plant will have to close down and the company seems just as determined to keep it going. Victory will be prized by the winning side. Both claim ultimate success. The strikers look for further impairment of the productive capacity of the National Tube company, and claim every additional plant closed down brings them nearer to success. They say they are getting more encouragement every day and that they are receiving all the support, financial and otherwise, from other unions that they counted on in their original plans.

McKeesport advices are to be the effect that there is nothing new in the situation. The strike leaders have warned their followers to avoid trouble and the city is quiet.

Wellsville reports that eight men were brought to the mill from Scottdale yesterday. They were allowed to enter the plant without interference. The strike breakers are quartered at the mill and the only demonstrations against them come when the non-union men go down into the town.

The five local lodges of the Amalgamated association at McKeesport have made an application to the local merchants for financial aid and petitions are going about in their behalf. They say they are meeting with liberal responses. President Holloway of Enterprise lodge stated today that since the strike began thirty lodges had been formed in United States Steel properties by the Amalgamated association. The strikers are stirred up by the report that the Demirrel plant is to be started up with non-union men from Monessen. The plant has been fenced in with high boards and barbed wire.

In Pittsburg quietness generally prevails. The strikers have pickets around the works that are partly in operation, or completely closed down, and there have been some minor clashes.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE

Manila, Aug. 15.—Second Lieut. Walter S. Grant of the Sixth cavalry, while scouting with a detachment near Taal, Batangas province, has made what the military authorities consider to be the most important capture since Aguinaldo was made prisoner. Grant captured Col. Martin Cabrera, his adjutant and six other insurgents. Cabrera had been growing in power for some time. He controlled all the insurgents in Southern Batangas and also those westward of the city of Batangas.

Col. Panganiban, a captain and twenty men, with twenty-six rifles and considerable ammunition have surrendered to Lieut. Smith of the Twentieth infantry, near Luzos. They formed a portion of Gen. Malvar's command. After taking the oath they were released.

Capt. Policarpio, a lieutenant and five men from the Sixth company of Malvar's command also surrendered to Col. Baldwin, refusing at the same time payment for their rifles and revolvers and saying that they surrendered for peace and not for money.

Lieut. Evans reports that he has not seen or heard of any insurgents recently on the island of Mindoro. He reports burning a camp, however, and he succeeded in capturing thirty tons of rice. He says the people in the valley back of Naugan reside in the richest farming country of the islands. The district is thickly settled and plentifully supplied with cattle and rice.

Gen. Chaffee is greatly pleased by these accounts from the province of Batangas and the island of Mindoro.

DOWN THE PACIFIC SIDE

Washington, Aug. 15.—It has now been definitely determined that the United States will be represented on the Pacific side of the Isthmus of Panama as well as on the Atlantic side. Thus far the Iowa is coming down to San Francisco to be in readiness to go south, and the Ranger is already there. But while the formal orders have not been issued, one or the other of these ships is to proceed South to look after American interests. The probability is that it will be the Ranger, as she is further down the coast, and the trouble does not appear to warrant the presence of a battleship. The state department is without any additional word from Colombia or Venezuela concerning the disorders.

At the Venezuelan legation, Senor Pulide, the charge d' affaires, expressed a firm belief that there was no actual war between his country and Colombia for he said he would be immediately cabled if war between the two countries had been declared or even was imminent.

As to the casualty reports from the battles said to have been fought in Tachira on the Venezuelan border, he did not believe them exaggerated to any great extent for he pointed out that a single battle between revolutionists in South America actually left more dead on the field than did our whole Spanish-American war.

SHE JUMPED TO DEATH

Atlantic City, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Felix Cahoe, 40 years old, of Cincinnati, left her room early today and, going to the porch of the hotel where she and her husband were stopping, jumped to the ground and fractured her skull. When found by the night clerk and her husband she was dead. Nervous prostration caused the suicide.

HELD UP STAGE.

One Lone Highwayman Did the Job.

Calistoga, Cal., Aug. 15.—The Calistoga and Clear Lake stage was held up by a lone highwayman. The passengers, numbering twenty or more were relieved of their money. The mail bags and express box were rifled. The amount of money secured has not yet been ascertained. A posse is in pursuit of the bandit.

PUGILIST KILLED.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—News of the death of Otto Cribb, the Australian pugilist, has just been received. On the night of July 22, Cribb fought "Micky" Dunn in Sydney and was knocked out. He was found the next day dead in bed. Cribb was well known on this coast, having fought several battles here.

WHEELMEN.

Buffalo, Aug. 15.—The League of American Wheelmen have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: M. M. Belding, of New York, president; C. H. Van Hoon, of Chicago, vice president; Abbott Bassett, of Boston, secretary and treasurer.

ON STATE ISSUES

Will the Democratic Campaign In Pennsylvania Be Fought.

No National Issues Are Mentioned In the Platform.

Strong Denunciation of the Corrupt Republican Legislature.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—The campaign for the ticket nominated by today's Democratic state convention will be entirely on state issues. No mention is made in the platform of the name of William J. Bryan or free silver, imperialism and other national issues. The last legislature is condemned for the passage of rapid transit and "ripper" bills, and pronounced the most corrupt legislative body that ever convened in this country. All friends of good government are invited to join the Democracy in its efforts to "save the state from further dishonor."

The platform was prepared at a conference of the party leaders which lasted until daybreak, and it is one of the most remarkable declarations of principles ever issued by a state convention in Pennsylvania. Those Democratic legislators who joined with the Republican majority in passing the bills condemned by the platform are left to their immediate constituents for the "infliction of political punishment."

The following is the platform:

The Democracy in Pennsylvania assembled makes this declaration of convictions and purposes in the coming election.

Waiving all questions and propositions upon which the people of the nation divide into political parties, we call upon all honest citizens to unite with us for the redemption of our commonwealth from the political free-booters who now control it.

We invite all political parties, all organizations of men, needful of the public welfare and all Pennsylvanians to join us in a crusade for the purification of the polluted channels of public authority.

We deplore, with all good men, the need of masking the question of common honesty and decent administration an issue to divide the people of a great state, but to this deplorable necessity we have been brought by the outrages of Republican machine government.

Every department of our state government is honey-combed with profligacy, dishonesty and a reckless disregard of constitutional or moral obligations.

The powers of government are prostituted to the purpose of public thieves.

Constitutional restraints and commands, the sanctity of law, the obligations of official oaths and the demands of common honesty are thrust aside by the substitution of a higher law, the demands of an insatiate greed of public plunderers for money, money, more money.

Shamelessly and openly the votes of legislators are bought and so persistently and consequently that market values for legislators have been established by settled custom.

The apparent indifference of our people to these outrages emboldened the corruptionists to such an extent that the last session of our legislature out-Heroded Herod in its infamies. It was the most corrupt legislative body that ever convened in any state of the Union. Its very organization was founded on the purchase of venal legislators with money and place and it closed its session with the crowning infamy of that most stupendous franchise steal, shocking the moral sense of the entire country. The selection of a United States senator was accomplished in a carnival of corruption and bribery. In the reckless determination to punish enemies and reward subservient tools, established municipal governments were ruthlessly overturned and the chosen servants of the people expelled from their offices to make place for the creatures of a corrupt machine.

The faith of the people in the sanctity of the judiciary was broken by its halting efforts to find plausible excuse for the crime. Foiled in its efforts to rob the state of millions of dollars of valuable coal deposits, the legislature proceeded to that other and greater robbery of the railway franchises of the state, worth millions to the plunderers and stripping every city, town and township in the commonwealth of the proper control of its streets for trolley improvements.

Even the public charities of the state, its hospitals and asylums and the comfort of their unfortunate inmates, were made the sport of political greed and their appropriations measured and determined by their use and services to the machine.

No possible field of corruption was left uncultivated by the crew of public plunderers who have seized upon our state—plunderers who in the name of a great party have prostituted all the purposes and powers of government to their own enrichment. For these crimes we indict the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, as it is now called.

Of the participation and assistance of unworthy Democratic legislators in these wrongs, this convention declares its strongest condemnation. They have betrayed their constituents, inflicted lasting, irreparable injury on their party and proven themselves unworthy of public confidence. We leave to their immediate constituents the infliction of political punishment.

We cannot refrain at this time from commending and thanking those Democratic members of the legislature, who stood manfully and faithfully by their party against the perpetrators of their wrongs.

In our effort to save our state from further dishonor, we ask all friends of good government to joint. We make this fight, not as a political organization, seeking a partisan advantage, but in the interest of all Pennsylvanians and will welcome a closer pledge to the same purposes.

The convention was called to order by State Chairman Creasy. After the reading of the call for the convention, Charles J. Reilly, of Williamsport, was introduced as temporary chairman.

While the convention was assembling, leaders of the rival factions held a conference at the State hotel, at which it was decided to settle the dissensions between the Philadelphia factions by having the state chairman appoint an advisory committee of five to reorganize the Democracy of the Quaker City. The committee will begin work on Feb. 1 next. This was satisfactory to both sides and disposes of the contest between the two factions. After the appointment of a committee on resolutions the convention took a recess until 3 o'clock.

Robert E. Wright, of Allentown, was chosen chairman of the resolutions committee; William J. Brennan, of Pittsburg, chairman of the credentials committee, and Timothy O'Leary, of Pittsburg, chairman of the committee on permanent organization.

REAL WAR

Is Raging Between Colombia and Venezuela.

Over 1100 Killed and Wounded In One Battle.

New York, Aug. 15.—Details regarding the Venezuelan-Colombian conflict of July 28, have been received and convey the first intimation that the battle was a serious one. The engagement was fought at Las Pilas, La Parada and Pirineos, and lasted twenty-six hours. The Colombian forces were compelled to retire, but not until 1100 of both sides had been killed and wounded. Among these were Gen. Rezendo Medina, of the Venezuelan side and four colonels. The army of 6000 invaders was divided into twenty-eight regiments, some of which were regular Colombian army, commanded by government officers and using the army artillery.

Because of the strict postal, press and cable censorship exercised the victories won by the rebels in several battles were until now given as mere rumors. A list of these battles was among the advices received by Dr. Restrepo. On July 10, according to insurgent advices, Gen. Jose M. Castillo defeated the government troops under Gen. Luis Velez at Palmira, taking many prisoners, arms and supplies. Gen. Clodomiro Castillo won a battle over a regiment that attempted to intercept his command in its march to Rio Hacha. Gen. Marinas' forces have won several engagements, and now practically controls the department of Tolima. Two other battles, with favorable results, for the rebels, took place at Canazas and Gatun, department of Panama.

Four battles have been fought during the last month in the south of Cauca, which were also government defeats, though details are lacking.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 15.—The British steamer Darien has arrived here from Colon and brings reports of heavy fighting Monday on the outskirts of Panama and Colon. The rebels were steadily advancing on the towns proper. A large number of men had been wounded.

A large number of wounded men belonging to the government troops were taken to Colon Monday. This is regarded as an indication of the persistency of the rebel attacks.

The converted cruiser Namouna has been found to be practically useless owing to the bungling attempts to mount heavy guns on board her. The Colombian government is now negotiating for the purchase of the steamer Bernard Hall.

The Darien brought forty passengers, who were obliged to leave Colon in order to escape the danger and to avoid conscription. The British consul at Colon has entered a protest against Jamaicans being compelled by the Colombian government to fight against the rebels. The passengers of the Darein say the chances of the Liberals succeeding seem better than ever since the commencement of the revolution.

Guards are still kept on board the trains running between Panama and Colon.

Both sides are committing atrocities. In the attack made on the government troops Sunday, a few miles out of Colon, the rebels defeated the government forces and one of the latter was found shot in the abdomen and both legs amputated. This was a reprisal for the torture by the government of the revolutionists.

TRAIN LEFT THE RAILS

Accident on the Canadian Pacific Road Near Ingolf Caused Death to Several and Severe Injury to Others.

Winnipeg, Aug. 15.—A railroad accident occurred near Ingolf last evening and the following official statement is issued from the Canadian Pacific railroad offices:

"The extra for the West with harvesters from the maritime provinces left the track three miles east of Ingolf at 5 o'clock, the cause said to be rail breaking under the engine while the train was passing over it. The engine and five coaches were derailed and the following passengers are reported killed and injured:

"John Reed, Newfoundland, head and leg injured; Martin Almon, Cape Breton, head injured; James Craig, York county, N. B., seriously cut on head; Dan White, Kent City, N. B., dead; Donald McKegan, Cape Breton, dead; Thomas Corwin, fireman of engine, leg badly injured. Wrecking train with three doctors on board left Winnipeg for scene immediately on receipt of news. Another wrecking train from Rat Portage with two doctors has gone from Rat Portage."

MISSING SHIP LOCATED

The Manchester Which Sailed Last Summer Lies a Total Wreck on Uninhabited Island of Marshall Group.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—It is believed in marine circles that the missing ship Manchester, which sailed from New York on the 23rd of last August, with a cargo of kerosene for Yokohama, has been found. She lies a total wreck on the desert island of Pikar, in the Marshall group. How many persons survived is not known, but it is certain that a woman and her children landed on the island.

A private letter received on the Australian steamer Sonoma relates the finding of the wreck. The writer says:

"A mysterious wreck was reported from Sydney, N. S. W., July 18, by Capt. Henry of the island trading steamer Archer, which recently touched at Jaluit, one of the Marshall group. Here it was learned that the island trading cutter belonging to a German firm at Jaluit had found parts of the hull of a large ship and over 400 cases of kerosene strewn along the shores of Pikar island.

"The island is uninhabited, but in walking along the beach the crew of the cutter came across footprints and traces which showed that someone had been there. Among the footprints were those of a woman and several children.

"The conclusion arrived at was that a portion of the crew had landed on the island, the survivors including the captain's wife and family. Marks on the beach also disclosed the fact that two boats were hauled up on the beach and were subsequently launched.

"Continuing along the beach, the voyagers found the body of a man. A certificate—that of a chief officer—was found in one of the pockets, and was turned over to the German governor of the island.

TESTING KOCH'S THEORY

Several Chicago Subjects Have Been Inoculated With Skin Tuberculosis With Germs From Infected Cattle.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Dr. Koch's theory that bovine tuberculosis cannot be communicated to human beings is now being tested under the direction of the Chicago health department. Several men are now undergoing the experiment of inoculation under the direction of Dr. Reilly, acting commissioner of health. The experiment is made with skin tuberculosis—lupus—a form of the disease which is curable and controllable. Just as satisfactory a test, it is asserted by Dr. Reilly, can be secured by inoculating the skin of the human being with the baccilus from the animal as could be obtained from experiments with pulmonary tuberculosis. The one is feasible, because it does not endanger life. Because the other does, it is regarded as impracticable.

The volunteers have been inoculated with the germs obtained from infected cows. Their condition a few weeks hence, it is thought, will definitely show if Dr. Koch's theory is correct. Dr. Reilly, in speaking of this experiment, said several offers have been obtained from persons willing to subject themselves to inoculation with the more serious species of bovine tuberculosis, but that fortunately their offers were not needed to be accepted.

One volunteer, who hails from Michigan, offered himself as a subject without requiring an annuity for his family. The proposal was referred to the corporation counsel's office, and precipitated a discussion of the liability of the city for damages in case of a fatal termination of the test. Corporation Counsel Walker finally advised the health officials not to accept. The city would be held responsible, Mr. Walker said, for the death of the subject. The decision put an end to any plans the city might have undertaken for a test of the theory in pulmonary tuberculosis.

FOREIGN SUSPICION

France Fears United States Will Occupy the Isthmus.

Says Only Safety of Latin Countries Lies In Federation.

Gen. Uribe-Uribe Is Not Dead But Fighting Fiercely.

New York, Aug. 13.—Paris papers continue to regard the attitude of the United States in Central America with suspicion, says the Paris correspondent of the Herald.

The Temps in an editorial says: "The salvation of the Latin race in the states of Central and South America lies in federation and union. Their political vices and divisions keep them in a feeble condition which places them at the mercy of the formidable Anglo-Saxon confederation in the north, whose policy extends its cupidity aver the entire continent, which it has proclaimed its own by the Monroe doctrine. What was originally a moral protectorate the United States aims by degrees to render effective with or without a Pan-American congress.

"The conflict between Colombia and Venezuela serves this policy so well that one cannot but feel the hand of the Americans in the imbroglio. It furnishes them with the desired pretext for sending a squadron to both sides of the isthmus and exercising jurisdiction and police control, by virtue of the treaty of 1846 with Colombia, in the district of the interoceanic canal, which they mean to have all to themselves by tearing up, if necessary, the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, by which they agreed with England on its neutrality."

The Francais says: "Americans are impatiently seeking an opportunity of laying hands on the isthmus of Panama, and, should an opportunity not present itself, are determined to provoke it.

"Already Yankee journalists and diplomatists are declaring the United States has no need of a pretext for occupying the isthmus. They point to the treaty by which Americans undertake to defend the isthmus against every foreign power, but no foreign power menaces Colombia, not one except its good friend and ally, its vigilant protector, the great union of North America."

The Figaro says: "Civil war and foreign war, a Colombian insurrection supported by Venezuela, a Venezuelan insurrection favored by Colombia, divergent views between the governments on the one hand and between the two insurrections on the other, imminent intervention by the United States, and, to crown all, insecurity of citizens, instability of home relations and rupture of communications with the outer world—such, in a few words, is the summing up of the confused situation."

The Tribune says: The Colombians here who discredited the report of their government that Gen. Rafael Uribe-Uribe had been killed in battle were right. Two communications have been received from the rebel chief by Dr. A. J. Restrepo, representing the liberal party in this country. These not only overcome all doubt as to whether Gen. Uribe-Uribe is really alive, but convey the further news that he is in the thick of the conflict. One was a letter dated Aug. 3, at San Cristobal, Vex, and the other a cable dispatch from Maracaibo, dated Aug. 10, which had been sent for transmission from the former place.

Gen. Iguruan announced that Gen. Uribe-Uribe was killed on July 27. The Maracaibo message said: "Complete victory over invaders under Gen. Gonzales Valencia." This refers to the invasion of last Friday and explains the complicated affairs on the Venezuelan and Colombian frontiers. It proves, too, Colombians here said, the correctness of a report from another source, that Gen. Uribe-Uribe is not yet in Colombia, but in reality is commanding the Venezuelan army which defeated the invaders from Colombia.

It is further asserted that President Cipriano Castro of Venezuela cabled to Gen. Uribe-Uribe when the latter was in this city to come immediately to his assistance when he learned of the attacks being prepared at Cucuato. This request accounts for Uribe's hurried departure for Venezuela. The Venezuelan government, to avoid trouble, has claimed that Gen. Clestino Castro, a brother of the president, led the troops in these battles.

Paul Parez, secretary of the liberal diplomatic agency, said yesterday: "The Colombian and Venezuelan clericals organized an invasion against the Liberal Venezuelan government, and on the other side the Venezuelan and Colombian Liberals prepared themselves to meet the invaders at the frontier. Gen. Uribe-Uribe is at the head of the Colombian element of that army. Most likely he was the commanding general who obtained the two victories of July 29 and Aug. 9.

Venezuela has not reason to declare war against Colombia, because the clerical invasionhas been completely defeated, and before two months elapse the liberal party will be in power in Colombia. On the other hand, the clerical government of Colombia is not in a position to declare war against Venezuela."

In is letter General Uribe-Uribe, besides saying that he hoped soon to be on his way to Bogota, does not mention anything of his future plans.

According to latest bulletin in a Colombian insurrectionist, copies of which have just been received here, the rebels have a fighting strength of 28,000 men, distributed and commanded as follows:

At San Cristobal, under the direct command of Gen. Uribe 10,000; northern part of the department of Magdalena, under Gen. Clodomiro Castillo, 1500; southern part of Magdalena, under Gen. Jose M. Castillo, 2000; province of Ocana (Santander), under Gen. Ardila, 2000.

In the town of Obita, department of Boyaca, under Gen. Rafael Camacho, 2000; department of Tolima, under Gen. Marin, 4000; southern part of the department of Cauca, near the Ecuadorian frontier, under Gens. B. Herrears and A. Rosas, 4000.

In the isthmus of Panama, in separate regiments which will unite soon under command of one chief, 2500.

NOT A WORD

Will President Gompers Say Concerning the Steel Strike.

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor still declines to discuss the steel strike. He refused today to say whether the executive council of the federation was to be called together or to be communicated with regarding the federation's attitude, and said that it was a matter that neither interested or concerned the public.

"Is there any intention on the part of the federation to render material assistance to the strikers?" he was asked.

"I am not accustomed," he replied, "to use language that means nothing. What I said in the statements I have given out I mean. That's all I have to say. I am not participating in a newspaper discussion of the strike. Some of the papers criticise the two sides in the strike as being too garrulous on the one side and being discreetly silent on the other. I am not acting through the newspapers. The public have no concern in what I propose to do, and I shall not be forced to say what is going to be done."

SUREST

Investment For the Protection of Business or Family.

New York, Aug. 15.—Careful examination of the reports of leading life insurance companies shows that in a great majority of cases the beneficiaries receive much more than the total amount paid to the company by the insured. This is in every case in direct proportion to the thrift of management and the character of investments of the company.

The Mutual Life Insurance company, of New York, by far the largest and strongest of the life companies, reports for the five weeks ending Aug. 3 a total of 359 death claims, amounting to $1,341,197.38. For this the insured paid a total of but $668,967.98, or not quite half the amount received by the beneficiaries. Between Jan. 1 and July 1, 1901, the Mutual Life paid 2312 death claims for $8,138,298.89, which cost the insured only $3,742,353.81, much less than one-half. The company has returned to policy holders a grand total of over $550,000,000 and has steadily growing assets of more than $330,000,000.

These are among the reasons which are inducing so many thrifty business men to look to life insurance as the surest and most profitable investment for the protection of business or family. The Mutual Life is said to be writing much more insurance than in any previous year.

STRAUB DISCHARGED.

Court Decides Against the Brokers In Queer Case.

New York, Aug. 15.—Dr. Adam H. Straub, who was held for the grand jury on a charge of the larceny of $5400 from Schalk, Ward & Wagner, stock brokers, was discharged by Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court. Dr. Straub was short of Northern Pacific in the corner of May 9 last, and his brokers called on him for more margins. He gave them a check for $5400, but, learning that they had sold out his holdings without notice as the advance in the stock proceeded, he went to his bank in Brooklyn and drew out his money, so that the check given to the brokers was not paid.

The brokers charged that in drawing the money for which he had already given them a check, he was guilty of larceny. Justice O'Gorman says that the money continued to be the property of the drawer of the check until the acceptance or payment of the check. He finds that no crime was committed.

Dr. Straub has an action pending for damages and malicious prosecution.

Muscle

Does not make the man. "The blood is the life," the vital force of the body. So it not infrequently happens that the man who looks to be a picture of physical strength falls a sudden victim to disease. A proper care for the blood would prevent many a serious sickness.

The cleansing of the blood is perfectly accomplished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It drives out the impurities and poisonous substances which corrupt the blood and breed disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of pure blood. It builds up the entire body with good sound flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" does so to gain the little more profit paid by inferior medicines. There is nothing "just as good" for the blood as "Golden Medical Discovery" therefore accept no substitute.

"I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my blood," writes Mr. William D. Shamblin, of Keiny, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory. "I had 'ring worms' on me and I would burn them off and they would come right back, and they were on me when I commenced using 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they went away and I haven't been bothered any more."

SOLDIERS WILL GO

"Put Me Off at Buffalo," Sings the National Guardsman.

Third Regiment Will Go In Force Early Next Month.

Supposition That Trip Had Been Abandoned Is Dispelled.

Significant orders were received by the Duluth National Guard companies last night. The entire regiment may be called out early next month and hurried East on a special train to see the Pan-American exposition.

Duluth members of the Third regiment had just about given up making the trip as a regimental organization, when the order came from Col. C. A. Van Duzee, calling on company commanders to fit their men out with khaki uniforms preparatory to the ocular attack on the Buffalo attractions.

The order was something of a surprise. The trip to Buffalo has been thought of, talked of and even dreamed of by the soldiers for several months, but recently it was feared that the plan had dropped through. Col. Van Duzee notified the various commanding officers that it has not, and says that they must prepare their men for the trip.

The entire trip, including a 10-day stay in Buffalo, will only cost each man $20, unless there is a disposition to spend more. However, each company must average forty men.

It was thought that owing to the fact that most of the men in the Third regiment took their vacation in making the march from Hillara to Brainerd in June, few could get off, but it is said that the two Duluth companies will have very little trouble in mustering forty men each for the trip.

In Buffalo the regiment will go into camp, and all the camp equipment will be furnished by the state.

APPLYING FOR GAMES.

High School Getting Applications From Other Schools.

Football practice commenced this afternoon on the field diagonally opposite the High School and a few knights of the gridiron donned their rubber noses and canvas suits for a short light practice. Only the preliminary work will be taken for the remainder of this week, the heavier work to come next week, after the football meeting which will be held in the Assembly hall of the High School Tuesday evening. It is hoped that tomorrow afternoon a sufficient number of new men will be out to make two teams. If twenty-two men turn out two teams will be picked and lined up.

Professor Hutchinson, the manager of the football team, announces that he has received communications from St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Ashland in regard to games. None of these places have fixed their schedules as yet. It is intended by the management of the team here to arrange for the early dates to be played in Duluth as the uncertain weather of this country makes it unadvisable to play here later in the season. More enthusiasm has been shown so far in the football line than ever before, and the prospects for a championship team are good.

LAWYER EVANGELIST.

Norman H. Camp of Chicago Goes to Range.

Lawyer Evangelist Norman H. Camp, of Chicago, arrived in Duluth Tuesday and left the same day for Ely to engage in holding tent meetings. He comes to work in connection with the Bethel association. Mr. Camp was a prominent lawyer in Chicago and gave up his practice to engage in religious work. He has been, for the past six months, associated with the Rev. W. R. Newell in their great union evangelistic meetings held in the Coliseum building at St. Louis, and he has been very successful in his new field of work.

Mr. Camp was accompanied by M. C. Martin, gospel singer, also of Chicago.

It is the intention of the Bethel association to have these workers hold meetings in several other towns along the range. Pastors interested in securing these workers for union meetings should correspond at once with Charles F. Robel, general superintendent, Duluth.

A HEARING.

District Court Will Inquire Into Burt Bellinger's Condition.

The condition of the mind of Burton H. Bellinger will probably be under the consideration of the district court within a day or two. Yesterday afternoon C. O. Baldwin, Bellinger's attorney, prepared an affidavit signed by Harlow C. Bellinger, Burt's brother, stating the belief of the affiant that the prisoner is insane, and asking that an examination be held by the court.

The affidavit has been filed with the court, and either Judge Cant or Judge Dibell will arrange this afternoon or tomorrow for a hearing. The law requires it to be held immediately, so little time will be wasted in getting at it. As there are no jurors in attendance on the term, the hearing will probably be before the court alone.

An Automobile Race.

A feature of the Buffalo exposition will be a race between automobiles representing all nations. Although it is claimed that France is ahead of us in the construction of these vehicles, it is hoped that American manufacturers will come in first. America generally keeps at the head of the procession in all lines of industry, science and medicines. No country in the world has ever produced so good a medicine for the cure of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For over fifty years it has been the standard medicine. It promotes sound sleep, restores the appetite and cures dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and biliousness, also prevents malaria, fever and ague. Do not fail to try the Bitters, as it will surely do you good.

COKE Dandruff Cure

Indorsed by Prominent Barbers.

United States Senate,
Washington, D. C., Jan. 18, 1900.
Messrs. A. R. Bromer Company, Chicago, Ill.:

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in stating that I have been a barber for thirty-eight years, thirty-three of which I have spent in the United States senate barber shop. Having used a great many hair tonics during that period, I do not know of any that is the equal of Coke Dandruff Cure, as my personal experience with this remedy has been for two years daily use in this shop.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN HICKMAN,
Foreman of Official Barbers, U. S. Senate.

AT WEST DULUTH

Alderman Edward Swenson says that the people that oppose his proposed measure for the opening of Fremont street misunderstood the situation or there would be no opposition. Mr. Swenson says his policy is that the city should acquire all the right-of-way possible when it can be secured for a song, whether any action is or is not taken to go ahead with the improvement right away. Mr. Swenson says that the beginning of condemnation proceedings for the opening of Fremont street will not necessarily mean the improvement of a road clear through at the present time, though one would be desirable. He says that enough material could be excavated on the proposed route to fill in ravines and considerable money saved by this means. Mr. Swenson says that of the four lots spoken of one belongs to the city, the owner of another is ready to donate it to the city and all the purchase necessary would be of two fractional lots. The building that would have to be removed in the event that the road is put through, Alderman Swenson says, is an old unoccupied store building and not worth much.

K. OF P. BAND EXCURSION.

For some time past there has been a complaint on part of West Duluthians because no excursions have been arranged from this part of the city on the larger excursion steamers, and those that have participated in steamer rides around the horn have had to go to Duluth to get a boat and run the risk of missing the last car home. The K. of P. band, which has been furnishing a large part of the music on the excursions on the bay, has engaged the Bloomer Girl and will give an excursion around the horn from West Duluth on Tuesday night next. The band has donated its services free of charge and furnished music to the public on many occasions and the opportunity is an excellent one to have a fine ride and do the band a service. The band will furnish music during the ride.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A very enjoyable time was had with games and music. Those present were: Misses Ada Burnside, Katherine McBeth, Clara Towner, Jennie Dass, Mary Scott, Katherine Ellis, Louise Ellis, Frances Kern, Florence Kern, Grace Clark and Bessie Hendrickson.

IN A PERILOUS POSITION.

A thrilling contest took place between two of the employes of the Mitchell & McClure mill last evening. It was an affair without gloves and was pulled off out on the booms. No arrangements had been made beforehand, for it was one of those impromptu affairs that often occurs when two men fail to agree. In spite of the precarious position on the logs out in the water, the combatants are said to have had a hot scrap, when the largest of the two got the smaller man down and chucked his head under water a few times. The scrap ended with the smaller man chasing the larger off the boom with a pike pole.

MILLERS GROW NOISY.

Endeavor to Drown Sound of the Waters.

Stilled is the merry hum of violent lung to lung conversation in a certain St. Croix avenue happy home, where Blanche Miller—blonde, plump and pleasant—and her husband, are wont to listen to the purling waters purl through the canal, or betimes disport themselves beside the sad sea waves. The cause is not fraught with deep mystery.

The police claim that in two small back rooms in this happy home there occurred much quarreling, fighting, reviling, disorderly monologue and drunkenness. One officer became so excited that he says the murmurs of the Millers disturbed the neighborhood, while their shrieks caused heavily laden ore vessels out on the lake, to sheer off fifteen points from their courses.

Blanche Miller was fined a nominal amount, but her husband asked to have the matter discussed at further length on Monday.

New Company Formed.

The Adams Security company filed its articles of incorporation this morning in the office of the register of deeds. It is empowered to do a mining, manufacturing, real estate and financial business for thirty years, with a capital stock of $50,000 and indebtedness limited to the same amount. The incorporators are E. Frankenfield, president and treasurer; William Elder, vice president, and Arthur Howell, secretary.

The official route to the encampment will be via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road to Chicago and thence over the Nickle Plate road to Cleveland and a round trip fare of $14.82 has been arranged for. About fifteen veterans from this city are expected to attend and the outlook for a pleasant time is very bright. Those who are going are to send their names to Jacob Laux.

Keilley-Williams.

Last evening at 1724 West New street occurred the marriage of David Williams and Miss Josephine Keilley, in the presence of some forty invited guests. The house was beautifully decorated, with pink and white the prevailing colors. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Loughridge, of the Second Baptist church. The bride was charmingly attired in cream silk and carried white roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Louise Keilley, a sister of the bride, who was gowned in pale blue silk and carried red roses. The best man was R. J. Keilley. An elaborate wedding supper was served. The newly married couple will reside at 2002 West Superior street, and were driven to their new home last evening, deferring a wedding trip until later.

THE RED MEN.

They Had a Very Successful Convention at Walker.

The annual Red Men's convention of the state of Minnesota met Tuesday at Walker, Minn., and very profitable and interesting sessions were held. Duluth sent about twenty-five people down on a special car, who succeeded in carrying off the highest state office, that of great sachem, Dr. R. H. Pierce being elected to the position. The morning was taken up with routine matters, several of the laws being changed and new resolutions being passed. The membership of the order in Minnesota has increased 40 per cent during the past year and about 4000 are enrolled. There is $3000 in the treasury, and the order is in a very prosperous condition.

The election of officers took place in the afternoon, when Dr. R. H. Pierce, of Duluth, was elected great sachem; Ross Hagard, of Minneapolis, was elected great senior sagamore; W. H. Cowles, of St. Peter,, was elected great junior sagamore; F. J. Hebl, of St. Paul, became the great chief of records, and J. A. Forsell, of St. Paul, was made great keeper of wampum. F. J. Hebl and T. W. Score, of St. Paul, and H. A. Finlason, of Minneapolis, were elected great representatives.

The Flatmouth tribe of Walker did everything in its power to give the visitors a good time. A parade was held and excursions on the lake, a visit to the historic battle ground where Maj. Wilkinson was killed and an Indian war dance occupied the time very pleasantly. All of the real Indian chiefs of that section of the country were out in their full regalia and some of them presented very laughable sights.

The Duluth delegation returned to Duluth this morning. Red Wing captured the next convention.

AMUSEMENTS.

"DAUGHTER OF THE DIAMOND KING."

"The Daughter of the Diamond King" was presented at the Lyceum last evening before a small audience. It was a very fair production, better than was expected. The play is good and the cast competent.

"LOVERS' LANE."

"Lovers' Lane," the new Clyde Fitch play, will be presented under William A. Brady's direction, at the Lyceum tomorrow and Saturday evening. It is unlike any of the previous Clyde Fitch plays. It depicts with satrical touch the oddities of social and church life in a small New England town. Among those who interpret the humor and sentiment of "Lovers' Lane" are a young village clergyman, sincere and earnest, but unconventional in his methods; the general storekeeper, the shrewish school mistress, the gossiping members of the church choir, a precocious child from the orphan asylum, a local opera house manager, who posts his own bills and leads his own orchestra, and a couple of aged pensioners upon the parson's bounty, who dwell under his roof and decide to marry that he may have the use of another room.

IS PLENTY OF GAME

Reports From Woods That Hunting Will Be Good.

Trout Season Ends and the Bird Season Begins Sept. 1.

Some of the Regulations of the Game Laws.

The change from the fishing season to the hunting season in this section is at hand, and Duluth sportsmen are much encouraged over the reports that are coming in. It is said that the outlook is excellent for all kinds of game, and that this fall's hunting will be the best in a long while. It is not at all uncommon to hear that statement made about this time of the year, but those who are making it now say it is more true than usual; that, in fact, it is quite true. Chickens and ducks and geese are said to be plentiful, and partridges, which come up a little later, are said to be fairly swarming in certain parts of the woods.

Big game is also said to be at least as plentiful as usual, and there is no lack of people to claim that it is more so. Those who have been out in the woods say that they have seen plenty of fresh tracks and many deer and moose as well.

The trout season ends with this month, and the duck, geese and chicken season opens with the next month. Partridges are not due for another month, the partridge season beginning Oct. 1. After Aug. 31 no more trout may be caught until April 15, 1902, but black bass and other food fish may be caught until March 1. No trout or bass may be sold, as usual.

There is a provision of the law about which few people know, though there have been rumors that such a provision existed. That is that no one person may kill more than twenty-five birds or catch more than fifty fish in one day. The average hunter or fishermen need have no fear of going beyond this limit, however.

Later in the fall the big game season opens, the deer season being open from Nov. 10 to Nov. 30, and the moose and caribou season continuing from Nov. 15 to Nov. 20.

Licenses are required to hunt deer and other big game, for which residents of the state must pay 25 cents and non-residents $25. No one person is allowed more than three deer, one moose and one caribou in a season, but if each hunter fills out his allowance he will be great rejoicing and great slaughter.

ANNUAL PICNIC

EVERYBODY INVITED.

SHIPMENTS.

Lumber Is Moving Out About As Rapidly As In July.

While there is no special activity in lumber circles at the present time the market is firm and a little lumber is being sold now and then at good prices. The only sale reported this week was made today by G. A. Potter, secretary of the Duluth Log Salvage association, who sold all the norway of the 1901 cut, of the association, to the Rogers-Ruger Lumber company, of West Superior. There were about 300,000 feet in the sale, which is said to have been made at top prices. There are several other small sales being negotiated but so far as can be learned none have been closed.

Lumber shipments for the half month of August will about equal those of the first half month of July. Up to July 15 the lumber shipments from Duluth docks were 23,580,000 while up to this noon the shipments during August were 21,995,000. It is expected that the shipments of today and tomorrow will bring the total for the half month of August fully up to that of the same period in July. The heaviest lumber shipments in July were made after the middle of the month and if the business of July be taken as a criterion, the August business is very likely to be as large and as such will be another record-breaking month in the lumber trade.

BARRETT IS RAISED.

Mitchell & McClure Tug Is Up Again.

The tug Ida Barrett, belonging to the Mitchell & McClure Lumber company, which sank at the company's dock in West Duluth at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 4, has been raised and a report has been sent to Steamboat Inspectors Monaghan and Chalk from Capt. W. J. Green and Engineer Frank Hantz of the tug, stating that the sinking was caused by neglect to shut off the stop-cock in the siphon. The cost of raising the tug and the damage done to the machinery amounts to about $500. The tug Ida Barrett was built in Buffalo in 1885, is listed at 21 tons and was repaired and put in good condition at the drydock this last spring. At the time the boat sank Capt. Green, H. Shoemaker, the fireman, and E. Boissoneault, the cook, were asleep on board, but were warned in time to get off. The tug sank in from fourteen to twenty feet of water.

Inspecting Breakwater.

Capt. Gaillard is at Grand Marais making the final inspection of the breakwater which has been put in there by the Butler-Ryan company. Assistant Engineer Clarence Coleman has also gone up to put in a dynamometer to test the wave force.

Assistant Engineer Darling is at Two Harbors, where the crib which was wrecked a short time ago is being dredged out. It will be replaced by a new one when this work is finished.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and the bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50-cent and $1 sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Evening Herald.

The directors of the St. Louis County Fair association met last evening in the rooms of the Duluth Improvement association and it was decided to hold a fair in Duluth Sept. 11, 12, 13 and 14. While all the details of the fair have not yet been arranged, there will be purses hung up for three days' racing.

The fair will be divided up under three general heads, the industrial and agricultural displays and the horse racing. The latter will be exceptionally good this year if the purses can be made any incentive. It is proposed to offer liberal prizes for competition in the industrial and agricultural displays. The fair will be held at the old fair grounds, which will be secured at $100 rental.

Another meeting will be held soon to appoint committees and arrange details.

Secretary Nesbitt says the society is entitled to the $250 bonus from the state and will start in with about $1000 in the treasury. Season tickets will be placed on sale Saturday at $1 each.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

May Be Added to Typographical Union.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 15.—At today's session of the International Typographical union convention the remainder of the laws' committee report was disposed of. A proposition looking to the adoption of a piece scale for machine work in all offices where such is practicable was defeated and the matter was left to the subordinate unions. A committee of five was provided for to present a plan to organize the ladies' auxiliaries.

CHICAGO MURDERER

Detectives Think They Have Caught One In Duluth.

Answers Description of the Man Wanted In That City.

Occurred Year Ago, a Man's Head Being Cut Off.

Duluth detectives may have run down a sensational Chicago murder mystery in the arrest of William Saunders, which was made this afternoon.

It is said that Saunders is wanted for deliberately cutting a man's head off, in Chicago, about a year ago. Detectives of that city traced him to Duluth at the time, but he got a tip and left town.

Nothing was heard from him till this afternoon, when Detectives Troyer and Mork were summoned to the Spalding hotel to investigate a small larceny. They saw a man among the colored waiters that answered the description of the colored man wanted in Chicago, and further inquiry revealed the fact that his name was the same as that of the man charged with murder.

Saunders is a powerfully built negro, 28 years of age. He stands five feet eight and three-quarter inches high and weighs 229 pounds.

He denies that he was in Chicago at the time of the murder, claiming that he was working on a boat running into this port at the time.

GOLF TROPHY.

Handsome Cup Presented By George W. Welles Being Played For.

The Northland Golf club has had a very handsome championship trophy presented to it by G. W. Welles of the Kelley Hardware company, to be called the "Wells Foursome championship trophy." It consists of a large silver loving cup and two smaller ones. The large one is about a foot in height, and beautifully decorated with thistles and golf clubs and balls. It is to remain permanently in the possession of the club and is to be played for in tournament once each year, the winning couple to have their names inscribed thereupon. Mr. Wells also gives individual silver cups to belong to the winning pair and a consolation prize of two golf clubs.

The drawings for the tournament were made Aug. 8 and the match has now been played down so that prize cups lie between Mrs. Hoopes and E. P. Towne and the winners of the match between A. W. Tuesig and Mrs. W. W. Walker and Mr. Harvey and Mrs. Homer Collins. The larger loving cup presented by Mr. Wells is a very beautiful one and is worth about $25.

IN SYMPATHY.

Three Hundred Men Quit Work at Tube Plant.

Pittsburg, Aug. 15.—The 300 men employed at the seamless tube plant of the National Tube company at Christy Park, a short distance above McKeesport, came out this afternoon. The men are not organized, but struck in sympathy with the employes of the other McKeesport plants of the company. Several cars of material were shipped in from other places, and the men announced that they would refuse to work the steel unless it came from the McKeesport plant and was union made. They are expected to form a lodge of the Federation of Labor before the end of the week. Th seamless plant is largely engaged in the manufacture of projectiles for the United States government, although it also turns out large quantities of seamless tubing for bicycles and seamless high-pressure gas reservoirs.

MOBILE UNDER WATER.

Business Section of City Is Flooded.

Atlanta, Aug. 15.—The Western Union Telegraph officials have been advised that the water has entered their office in Mobile. It is two blocks away from the wharf and one block nearer the business section of the city than the commercial exchange. The wind is not so violent. It is feared that some of the islands in Mississippi sound have been submerged. These are inhabited by French fishermen and were the scene of the great loss of life in 1895.

Twenty miles of Louisville & Nashville track through the Tensas swamp is reported under water. All trains have been abandoned. One train is reported lost, but it is only believed to have been tied up between two washouts. Several bridges are reported out of plumb.

AFTER BURGLAR.

West Salem Farmers Have Him In Cornfield.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 15.—Sheriff Badger has been asked to send an officer to West Salem, this county, where a party of angry farmers have surfounded a corn field, where an unknown burglar is hiding in an attempt to escape being captured. He entered the farm house of William Shaft, and after ransacking it escaped with $50 worth of jewelry. They have been unable to locate the burglar in the corn field and are now after him with bloodhounds. If he is captured he may meet with violence at the hands of the mob of farmers.

LAUNCH THREE

New Torpedo Boat Destroyers Enter Their Native Element.

Will Be Known as Whipple, Truxtun and Worden.

Ceremony at the Yards of Maryland Steel Company.

Baltimore, Aug. 15.—Three additions to the United States navy were christened and launched at the shipyards of the Maryland Steel company here this afternoon. They are torpedo boat destroyers and will be known hereafter by the names of Whipple, Truxtun and Worden.

The ceremonies took place at 2 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage, including government, state and city officials, officers in both army and navy and civilians of prominence. They came from Washington, New York and other points in the country on special trains and in private yachts, over 1000 special invitations having been issued and accepted.

When all was in readiness for the launching, Miss Isabelle Truxtun, of Norfolk, Va., took her place at the bow of the boat of that name, and Miss Elsie Pope, of St. Paul, Minn., at the bow of the Whipple, and Miss Millie B. Worden at the bow of the Worden. Each held in her hand a bottle of champagne, encased in silver wire and having a handle of silver, upon one side of which was a shield surmounted by an American eagle, while on the other was a plate, upon which was engraved the date, name of the craft and that of the lady holding it, to be retained by them as souvenirs. As each boat in its turn slid from the ways into the waters of the Patapsco the bottles were broken over the bows, the names pronounced by the sponsors and the usual cheering, hand clapping and waving of hats and handkerchiefs took place, accompanied by the din of steam whistles and the ringing of bells on the boats and factories in the vicinity.

The three new boats are dissimilar in name only. They are the largest of their type in the United States navy, they are also among the largest in any navy in the world. Their comparatively superior size has enabled the designer to provide quarters for the officers and crew which are more commodious than in other vessels of their type. All the furnishings in the cabin is made of metal. Asbestos sheets take the place of veneering in the finishings and wood is totally absent from the construction and fittings of the vessels.

The new boats in length are 259 feet 6 inches over all, 248 feet on the water line, 22 feet 3 inches beam, 14 feet 8 inches deep and draw 9 feet of water with a nominal displacement of 433 tons. They will be propelled by two four-cylinder triple expansion engines, which will develop 8300 horse power at a speed of 340 revolutions to the minute with a steam pressure of 315 pounds and a heating surface of 17,768 square feet. With this machinery, they are expected to attain a speed of 30 knots an hour under natural draught.

They are supplied with two torpedo tubes each and each boat will have eight rapid fire guns of which six will be 6-pounders and the remainder 2-pounders.

The contracts for the vessels were let in October, 1899, and they have been built under the supervision of Commander F. D. Ford, assisted by naval constructor D. H. Cox.

The approximate cost of each vessel when completed will be about $285,000.

CRESCEUS

Wins First Two Heats In Race With The Abbott.

New York, Aug. 15.—Cresceus won the first heat by half a length. Time by quarters: 30¾, 1:01¼, 1:32½, 2:03¼. Betting, 100 to 30 on Cresceus. The time made by Cresceus in the first heat, 2:03¼, breaks the world's record for a mile made in competition.

Cresceus wins the second heat.

There were fully 20,000 persons present at Brighton Beach race track today when Cresceus and The Abbott started in the first heat. Early in the day it had threatened rain, but in the afternoon the sun shone brightly and it was believed the track was in good condition. Cresceus was a strong favorite before the first heat, but The Abbott had a number of supporters. Both of the great horses came out for a warming up shortly before 2 o'clock and were loudly cheered by the big crowd that was then present.

WELL STARTED.

Sir Thomas Lipton and Party on Ocean.

Queenstown, Aug. 15.—The White Star liner Teutonic, which left Liverpool yesterday with Sir Thomas Lipton and his party on board for the United States, arrived here this morning and sailed at 10:10 a. m. Sir Thomas was given a great send off by the members of the Royal Cork Yacht club, who went out to the Teutonic in a body, to bid farewell to the owner of the challenger for the America's cup. The visitors breakfasted on board the steamer with Sir Thomas. Brief speeches of the usual character were made. Both George L. Watson, the designer, (who joined the Teutonic here) and Sir Thomas said they expected the Columbia would be the cup defender.

W. G. James, the amateur yachtsman, who will represent Sir Thomas in the races on board Shamrock II, sails for New York Aug. 24, from Liverpool, on board the Cunarder Campania.

THE OUTPUT

Of Trust Mills and How Affected By the Strike.

Pittsburg, Aug. 15.—The Iron Trade Review today says: "The output of steel and steel products of the various constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation annually in gross tons is as follows:

"Carnegie Steel company, 3,850,000; Federal Steel company, 2,500,000; National Steel company, 1,800,000; American Steel Hoop company, 700,000; American Steel and Wire company, 1,500,000; National Tube company, 700,000; American Sheet Steel company, 325,000.

The annual output of the mills of the American Tinplate company is estimated at 9,500,000 boxes of 100-pound cake plates.

The strike has affected the annual production of these companies by the curtailment of the following production in gross tons:

Carnegie Steel company, unaffected; Federal Steel company, unaffected; National Steel company, 1,000,000; American Steel Hoop company, 580,000; American Steel Wire company, unaffected; National Tube company, 400,000; American Sheet Steel company, 125,000. The output of the mills of the American Tinplate company has been curtailed 9,000,000 boxes annually, the one plant still in operation producing 500,000 boxes annually.

The American Bridge company was not included in the above table, as the plants of this company, apart from the Pencoyd and Trenton works, neither make nor roll steel, and the two mills named transfer their output to connected structural works. The recapitulation contains a duplication of tonnage with reference to the American Sheet Steel company and some of the plants of the American Hoop company, inasmuch as figures are not obtainable showing the gross steel manufacturing capacity outside of the finishing capacity.

THOUGHT IT A JOKE

But Stage Passengers Soon Changed Their Minds.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Detectives who are here hope that during the day they will make an important arrest in connection with the holding up of the tally-ho coach of the North Creek and Blue Mountain stage company yesterday afternoon.

Where a highwayman appeared and ordered the driver to stop and the passengers to hold up their hands, it was supposed to be a joke, but the bandit fired four shots at the horses, killing one leader and wounding the other. When the shots were fired Edward Marquette, who was inside, put the bulk of his money inside his trousers so that the robber secured only $20 from him. The women were not molested in any way. There were four men and three women in the coach.

When the horses were shot the driver, who had $400 of the stage company's money, leaped to the ground and ran into the woods, where he hid. The other men passengers, except Marquette, followed, but were not pursued and further molested.

Another Tradition Is Attacked.

The irreverent investigator is always trying to upset old traditions and not infrequently he is successful. Recently the London Lancet has turned its hygienic batteries upon one of the oldest and dearest traditions of the dyspeptic, and asserts that new bread, if properly masticated, is quite as digestible as stale bread. The cause of indigestion lies not at all in the quality of the new bread, but in the fact that it slips down the throat quickly and easily, and so misses the digestive action of the saliva, while the stale bread cannot be readily swallowed without more thorough mastication and salivation. Therefore, fresh bread, if chewed thoroughly and swallowed deliberately, is quite as healthful as old bread. This theory may be true enough, but the old-fashioned housewife will sneer at it scornfully, and the dyspeptic, happily miserable, will hold it in derision. If there be no hygienic virtue in stale bread, what is to become of it? Is it not manifest that the easy digestibility of stale bread is a wise provision of Providence for the delectation of dyspeptics?—though the development of dyspepsia must not be charged to Providence. The dyspeptical world has cherished the virtue of stale bread too long and confidently to change its opinion at the dictum of the Lancet, and the tradition will not be easily destroyed.

Congress Should Return Them.

Banks, corporations and others have turned over large numbers of handsome checks to the government to have the revenue stamps that are imprinted upon them redeemed, will not get them back, at least not for the present. The commissioner of internal revenue, Mr. Yerkes, has decided that the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department has no authority to cancel stamps and then return them to the banks, individuals or firms who sent them in for redemption. The decision was not reached by the commissioner without giving especial attention to every phase of the matter presented. The pressure from banking institutions was great. Several thousand letters came from the different institutions of the country. They varied in tone. Some demanded that the checks on which the stamps had been printed be returned as a right. Others argued that they had been at great expense in printing checks and stamps, and they could ill afford to suffer the loss of the checks. The commissioner took up the question with the law officers of the department, and on their advice decided that the checks could not be returned unless authorized by an act of congress. It is the intention of the commissioner to have the imprinted stamps carefully canceled, so as not to deface the checks, and then store them away. He will join with the bankers and others interested in a request that an act be passed authorizing the return of the checks. The value of the checks after the stamps have been canceled by the government is questioned. In the case of a small number of smaller banks, the checks are on poor paper and the printing is poor and cheap. On the other hand, some of the checks are bound in morocco and have gilt edges. One bank, which has an exclusive set of wealthy depositors in New York city, sent all of its checks down with the statement that the "binding and the fine paper together with the fact that the work on the actual checks was steel engraved, brought the cost of each check up to 7 cents." Some of the checks are printed on "patent" paper. This is an expensive paper, which will not permit of erasures being made without showing plainly. It is a paper which, if acids are applied with a view to washing off any of the characters once, it turns to a dark purple at the point where the acid is applied. Congress should promptly pass a bill authorizing the commissioner to return the checks.

KEEPING CONTRACTS.

The decision of the employes at the steel plants in South Chicago not to break their contracts with the mills and join the strikers will be a serious disappointment to President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association, who sent a representative to Chicago for the special purpose of inducing the men to alter their decision. This representative, when informed of the men's decision, declared the charters of the lodges revoked and the men outside of the organization. A dispatch says: "The men greeted his announcement with laughter and cheers." He will also visit the mills at Milwaukee and Joliet, and will probably meet with a similar reception. The fact is that when Shaffer advised the members of the Amalgamated association who had contracts with their employes to renounce the contracts and strike, assuring them that their obligation to the association antedated the contracts and was paramount to them from a moral standpoint, he confessed the weakness of his cause.

The contest between labor and capital has been marked with well-defined stages of evolution. The struggle began in a contest for living wages and a fair portion of the earnings of the institution to whose success the work of the men contributed. This was right and the workmen won. Then came the demand for fewer hours: here again the workingmen had the right of it, and, after several struggles, public opinion came to their aid and a satisfactory basis of labor time was agreed upon. Success in the struggle rendered the men ambitious. It was discovered that a body well organized was more powerful than isolated squads of discontented men, and to organize was easy, because the men had demands in common. But the employers, fearing the abuse of organized power, refused to recognize the unions in their dealings with the men. Little by little, however, the opposition to the union as an entity was overcome, as the employers concluded it was better to contract with a well-organized body of skilled men by signing the scae (which means turning over the mill or shop to the union to run under its rules), and have an assurance of peace and stability, during the term of the contract, than it would be to be in danger of petty strikes at times when business was most pressing. Thus the union became a fixed quantity and was recognized by a large percentage of the business enterprises employing skilled workmen.

It was known that the union was not a legal body; it could not be brought into court for a breach of contract and made to respond in damages. So far as responsibility was concerned the contract was onesided, or, as the court would say, unilateral. But if there was no legal obligation upon the men to stand by the contract of the union, there was a moral obligation of the most binding nature, and it was upon this—the honor of the workmen—that the employers relied whenever they signed the "scale" and unionized their plants. So, when the president of the Amalgamated association boldly advised the men to break their contracts, he openly declared the union unworthy of the confidence of the world, a mere mob without a legal standing or moral obligations. There was no charge that the employers have violated a single item of their contract with the men. It was admitted that the contracts had not expired, yet this man called upon the association to repudiate its contracts and quit work.

To the honor of many of the men, notably those of the Western divisions, they refused to stultify themselves and disgrace the cause of union labor by such an unwarrantable act. They saw that by thus flying in the face of every moral obligation they would set back the clock of union labor fifty years. Whenever union labor begins to break the contracts which it has dictated, the day of unionism has passed.

CUBAN ELECTION FRAUDS.

From the reports that are constantly coming in from our new possessions, and those over which the United States has assumed a protectorate, it is evident that the politicians of those islands are thoroughly posted on all the latest political schemes for fraud at elections and some of them would be able to give the Tammany leaders pointers on the conducting of voting contests. The war department has just been advised of an interesting election case which has been called to the attention of the military authorities at Havana for adjudication. The office involved is that of alcalde of the Isle of Pines, the island now in dispute between Cuba and the United States. At the present time the government of the island is vested in an alcalde, or mayor, elected by the people, and the same conditions as apply to Cuba govern in the Isle of Pines. This will continue until the question of ownership is finally decided. Some time ago an election was held in the island, the two candidates being Juan Manuel Noda and Juan Manuel Sanchez, the latter the outgoing official. On the face of the returns Noda was badly beaten and he has appealed to the military authorities in Havana, claiming that Sanchez stole the office from him. In his statement he says:

"I became a candidate for alcalde and the election was held at Nueva Gerona. Three hundred and thirty-three votes were cast. Just as the polls closed the mayor, who was there during the day, ordered everyone from the room. The mayor was my opponent. The people left and were gone about twenty minutes. In the meantime the doors were locked. When the votes were counted I received barely enough to count, and so Sanchez had the election all his own way. I had an investigation made and a notary called upon all who voted for me, and they made affidavit how they voted. I had sworn statements from 190 of the 333 who voted saying they voted for me."

In support of his statement Noda submitted the affidavits to the military authorities. An investigation has been ordered and a military officer sent to the Isle of Pines to inquire into the matter to determine if Noda was deprived of the office by fraud.

THE NEELEY CASE.

It would be ungenerous, perhaps, to suspect the administration of conniving at the immunity of Mr. Neeley, of Indiana, lately connected with the Cuban postal scandals. However, it is a fact that as matters now stand Neeley and Rathbone will go scott free unless some one comes to the rescue of the government and takes out the legal kinks in the situation.

Indiana is a doubtful state and, therefore, has many suitors about election time. To get votes, pre-election promises are made and sometimes kept. As a result of the last two elections Indiana got many a fat federal plum in both the national and insular governments. Among these plum catchers was Neeley, of Muncie. With the connivance of his superiors in the postoffice department he stole everything in sight, and some things that were not in sight, if the reports of the investigation were to be relied upon. Depositing his swag in an Indiana bank, he left his post when the wind blew hot and came to the United States. Here he was arrested, but he refused to go to Cuba and be tried for the crime committed there. The case was conducted with more than an ordinary beating of administration drums. It was decided that as Cuba was a foreign country, with which we had no extradition treaty, Neeley would not be obliged to go there, but congress passed a law to fit his case and he had to go, but not to be tried for his crimes. On the ex parte examination into his case he was indicted by the Cuban court, but the witnesses of the crime, being now in the United States and being his friends, refuse to accept the invitation of the government to go to Cuba to convict their comrade in arms. Neeley is guilty and is where he can be tried at any moment but for the lack of testimony. The Cuban law allows the accused the pleasure of facing his accusers in open court. Being on good terms with his accusers and with the administration, Neeley is quite comfortable. He will not have a chance to face his accusers, and in due time will come back and receive his reward from the grateful people of Indiana. In ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain the Indiana politician is peculiar.

Congressman Tawney has his ideas about the steel strike. He thinks the combine all wrong and is acting in an unfair manner. "It seems to me," he said to the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "that the position of the United States Steel company is untenable from any standpoint. Suppose conditions were reversed and the Amalgamated association should say to the trust people: 'We are willing and will consent to you taking in certain independent mills and plants, but must oppose you absorbing others.' It would be just as fair for the Amalgamated people to make this demand of the trust, to say to the labor leaders that they will draw the line on certain establishments already absorbed. It is simply a fight of capital against capital, the money on one side, and the labor, which is only another species of capital, on the other."

Gen. Chaffee's actual comment upon the scheme of settlement for the damages to missionary interests in China, which was presented by Rev. E. G. Tewksbury through Minister Conger, has finally been released from its solitary confinement by the war department. Rev. Mr. Tewksbury's plan included a money indemnity of 16,150 taels and ninety-six acres of land. Chaffee reported: "The 'scheme of settlement,' as it appears to me, is very much in the line of business called 'squeeze,' which we hear a great deal about in China."

The Alabama constitutional convention has decided to incorporate a provision allowing women possessed of $500 or more in real estate to vote in municipal elections where bond issues are involved. Colored women, too, evidently. This act is being commented on in the local papers as putting Alabama in the lead down South in the political recognition of woman.

The Knights of Labor have brought suit against the steel trust under the anti-trust law. Do they not know that the Republican leaders claim the trusts cannot be prosecuted without a constitutional amendment?

The public always pays the freight. Tin plates have advanced $1.50 a box, and a general advance of 10 per cent has been made in tinware and enameled wares all on account of the strike.

Professor Triggs says the poetry of Longfellow and Oliver Wendell Holmes is trivial. But will he dare to thus characterize Ella Wheeler Wilcox's "Poems of Passion?"

It is said in New York that Mr. Croker is now contemplating a highly moral campaign in the fall. "When the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be."

It is humorously suggested by J. Sterling Morton that the drought was caused by the trusts and combines absorbing all the water for their stocks.

It is said the peach crop is large enough to give a bushel to every man, woman and child in the United States. Have you got yours?

With the American and National baseball leagues consolidated next season, there will be a few ball players looking for jobs.

Five million dollars is being spent in fitting up a kitchen for the shah of Persia. And yet he eats with his fingers.

The Chinese will now be given an opportunity to find out what new kind of a foreign devil that protocol is.

It should not be too late even now to arbitrate the steel trouble.

The Wattersons are evidently in favor of Cuban annexation.

MATCHING FOR A LIFE.

BY HORACE GREEN.

(Copyright, 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

Mr. Walter Vanderveer was sometimes termed "The American Prince of Wales," greatly to his joy. It was not perhaps much of a compliment to an American, and still less was it so to that prince who throughout an over long career devoted to sensuality always remained a sprightly character and attentive to his public duties, still it pleased Mr. Vanderveer. Undoubtedly he was as near to the original article as anything we produce in this raw country.

He had inherited an enormous collection of railroads from his immediate ancestors. In other words he had wealth beyond his own ability to spend or waste. His labors in the world had not been useful. At twenty-five he found himself the possessor of his immeasurable fortune. He proceeded to spend as much of it as he could in strictly personal indulgence. At fifty, the period when the chief incident here to be narrated occurred, he was a fat man, with a very large, very dull and very red face. A careless person would have said that he resembled an over-fed butcher. But in truth few butchers are so overfed as that.

Shortly after the inheritance of his vast fortune Vanderveer had married an ambitious young girl of no fortune. She was vaguely described as belonging to one of the first families of the South. She was a Jones. All the blood of all the Joneses flowed in her veins, no doubt.

At that epoch New York society was just beginning seriously to ape the ways of living of the European upper classes. New York plutocrats moved uneasily in the presence of liveried menials. The new Mrs. Vanderveer proceeded to take this transition society by storm. She was clever, audacious and possessed of an indomitable will. She could give orders to a British butler as if to the manor born. She made her husband build a beautiful town house, a copy of the chateau de Chenonceaux. By various means she dragged him to the front place in New York society.

Vanderveer was proud of his easily earned social pre-eminence. He divided his time between admiring his wife's cleverness and resenting her masterful temper. Often he consoled himself for the latter in the bottle and in other ways that need not be retailed. He had one of the largest steam yachts in the world, but this was not always a refuge, for when his wife came on board she was the skipper.

As the years rolled by Mrs. Vanderveer became more and more intolerant of her besotted and uninteresting husband. She had gained all the social ends to which his wealth was essential. As a culmination of her social triumphs she married her daughter to the British duke of Aglincourt, the most brilliant marriage it was commonly said, ever contrived by an American mother. After that she felt that she had time to attend to her personal affairs. She told her husband that she must have a divorce. He said very cheerfully, "Yes, my dear," or words to that effect. One of his numerous vulgar dalsons served as a convenient pretext for the divorce.

After the divorce Vanderveer tried very violently to amuse himself. He gambled, but a man of such wealth cannot lose enough to make it exciting. He became devoted to an exceedingly beautiful and foolish young woman, the wife of a rising stockbroker living about four times beyond his means. Vanderveer gave Mrs. Hazleton many presents of a value not sanctioned by the conventions. He became a very dear friend of the family. Still he was not quite certain about Hazleton's attitude. Husbands are queer animals. Vanderveer did all he could for Hazleton in a business way. He saved him from ruin at least once.

One afternoon Vanderveer was waiting hopefully for Mrs. Hazleton in her drawing room. Hazleton was supposed to be out of the way. But evidently he was not, for he walked abruptly into the room. His young clear cut gambler's face was white and desperate. Vanderveer's heart almost stopped, for even with his dull wits he could see that much trouble was coming. Courage was the quality which he possessed least and to which he pretended most.

"I know all about it," said Hazleton rapidly. "I'm sure you're man enough to give one the only satisfaction one man can give another. One of us has got to get off the earth. Duelling is inconvenient and scandalous nowadays, although I would much prefer a good fight. But here's the best way. Here is a dish of matches. You take some and I'll take some. I'll match you once—odd or even. The loser kills himself within three days, just time enough to make one's will and not time enough to worry in. If I lose you're to marry her and do it in a dignified way. Now, then, I'll take my matches first."

Vanderveer consented. He acted as if he were hypnotized. He was driven partly by the other's stronger will and partly by his own self-imposed fiction that he had courage.

He took some matches. Hazleton took his hand from his pile. Their number was even. Vanderveer had an odd number. Hazleton had lost.

"Well, I think it is rather better that way," he said, cheerfully.

At the end of three days Hazleton, while swimming, was carried out to sea and drowned. Everybody thought it was an accident. Only Vanderveer knew otherwise.

* * * * *

Now the great multi-millionaire, "the American prince of Wales," was to marry young Mrs. Hazleton. He had waited a decent time, but not too long, as agreed upon with the deceased husband. Almost upon the eve of his second marriage Mr. Vanderveer was thinking to himself of the events that had rudely disturbed him, the multi-millionaire who loved only his ease. Would he have had the courage to die as young Hazleton did, if he lost? He hardly liked to answer the question. He looked forward to his approaching marriage with gloomy feelings. He felt that he was doomed to be ruled by a woman from first to last. And yet, he knew that they would be spoken of as "the most interesting people in New York society." That was consoling.

IN MICHIGAN.

Soo's Waterworks Bonds Sold For Less Than Originally Offered.

Sault Ste. Marie—The city council met in special session to take action on the $120,000 bond issue for waterworks, concerning which there has been so much contention. About one month ago a committee went to Chicago and disposed of the issue to Devit, Nimble & Co., at a premium of $1325, subject to ratification by the council. Local wiseacres scented a job and induced the city to reject the offer. Another committee was appointed and tenders were invited publicly to be opened yesterday. Eight were received, the one from the Ohio National bank, of Columbus, being the highest. Before the committee could report, the Ohio concern backed out. Representatives from a dozen bond houses were here and yesterday the issue was disposed of at auction. Denison, Prfev & Co., Cleveland, obtaining the bonds for $750 premium. Now there is a suspicion that the astute bond dealers formed a combination and that some one has been bunconed. Anyhow the city received $575 less than it would have secured originally.

Escanaba—Mons C. Vatter, Chile's commissioner to the world's exposition at Paris, and his interpreter stopped here to inspect the ore docks on their way from the Pan-American exposition to the copper country. M. Vatter is heavily interested in the copper and iron mines of Chile, and is inspecting those of this country with a view to adopting American methods of mining and shipping in his native land. He left for Marquette yesterday.

Iron Mountain—There are only two police officers on duty at Iron Mountain, Marshal Catlin and Officer Thiebold. The other policemen are under suspension, charged with neglect of duty, and the council has refused to authorize the payment of warrants providing for the salaries of extra men. Thus the city is practically at the mercy of criminals.

Wilson—Mrs. Otto Fonnel, living near Wilson, Menominee county, was seriously injured one day the latter part of last week while looking for eggs in her barn. She was up in the hay mow, and, losing her balance, she fell a distance of fifteen feet to the floor below, dislocating her hip joint, as well as both bones of the left arm, and sustaining internal injuries. Mrs. Fonnel is 58 years of age, which makes her injuries particularly serious. No one knows how much time elapsed between the occurrence of the accident and the hour when she was picked up unconscious, as she went to the barn alone.

GLOOMY SHOW.

Heavy Rain Dampens Spirits of Dog Fanciers.

London, Aug. 15.—The almost proverbial fine weather that has attended the Ladies' Kennel association shows, from the field held at Ranelagh in 1895, has completely deserted the Harrogate fixture.

The dog show opened on a gloomy morning, with threatened rain, which developed into a hopeless downpour and continued during the whole day. The judging, which should have taken place in the open field, in most cases had to be gone through in hastily provised rings, in corners of tents and for some of the larger and hardier breeds under dripping trees and in the sodden field.

In the rain and under a hope of improvement in the weather, the judging was delayed far beyond the hour originally fixed for its second starting and consequently cannot be finished before the second day of the show.

Much regret was expressed that the six entries of King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra were, in consequence of the death of the Dowager Empress Frederick, withdrawn.

DEPOSITION TAKEN.

Little Progress Made In Neely Case.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—In accordance with instructions received from Attorney General Knox, United States Attorney Woodworth has taken the deposition of George L. Seybolt in the case of the United States against Charles F. W. Neely. Regarding the investigation made on April 23, 1900, the deponent says:

"A small excess was found in the money order fund, and, when Neely's attention was called to this matter, he stated that he was in some doubt as to the exactness of his accounts and that he had put in some money so that there should not be any shortage. Neely had figures showing his balances but who furnished him with the information Seybolt could not say. This led the investigator to believe that Neely was prepared for the investigation."

BOERS MORTALLY WOUNDED.

Middleburg, Cape Colony, Aug. 15.—Col. Gorringe had a successful engagement with Gen. Kritzinger and Commandants Erasmus, Pyper and Cachet, near Steynsburg, Aug. 13. Erasmus and Cachet were mortally wounded.

TWO PROMINENT PEOPLE CURED OF CATARRH

Would These Two Cures Been Made If Some Remedy Had Been Substituted for Pe-ru-na?

Mr. D. Young, attorney, counselor of Aurora Lodge, No. 66, of the Mystic Workers of the World, writes from 103 South Broadway, Aurora, Ill., as follows:

"I suffered with catarrh for eight years before I found anything that would help me. I have wasted hundreds of dollars trying to get relief, and never found any until I read what Peruna claimed to do for catarrh. A few bottles cured me completely; it not only cured my catarrh by invigorating my whole system until today I feel ten years younger and in complete and perfect health—in fact, a new man, thanks to Peruna."—Delaney Young.

Attorney Young.

When a patient calls at a drug store to procure some Peruna and the druggist recommends something else that will be just as good, it may be that he does not always recognize the responsibility that he is taking upon himself. Such a substitute is always sure to result in failure and may result fatally.

In some cases catarrh has a tendency to become chronic and it not frequently sets up disease that finally proves fatal. Peruna taken in time will prevent those cases. To substitute some other remedy means dangerous delay.

It is certainly a great responsibility that any druggist takes upon himself to recommend anyone to take some imitation of Peruna when the life of the patient may depend upon having the Peruna in time.

Read the testimonials of these two people that were cured by Peruna. Had the druggists recommended one of these imitations of Peruna, would it be supposed for an instant that these two people would be well today.

Hon. W. S. Lane, Ordinary (Probate Judge) for Wilkes county, Ga., writes from Washington, Ga., the following letter:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"This is to certify that I have used two and one half bottles of Peruna for a very bad case of catarrh, and happy to say to you that I have been entirely cured and gladly recommend Peruna to anyone suffering from catarrh in any form. Have also used it in my family with satisfactory results, both as a tonic and remedy for catarrh."—W. S. Lane.

Judge W. S. Lane.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

GREAT RACE.

Much Interest In Contest Between Cresceus and the Abbot.

New York, Aug. 15.—What is looked upon as the greatest harness race in the history of the trotting horse is on the card for the Brighton Beach track today.

Cresceus, 2:02¼, and The Abbot, 2:03¼, will meet for the first time in a special race for $12,000, trotting mile heats, the best three in five. Cresceus recently took away from The Abbot the world's record against time, and while the latter has gone the quarter at a 1:56 gait, which horsemen say Cresceus cannot equal, Cresceus can carry his speed further. Never has a race been looked upon by the trotting fraternity with so much sensational interest, and with weather and track favoring whichever wins, this contest of the kings will be a red-letter event in the history of light harness horses.

OPPOSITION

To Wage Reduction Has Extended In Fall River Mills.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 15.—Opposition to the wage reduction proposition seems to have developed unexpectedly and several mills that were on the list of the promoters of the movement now are in the doubtful column. As the situation stands 1,300,000 spindles are now classed as sure to be pledged, and 900,000 are classed as doubtful. The Spinners and Carders unions have endorsed the action of their executive committees in voting to oppose the proposition for wage reduction. The delegates to the textile conference were instructed to vote in favor of opposing reduction. No action could be taken by either meeting until after the meeting of the textile conference, and the textile conference itself cannot take final action, being an advisory board and not an executive one. The textile conference will recommend opposition to a reduction and probably will outline some plan of action to be followed.

All the unions claim that they are in strong financial condition and able to stand a long struggle. In addition to their own resources, help will be asked from unions in other cities and the usual assessements will be levied.

ENCKE'S COMET IN SIGHT.

Its position was right ascension 6 hours 58 minutes, north declination 30 degrees 34 minutes. The ovite is large but faint. It is not visible without a telescope. Its motion is rapid and toward the southeast.

THE FIGHT IS LOST

Opinion of the Iron Trade Review on Steel Strike.

Only a Question Now of When Men Will Return.

The Strike Spirit Has Reached High Water Mark.

Cleveland, Aug. 15.—The Iron Trade Review, discussing market and strike conditions this week, says: "Events of the week have made it clear that the steel strike is a lost fight. The uncertain elements are the number of weeks that will be required to weary the men of idleness, and how much of its organization will remain to the association when the end comes. The failure of the Federation of Labor to give more than sympathy in aid of the strikers, and refusal of the Western members of the Amalagamated association to violate their contracts at the order of their president, have been serious blows to the hopes of the leaders. Gains have been made by the strikers at McKeesport and in the Wheeling district, but it is already plain that the strike spirit has reached high mark and that the news from now on will be of gradual defections.

"It appears now that the action of President Shaffer in signing an agreement at New York, which he and his associates failed to carry out, was one occasion of the Western defection, and has caused discontent in other directions that may bring early breaks in the strikers' ranks. The stoppages of the week have been at plants of the National Steel company and the National Tube company. Production of steel is considerably curtailed. At Wheeling the finishing mills are also idle and at McKeesport the butt and lap weld departments were closed on Wednesday.

"Bellaire, Mingo Junction and New Castle steel plants of the National Steel company are also idle, but shipments of Bessemer iron are still being taken by the United States Steel orporation with some changes in the destination of the metal. Little Bessemer iron has been purchased for September delivery. Should the present status continue into the month, merchant furnaces in the valley would be under the necessity of piling iron or banking. The threatened strike of valley furnace workers has not come. The leaders probably coming to an appreciation of the little effect it would have on the strike under existing conditions.

"As matters stand, the production of steel is now closely adjusted to the requirements of the trade, and pig iron production is more nearly in line with steel works consumption. The advances in price that have come in the week are in muck bars, skelp, sheets, tin plates, bars and billets. Importations of black plates have already been made and it is understood that the tin house workers of the American Tinplate company will not refuse to dip them."

Make Life a Burden.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The following clipping is from the Minneapolis Journal:

"The authorities of the District of Columbia have adopted legislation which, if it were universal, would be calculated to make this old earth a pretty decent sort of abiding place. The regulation reads: 'No person shall own or keep, within the District of Columbia, any fowl, parrot or bird which, by offensively crowing, cackling, talking or singing, or in any other manner, shall disturb the comfort and quiet of any neighborhood.' This means the rooster, whose hoarse, locomotive hoot at 3:50 a. m. lifts the nervous man out of bed like the call of 'free beer' in the Old College Hall."

If Duluth is not already supplied with such an ordinance one should be passed at once. Two birds, on Second avenue east, within a stone's throw of police department headquarters, make life a burden to a large number of people. They are the worst I ever heard, and I have heard birds of all sorts, from Mexico City to Montreal. Long suffering neighbors would be grateful if they could be suppressed. I know of two complaints made to the police department, because I entered them myself, but the birds are still shrieking from 8 a. m. till 8 p. m.

ARISTOCRACY SHOCKED.

Well Known Irish Earl Marries a Nurse.

London, Aug. 15.—The aristocracy deplores another mesalliance. The earl of Clonmel, a youthful Irish peer, has begun quietly married to Rachel Berridge, a beautiful girl of humble birth. Society promptly inquired as to her respectability and found it without a flaw. It is stated that she was a nurse in a hospital when the earl first met her. The Earl Clonmel is well known to Americans in London, with whom he constantly associated. He is rich and a great fancier of horses.

WENT ASHORE.

Fruit Steamer Struck on Middle Breakers.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 15.—The United Fruit company's steamer Ethelwood, banana laden from Puertel Plata, San Domingo, for Boston, went ashore on the "Middle breakers" (sharp bare rocks) off Baker's island, during a dense fog early today. The sea was quiet and the steamer sustained no damage beyond the breaking of her propeller and a slight injury about the bows. Assisted by the rising tide she freed himself later and tugs were sent to tow the steamer to Boston.

Seattle, Aug. 15.—The United States transport Rosecrans was scheduled to sail today with several detachments of troops for the north, Lieut. Gunster from Vancouver barracks, will have charge of the detachment to go to Fort Liscum and will remain there all winter.

THEY MAY CONFER

Immediate Assessment For Superior Street Improvement Possible.

Under Regular Course, Assessment May Be Long Delayed.

Michigan Street Matter Comes Before the Board Tomorrow.

Property owners that have a tremendous yearning to pay their Superior street assessments, may hold a conference with the board of public works in order to speed proceedings as much as possible.

As announced in last evening's Herald, a large proportion of the Superior street property owners are willing to pay for the improvements in order to give the city money to go ahead with other necessary improvements, and incidentally to take advantage of the 10 per cent rebate which the city offers as special inducement for quick payments.

The board of public works had not intended making up the assessment until after the contract was finished. This makes it rather indefinite—probably the contract will be finished early in October. Then ten days notice must be given in the official newspaper, and four days personal notice must also be given by postal card. Then all persons interested in the assessment have a right to be heard, so that there is a possibility that the assessment might hang fire until it is too late to begin other very necessary improvements.

Many complimentary things have been said of the offer of certain property owners to make a quick payment on the Superior street improvement. City officers are especially well pleased. If the assessment is not paid promptly the permanent improvement revolving fund will be drained to such an extent that it will give the city trouble in paying for a number of minor improvements.

The Michigan street assessment comes up before the board of public works tomorrow morning for final confirmation. The total improvement cost $24,000, of which a little over $19,000 is from the permanent improvement revolving fund.

Strenuous objections have been made against this assessment, as the property owners say that the street improvement is a benefit to the entire city and therefore, the general fund should stand for the cost of paving avenue intersections.

The city officers take a different view of it, however, and say that such a position is absurd, as people from all parts of the city would likely make the same claim with regard to improvements in outlying districts.

It is probable that within thirty days, some objectors to this assessment will appeal to the district court.

ORGANIZE A CAMP.

Spanish-American War Veterans of Superior Unite.

Maj. F. H. Bidwell was in West Superior last evening and organized a large camp of Spanish-American war veterans at the Armory in that city. Since the end of the war the members of old Company I, of West Superior, have maintained a company organization, but as the boys are scattering the organization was losing its identity and the remaining membership decided to enter the national organization of veterans of the last war. The new camp is named after Hector R. Swift, old Company I's second lieutenant, who died at Charleston, S. C., on the day that the company left the states for Porto Rico. Lieutenant William H. Smith, adjutant of the Third Wisconsin National Guard, who was first lieutenant of the old company, has been elected commander of the new camp. The new camp starts out with a charter membership of forty-five members. Through Maj. Bidwell the new camp has extended to the members of the Spanish-American War Veterans' association of this city an invitation to attend its meetings.

State to Help Superior Fight Smallpox.

At the conclusion of the conference between the local health authorities and the state health officers of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, which was held in this city on Tuesday, the members of the Wisconsin state board of health went over to West Superior and held an executive session to discuss the matter of reimbursing the city of Superior for the money spent in caring for smallpox patients since June and for caring for outside cases that may come to the city hereafter. The action taken by the board was not made public, but it is understood by the board of health of Superior that the state will assist in the expense in reference to present cases. During the discussion at a general meeting in West Superior it was suggested that the state board of Wisconsin appoint agents to watch and disinfect the lumber camps in the northern part of the state.

Street Railway Employes Quitting, Attracted By Higher Wages.

Patrons of the street railway system have noticed lately that many of the conductors and motormen who have been on the lines for a long time are missing and that a large number of new men are on. This is said to be a result of the high wages that are now being paid for labor. They can earn as much or more elsewhere, and while they will probably have to work harder they prefer to do it in many cases. The street railway company has some rules that the men consider rather stringent, although the company claims they are necessary for proper discipline. Those who find them irksome are quitting now that they can get as good wages elsewhere.

Another thing that is leading some to quit is the demoralized condition of the schedules caused by the torn up condition of Superior street. It seems peculiar that the men would find that objectionable, but some of them are as thoroughly impatient over it as are the patrons. When the average laboringman has a position which gives him some dissatisfaction and can get another that he thinks will be better he changes very quickly.

Pass Resolutions Concerning Superior Postmastership.

The members of Alonzo Palmer, G. A. R., of West Superior, are particularly strong in their denunciation of Congressman Jenkins, of Wisconsin, for his action in recommending Kirby Thomas for the office of postmaster of West Superior. Postmaster Pillsbury, whose term of office expires, was an old soldier and so was Col. James Agen, whom the old soldiers endorsed and pushed to succeed Mr. Pillsbury if a change was to be made.

The G. A. R., through a committee, have adopted resolutions condemning Mr. Jenkins for "the action he has taken in throwing out of office one of our members, who is now postmaster; the turning down of another, who had the endorsement of 98 per cent of the business men of the city and who has appointed an arch enemy to the causes and interests of every old soldier—Kirby E. Thomas."

TORRENS SYSTEM

New Law Which Applies to This County Effective Sept. 1.

Owners May Apply to Have Their Titles Registered.

Proceedings Necessary to Procure Registration--- The Fee Required.

The date of the application of the Torrens system of land title registration is drawing near, and there is considerable curiosity as to what its effect will be. It will become effective Sept. 1, and on that date Register of Deeds Lofgren will have the additional title of registrar of titles.

The law provides that owners of land "may" apply to have their title registered. The application is rather a formidable proceeding, as it must be in writing and must include answers to a lot of questions, eleven in number, regarding the condition of the applicant, whether married or unmarried, the description of the land, the applicant's interest in it, etc. Each application may contain several descriptions of property. The application must be made to the district court, which shall inquire into the condition of the title; for which purpose court is considered always open, vacation time making no difference.

The law provides positions for one or more attorneys, who are to be appointed examiners of titles and legal advisors of the registrar, their salaries to be paid and fixed by the board of county commissioners.

When the abstract of title is filed the court will refer the application to an examiner of titles, who will proceed to look into the title, making a report on all the matters he investigates and giving a certificate of his opinion on the title. If it is adverse to the applicant, the latter will be given a reasonable time in which to proceed further or withdraw his application. If the opinion is favorable, the clerk of the court will issue a summons to all parties interested, requiring them to answer within twenty days after service—by publication in the case of non-residents. Any person claiming an interest in the property may appear and file an answer stating objections to the application. If there are no answers the court may at once make an order confirming the title and ordering registration. If there are answers a hearing will be held, though the court may refer the cause, or any part of it, to the examiners of title as referees to hear evidence and make a report. If the court is satisfied registration will be ordered, and after that the title is clear and binding upon everyone, subject to appeal and to the claim of persons who had no notice of the hearing, but who may appear within sixty days. Anyone not bound by the decree under the law may commence an action within sixty days.

An important provision is that no title to registered land in derogation of that of the registered owner shall be acquired by prescription or adverse possession. The law provides the manner in which the registrar shall keep the titles, and details proceedings for the issuance of certificates, their value as evidence, etc. The registrar is required to keep tract indices of all property registered. Taxes must be certified as paid before any title is registered.

The law is a long one, covering over thirty pages in the session laws. The fees paid to the registrar shall be $10 for $1000 or less assessed valuation, and $2.50 for each $1000 or major fraction thereof in excess of $1000 for filing the certified copy of the application for registration, $2 for granting certificates of title upon each application and registering the same, $3 for registering each transfer, including the filing of all instruments connected therewith, and the issue and registration of the new certificate of title. When the land transferred is held upon any trust condition an additional fee of $5 is required. For the entry of each memorial on the register, including the filing of all instruments connected therewith, and endorsements upon duplicate certificates, $3 is required, or issuing each additional owner's duplicate certificate, mortgagee's duplicate certificate or lessee's duplicate certificate, $2. For filing copy of will with letters testamentary, or filing copy of letters of administration and entering memorial thereof, $5. For the cancellation of each memorial or charge, $1; for each certificate showing condition of the register, $1.

Black River Falls Company's Superior Franchise Is Complete.

The ordinance passed by the city council of West Superior, giving the Black River Falls company a franchise to operate in the city of Superior, has been signed by Mayor Parker, and the company now has a franchise good for thirty years. This is the company in which Sheriff W. C. Sargent and William Burgess, of this city, and John A. Bardon, of Superior, are interested. Mr. Sargent has given the city council of West Superior assurance that the company would go ahead, erect poles, string wires and furnish to the cities of Superior and Duluth motive power which would be generated at Black River Falls, some twenty miles from West Superior. Mr. Sargent claimed that the power could be furnished much cheaper than the present rates paid in the two cities and is to be made available for manufacturing purposes. He said that a force of engineers would begin work at once and it is expected that the plant will be ready for operation a year from this fall.

DECLINES SHARPLY

Wheat Started Out Weak and Failed to Rally.

Heavy Selling Was Induced By the Bearish Reports.

Weak Corn, Lower Cables and Favorable Crop Advices.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 15.—The wheat market started out weak and lower this morning, all the influences being of a bearish character, and calculated to cause heavy selling. The corn market was weak and this had a depressing effect. Another bearish factor was a decline at Liverpool, spot wheat closing 1d lower, and futures ¾@⅞d lower. The advices regarding the crop situation in the Northwest were also favorable. The clearances were again very large but instead of being a signal for bullish enthusiasm they were taken somewhat bearishly today on the assumption that the foreigners are getting so much wheat now that their future demands will be greatly curtailed. New York reported 38 loads of wheat worked for export today.

The market stiffened a little toward noon but sold off again and closed at about the low point of the day.

Primary receipts of wheat aggregated 922,000 bus, last year 836,000 bus. Shipments were 596,000 bus, last year 930,000 bus. Clearances aggregated 1,524,000 bus for wheat and flour.

Corn was weak and closed at the lowest point that it has seen for some time. Primary receipts amounted to 280,000 bus, last year 308,000 bus. Shipments 177,000 bus, last year 498,000 bus. New York reported 9 loads worked today for export. Clearances aggregated 76,884 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 359 cars, against 181 last week and 240 last year. Chicago receipts, 159 cars, 20 of contract grade. There was active trading on the Duluth board during the early morning, a lull at about the noon hour and another spurt in the last fifteen minutes. September wheat opened ¾c off at 71⅜c, sold at 71½c at 9:35, declined to 70⅞c at 10:23, recovered to 71⅛-¼c at 11:50 and then slumped steadily with active trading in the last fifteen minutes to 70½-⅝c and 70⅝c. The close was at 70½c, a decline of 1⅝c. Chicago declined 1⅜c and Minneapolis 1⅝c.

Cash sales were at ½c over September and aggregated 20,000 bus. Three or four cars of new wheat were received.

Flax was weak and heavy and the feeling generally bearish. The Northwest is expected to give a very large crop of flax. September declined 4c and October 2c. To arrive flax was also off 3c. Corn slumped 2¼c, oats 1c and rye ¼c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat: No. 1 hard—Cash, and to arrive, 73½c; September, 71½c. No. 1 northern—Cash, to arrive and new, 71c; September, October and August, 70½c; December, 71⅝c. No. 2 northern, 68c. No. 3 spring, 63c. Oats, 36¼@36c. Rye, 57c. Flax—Cash, $1.62; to arrive, $1.59; September, $1.58; September Northwestern, $1.57; October, $1.54. Corn, 55½c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Various Reasons Cause Early Selling of Wheat.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Weak corn, weak cables and favorable crop advices combined to cause selling of wheat all along the line early today. September opened ½c to ⅝c lower at 72¼c to 72⅛c and declined to 71⅞c. Northwestern houses were prominent in the liquidation at the opening. Local receipts 159 cars, 20 of contract grade. Northwest receipts were 359 cars against 181 last week and 240 a year ago.

Heavy clearances later caused a reaction to 72⅛c after the market had sagged to 71½c. Feeling was bearish, however, and a decline to 71⅛c ensued. The close was weak, September 1⅜c lower at 71¼c.

Heavy quantities of corn were dumped on the market during the first hour. A trade paper of considerable influence claimed that the government estimate of the corn yield was too low and stated that reports from Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri showed a market improvement in late corn. This, combined with weak cables, started the selling. September opened ½@⅝c to ⅞@1c down at 58½c to 58⅜c and sold to 57⅞c. Receipts were 121 cars.

Corn closed weak, September 1½@⅝c lower at 57½c.

Oats were easier with corn but there was no particular increase in the volume of offerings. September opened ¼c lower at 36¼c and sold to 36c. Receipts were 330 cars.

Provisions were dull but steady on a firm hog market. September pork opened unchanged at $14.15 and sold to $14.07½; September lard opened 2½c up at $8.75 and September ribs 2½c higher at $8.07½.

Close: Wheat, August, 70½c; September, 71¼c; October, 71⅞c; December, 73½c. Corn, August, 55¾@½c; September, 57½c; October, 58⅜c; December, 59¾c. GRAIN GOSSIP.

Kansas City—N. P. Simonds, a leading cash grain dealer, says the recent rains in Kansas and Missouri have made a surprising improvement in corn, that the condition is probably 30, for Kansas instead of 19, as on Aug. 1, and that orders for wheat for feeding are being countermanded.

* * *

Chicago—Quebec advices estimate Manitoba wheat crop at 52,000,000 bus, or three times as large as last year.

* * *

Chicago morning gossip: Wheat—The early news appears to be of a bearish trend this morning. The cables will probably attract more attention than anything else this morning, and cause some selling by a few locals who were long at the close last night. The Northwest apparently sold a lot of wheat here yesterday as hedges. There are some complaints from North Dakota relating that the yield is disappointing.

Corn—Considerable comment is made on the betterment in the Cincinnati report on corn, which indicates a crop of 1,400,000,000 bus. Quite a number of reports are in, stating that a vast improvement has been made in the past week owing to recent rains and that the improved condition of pasturage will curtail largely the use of corn. The Drovers' Journal gives it as their opinion we will have a crop of over 1,800,000,000 bus. This seems a little bit out of line.

* * *

Chicago—W. H. Bartlett says: Our reports indicate some slight improvement in corn in Iowa and Nebraska, but allowing the most optimistic claims from that section, they will be much more than offset by the great loss in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. The next government report will most certainly show a loss of 10 per cent in Illinois, 20 per cent in Indiana, and 15 per cent in Ohio, giving us a general average under 50. In fourteen years there has been but one report that showed a better condition in the first of September than on the first of August, and this year will be no exception to the rule.

* * *

Price Current—Corn crop position not further damaged. Fourteen hundred million indicated now. Seen hundred and fifteen million wheat still possible to furnish. Three hundred million bus exportable.

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Wheat—Liverpool cables closed 1½d lower. Our market opened very wheat in response to those cables and on account of favorable weather in the Northwest, and it has been a dull, dragging market with constant liquidation all day long. The weakness in the coarse grains has also affected wheat unfavorably and the market closed weak at about the lowest point of the day.

Corn—Liverpool closed ⅞d lower. Weak cables and the bearish reports issued by the Cincinnati Price Current in which it estimated the crop at 1,400,000,000 bus, had a tendency to open our market weak. This induced liquidation and on reports of somewhat better movement in the West, the market broke quite badly, closing at the lowest point of the day. We do no change our opinion on corn, however. Our reports from east of the Mississippi river more than offset and possible improvement west of the river, and we believe that purchases around these prices will make good money.

Oats have followed pretty close today, but have shown rather more strength. The market has been without any special features. We believe oats should be bought on all weak spots.

Provisions reflected the weakness in grain until near the close when the offerings of pork by scalpers affected the whole list to some extent and final prices show loss of 5c, in both ribs and lard. The market was extremely dull throughout, the only feature being greater relative strength of near options. Estimated for tomorrow, 21,000.

SOUTH DAKOTA CROPS.

General Improvement Due to Copious Rains.

The crop report for South Dakota for the week ending Monday last indicates that there has been a general improvement in corn, hay and, in fact, nearly all agricultural products, by reason of copious rains. It is as follows:

"The temperature during the week averaged about the normal, with moderately cool nights. Good to copious, and in some localities heavy, rains occurred generally, and reports indicate that there was no appreciable portion of the state, except possibly in the range region west of the Missouri river, whence no reports are received, that did not receive beneficial rain some time during the week.

"The harvesting of wheat, oats, barley, rye and speltz is practically completed, reports indicating that only in some extreme Northern and Black Hills localities is there some wheat and oats yet to be harvested. Stacking and shock threshing are far advanced in southern counties, although slightly retarded by rains, and thresher returns show that some yields of all grains are exceeding what was expected at harvest time. Practically the entire crop of small grain has been nicely secured, and there is as yet no report of damage to grain in shock or stack by the recent rains.

"Corn, particularly the late, which comprises much of the crop, has been considerably improved by the bountiful rains of this week, in addition to the fairly distributed showers of the preceding week, and a large majority of reports indicate healthy appearance and very evident improvement. Some of the best early corn is in roasting ear stage.

"The conditions of pastures, millet, more particularly the late, late and medium late flax, and late potatoes, has improved, and in some middle and northern localities the improvement in flax and millet is marked. Some early flax has been harvested in southern localities, and some is just blossoming in northern counties. The prospect for potatoes continues poor, except over limited areas.

"Haying, although interrupted to some extent by the rains, made rapid advancement. The work is far advanced, notwithstanding unusual acreage is being cut, and the indications are, on the whole, for a good crop. Pasturage is good again, and range grass is reported in some localities as green as it was early in the season.

"A hail storm over a part of the western portion of Beadle county did considerable damage to some fields of corn in the vicinity of Wolsey.

"The prospect for apples, in the sections where raised, has diminished, and is, on the whole, poor to fair."

TO ANSWER.

Editor of London Globe Must Explain to Commons.

London, Aug. 15.—The house of commons, today, on the motion of John Redmond, the Irish national leader, ordered the editor and publisher of the Globe, an evening paper of London, (Conservative), to appear at the bar of the house tomorrow afternoon for gross breach of privileges of the house, in accusing the Nationalists of corruption in connection with private bill legislation.

The Globe editorial to which exception is taken said: "The same spirit and the same motives which have made Tammany the synonym for political obloquy have made the Nationalist party what it is. Many connected with it are the very ruck of the population, whose sole object is to make as much money by political jobbery and corruption as they can. Any one who has had connection with Irish private bills, corporation contracts and franchises across the water can bear ample testimony to this."

The Globe, hearing of Mr. Redmond's proposed action, attempted to explain that it had not meant any imputation on members of the house of commons, "but upon the wire pullers and parasites who have made politics in Ireland a profession, as their kinsmen have done in New York."

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

The Closing Was Active With Prices Tending Upward.

Good Demand In Final Hour Caused a Strong Tone.

United States Steel Rallied to High Point of Day.

New York, Aug. 15.—But few changes of importance were made in prices during the opening dealings, but trading was quite active and the tone firm. The United States Steel stocks opened wide, 2500 shares of common selling at 44 to 44½ and 2000 shares of preferred at 93¼ to 93½, indicating advances over yesterday of ¼ to ½ per cent respectively. Manhattan rose a point and Consolidated Gas 1¼. The railroad stocks were without important changes.

Moderate buying of St. Paul advanced it a point and the preferred rose 1¼. Genesee Coal also improved 1½ and Iowa Central common and preferred a point. These comprised the only advances of importance before prices turned downward on realizing and short selling. The reaction wiped out the rise in St. Paul and Atchison, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific became heavy. United States Steel stocks about lost their advance, but other specialties were neglected. Near 11 o'clock St. Paul bounded up to 165½ to the highest and other stocks recovered to the opening figures. Rock Island made an exceptional rise of 4 points. Fluctuations were narrow in the active stocks and they ruled slightly below the highest. The United States Steel stocks held steady at yesterday's close, but Smelting and Colorado Fuel were 1½ to 3½ per cent. Illinois Central, Amalgamated Copper, Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville and General Electric were in demand and rose 1 to 3. At noon the market was more active and rising under the lead of St. Paul and Union Pacific. Bonds were dull and firmer.

Low-priced railroad stocks were bid up strongly, especially Erie, Ontario & Western and Southern Railway, which advanced 1 to 1½. Pennsylvania and Louisville & Nashville also developed decided strength, but there was no movement of importance in the grain carrying roads. United States Steel issues were stagnant. The intense dullness encouraged some pressure by the bears, but declines were small, aside from St. Paul, which lost a point. Transactions in United States Steel stocks were few and far between and they did not fluctuate more than ⅛ either way.

The market livened up in the closing hour on a demand from both accounts and the best prices of the day were scored by Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and St. Paul. Sugar spurted up 2 points and there was a large absorption of the Southern Railway stocks. United States Steel issues rallied up to the top prices and the market generally was stronger than any tie during the day. The closing was active with prices tending upward.

STOCK GOSSIP.

New York to B. E. Baker—The Sun says: "The exigencies of the operators for short account, including the local traders having large Western speculative cliques who for some time past have been improving to the fullest possible extent the apprehension regarding the crop conditions, particularly the outlook for corn, due to the scarcity of floating stocks were responsible for a drive at prices in the last hour. The attack was only momentarily successful, but caused many stocks to loose all of their improvements in prices. A rally as violent as the decline immediately followed and was checked only by the fall of the gavel at the close of business. The scarcity of stocks recently disclosed has been a matter of comment in the last few days indicating not only that liquidation caused by the over extended crop damage discussions had run its course, but that more securities in small and widely distributed holdings are now owned by the public, instead of being carried by outsiders as formerly.

* * *

Waldorf gossip to Edwards, Wood & Co.—The fact that a larger crop of bull tips has been circulated during the last week than for some weeks previous is spoken of as showing that somewhat vigorous efforts are being made to advance the heavy pool stocks, particularly the grangers. An effort is also being made to persuade the people that an unduly large short interests exists in the stock of all the grain carrying roads. It is pointed out, however, that the course of the market each day for the last two weeks or more has very effectually disproved the existence of such action. The bullish contingent has endeavored to represent that the temporary and spasmodic strength in Atchison and Union Pacific during the last few days was due to the knowledge on the part of insiders that the crop damage is not nearly as bad as has been reported in some sections, also the advance was due to the covering of a long list of shorts. In this condition attention is called to the fact that these stocks have advanced easily and only in a limited way and that the advance thoroughly showed that the short interest is of small proportion. The opinion is now expressed, therefore, that the short interest is not sufficient to cause an advance worthy of consideration.

* * *

New York to B. E. Baker—The Daily Stock-Holder says: "The kind of market Wall street is having now, it has had before, one in which adverse prospects are ignored through manipulation. The fallacy that during the next six months higher prices for food will make up to the carrier the deficiency in tonnage caused by a falling off in the yield of grain produce estimated to exceed a million bus, is temporarily a help in strengthening quotations."

* * *

Ridgley to A. R. Jones & Co.—Think prices will be held up for two or three weeks. Amalgamated is a good thing to buy around 112. I get this from people who ought to know what they are talking about. There is no indication of tight money at present as the money has not started for the interior yet, but it will go later on.

* * *

Town Topics—The market is likely to show some irregularity today on profit taking sales, but there is no reason to anticipate a reaction of any importance. The public is not buying, but banking interests are giving substantial support with a view to decide improvement later on. Many firms continue to send out bearish advices but these are in the minority and the general opinion is that unfavorable features have been pretty well discounted.

New York— McIntyre & Marshall—"The general situation outlook has changed very little but the speculative position of the general market is regarded as still sufficiently favorable to warrant further improvement in prices before the close of the week, especially as the disposition is to buy on recessions. We do not, however, expect to see anything like the development of a bull market at present. On the contrary the best that can be expected is the continuance of a trader's market."

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Aug. 15.—Cotton opened quiet, but firm, at an advance of 5 to 7 points on covering due to higher cables. Soon after the call the advance melted away under absence of buyers rather than special selling pressure from either side. October eased off 5 points to 724, and 4 points in January to 729.

Cotton spot closed quiet and steady; middling uplands, 8; middling gulf, 8¼; sales, 697 bales. Cotton futures closed quiet and steady; August, 717; September, 718; October, 727; November, 728; December, 730; January, 713; February, 733; March, 736; April, 737.

TEXAS OIL NEWS.

Gushers 23 and 24 Come in Near the Saratoga Well.

Two dozen gushers—every one within a half mile of the Saratoga well and nearly all the new ones within 200 or 300 feet—that is the record to date. There has not been a single failure to get oil in gusher quantities near the Saratoga well. Gusher 23 is the Durah well, in block 36, Spindle Top, with a 6-inch pipe down 1025 feet, of which the last 28 feet is in the oil. This well has been tried and made a fine showing. Gusher 24 is the Cattlemen's, which was on the verge of coming in for a week past. It is in block 38, only a short distance from the Saratoga well.

The Guffey company is still drilling at Big Hill, but, on account of the hardness of the rock, little progress is being made.

A company has offered New Orleans ½ cent a barrel for the right to pipe line that city, and the offer has been accepted by the mayor and the council committee. This indicates that all of New Orleans is going to burn Beaumont oil.

When it is remembered that it is barely a half year since the first oil gusher was struck in Texas, it almost passes one's comprehension to realize what has been done—but the Texas oil business is only in its infancy. It promises to revolutionize commerce and industry all over the South and West, and make money by the million for those who have the courage and judgment to grasp the opportunity as it is passing. In fact, many are doing so now. Every day brings new inquiries and new subscriptions for stock to the Saratoga Oil & Pipeline company, J. H. Bennett, agent, 514 Manhattan building, Duluth, Minn. This is an invitation to you to write or call.

FIRST BALLOT

In Virginia's Attorney General Contest.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 15.—The result of the first ballot for nomination for attorney general in the state convention was as follows: Jeffries, 594; Anderson, 592; Robertson, 148; Williams, 161.

The situation was intense as the roll call proceeded and cheer after cheer filled the hall as apparent triumphs were scored by the rival candidates. Being the lowest in the list, Robertson's name was dropped after the first ballot.

Maj. William A. Anderson, of Rock Bridge, was named for attorney general on the second ballot. This nomintion was later made unanimous. The convention then took a recess until 4 oclock, when the platform will be called for. The committee on resolutions has been in executive session for two days and has not yet reached an agreement.

CONVICTED.

Former Postmaster at Havana Fined and Imprisoned.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has received a cablegram from the inspector of posts in Cuba, Fosnes, stating that the trial of E. P. Thompson, formerly postmaster at Havana, has been concluded and Thompson convicted. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $400 or serve six months in prison. Thompson was accused of causing to be issued in his own behalf, while postmaster, four money orders for $100 each and putting a due bill in the drawer instead of cash. It was further charged that when he learned that an inspection of the office was imminent he paid $400 into the drawer from remittances he had just received, postponing the entry of these remittances until after the inspection, when he withdrew the $400, replaced his due bills and entered the remittances.

Piston Slipped and Pulled Clear of the Cylinder.

The Grain Outlook Somewhat Improved at Chicago.

Two Harbors, Aug. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The engines of the Maruba were saved from destruction by a happy chance soon after the steamer had left port last evening. The piston slipped from the guide and pulled clear of the cylinder. Under ordinary circumstances this would mean that the engine room would be a mass of debris inside of a minute, but fortunately just at the instant of the disaster, the engineer had only half steam on. The machinery was stopped before it had torn itself to pieces, and later in the evening, the steamer was towed back to port by the tug Edna G. Repairs are now being made in the railroad shops here.

GRAIN RATES UNCHANGED.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain rates were unchanged, but the outlook was somewhat improved by the drop in grain prices, which may put corn within reach of Eastern buyers. No boats were chartered, however, up to noon so far as known, the grain offered all going to the lines.

FOR SCHLEY.

Attorney General of Maryland Will Also Act as Counsel.

Baltimore, Aug. 15.—It is announced here that Isador Raynor, attorney general for Maryland, has been retained as one of the attorneys for Rear Admiral Schley in his coming hearing before the court of inquiry. Mr. Raynor received a letter from Admiral Schley on Sunday in which he was asked to act as one of the counsel in the case and at once accepted the commission. Speaking of the case, he said today:

"Immediately upon the receipt of Admiral Schley's letter requesting me to become one of his counsel, I began an examination of the case. I had, to some extent, familiarized myself with the general surroundings of the controversy, but shall now enter upon a study of all its details and gather all the information obtainable. We have four weeks in which to prepare for the hearing, and in that time I can readily acquaint myself with all of Admiral Schley's movements and those of his squadron from the time it left Hampton roads to the battle of Santiago, and with the dispatches which passed from the navy department to Admiral Sampson, and from Sampson to Schley.

"When you analyze all the facts in this case, as I am trying to do, you will find that, with the exception of two charges embraced in the precept—Admiral Schley's alleged failure to destroy the Colon and his alleged withdrawal twenty-five miles at night after the establishment of the blockade at Santiago—the whole controversy covers a period of only nine days, that is, from the time the flying quadron left Key West for Cienfuegos until it started back from Santiago by the Yucatan passage for the purpose of coaling ships. I do not think, therefore, the case will occupy as much time as contemplated, as it will be the effort of counsel and no doubt of the court to get right down to the salient points of the case and hold up before the country every movement made by Admiral Schley from start to finish."

A GOOD SOLDIER

General Miles Explains the Essentials to the Army.

Issues General Order Tended to Improve Condition of Men.

Patriotism, Physical Ability and Self Reliance Are Necessary.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Lieut. Gen. Miles, commanding the army, has issued a general order intended to improve the conditions of the army. It admonishes officers and men regarding their duties and points out the essentials of a good soldier, specifically mentioning patriotism, physical ability, self-reliance and resourcefulness, also adding that professional knowledge is necessary at all times. The general says that on account of large accessions of officers and soldiers who have had but little experience in the service, the instructions contained in the order are issued for their guidance as well as for others.

He also says that to be effective in war modern training must be had. The following are extracts from the order:

"Of these principles patriotism is of the first and paramount importance. An absolute and unqualified devotion to the welfare of their country of all in the military service is an indispensable prerequisite that constitutes the soul of an efficient army. It is essential that the army shall fully understand the character of our government, shall release the prerogatives granted by our constitution and shall be familiar with the brilliant achievements of our arms as recorded in our past military history.

"The second principle—discipline distinguishes thoroughly trained and instructed troops and an irresponsible and unyielding organization of men. Respect for and implicit obedience to superior authority are its essential characteristics. Its vital importance must be thoroughly impressed on all in the military service. Officers who will be exemplary in deportment, will exercise justice and impartiality, and will be considerate in their conduct toward all subordinates. Cheerful, earnest and loyal obedience will be promptly paid by all subordinates to all lawful orders.

"Recent reports indicate the existence of marked unsoldierly deportment on the part of some of the troops, a condition apparently cultivated recently under the mistaken idea that a certain uncouthness of exterior and laxity of manners are the essential characteristics of a soldier. As they are most subversive of discipline and efficiency, offices of this nature must either be ignored nor condoned.

Commanding officers are strictly accountable for the general appearance of their troops under all circumstances wherever they be, in garrison, in camp, on the march, off duty, or on brief furlough.

Soldiers are as much responsible for their conduct while off the military reservations or out of camp as, when in garrison.

The exchange canteen reservation or amusement room, as it was originally called, will be made as attractive as possible, and the recent law concerning it will be faithfully and loyally observed.

"The third principle to be observed is the physical development that will render the soldier capable of the great endurance on the march and on the field of battle. To this end athletic games are superior to prescribed gymnastics that prescribe special movements, of short length at 'attention' to those at 'route step with shambling gait and irregular cadence.

The fourth principle of which comprises self-respect, self-reliance and resourcefulness. These qualities making up Americans individually are not a large measure.

"The fifth principle is that of greatest difficulty in professional knowledge. The art of war is the application of its principles to actual service and of more importance than the science.

Military problems will be carefully and timely prepared for solution during important military drills and maneuvers.

"Troops will be frequently occupied in extended field exercises, such as scouting, reconnoitering and map-making expeditions and other practical field work. The officers and men will be required to apply the principles of security and information to the accidents of terrain over which they may be operated. Wherever practicable extensive maneuvres will be practiced by detachments, but all under a well-defined system.

"The acknowledged reputation of the army demands that nothing short of perfect proficiency in active service shall be accepted. To the accomplishment of this all officers are required to conscientiously obey their orders from headquarters."

BRIDE OF SIX DAYS

Has Begun Suit Against Her Husband.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—"Trout against Trout," is the title of a story now being told in the circuit court. The characters are a bride of six days and a rich husband, part of whose property and income the young wife now prays the court to let her share.

Mrs. Sarah Trout, was until a few weeks ago, Mrs. Sarah Gould. George W. Trout is a special officer of the Chicago health department. On Aug. 4 Trout had the name of Gould changed to Trout through a matrimonial procedure at Waukegan. Six days later, on Aug. 10, so Mrs. Trout sets forth, Mr. Trout left her.

Attorney F. A. Harper was hired by Mrs. Trout, and he has presented to Judge Vail a petition for relief and for an injunction restraining her husband from disposing of his worldly goods, estimated by Mrs. Trout at $60,000 in real estate and personal property. She also cites the fact that he gets a salary of $150 a month, is strong and able bodied and consequently qualified to provide comfort and food for two Trouts. In the six days of wedded life the Trouts lived in a flat in Indiana avenue. Disappointment at the discovery of the actual financial standing of Mrs. Trout is said to have had something to do with the separation.

For fifty years the Schlitz agencies have followed white men's conquests.

They are twenty years old in South Africa.

Schlitz beer was famous in Siberia before a railroad was thought of.

When Japan and China first began to awake, Schlitz beer was advertised in their newspapers.

Almost as soon as Dewey captured Manila 216 carloads of Schlitz were sent there.

Today Schlitz agencies so dot the globe that when it is midnight at one it is noonday at another.

The quality by which Schlitz beer has won distinction has been its absolute purity. Every physician the world over will recommend Schlitz, the beer that made Milwaukee famous.

Mr. L. Schneider, of 224 Sixth street west, employed at the Fifth avenue grocery, says: "I had a dull heavy aching in my loins and if I stooped or lifted anything heavy it became sharp and piercing. Although often very tired at night I could not rest well as I soon became lame and sore from lying in one position. The secretions from the kidneys were irregular and unnatural." I tried different remedies, but they did not do me much good. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended I procured a box from W. A. Abbett's Drug store and commenced the treatment. Employes at South Chicago Deaf to Appeals of Association.

Refuse to Reconsider Their Former Action on Matter.

Secretary Tighe Then Revokes Charters of Both Lodges.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—There will be no strike of the employes at the steel mills in South Chicago. This point was settled last night when the men refused to re-consider the action taken Saturday night at which time they decided to stand by their contracts with the mills and refused to join the strikers.

After they had declined to reconsider Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe, of the Amalgamated association, who came to Chicago with the intention of securing a revocation of the action of Saturday night, if possible, declared that he revoked the charters of both lodges of the Amalgamated association in the South Chicago mills and declared the men outside of the organization. The men greeted his announcement with laughter and cheers.

Mr. Tighe then announced that the charters of both lodges were revoked and the meeting dissolved. After leaving the meeting Mr. Tighe expressed himself as greatly disappointed at the action taken last night and said that today he will go to the Bay View mills at Milwaukee and also to those at Joliet.

He will repeat the program of last night at each place, explaining to the men the cause of the strike and if they shall refuse to reconsider their action in refusing to join the ranks of the strikers he will declare the charters of all their lodges forfeited and rule the men out of the association.

Scurrilous Attack Made on the Philippine Commission.

Manila, Aug. 14.—A pamphlet was published broadcast yesterday containing an attack on the United States Philippine commission, signed by the Centro Catholico. All the members of that body indignantly deny having any connection with the publication. The leaders say that nobody was more disgusted at such a publication than themselves. They believe the pamphlet was issued by a local paper in an endeavor to create a sensation, as the paper was published simultaneously with the issue of the pamphlet. The latter was nominally in favor of the rich calling on the poor to rise in their might against Judge Taft, the civil governor, and "the rest of the rickety brawlers running the government of the United States," and saying "they have declared war against God."

Prominent Catholics are awaiting Governor Taft's return in order to repudiate in behalf of the church the sentiments contained in the pamphlet.

An insurgent captain and eighteen men belonging to Malvar's forces surrendered yesterday.

FORGERY THE CHARGE.

Secretary of Illinois Dental Examiners Under Arrest.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Dr. J. H. Smyser, secretary of the Illinois state board of dental examiners for the year 1900 and a member of the board ousted from office by order of Governor Yates Monday night, has been arrested on two warrants sworn out before Judge Kavanaugh, charging him with forgery and with issuing forged diplomas. The arrest was the result of the investigations now being made by United States Consul Jas. H. Worman, who charges that irregularities were practiced by the state board in issuing diplomas to dentists.

The chief evidence which Worman says he has against Dr. Smyser is contained in two alleged licenses purported to have been issued to Emil Gumpoldt in Chicago on May 5, 1900. The original documents are at present among the records of the criminal courts at Munich, Bavaria. They were photographed in Bavaria by Worman, and it was the evidence supplied by these photographs that led to the arrest of Smyser. Dr. Worman said that the documents were forgeries.

FORCED TO MARRY

And Now He Wants the Marriage Annulled.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 15.—In a suit for the annulment of his marriage, John Conway, of Chicago, an employe of the Cudahy Packing company here, alleges that he was forced to marry Bridget Lawler, of Chicago, in jail through the connivance of Lieut. John Banfield, of the Chicago police force. He says he was arrested on an abandonment charge and accused of assault upon the Lawler woman's niece. He refused to marry the woman, but such pressure was brought to bear by Banfield that he consented, as he says, through fear, and the prospect of bringing his family, which is prominent, into disgrace. He left his wife and has never lived with her.

Cambria Steel Company Makes Large Increase In Capital Stock.

Is Now Merged With the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Two Directors Chosen to Represent the New Interest.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Cambria Steel company today, the capital was increased to $50,000,000 from $4,320,000, and three new directors were elected. The new members are Leonard C. Hanna, of Cleveland; Frank J. Firth and Theodore N. Ely, of this city. Mr. Hanna is a brother of Senator Hanna and an authority on iron ores. He has charge of the Cambria ore business. Mr. Firth is the president of the Erie and Western Transportation company, and Mr. Ely is superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The new directors were chosen by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which controls the Cambria company. The proposition to merge the two companies was ratified by a stock vote of 261,264 out of a total of 320,000 shares. The actual amount of money paid in under the recapitalization is $13,250,000, from which is to be deducted $200,000 commission to Drexel & Co. and $1,000,000 compensation to the underwriting syndicate.

THE DAKOTAS.

Sioux Indians Are Said to Be Killing Antelopes.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Deadwood—Chief Stinking Bear, with a band of Sioux, is said to be on a hunt northwest of the Hills and reports state that a good many antelope are being killed. The hunters in the Hills have been vigilant in the protection of the few remaining deer and this expedition of the head chief of the Pine Ridge Indians is no; reinshed by the whites. The deer are getting fewer every year and an effort is being made to keep within the law in killing them. Chief Stinking Bear makes the excuse that he and his party are out hunting lost horses.

Sioux Falls—Two Minneapolis women, Mrs. James Golden and daughter, are confident they are heirs to much Sioux Falls property, if they can find it. During the boom days James Golden was a resident of Sioux Falls. He ran a large grading outfit, and in addition to doing a great deal of street grading, also did railroad work. The ladies referred to are his widow and daughter. They base their belief on the statements made in some letters found in Mr. Golden's effects after his death. The women are so confident they are the heirs of some property here somewnere that they have engaged the services of an attorney to examine the records fully. Nothing of a particular interest has yet been developed by the investigation.

Canton—The Indian insane asylum, situated about a mile outside of the city limits and now nearing completion, rent in a fire alarm by telephone at 6:30 Wednesday morning. Fire originated among the paints, probably by combustion. The loss is about $1600, fully civered by builders' insurance.

Dell Rapids—Andrew B. Lemme, a farmer, Tuesday began suit through his attorney, G. R. Krause, against the city of Dell Rapids for damages in the sum of $1500 for personal injuries sustained by him in an accident on one of the public highways. He alleges that the highway in question is and has been for years in a dangerous condition; that the roadbed at a point between the railroad track and a bluff is very narrow and forms a high and dangerous embankment; and that while driving on the road on Nov. 21, 1900, he and his team and wagon were precipitated down the embankment, and he was severely bruised and sustained a broken leg, resulting in his permanent injury.

NORTH DAKOTA.

New Rockford—A fellow who said his name was Fred Starr was given employment by John O'Connell, a farmer west of this city. The next day, while the family was absent he stole a ladies' gold watch and chain, a valuable ring and several other articles and departed for parts unknown. No trace of him has been found as yet by the sheriff and his deputies.

Fargo—Machinery dealers report the biggest business in North Dakota for years. The splendid crop is not alone responsible for the amount of business being done, as last year's crop was so scant fraimers refrained from purchasing the usual amount and made old binders and threshing machines do the work.

WOMEN GOLFISTS.

Exmoor Country Club, Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 15.—In the second day's play for the Exmoor cup in the women's tournament, at the end of nine holes play, Mrs. Cutter was six up on Miss Congdon; Mrs. Anthony six up on Miss Kellogg, and Miss Anthony four up on Miss Gilbert.

MODERN WOODMEN DAY.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 15.—This was Modern Woodmen day at the Battle Island assembly. Judge J. H. Mahoney was the principal speaker, taking for his subject "Woodcraft." Hon. C. J. Smith also addressed the assemblage. The grounds were crowded with Modern Woodmen. A ball game was played in the afternoon.

WILL BURN TEXAS OIL

Additional Information Concerning the New Line of Ships to Cross Atlantic In Four and Half Days.

London, Aug. 16.—S. G. Frazer, the Dublin engineer, who has prepared the plans for the new harbor at Berehaven, Ireland, in connection with the proposed steamship line, which is to have steamers capable of crossing the Atlantic in four and a half days, informed a representative of the Associated Press today, that the line will consist initially of six large steamers, four for the New York and two for the Canadian trade. It is the intention to burn Texas oil. The Canadian port will be Sidney or Halifax. By building sixty-five miles of railroad and connecting Berehaven with all the Irish lines, the new company will be able to take passengers and mails from Berehaven to London in twelve hours, thus landing passengers in New York and London in five days. The English port will be Liverpool or Southampton until the new works at Dover are completed. Austin Chamberlain, Gerald Balfour and George Wyndham (respectively the financial secretary to the treasury, the president of the board of trade and the chief secretary for Ireland), besides Lord James of Hereford (chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster), actively supported the bill and advised silence on this side of the Atlantic until the bill was passed. Mr. Frazer says much American capital is interested in the scheme.

DISAPPOINTED.

Prisoner Wanted to Secure a Passage Home.

London, Aug. 16.—At the Mansion House police court today, James MacDonald, who, on Aug. 9, was charged in that court on his own confession, with robbing the office of the Western Lumber company, at Portland, Ore., last December, was discharged, the officials of the United States embassy announcing that the Washington authorities did not desire his extradition. The prisoner was greatly disappointed at not securing transportation home.

FIRE AT DRY RUN.

Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 16.—Fire destroyed the Hammond hotel, four stores and six residences at Dry Run, Pa, last night. Loss, $40,000, partly insured.

MORE OPPOSITION.

Brazil Is Growing About Pan-American Congress.

New York, Aug. 16.—According to the Rio De Janeiro correspondent of the Herald opposition in congress to representation in the Pan-American congress is increasing. During a discussion Deputy Morera Alxez said if there is a Brazilian delegate in the congress, the delegate would not represent Brazil, but only President Campos-Salles. The chamber of deputies, nevertheless, passed an appropriation for a representative to attend the congress.

HOPES HIGH

Steel Strikers Again Feeling Optimistic.

Strike of Men at Joliet Caused the Change.

Pittsburg, Aug. 16.—The reversal of front by the men of Joliet has cheered the steel strikers more than any other event of the week and their hopes again seem high. It has ended, for the time being, all talk of peace by compromise and given the fight the aspect of a prolonged one. The strikers declare, in their enthusiasm, that they will force the Milwaukee men to join with them, and that in the end the Chicago steel workers, rather than lose the hall mark of unionism, will finally reconsider their action and swing into line. This optimistic program remains to be carried out, however. The loss at Joliet has had no apparent effect on the men who are directing the field operations of the steel corporation. One of them remarked, when he heard the news from Joliet: "Well, it seems to be settling down to a long drawn out fight and I guess we can win at that sort of a game.'

There were no developments today in the situation in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio or West Virginia. McKeesport and Wheeling continue silent, while here in Pittsburg and vicinity no effort was made to add to the force at the mills, which are working either partly or full with non-union men. The steel corporation is preparing to reopen the steel works at Monessen. White men are being brought up from the South, and it is expected by Monday a start will be made. Every precaution to guard the non-union men is being taken as it is feared that when they arrive some of the strikers and their sympathizers cannot be held in check by their leaders. The American Tinplate company officials have plans for resumption at some of their idle plants, but have carried no more of them out yet. The strikers claim that the lower union mill, Carnegie mill and the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills are impaired, but this the steel officials deny.

President Shaffer was an early arrival at the strike headquarters and talked freely about the situation. When asked if Trustee Pierce had gone East to do some organizing, he said: "I will not talk on Mr. Pierce's trip."

"Will he go to Duncansville?" was asked.

"The Amalgamated association never sought to organize those men," he said. "They sent word for us to send an organizer there. We did so with the result that is already known. We have not troubled ourselves about them since. They do not amount to a row of beans. A telegram from Mr. Tighe states that Joliet men are out and that he will go to Milwaukee."

"Have you any word from Vice President Davis, of Chicago?" was asked.

"I have not heard from Mr. Davis and do not know his position. I know what is going on in every mill in the country and am satisfied with the situation. I have reports from the local mills supposed to be in operation and of their failure in turning out work. It looks nice to see the flames of these mills going up, but our men know there is nothing going on in them that amounts to anything. Mr. Tighe has the right to bring back the charters of Western lodges where the men refuse to go out, and will do so if necessary. If I were one of those men, I would be ashamed of myself."

A telegram from McKeesport announces that the fires of the Monongahela blast furnaces will be drawn tomorrow and 400 men will be without employment. The order to close down resulted from the strike. The strike organizers are working among the Carnegie men at Homestead and Duquesne and claim they have a foothold. They may hold a meeting at the latter place on Saturday night. The steel managers say their position at those two places is impregnable. Wheeling is stirred by a statement that the steel corporation is planning the removal of several of its plants to towns where there is less labor sentiment. The steel workers at the Riverside plant are the only ones still at their places.

Plans for the relief of strikers are being perfected at McKeesport and Wheeling. Only $275 has been raised at the former place, but more is promised. Wheeling has named a relief committee. Contributions are coming in to Secretary Williams here, but no plan for aiding the men who are out has been announced.

The 600 employes of the National Galvanizing works, an adjunct of the National Tube company, at McKeesport, joined the strikers today. This closes every plant in McKeesport.

Referring to the status of the men in the Western lodges who have refused to strike, President Shaffer declared himself today as follows:

"The men of the Chicago lodges of the Amalgamated association who refused to obey the strike order will be placed without the pale of the order. Notices will be sent to all the lodges to receive no communication from them, and to send none to them, and to accept no working cards from them. Such notification will be given at once. A date will be set at which the intercourse must cease, the date to cover the recent defection of the men in the trust plants of the West."

MOBILE WAS FORTUNATE

Mobile, Aug. 16, 10 a. m.—As far as known at this hour there has been no loss of life from the terrific storm in Mobile or its immediate vicinity. No reports have as yet been received from the coast or any islands below.

Several vessels have been lost, but the crews are believed to be safe.

The water, which reached a high stage in the city, has subsided and is now almost normal.

Aggregate damage to property in Mobile is considerable. Nobody is a loser, however, in any large amount.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 16.—Weather Forecaster Marbury said of the storm conditions today: "The storm that has prevailed along the gulf for the past few days is now confined principally to the eastern portion of the Mississippi valley, the storm center this morning being over Meridian, Miss. The path of the storm seems to be in a northerly and northeasterly direction. Normal barometric pressure is reported as far north as Cincinnati.

"The disturbance has caused heavy rains over Alabama and Northern Georgia, while to the westward the rainfall in the past twenty-four hours has been light. The storm is apparently moving a trifle east of north, in the direction of the Eastern Ohio valley, and its influence will be doubtless felt in that section on Sunday.

"Heavy rainfalls were reported at Mobile, 3:78 inches; Meridian, 3:62; Montgomery, 2:56; Atlanta, 1:90; Knoxville, 1:14.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 16.—The first train since the storm between here and Mobile was run this morning. The train went a little south of Bayminette, but it was found that the track was twenty inches under water and the train was compelled to turn back. A special train with the superintendent of the Louisville & Nashville, which left here last night, has reached Mobile. It is said passengers who were on the train from Montgomery yesterday were transferred from Tensaw in tow boats which took them to Mobile. The wires between here and Mobile are still down, and messages are sent subject to indefinite delay.

CRESCEUS IS A WONDER

New York, Aug. 16.—Interviewed concerning the Cresceus-The Abbott race, George H. Ketcham, of Toledo, owner of Cresceus, said: "Cresceus did just what I expected him to. He is the greatest horse in the world. He has not yet reached his limit. I will retire Cresceus this season with a record as close to two minutes as possible. I tried to distance the Abbott and consider the feat a feather in Cresceus' cap. By doing so, however, I got only $7000, the regular first money, and The Abbott's owner receives $5000."

Asked why he drove to distance The Abbott, Mr. Ketcham said: "I brought Cresceus here to beat The Abbott and I wanted to finish up the job as quickly and as effectually as possible. To have taken my horse back and allowed Geers to get inside the flag would have savored of hippodrome racing. As it was, everybody on the grounds went away knowing he had seen a genuine horse race."

PASSENGERS ESCAPED

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 16.—Passenger train No. 36, on the Big Four, eastbound, was wrecked at 5 o'clock this morning, at Raleigh, one mile west of Pendleton. The train consisted of two mail cars, one baggage car and two sleepers, and was running fifty miles an hour. The only person injured was Fireman Lilly. The track was badly blocked. The train carried about seventy passengers.

NEW POSTMASTER.

Washington, Aug. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. H. Clark has been appointed postmaster at Ellis, Cass county, vice C. P. Potter, resigned.

NO INFORMATION.

New York, Aug. 16.—Nothing definite could be learned here today of the reported resignation of President Hays of the Southern Pacific railroad. Chas. H. Tweed, chairman of the companies' board of directors, said he had not been informed that Mr. Hays had resigned.

BICYCLE RACES.

Paris, Aug. 16.—The contestants in an international bicycle race from Paris to Brest and return, a distance of 1200 kilometres, started at 4:53 o'clock this morning. There were twenty-seven competitors. Aucouturier and Lesnaur were the first to pass Dreux, twenty-one miles north of Chartres, at 7:10 o'clock. Miller, of Chicago was the eighth to pass Dreux, at 7:31 and Huret was ninth.

DANGER PASSED

The Big Storm Has Practically Subsided at New Orleans.

The Water In River and Lake Is Falling Rapidly.

Business Men Still Tied Up at Summer Homes.

New Orleans, Aug. 16.—The big storm has practically subsided here, and both the river and the lake are falling. The water has receded rapidly from that section of the city overflowed yesterday. Various lake resorts bore the brunt of the storm. Little news has come thus far from the Mississippi sound, but there has been no loss of life reported in that section. Louisville & Nashville railroad is still crippled, no trains having been run since night before last. The subsidence of water, however, makes it probable that the damage to the tracks will be quickly repaired and that traffic will be resumed by night. A large number of business men are still bottled up on the coast and unable to get to their offices. The Northeastern road has had some trouble, but the Illinois Central has aided both the Louisville & Nashville and Northeastern in handling their passenger traffic.

The Cromwell liner Comus reached the city today. She had no trouble in the storm and reported no vessels in distress. Dr. J. N. Thomas, of the quarantine station, boarded the Comus near the mouth of the river, and told Capt. Franklin that an unknown schooner and a small boat had been wrecked in that vicinity and six lives lost. No serious damage was done to the quarantine station. A report from a point below this city says the tug Biloxi, of Slidell, and two barges went ashore, and that the fate of those on board is not known.

At Shell Beach the wind has ceased, but the water is rising, and there has been much damage to crops. Rice has been damaged considerably.

The United Fruit company's steamer Esther arrived here today. She experienced heavy winds, but was not injured and saw no vessels in distress. The Esther reported that there was no serious damage at the quarantine station, but that considerable property had been swept away at Port Eads.

The fruit company fears for the safety of another of its ships, the Fulton. The Fulton left Celba fourteen and a half days ago and is now ten days past due. She has not been reported.

Capt. Stevenson of the Esther brought up with him Capt. Samuel J. Dunham and four members of the crew of the tug Biloxi. The Biloxi capsized during the storm and the five rescued men made their way to a tree, to which they clung until rescued. They reported that two of the crew of the tug were missing.

Capt. Stevenson reported also that he saw a ship's mast, possibly a fruiter, sticking out of the water about nine miles from Southwest pass. He was unable to identify the vessel and saw none of her crew.

The Esther had as passengers Juan y Carrillo, family of twelve and four servants, all of Belise. They had been at the quarantine station for several days and passed safely through the storm.

Capt. Stevenson said a house boat and some small craft had been battered to pieces in the vicinity of the station, but he had learned of no loss of life.

SCHLEY

Has Arrived at Washington to Prepare For Coming Inquiry.

Washington, Aug. 16—Armiral Schley, who arrived here with his wife last night, will remain here until the court of inquiry, which is to investigate the Santiago campaign, completes its work. The interim between now and the opening of the sessions of the court, Sept. 12, will be devoted to the preparation of his side of the case. Today he had his first consultation with his counsel, Judge Jere Wilson of this city; former Representative Raynor of Baltimore and Capt. James Parker of New Jersey. Admiral Schley will go over everything relating to the matter with his counsel and place them in possession of every fact pertinent to a thorough and complete understanding of events of the campaign, which are in controversy. Admiral Schley declines to talk about the case. He considers that he order of Secretary Long prohibiting officers of the navy from discussing any phase of it applies to him as well as others, and he is obeying it literally.

Admiral Schley had not appeared at the navy department up to noon today. The naval regulations provide that every officer of the navy visiting Washington shall, within twenty-four hours after his arrival, register name and city address of the bureau of navigation, navy department. It is generally customary for officers to comply with this regulation by appearing in person, but under the practice which obtains, it is not actually necessary. Admiral Schley, after his arrival here last night, wrote a formal letter to the department, containing a notification of his arrival, and giving his address and such a letter is considered a compliance with the above regulation.

Capt. Barker was at the department today for a short time examining the records bearing upon the case.

REMAINS TRANSFERED.

Palermo, Aug. 16.—The remains of Signor Crispi were privately transferred to the Capuchin church today where they will remain until permission is granted for their interment in the Pantheon.

NAMED HIM DIMITRI.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—Grand Dushess Xenia, wife of Grand Duke Alexander Mikhailovitch, gave birth to a son yesterday. The child was christened Dimitri.

THREE TO ONE

Strong Combine to Overthrow Colombia.

Venezuela, Nicaragua and Ecuador In It.

New York, Aug. 16.—News has been received in this country involving Venezuela, Nicaragua and Ecuador in the attempt of Gen. Uribe-Uribe, the Colombian rebel leader, to overthrow the government of Colombia, says the Tribune. A year ago it was known to the Colombian authorities that the rebels under Uribe were receiving material aid from these republics and recent developments and information received by Colombian secret service agents confirm the belief that these countries are preparing open and simultaneous attacks upon Colombia. It mas further been learned that the plan of attack has practically been agreed upon. Large numbers of Nicaraguans have already joined the rebels in the department of Panama, and it will be these marauding bands the United States will have to deal with if it becomes necessary to land marines at Colon or Panama to protect American interests on the isthmus.

Venezuela's point of attack will naturally be from the Colombian-Venezuelan border, where the recent battles are reported thave taken place between Venezuela regulars and an invading army, commanded, according to Venezuelan authorities, by Gen. Gonzales Valencia. It is somewhat doubtful, however, if Gen. Valencia had anything to do with this movement unless war has already broken out between Venezuela and Colombia.

If the present plans are carried out the rendezvous of the Ecuadorian invaders will be in the southern part of the department of Cauca, where two Colombian rebel generals are now said to be encamped with 4000 troops.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The cruiser Ranger, now at San Diego, Cal., today was ordered to proceed southward to Panama. It is expected that she will be able to leave without delay as her commander has had warning to prepare for the journey. The Ranger is a little over 1000 tons and her speed is but six knots an hour.

The cruiser Philadelphia, which arrived at San Francisco yesterday from the Samoan islands, is to go into drydock at the Mare Island navy yard for overhauling and general repairs. The navy department has decided that this vessel should be immediately placed in condition in order that she might be prepared, if the occasion arose, to go south to the scene of the trouble on the isthmus.

The state department is receiving nothing additional on the Colombia-Venezuelan situation, except through on the condition of affairs.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The state department today issued the following: "The department of state is advised by a telegram from Mr. Russell, charge d'affaires in Venezuela, that the departure of the Colombian minister from Caracas was voluntary, and that he has the intention of returning to his post. Mr. Russell has taken charge of the Colombian legation property and archives during the ministers' absence. Mr. Russell does not state that he has assumed charge of Colombian interests, as he was authorized to do if requested, and with the assent of the Venezuelan government. It is inferred that he has not been asked to do so."

IS VERY DISAPPOINTING

Census of Dominion of Canada Will Show Gain of Only 503,827 In the Last Decade.

New York, Aug. 16.—A special to the Times from Ottawa says: The population of the Dominion of Canada, according to the census returns which will be given out tomorrow (Friday), is 5,337,166, an increase of 503,827 over the census of 1891. These returns are not authorized by the census commissioner, but they are understood to be those which the department will give to the public.

Taken by provinces, the increases will be as follows: Quebec, 132,434; Ontario, 53,657; Manitoba, 92,212; Northwest, 79,300; Yukon and unorganized district, 43,113; British Columbia, 92,000; maritime provinces, 11,000.

In a number of instances, such as in the Yukon and the unorganized districts, the department has made an estimate, as the returns have not yet been received. The result is disappointing, and the only explanation is that the returns for 1891 were padded.

According to the returns, Ontario will lose about five members and the maritime provinces three or four. Manitoba ought to increase its representation by three members, and the Northwest, including Yukon and British Columbia, ought to bring the representation up to about what it is now—213 members in all.

A HEAVY REBATE ASKED

Chicago Firms Claim Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Which They Have Overpaid on Silk Importations.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—As a result of the recent exposures of alleged frauds in the New York customs service, several of the big wholesale dry goods firms of Chicago have filed claims with the board of appraisers asking for sums aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars as rebates. It was through the watchfulness of Chicago importers that the government discovered a conspiracy in the New York customs house, says the Chronicle. Last May buyers for Chicago importers found that goods bought in Tokio and shipped to them cost more than the same articles could be bought for from certain firms in New York. So the Chicago men got together and instituted a quiet investigation. They collected evidence and filed protests with the treasury department at Washington.

The protests contained disclosures that called for immediate action and the government detectives were set at work at once. The claims the Chicago merchants have filed with the board of appraisers are being considered now, but official action probably will not be taken until the investigation has been finished.

A TERRIBLE CLOUDBURST

Bakersfield, Cal., Aug. 16.—A terrible cloudburst occurred at Tehachapi, doing an immense amount of damage. All connections by wire, telephone and telegraph are severed and it is impossible to obtain particulars. Four or five washouts resulted and the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroad trains are detained here until the track is in shape for traffic. Scores of men are at work repairing the damage. It is reported that two inches of rain fell in half an hour.

BOXER DEAD.

A Fatal Knock-Out In the Ninth Round at Lowell.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 16.—John Dion, the boxer, who was knocked out in the ninth round of a 20-round bout with Charles Armstrong at the Knickerbocker club, here last night, died from his injuries today. Dion suffered from concusion of the brain and never regained consciousness after the sudden termination of the contest. Cornelius Desmond, manager of the club, the referee and seconds are under arrest.

The referee of the fight was William Keleher, of this city. Martin and Joe Flaherty, the well-known boxers, were Dion's seconds; Billy Gardiner, Tommy Tully and Peter Allen acting in a similar capacity for Armstrong. Armstrong is also under arrest.

Both boxers were local men. The blow that injured Dion was an upper cut with the right following a left swing for the body. Dion sustained terrible punishment with little hope of winning after the middle of the first round.

At a hearing on charge of manslaughter all the men arrested were held in ball of various amounts.

GROWTH

Of Commerce Between the United States and Germany.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Recent discussions regarding the commerce between the United States and Germany lend especial interest to some figures just presented by the treasury department, which show the growth of commerce between the two countries in the last thirty years, and in detail during the last ten years. These figures show that imports into the United States from Germany have increased from $27,000,000 in 1870 to $100,000,000 in 1901, and that exports from the United States to that country have increased from $42,000,000 in 1870 to $191,000,000 in 1901—an increase of nearly 300 per cent in imports from Germany and of nearly 460 per cent in exports to Germany.

On the export side the greatest growth has been during the last five years, in which time our exports to Germany have doubled, being in 1896, $97,897,197, and in 1901, $191,072,252. This growth is distributed among a large number of articles. Comparing our exports to Germany in 1895 with those of 1901, corn has increased from $1,672,539 in 1895 to $17,395,229 in 1901; wheat, from $1,522,736 to $7,871,573; lard, from $8,013,516 to $13,760,875; oil cake and oil cake meal, from $2,339,885 to $5,242,624; flour, from $740,264 to $2,011,253; agricultural implements, from $756,514 to $2,677,319; and copper, from $1,694,390 in 1895 to $7,785,496 in 1901. Machinery of all kinds, including steam engines, increased from $1,535, 135 in 1895 to $8,103,095 in 1900, the figures for 1901 in this item being not yet available.

On the import side, the articles which show the greatest growth during the last decade are coal tar colors and dyes, chemicals, laces and embroideries, earthen, stone and chinaware and sugar. Coal tar color and dyes have increased from $1,272,275 in 1891 to $3,822,162 in 1900; other chemicals, from $1,885,883 to $3,968,115; laces and embroideries, from $945,186 to $2,402,372; earthen, stone and chinaware, from $1,475,057 to $2,787,166, and sugar, from $7,209,150 to $12,346,734.

An examination of the statistics issued by the German government shows that articles from the United States formed, in 1891, 10 per cent of her total imports for consumption, while in 1900 they formed 16 per cent. Of her exports, those to the United States in 1891 formed 10.7 per cent of the total, and in 1900 9.3 per cent.

BUYS AN ISLAND

Miss Adelaide Thurston's Press Agent Tells the Story.

Near Duluth and "Not Far From Georgian Bay."

Other Claimants to Island Said to Have Appeared.

Miss Adelaide Thurston's peerless paragon of publicity promoters is the limitless, illimitable and unlimited limit, when it comes to geographical locations.

In a NewYork paper he says that Miss Thurston has purchased an island in Lake Superior, "about twenty-five miles from Duluth and not far from Georgian bay."

Georgian bay is about 600 miles from this city, according to a steamer's log, but the distance, when reeled off during the cruise of a press agent's wild flight of fancy, is much less.

The New York paper says:

"Adelaide Thurston gave way to her desire to emulate the example of the hero in Anthony Hope's "Phroso" by owning an island, and has discovered, as did the mythical person in the novel, that being a little monarch all by oneself is not fraught with perfect peace of mind. She made the purchase for the novelty as well as to have a retired place she could call her own.

"But from the day of taking possession the actress has experienced nothing but tribulation, and now she is threatened with lawsuits and a writ of dispossession. She yesterday wired to her manager, Frank J. Wilstach, for assistance in extricating herself from her predicament.

"Miss Thurston is a native of Duluth, Minn., and after the close of the season of the last play in which she appeared, Mrs. Le Moyne's 'The Greatest Thing in the World,' she went home to see the old folk and to rusticate. While cruising about Lake Superior in the yacht of a friend she was pleased with the appearance of the island in question, and at her request the party went ashore.

"Ths island is about twenty-five miles from Duluth, not far from Georgian bay. It is only a few acres in extent, but stands well up out of the water and slopes to an eminence in the center, where a battered old cottage stands in a clump of trees. Nobody has lived there in years, though it was once the summer home of a wealthy Detroit man, now dead.

"The actress quickly was in the grip of a consuming desire to possess the island and on reaching home asked a lawyer friend to find out who owned it and on what terms it could be purchased.

"After a few days he reported to her and named an amazingly low figure. Miss Thurston closed the deal at once and set about having the place put in condition for habitation. She named her new property Sweet Clover island and organized a house party to go down and celebrate the acquisition.

"Now other claimants to the island have appeared. The telegram to Wilstach said something about 'a bad title' and 'ruffians coming over to drive us away' and lawsuits for dispossess purposes.

"The manager is not yet clear upon the exact standing of the matter and has telegraphed for more coherent particulars and for information as to what is expected of him."

ORE TRADE.

Movement of August Not Up to the July Record.

Cleveland, Aug. 16.—The Iron Trade Review says: The ore movement of August is not up to the July record, which was the greatest in the trade's history. There is trouble from car detention at furnace yards, and boats not infrequently spend three or four days at lower lake docks. The shutting down of a half dozen furnaces at New Castle and Mingo Junction will make that much ore for which furnace yard room or dock room must be provided. With August about half over it does not seem probable that last year's record will be overtaken by Sept. 1. Vesselmen do not find in the preparations for the grain movement in September any indication of a boom in freights and it is not unlikely that the Duluth rate on ore will hold at the 80-cent level for weeks to come.

Sales of ore in 10,000-ton lots have been a matter of common occurrence in the past month; and while no local office has more than a fragmentary assortment of old range ores still unsold, there are not a few furnaces whose wants are provided for only to Jan. 1. In the case of Mesaba ores the condition is not so uniform. On some of these the sale has been close up to the estimated production; of others there are round lots still available. Mesaba ores have ruled about $1.25 below old-range ores of similar analysis. Stevenson was pegged at a figure representing even a greater difference. With analyses running for the most part 64 and 65 per cent in iron, and often above 65, and phosphorus between .045 and .090, it is one of the cheapest ores on the list at $2.55. Biwabik, among the old and well-tried ores on the Mesaba range, has been maintained at $2.25 from the beginning of the season. In some cases options were taken on Mesaba ores to Sept. 1 and these are quite sure to be closed. The difficulty of getting anything but small lots of old-range Bessemers has been brought home to several inquirers in the past few weeks. Should the strike be ended within a few weeks, the probabilities are that the call for ore between that date and the opening of navigation in 1902 will be fully up to the stocks available.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—It is reported that negotiations are in progress for the sale of a controlling interest in the Market Street Railroad company to an Eastern syndicate. The total par value of the company's stock is $18,617,000. H. E. Huntington, president of the road, is now in New York, and is said to be conferring with the capitalists who desire to purchase the property. Baltimore capitalists who recently bought the San Francisco & San Mateo electric line and secured options on the Sutter street and Sutro electric car lines in this city, are reported to be interested in the deal. Should they succeed in getting the Market street system and close the options on the other lines named, they will have a virtual monopoly of the street car traffic in San Francisco.

In view of press dispatches from Pekin saying the ministers have signed the preliminary draft of the protocol, Mr. Rockhill's cablegram is construed to mean that the signing he refers to is with the Chinese plenipotentiaries.

Authorities Are After One In Jersey City.

New York, Aug. 16.—Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey, investigating the complaint of D. M. J. Mitchell, secretary of the state board of health, expects to locate a manufacturer of bogus diplomas in Jersey City. The complaint is in the shape of a circular letter to Dr. Mitchell offering to confer a degree and diploma of a "university" in Jersey City concerning which the educational department has no record. In the circular the degree of M.D., is offered at the bargain price of $10, or coupled with Ph.D. for $15. The governor says the authorities will at once take action against the promoters of the alleged university. He says he has received complaints from citizens in Texas, Minnesota and other Western states enclosing copies of the circular.

SWITCHED LIVE BABY

For Dead One, Claims Dr. Carlsen of Long Island.

Answer to Divorce Suit Brought By His Wife.

Says She Adopted Relative's Child During His Absence.

New York, Aug. 16.—Dr. Marx Carlsen, of Long Island City, wants a divorce from his wife because she tried, he alleges, to substitute the live baby of a relative for her own dead child and thus deceive him.

He says that his child died shortly after birth, and that his wife tried to make him believe that a relative's baby she had adopted was his own.

Five years ago the Carlsens were married at Paterson. According to Mrs. Carlsen the wedding was a strange mixture of love and business, and was the fulfilment of a double contract made three months before.

She was Miss Etta Johanssen, of Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, and is an expert milliner. She made plenty of money. Carlsen was a salesman in a clothing house where she often bought articles. The two fell in love at first sight.

Carlsen was ambitious and told his sweetheart that his one desire after marrying her was to become a doctor. With this in view he had saved up his earnings. Miss Johanssen advanced him $600 to go to college. He proved an industrious student and was soon graduated with a diploma from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York. In the meantime the engagement of the couple had been announced, and both were receiving congratulations. Carlsen had friends in Paterson, and he and his fiancee visited them there one afternoon. Carlsen argued that there was no need of longer delaying the ceremony to which they looked so eagerly forward. They went before Justice John Keys and were married. They decided to keep the marriage a secret for a while.

Carlsen went to Cincinnati, but failed to build up a practice. Mrs. Carlsen worked at her trade. Before Carlsen returned a girl baby was born.

Carlsen said he found his wife changed. A needy relative made many visits to them. During one of their many quarrels Mrs. Carlsen dropped a hint about their baby girl that set him thinking.

He says that he afterward found that he had been deceived, and that the baby which was born to Mrs. Carlsen in his absence had died and the child of a relative had been substituted.

Mrs. Carlsen has sued for divorce and alimony on the ground of cruelty, desertion and failure to provide.

The doctor says he will sue for divorce.

APOLOGIZED.

Editor and Manager of London Globe Square Themselves.

London, Aug. 16.—In the house of commons today, G. E. Armstrong, a former lieutenant of the British navy, editor of the Globe, and W. T. Madge, manager of that paper, attended the bar in the custody of the sergeant-at-arms, in accordance with the summons of the house, for gross breach of the privilege of the house, in accusing the Nationalist members of corruption in connection with private bill legislation. After the speaker, William Court Gully, notified them of the cause of the summons both Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Madge expressed regret at the appearance of the article and apologized to the house. The speaker then ordered the defendants to withdraw while the house considered the matter. Both the editor and manager backed out, bowing low at each step, amidst the derisive cheers of the Nationalists.

After a protest from John Redmond, Nationalist leader, against the inadequacy of the apology, the offenders were recalled and asked if they were prepared to withdraw the allegations. This they did in somewhat nervous tones. The speaker then severely reprimanded the two newspaper men, who were permitted to depart, the members of the house jeeringly comprisonment in the tower.

IS HE INSANE?

District Court to Take Up Bellinger's Case Tomorrow.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, the district court will take up the interesting question of whether or not Burton H. Bellinger is insane or whether he has been "letting on" that he is as a part of a gauzy and elaborate plan to better his condition and avoid a trip to the penitentiary.

Judge Dibell yesterday afternoon signed the order for the hearing, which was called at the request of Harlow C. Bellinger, Burt's brother. The case is entitled "In re proceedings to ascertain the fact as to the insanity of Burton Bellinger," and so far as known it is the first time that such an inquiry has been held in the district court here.

H. C. Bellinger's affidavit was to the effect that Burt is in such a state of insanity as to be incapable of understanding the proceedings that may be had upon the idictments against him or of making any defense thereof. "Further affiant saith not save that he makes this affidavit for the purpose of having the court determine the fact of the insanity of the said Burton Bellinger."

Judge Dibell's order recites the allegations of the affidavit, and orders a hearing to be held to determine the fact tomorrow morning. The order states that the determination of the fact shall be made upon testimony before the court.

Bellinger has been very quiet today, having sprung no new freaks or sensations. He still persists in his attitude of insanity. Several physicians have watched him in the jail without his knowledge, and they will probably be among the witnesses at tomorrow's hearing.

Raymond & Whitcomb Party.

One of the Raymond & Whitcomb personally conducted excursion parties, of Boston, arrived in the city this afternoon from a trip to the Pacific coast. The party was in charge of B. F. Yard and registered at the Spalding. They will leave on the Miami tomorrow morning for a trip down the lakes to Buffalo. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. F. Nedham, Miss Nedham, Miss E. L. Nedham, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lamb, Miss Grace Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Bookstaver, Miss Sarah L. White, Mrs. M. J. Groh, Miss Ida Eltz, Mrs. R. N. Seaton, George W. Seaton, Augustus G. Cobb, Alden Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bunn.

TWO NEW MEN

Miller and Dillon of Appleton Join the Fashions.

Manager Van Praagh of the Duluth Fashions has finally secured two of the three men he was after to strengthen the team for the game with the Milwaukee Sentinels, commencing tomorrow. Their names are Miller and Dillon, and they have been playing with the Appleton team of the Wisconsin State league. Manager Van Praagh, as soon as he received their acceptances of his offer wired their tickets to them and they will arrive in Duluth tomorrow morning and will play in the game in the afternoon. Both of the men are hard hitting infielders, Dillon being a third baseman. Hanley will join them tomorrow afternoon for the Fashions in the first game with the Sentinels, and Booth, the south paw from Superior, will do the slab work Sunday. The pitchers for the Monday and Tuesday games have not been made known as yet. With the addition of these two men the Duluth Fashion team should be wonderfully strengthened, and all of the games promise to be tight ones. Augustine, the Ashland pitcher, who played with Superior and Duluth during the early season, has a third baseman whom he wants the Fashions to try, but it is not thought that there will be any necessity for him as the two Appleton men are signed for the rest of the season.

A dispatch from Ashland says that fourth losing game of the season fourth losing game of teh season against Wauseka by a score of 6 to 5, Augustine pitching. The Ashland backers are so sure of their team, however, after having lost but four games out of thirty-one played, that they want to play the Appleton State league team a series of games in Milwaukee for a side bet of $2000. All the backers of the Ashland club signed the offer.

DANGEROUS RISKS.

But Saloonkeepers May Join the Foresters.

Detroit, Aug. 16.—The Catholic Order of Foresters today decided to admit saloonkeepers to membership in the order. The liquor business, however, was deemed to be an extra hazardous occupation, and all members of the society engaged in it will have to pay an extra assessment, the same as railroad men and others who are deemed dangerous risks.

The convention discussed the temperance clauses in the constitution and finally amended subdivision A, of section 104, to read: "Proprietors of breweries and distilleries and all officers thereof and all employes there, except such as have no actual connection with the manufacture and sale thereof." This change will enable a bookkeeper, for instance, in a brewery, to become an insurance member of the Knights of Columbus. Subdivision B was also amended so as not to include druggists and their employes in the prohibited classes.

CONFIDENT.

Police Believe Negro Saunders Is the Chicago Man.

The police are more than ever convinced that William Saunders, now behind the grating of the city jail, is the man that cut another negro's head off in Chicago a year ago.

Saunders' actions since the moment of his arrest have only served to strengthen the opinion of detectives that he is the murderer long sought for.

A Chicago officer is expected in Duluth tomorrow morning to identify the man. When Saunders was shown a telegram to this effect he nearly collapsed.

Although Saunders' arrest was due to the remarkable memory of faces and descriptions by local detectives, they can throw no further light on the crime for which he is under arrest, further than that given in last evening's Herald.

It is said that Saunders was going with another man's wife a great deal, and one night when the husband objected to such an arrangement, Saunders went at him with a razor, severing the head from the body.

Saunders still denies that he is the murderer, but his nervousness and general demeanor only strengthen the suspicions of those that arrested him.

TO COME HERE

Real Estate Men of Other Cities Plan a Visit.

Duluth real estate agents are entertaining a proposition to go in on a deal that seems to promise considerable pleasure and improvement. It comes from members of the National Real Estate association, who are planning to make a swing around the circle and visit various cities of the country, including St. Paul, Minneapolis, Buffalo, Duluth and Chicago. There will be six delegates from each city, and they will go in a bunch from one town to another, looking into local real estate conditions, talking things over and drawing morals and lessons from what they find.

They have written up to Duluth to see about having six Duluth men come in the arrangement, and if it is accepted six Duluth real estate men will join the crowd, and the delegation will visit here as well as the other cities. This will be done some time this month, and the Duluth real estate men are now considering the matter with the probabilities that they will consider this too tempting an opportunity to be lost, and that they will go in on it.

No Verdict Reached.

The trial of Alfred Anderson, of West Superior, for the murder of his wife in that city last June, was concluded in superior court yesterday afternoon, when the case went to the jury. Thus far the jury has not reached an agreement, although it has been out twenty-four hours. Anderson is said to have killed his wife with an ax and to have done it in a fit of anger because she had staid away from home all night. The defense was mainly along the line of alleged insanity of the defendant when he struck the blows.

THEY ARE KICKING

Lumber Carriers Have a Grievance Against the Shippers.

Object to Custom of Sending Boats to Several Docks.

Say That the Loss of Time Is Very Expensive.

There is said to be a disposition on the part of some of the vesselmen to object to the custom of shippers as upper lake ports, whom the vesselmen say will wire for a boat with the understanding that they have a good load at one point, and when the boat arrives send it to several different docks and make it lose much time in loading. This custom, the vesselmen say, is noted especially at this time of the year, and they do not like it. One vesselman claims that he does not fancy the idea of leaving a part load in Duluth and steaming for 200 miles to get a full load, for it means loss not only in the expense of running up here, but a loss of valuable time.

Some of the lumber shippers acknowledge there is much truth in regard to the scattered cargoes, but they say that it always occurs at this time of the year, and the vesselmen have looked forward to it. The docks have been so crowded this year that it has puzzled the manufacturer to make arrangements whereby he could get all of one stock together at one place on the dock, although it is done when possible. Then, too, there have been numerous small sales this season, not amounting to a cargo, and the vessel has in consequence been compelled to move from dock to dock to pick up a cargo. One shipper said today that he has had a boat loading at different docks since Monday, and if it had good luck it would be able to clear with a load by Saturday night. The shippers say that there is no reason why a boat should leave a part of a cargo here to move to another port for a full cargo, for the reason that there is plenty of sold lumber here to be moved, and there is no trouble about getting a load if the vessel will only stay long enough.

One wise vesselman from the lower lake ports suggests that the vesselmen require a written guarantee of good loads before they send their boats.

Do Away With Stringers.

The work for putting in the concrete bed for the street railway track west of Third avenue west is in progress. On that portion of the work the iron stringers between the rails are not being used but wooden ties are being used instead. They are believed to be fully as good although teh city engineer would not agree to their use at first. They will be better in one respect at least—there will be nothing now to cause a breach in the continuous laying of the brick between the rails, whereas before there was a break wherever one of the stringers was placed.

RAPID RISE.

The Tennessee River Is Approaching the Danger Line.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 16.—The Tennessee river now at thirty feet is rising at the rate of eight inches per hour and the rain that has lasted forty-eight hours continues. The danger line will be reached this afternoon and the prospect is good for ten feet more without additional rain. Reports from Alabama indicate the approach of the Mobile storm. All growing crops in the Tennessee valley were destroyed. Gangs of men worked all night moving the thousands of dollars worth of stuff which was stored within reach of the flood. The general manager's office of the Southern railway here reports that the first train over the bridge to re-establish communication east, crossed at 10 o'clock this morning. All trains are from one to five hours late. No such flood has ever occurred here during the month of August.

Columbia and Constitution Sail In a Light Wind.

First Race In the Larchmont Yacht Club Series.

Constitution Again Shows Improvement In Her New Rig.

Larchmond, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The crews of the yachts Constitution and Columbia began the work of preparing the two big cup defenders for their first contest of the Larchmont Yacht club series early this morning. The sky was veiled by a thin haze, while a soft, southwest breeze was just ruffling the placid waters of Long Island sound. The regatta committee of the Larchmont club has arranged a 30-mile triangular course, but owing to the narrowness of the sound at this point, the triangle was half the usual size, being five miles on a leg, or fifteen miles around, the yachts sailing it twice, the starting point just at the entrance of the harbor. Quite a number of steam yachts were anchored in Larchmont harbor prepared to follow the racers, and a large delegation of yachtsmen came down from New York on the early morning trains to see the start either from the yachts, the club steamers or from the broad verandas of the club.

The Constitution was the first to put in an appearance off the harbor, coming down in tow of her tender shortly after 9 o'clock. The Columbia arrived a short time later. Both yachts had their head sails up in stops, but mainsails were not hoisted until nearly 10 o'clock.

By the time the yachts had swung away into the sound the wind had hauled to about due west and had increased slightly. Still at 11 o'clock, when the judges' boat had taken up her position at the start, it was not blowing over three knots an hour. Both yachts spent half an hour in sailing slowly about under mainsail, two head sails and club topsails. At the time set for the start, 11:30, the wind had died to almost a calm and the judges decended not to send the yachts off until there were better prospects of a breeze.

After waiting until 11:50 the wind came again from the southwest and the boats prepared to start. The wind at this time was blowing about four knots an hour and gave some signs of increasing.

The preparatory signal was given at 1;30 and the yachts were started at 1:35. Both yachts came for the line with booms off, breaking out their jib topsails before crossing. The Constitution, apparently, reached the line first, with the Columbia on her weather quarter.

The starting time as seen from the shore was: Constitution; 1:35:48; Columbia, 1:35:52.

The yachts went over the line on a broad reach to the first mark. At 1:50 the Constitution was leading by a few hundred yards. There was a very thick haze and the yachts went out of sight shortly before 2 o'clock.

Center Island, L. I., Aug. 16.—The weather is so hazy that it is impossible at Center Island to identify the boats, but apparently the Constitution is leading as they approached the eastern mark.

The yachts, as well as could be made out, rounded the mark at: Constitution, 2:13:00; Columbia, 2:14:25.

They luffed around the mark, leaving it on the starboard hand and, filling sheets, came to the starboard tack close hauled. The leading boat tacked to port almost immediately. The other tacked about one minute after passing the mark, the Constitution being apparently about ten lengths to windward.

Larchmont, Aug. 16.—Half way to the second mark the Constitution was half a mile ahead. At 3 o'clock, however, she had some trouble with her jib topsail and, while changing, Columbia pulled up on her and at 3:05 was only a quarter of a mile astern.

Larchmont, Aug. 16.—The Constitution turned the second mark at 3:26:20, the Columbia 3:28:30. Both boats then headed for the third mark. The wind was very light and the yachts were sailing slow.

The yachts completed the first round about 3:40. The Constitution was leading by a little over two minutes. The yachts were timed at the half as follows: Constitution, 3:41:25; Columbia, 3:43:35. They then started on the second and final round.

Terlinden alias Theodore Grafe, was arrested here today, charged with embezzling 14,500,000 marks from a large manufacturing concern in Germany, which is capitalized at 12,000,000 marks. TINY VILLAGE.

The tiniest village in the world is on Long Island. Far out where the sand-tipped end of the island reaches into the sound is this smallest hamlet. Fire Place is its name. Its population, according to the last census, is 16. Every man in the village holds an office. There are two dwellings, writes the New York correspondent of the Chicago Chronicle.

While the place is small, it have one of the longest and most interesting histories of any village on Long Island. There the Parsons and Millers live and work, as their fathers and their fathers' fathers did before them. Fire Place is rich in colonial suggestions. The houses are the same as when they were built. The Millers and the Parsons have never departed from the old homesteads and they preserve that austere cast of countenance so common among Puritans. The old styles of dress are still in vogue in Fire Place and the whole atmosphere of the place suggests the eighteenth century.

Beyond Fire Place and across an arm of the sea reaching into Long Island Sound is Gardiner's island. Upon this island the first manorial estate in this country was established in 1639. Lyon Gardiner made the purchase from the Indians and made an entry in his book: "I have an island of my own, bought of the Indians."

The Gardiners still own the island, and it will some day be very valuable. The present Gardiner and head of the house lives in Madison avenue in Manhattan. The Gardiners were known as the lords of the manor until the revolutionary war set aside all titles in this country.

The Gardiners did extensive farming and cattle raising on the island in the old days. They soon discovered that they could reach the market place of New York quicker by ferrying to Long Island and thence to New York. Returning, the travelers would build a fire at a point in the narrowest portion of the channel dividing Long Island from Gardiner's island to signal that they were back. Hence the place became known as Fire Place. So when a house was built at the point where the signal light was burned, early in the eighteenth century it was described as being at Fire Place. When a second went up a few years afterward it was still known as Fire Place. Soon the name was officially inscribed on the records of Suffolk county and put down on the county map as a village. It has its board of trustees, composed of three members, and gets its law from the town of Southold.

A curious thing about Fire Place is that the ancient custom of building a fire is still kept up. Sheep are pastured on Gardiner's island, and when the sheepherds and herders return from their trips to the city fire is lighted in the exact spot where it burned centuries ago. The place is heaped high with ashes and cords of chestnut and oak are always about for the building of fires.

TALK ON POLITICS

Roosevelt and Hill May Be the Opposing Candidates.

Both Have Strong Opposition Inside Their Own Parties.

Spooner Not Thought to Be Longer In the Race.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A political writer on the Washington Post seems to be of the opinion that Col. Roosevelt may be the successful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1904, and to this adds that in case Col. Roosevelt is nominated, former Senator David Bennett Hill, of the same state, will be his competitor at the polls in that year.

It has been apparent for some time that it is the purpose of Eastern Democrats and a good many metropolitan papers in the East to eliminate Col. Bryan from the running in 1904. Few of them go so far as to say, however, that Col. Bryan will not be a factor in the race in the next presidential campaign. His position, of course, is peculiar. He has twice made the race for the presidency and failed at the polls. It is a well-known fact that Col. Bryan maintains different views regarding the government of the United States than do a good many of the men representative of the Democratic party in the Eastern states. Having failed twice, the Eastern Democrats have, as far as they are able, encouraged the people of the country into the belief that Col. Bryan no longer figures as a presidential possibility and that his views are not now considered down to date.

Just at the present time, if the Eastern newspapers can be believed, the Democratic nomination for the presidency in the next national campaign is going to an Eastern man. At this time only three men from this section are regarded as available. One of these, as stated above, is David Bennett Hill, the other is Arthur Pue Gorman, former senator from Maryland, and the third is Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, secretary of state under the last Cleveland administration. Unless Mr. Gorman is successful in carrying Maryland for the Democrats this fall, he will not only be beaten for the senatorship in his state in 1903, but will also be eliminated as a presidential candidate for all time.

At the present writing, the politicians in the East do not appear to think that Mr. Olney can defeat Mr. Hill for the nomination in the event that this honor goes to the Eastern or New England states. Failing, if the East or North does, at the convention, the Bryanites assert that they will be able to control the convention, and if they see fit and Mr. Bryan concludes to try to secure the presidency for a third time, his nomination, as can readily be seen, can easily be made.

So far as the Republican contest is concerned, it is by no means certain that Col. Roosevelt can be nominated. At the present time, however, supposition is, next to Senator Hanna, of Ohio, he stands a better chance to succeed than Governor Odell, of New York; Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana; Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, or Senator Cullom, of Illinois, the men now discussed as good presidential timber by the Republican political leaders. The Hanna boom, as is apparent to everybody, is still a lively one. Frequently some Hannaite bobs up and declares that Mr. Hanna is the only man to lead the Republican party to victory in the campaign of 1904. Mr. Hanna is silent. A few months ago he was emphatic in stating that he would not accept the Republican presidential nomination under any circumstances. Today he is a sphinx. The real competitor, many politicians believe, that Col. Roosevelt will have to deal with is not Governor Odell, of New York, but Marcus A. Hanna, of Ohio.

* * *

One man often regarded as a likely candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1904 has been eliminated from the running. The man referred to is Senator Spooner of Wisconsin. At one time it was believed that the Wisconsin senator would become prominent as a candidate for the Republican nomination, many believing that he would have the support of President McKinley and Senator Hanna for this honor. Nothing definite was ever known regarding the attitude of the president and Senator Hanna toward the Wisconsin senator. The people of Wisconsin have taken a hand in the matter, though the voters are really led by interested politicians, in a contest between two factions in Wisconsin, which will stir up so much trouble that it is doubtful if the state is carried by the Republicans next year or in 1904. The contest, as is pretty well known, is between the Spooner faction, designated in Wisconsin the "stalwart faction," and on the other side by Governor La Follette, and so much bitterness between these factions has been aroused that it is doubtful if Wisconsin will be found in the Republican column for some years to come, unless a compromise of some kind is effected very shortly.

The opinion prevails that it is the desire of Governor La Follette to succeed Mr. Spooner in the United States senate. Senator Spooner, it will be recalled, some time ago announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the senate. At that time he was evidently aware of the political storm which was brewing which would defeat him for the senatorship, if not eliminate him as a political factor in the state for some years to come, at least. Then his friends began to boom him for the presidency. Their last attempt to bring him out of the political muddle is a movement against the present governor of the state, and the dissensions growing out of the contest now being waged will, without doubt, bring Wisconsin into the Democratic ranks again, and it is therefore likely that both Senator Spooner and Governor La Follette will be retired to private life at the close of the former's term as senator and the latter's as governor of Wisconsin.

* * *

The easy victory of A. B. Cummins as the Republican candidate for the governorship of Iowa at the next state convention indicates to many who know the situation in the Hawkeye state that his election is a certainty by a big majority, and this will place him in the forefront of Iowa politicians in the future. Without doubt Mr. Cummins, after serving a term as governor of his adopted state, will again go gunning for a United States senatorship. He has twice tried to break into the United States senate and has failed to accomplish his purpose. With the prestige the governorship will give him, he will, undoubtedly, be a candidate against either William B. Allison or Johathan R. Dolliver, United States senators from that state, when their terms of service expire.

* * *

An attempt is being made to bring ex-Governor Stone of Missouri prominently forward as a presidential candidate in the next campaign. The intention of the friends of Governor Stone is to force him to the front as a so-called compromise candidate for the Democratic nomination. In the East, former Senator Hill of New York is regarded as the most available candidate from this section for the Democracy in 1904. In the West, Col. Bryan, by many, is considered as a possibility. The views of Bryan and Hill are at variance, as is well known, and the friends of Governor Stone of Missouri, are of the opinion that he more nearly represents the real wishes of the Democratic masses than either Bryan or Hill. It is therefore from this viewpoint that they hope to have his name presented to the next Democratic national convention, believing that the delegates there assembled may be brought over to the views regarding candidates now held by them.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kans. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

WORK BEGUN.

Thomas Brothers' Plans Regarding New Furnace at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Aug. 16.—The plans of the Thomas Bros.' company, which has purchased the furnace and dockage of the Minerva Pig Iron company, of this city, are now well settled, and work has been started in accordance with them. W. Aubrey Thomas, of Niles, Ohio, has arrived in the city and completed arrangements for the immediate carrying out of all of the company's extensive projects.

The old furnace is considered too low and old-fashioned, and is now being torn down. In its place the new concern will erect an entirely modern structure, seventy-five feet in height, and will install therein three 400-horsepower boilers. The largest boiler in the old furnace was one of 375 horsepower.

W. Aubrey Thomas said: "We expect to be in running order by the first of the new year. No effort will be spared in pushing the work. We have purchased outright all the interests of the Minerva Pig Iron company, and propose to make good use of them. The furnace itself was not of very great value, because it was too low, and besides that was badly antiquated. In this business there can be no success unless you are up to the times. So we have startel at once to tear down and rebuld the furnace. As soon as possible we shall go ahead and build steel docks along the Knickkinnic river. We own 425 feet along that river, and expect to use every foot of it. We shall put in six of the latest improved hoisters and make everything in reference to our plant thoroughly new and up-to-date. We shall equip ourselves so as to be able to manufacture bessemer, malleable or foundry pig iron, as the demand may be, and our capacity will be between 25 0and 300 tons a day. That will mean handling roughly fifty carloads of freight a day. The product and by-product will require fifteen cars, and the raw material at least thirty-five cars. We shall use ore, coke and limestone.

"I have been connected with the Minerva company for the past two years, although my brothers have not been, and I am convinced that Milwaukee is destined to be one of the best pig iron centers in the country. The local market is exceedingly good, and we have easy access to the markets outside. Indeed," and here Thomas smiled, "the fact that my brothers and I are investing some $200,000 in this enterprise should be proof enough of my faith in the market."

"And are you going to fight the trust?" was asked.

"No, indeed," was the emphatic reply. "We are not going to fight the trust. We shan't affiliate with them, but we shall not antagonize them either. We have but one object in this matter, and that is to sell pig iron, not to antagonize anyone. I know that some peapers have attempted to define our purpose differently, but they were simply wrong.

"We own our own mines in the Mesaba range, up in the northern part of Minnesota. The Rockefeller interests control a large part of this range, I know. Our holdings, however, are altogether independent. We shall get the ore we shall use here from there."

The ore, Mr. Thomas explained, will be sent to Duluth by rail and brought here by bont. It is likely, though not settled yet, that the company will put an ore fleet of its own in operation as soon as the furnace is in running order. The docks at Duluth are already theirs.

The plans of the company would indicate that the enterprise is of great importance to the city. Over 200 men will be employed regularly at the furnace and a large number of dock hands will be required during the shipping seasons.

Mr. James Brown, of Putsmouth, Va., over 90 years of age suffered from a bad sore on his face. Physicians could not help him. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Max Wirth.

A WONDER.

The Performance of Cresceus Was Little Short of Marvelous.

New York, Aug. 16.—The first heat in the contest between Cresceus and The Abbott at Brighton Beach yesterday was a most exciting one, and the crowd simply went wild over the performance. When the horses came from the stables each was driven up and down the stretch for a warming up, and when they reached the starter, Cresceus was slightly in the lead, and they were called back. The next time down, however, they were nose and nose. Then Cresceus rushed to the front and had a lead of a length, which he held to the quarter, making the mark in :29¾. This lead The Abbott had slightly reduced at the half, which was reached in 1:00¼, and he was a very close second at the three-quarter pole in 1:32¾.

The vast crowd realized that a world's record was about to be made, and the grand stand arose to its feet, while the multitude which was in the space between the stand and the track cheered wildly. Coming down the stretch, it was a battle royal, with The Abbott very close up, but Cresceus, with his bulldog grit, kept on with nostrils distended, and just managed to beat his opponent by half a length, in 2:03¼, the world's trotting record in a race. To say that the announcement created tumultous applause only faintly conveys the meaning of the expression.

A little over half an hour had expired when the two grand horses came out for their second trial, and were started under the same conditions that existed in the first heat. They were sent away beautifully, but The Abbott had not traveled 100 yards before he made a disastrous break, and before he could recover his gait, Cresceus was in front.

The Abbott, once settled, made a grand effort to overtake his opponent, but the son of Robert McGregor was out for victory, and kept on, passing the quarter in 31¾, the half in 1:02½, the three-quarters in 1:33, and came rushing home the last quarter in 31¼ seconds, doing the mile in 2:03¾, with The Abbott back of the flag.

As the race was best three in five, Ketcham consented that Cresceus go another heat. This he did shortly before 5 o'clock, accompanied by a runner for the first half, and he did the mile in 2:05, the quarter in 30½, the half in 1:01½, and the three-quarters in 1:34.

To the credit of The Abbott it should be said that not only was this his first race of the season, but he has also been sick, and his best mile since his recovery was in the vicinity of 2:09.

The betting before the race was $100 to $30 on Cresceus, and it was lively, there being many of the followers of The Abbott and his driver, Greers, who were willing to take the short end.

OF MURDER.

William Barry Found Guilty In the First Degree.

Langdon, Aug. 16.—The jury in the case of William Barry, who has been on trial for the murder of Andrew Mellem, last night rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, and ordered him sentenced to life imprisonment.

The murder was one of the most sensational crimes in the annals of Northwestern criminology. Barry is a wealthy farmer, residing near Milton, N. D., and Mellem was his hired man. According to Barry's own story his unmarried sister, who lived with him, had confessed that she had had improper relations with Mellem and that the latter had refused to marry her.

Barry went to the barn where Mellem was and told him that he had come to kill him. He had a rope in his hands and this he placed around the hired mans neck and attempted to attach the other end of it to a rafter in order to hang his victim. Barry is a much larger man than was Mellen, but the latter made such a terrible struggle that he was unable to accomplish his purpose. He then pulled out his watch and told Mellem he had but five minutes to live and that he would better spend it in prayer.

Mellem, exhausted by his struggle, knelt and prayed, while by his side stood his employer with his watch in one hand and a dirk knife upraised above his victim. At the expiration of the allotted time the knife descended in one swift stroke and the kneeling man fell forward dead.

Barry's sister was afterwards taken to an asylum where she died.

Farmer Sues For Both Divorce and Damages.

Chillicothe, Ohio, Aug. 16.—A big sensation was created here by the filing of two suits by Oscar E. Sigler, a well-known farmer. One is against his wife for divorce, and in it he alleges that she has been guilty of adultery with William A. Maxwell, a prominent merchant of Richmondale. The other is against Maxwell for $10,000 damages for alienation of Mrs. Sigler's affections. On Monday afternoon it is alleged that Maxwell and Mrs. Sigler were caught together at a house of assignation here and arrested by Marshal Southworth, but the affair was kept quiet until the filing of the suits, as Sigler wanted the matter for divorce evidence.

Superior Man Robbed On a Train Near Buffalo.

Buffalo, Aug. 16.—"Excuse me, there is a potato bug on your collar," remarked a well-dressed young man to E. G. Miller, of West Superior, Wis., as the two were coming to Buffalo late Wednesday on a Lake Shore train.

"Don't move. There, I've got it."

Mr. Miller thanked the man and then forgot about it. A few minutes later he discovered his pocket had been picked of $140, and what annoyed Mr. Miller most of all is the fact that he had spotted the man as a suspicious character and had refused to engage in a conversation with him.

BOLAS IS A CORKER

Well Known In Canada as a Professional Criminal.

Served Term In Prison In Manitoba For Horse Stealing.

Specialty Is Robbing Ministers---St. Paul Victim a Minister.

Sidney Bolas, now under arrest in St. Paul for robbing a Methodist minister of $285, had a startling criminal record before he came to Duluth last year.

In this city Bolas claimed that he had $85,000 in gold dust and then disappeared mysteriously. While detectives and life saving crews searched for his body, and friends searched for his wealth, he was cooking at Woodland in a private family.

It now turns out that Bolas is one of the best known criminals in Southwestern Manitoba. He is said to have robbed more ministers than any other man alive. He served a term in Brandon penitentiary, near Winnipeg, for horse stealing, and another term in the same place for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Bolas claims to be a millionaire Klondike miner, a Sunday school teacher, a retired British naval officer, a Bible agent and even a retired minister.

His great graft is with the ministers, though in St. Paul recently he picked a number of pockets very cleverly.

One day last week he went to the home of Rev. B. F. Longely, in St. Paul, and while there he stole a pocketbook containing $285. The purse was found on his person, but the money was not recovered.

GAME LAWS.

Former Executive Agent Beutner Tells of Their Enforcement.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Upon my arrival home after a short vacation my attention was called to an article which appeared in your valuable paper on the evening of July 8 stating that Samuel F. Fullerton was authorized by the members of the state game and fish commission to confiscate the "guns and dogs" of persons that begin shooting game birds before the opening of the season in September.

The above I approve of, if the law will permit any such confiscation. But I do not approve a part of this same article which reads as follows, to-wit: "Last year the illegal shooting during July and August was so extensive that it spoiled the shooting for the sportsmen that obeyed the law and did not enter the fields until September." And I will say that, as far as that article or the truthfulness of the party who gave it to you is concerned, I must brand it as an infernal "untruth." There are generally a few would-be sportsmen who do all this talking, and are the first ones to violate the law. I will also add that some of the Twin City Republican papers made the same assertion last year that game was being killed out of season, whereupon I mailed a personal point to interview hundreds of the true sportsmen all over the state as to the probable crop of the game birds, and their letters and communications are still on file in the office of the state board of game and fish commissioners in the state capitol building in the city of St. Paul. I also set my Twin City wardens to work when the season did open to keep a close watch on all persons leaving such cities for the game fields, and upon their return have an interview with them as to what part of the state they had visited and what success they had, and in their opinion what they thought of the way the game birds were being protected by the proper game officials. Every person who left the Twin Cities came home well pleased and loaded down with game, also reporting seeing more birds and larger coveys than for many years past. I will also state that the names of all those true sportsmen were, with their interviews, turned into the executive agent's office, where I had my secretary make an exact copy of the reports together with the names and addresses of all those gentlemen who were interviewed by the game wardens of the Twin Cities. Said report is also on file in the office of the executive agent, and I also feel safe in saying that my able secretary, James J. Rooney, who is a Duluth resident, has got the original documents from which said report was copied. I will also add that the Twin City editor who did so much writing last year, did it because I frustrated a little game of his which he was allowed to work for years, which was the having of a friend in the country who would kill game and ship it to him at any time of the year that game could be procured. This same editor would then invite his personal friends to a grand spread or "game dinner." Under my administration I caught the shipments and seized the game, thus spoiling this gentleman's "game dinners" to city and out of town "guests."

In closing I will admit that there was some violation of the game laws under my administration, and there will be as long as there is game to be killed. I am, sir, yours very truly,

JOHN BEUTNER.

IS AMENDED.

Superior Council Committee Modifies Franchise Ordinance.

The city council of West Superior will meet this evening to decide on the question of granting the street railway company an extension of its franchise. Last evening the council committee met and discussed the proposition and will report favorably to the council tonight. It is understood, however, that the committee amended the measure in several details, but whether enough to suit the rest of the aldermen, remains to be seen. Some of these amendments are relative to granting the company permission to abandon service on some of the outlying streets where the patronage has been very light; allowing the construction of a single standard gauge track to South Superior using the old rails if necessary; and providing for the extension of the lines to Itasca and St. Louis park.

The attorneys for the street railway company were present at the meeting last night and explained that to make all the improvements contemplated the company would wish to issue bonds but cannot under a short term franchise. Other contemplated improvements mentioned by the company's representatives was the replacing of the short single truck cars with the large double truck cars such as are in service on the Duluth-Superior run. Thomas Lowry, when at the head of the lakes a short time ago, declared that the new double truck cars are the finest of the kind in this country. He said there might be cars more fancy in appearance, but for comfort and convenience no other cities in the United States have better cars or service than are given on the Interstate run.

"LOVERS' LANE."

The new Clyde Fitch play, "Lovers' Lane," will be produced by William A. Brady at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow night. It is radically different from all the other Clyde Fitch plays. Its personages are plain folk in simple homespun, such as go to make up an average small community. The central figures are a liberal-minded young clergyman, graduated from Amherst, and the girl whom he loves. Around them are grouped many eccentric village types. In the small town where people are brought into closer companionship the fires of intrigue and opposing factions blaze even more fiercely than in the crowded city. Mr. Fitch has developed from these rustic social and church conditions a story that depicts the serious sentiments as well as the brightly humorous side of life.

SEPARATION.

Mrs. Minnie Nixon Seeks Divorce From Dr. Richard E. Nixon.

Minnie Nixon, aged 21, yesterday afternoon began a suit for divorce from Dr. Richard E. Nixon, a local dentist, in district court. The defendant is 25 years of age, according to the complaint. There is one child, 18 months of age.

According to the complaint they were married in Carlton in May, 1899, and at Nixon's request the matter was kept quiet until November, 1899, and Mrs. Nixon continued to live with her mother. Deciding that the marriage could be kept secret no longer Mrs. Nixon told her mother at that time. The child was born in February, 1900. In May, 1900, Nixon took his wife and child to the home of his parents, where they lived until November, 1900. Mrs. Nixon alleges that from the date of the marriage Nixon treated her cruelly and inhumanly, neglecting her and showing contempt and avoidance, boasting of his attentions to other women and showing her their pictures in a taunting manner.

Mrs. Nixon also claims that her husband called her hard names and refused to furnish her and the child with proper and sufficient clothing. In November, 1900, she begged him to treat her better, but he refused, and said that if she would return to her mother he would pay $15 a month for the support of the child. She returned to her mother, but she asserts that he has paid her altogether only $40, and when the child was ill refused to provide medical attendance.

The plaintiff asks for a divorce, custody of the child and permanent alimony. In an affidavit she states that he is making $400 per month in his business, and she asks for $200 attorney's fees and expenses of the suit and $50 per month alimony until the further order of the court. Nixon was ordered to show cause Saturday in special term why he should not pay temporary alimony. E. A. Tinghan is Mrs. Nixon's attorney.

PEACHES.

Michigan Crop Begins to Arrive In the Market.

The van grard of the Michigan peach crop arrived on Michigan street yesterday. They are rather small, about the size of walnuts, but when ripe they have the sweetness of nectar. They come in "one-fifth" baskets, which means that it takes five of them to make a bushel, and they are selling at 30 cents per basket. The supply will increase and improve from now on, though Michigan street commission men do not expect much out of the Michigan crop.

The green supply is ample, though as yet none of the Northern ones have arrived, and the fullness of the enjoyment of eating a ripe watermelon cannot be had until they come. The best melons come from Iowa, and those now on the market come from the South. The Southern melons are good, but they come a long distance and necessarily are picked somewhat in advance of the ripe stage, so that their full flavor cannot be enjoyed here.

Butter is up a cent all around, along with other necessaries, having joined the conspiracy to make it harder for people to get along. Wild plums at $2.75 the bushel are on the market, and are in good demand. Sweet potatoes have come in again, and they are selling at the same price, $2.75 per bushel.

..You..
Can Obtain
Certain Body-Building Results By Using GRAPE-NUTS
. . FOOD . .

QUESTIONING A FRIEND.

If one takes the trouble to carefully question a person that has been using Grape-Nuts Food for two or three weeks, the facts will be brought out that gradually there comes over the body a feeling of increased strength, particularly of mental strength and ability.

The mind works clearer and more actively when it plays upon a brain that is refreshed, rebuilt and properly constructed by the food elements intended by nature for such work.

This is a profound face regarding Grape-Nuts. The food contains just the kind of material nature must have to unite with albumen from which to rebuild the gray matter in the brain and nerve centers throughout the body. Therefore the user can expect and obtain a definite result from the regular use of Grape-Nuts.

SETS FIRE TO CELL

Burt Bellinger Touches Off Padding and Creates Excitement.

Authorities Think It Was Part of Plan to Escape.

Others Regard It As Another Proof of His Insanity.

What the county authorities regard as a well-laid plan on the part of Burt Bellinger to make a sensational escape from the county jail went adrift during Wednesday night. He set fire to his padded cell, and when the alarm was given he sought to clear the way with a chair used as a club, but he was downed and disarmed before he could do any damage.

Bellinger was confined in the padded cell with his hands in the "mitts" and leg straps on his feet. During the night he managed to chew the strap that held his mitts in two, though it was two inches wide and more than a quarter of an inch thick. Then with his teeth and main strength he pulled the mitts apart so as to get the use of his hands. In some manner he had secured matches, just how is not known, and when he had taken the straps off his feet he began to fire his cell. During Wednesday evening Bellinger had been permitted to walk in the corridor, and it is supposed that he either borrowed the matches from other prisoners, or that somebody passed them to him in his cell. At any rate he had them, and came near using them to good advantage.

He made an attempt to set fire to the padding that failed, as an inspection of a blackened spot on the wall showed. Then he tore away the button that held the padding in place in one spot, tore the covering a little so as to give the blaze a chance, and struck another match. This time his attempt was successful, and the padding began to burn.

Immediately he set up a noise to attract attention. There are several "trusties" in the jail on that floor, short-time men that are given more liberty than others, and their cell doors were left open when the jail was closed at night, so that they would have the run of the corridors, though the corridor door was locked. They were awakened by Bellinger's noise and smelled the smoke. They gave an alarm that woke up Night Turnkey Carl Neumann, who came in. At that time the smoke was pouring out of the padded cell in volumes, and Bellinger was making considerable noise.

The moment the cell door was opened Bellinger rushed out and grasped a chair that stood in the corridor. He poised it above his head as though he was about to make a vicious assault on Neumann, but he hesitated for a moment before striking. In that moment he was overpowered and the chair taken away from him, the "trusties" helping Jailer Neumann to capture him. This was not accomplished without considerable difficulty, and there was a lively struggle on the floor before he was finally quieted.

The blaze in the cell was put out without any great trouble, and after being searched Bellinger was put back into the cell, where he has been resting quietly ever since.

Following out the usual policy of secrecy that does not secrete, the sheriff's office made an attempt to keep the affair quiet, but naturally such an event could not be confined, and it got out last night. It does not appear what useful purpose could be served by secrecy, except that it was in accordance with the usual policy of the sheriff's office to keep matters concerning the county jail away from the public if possible.

Those who believe Bellinger is really insane see in the incident only an evidence of his insanity. Those who do not credit the theory that he is mad, however, see in it a deliberately planned attempt to escape in the excitement that would naturally follow the discovery of a fire in the jail. The possession of matches when he was not supposed to have any indicates deliberation on his part, in their belief, and his plan might easily have been carried out if it had not been for the assisting prisoners.

If Bellinger had not make a noise he might have been burned in the cell or smothered by the smoke, as the padding would give out volumes of smoke for which the small windows in the cell afford very inadequate escape. No other damage could have been done as the padding is the only thing about the cell to burn.

Duluth-Superior Bridge Company Goes Out of Receivership.

Judge Lochren has filed in the local office of the clerk of the United States court an order discharging Receiver G. G. Hartley and turning the interstate bridge over to the Duluth-Superior Bridge company again. The order was given in response to a petition from the receiver asking that such action be taken. Receiver Hartley was appointed at the instance of the Central Trust company, of New York, suit having been brought by the trust company to foreclose trust deeds executed by the bridge company to secure bonds. The defendants named in the suit were the Duluth-Superior Bridge company, the Duluth-Superior Traction company and the Pennsylvania Steel company. All matters at issue have been settled by stipulation. The action in again turning the property over to the bridge company is said to be due to the acquirement of the Great Northern interests of the outstanding bonds against the company.

The receiver's last quarterly report showed that there was $39,000 in the treasury, with no outstanding obligations and no receiver's certificates having been issued during his term of office.

Amateur camera snappers will find something of interest to them in the September Designer. It describes caricature photography. This Magazine is only 10 cents.

The Rivers and Harbors Bill.

That little talking episode of Senator Carter at the close of the last session of congress saved millions of dollars at the time but it may be expensive in the end. The burial of the rivers and harbors bill under a flood of oratory by the direction of the powers that were, may actually cost the country a round sum. The estimates for the coming work have been nearly completed and the bill to be drawn for the next congress will be much larger than one introduced at the last session. Chairman Burton of the house committee on rivers and harbors, explains the necessity for a larger bill by stating that without exception all plants which are used in river and harbor improvements suffer deterioration in idleness. This is particularly true of the big dredges and boats used in snagging operations and in deepening and broadening channels. To dry dock them would be impracticable, because of the lack of necessary facilities. Allowing them to remain in the water results in leaks, creates a necessity for new painting and for the overhauling of all machinery. While the abandonment of certain projects which have been provided annually in the past will reduce the general appropriations, provision for deterioration of plants and to offset the results of the break in continuous work and the necessity for entirely reorganizing the working forces will make an increase of several hundred thousand dollars in the next bill. But while this additional expense has been created, it is but a small fraction of the appropriations in the bill killed by Senator Carter's efforts for so-called harbors and streams that should never be improved at the expense of the federal treasury. Probably all these sums will appear again in the bill that will be presented at the next session, and if they do they should be eliminated or the bill should be talked to death once more. Scores of the items in the rivers and harbors bills are nothing but "jobs" and steals.

Separated By the Government.

A Nebraska man accuses the government of separating man and wife in a shameful manner, and seems to have ground for his complaint. Last July when the war department announced that it wanted teachers for the Philippines, a Boston agency sent in the name of Miss Fannie Wadsworth, of Melwood, Neb. Miss Wadsworth was the selection of Professor Atkinson, who has charge of the school work in the islands, and she was duly notified of her appointment and asked if she would accept. She telegraphed at once that she would. The department then inquired when she could sail and explained that they would provide the necessary transportation. Miss Wadsworth replied that she could go whenever desired and accordingly the quartermaster general of the army was instructed to provide her with transportation from Melwood, Neb., to San Francisco and from there to Manila. Then a dispatch was received by the department which directed the officials to cancel the appointment of Miss Wadsworth and explaining that she had a husband and children at home. The telegram was signed "By her husband, George Wadsworth." This was repeated to Miss Wadsworth and she was asked to inform the department at once if she was able to go to the Philippines. She answered "Yes, have no children." Accordingly the transportation was furnished her, but before she sailed a letter came from George Wadsworth repeating that he was her husband and that she had two children at her home to look out for. Mr. Wadsworth expressed the belief that the war department had no intention of separating man and wife and he did not think that the department would uphold the appointment of a woman who would leave her own children to go off and teach dusky Filipinos. It appears that the children were those of Mr. Wadsworth by a former wife, and that Mrs. Wadsworth No. 2 had on several occasions previously left home to teach school and had returned again to take up her family duties. The war department very promptly decided that it had nothing to do with Mr. Wadsworth's domestic affairs, that Miss Fannie Wadsworth had been certified for appointment by Professor Atkinson, that she had accepted, and that her credentials were all correct, so that she sailed on the army transport several weeks ago and is now nearing Manila, while George Wadsworth continues to write to the department to send back to him his wife. It is very probable that no action will be taken in the matter, however, as all communications on the subject are referred to the school authorities under the Philippine commission.

STREET ASSESSMENTS.

It is gratifying to learn that a large number of the property owners on Superior street are anxious to pay their paving assessments at an early date and are anxious that the necessary proceedings on behalf of the city shall be expedited in order that they can pay the amounts due. By taking this action they will secure a rebate of 10 per cent and at the same time recoup the revolving improvement fund so that the city can go ahead with other needed improvements this year.

This splendid example might well be imitated by the Michigan street property owners generally. Some of them are kicking against paying the assessment for paving that street with sandstone, on the ground that the city should pay for paving the street intersections. This claim is made regardless of the fact that the property owners on all other streets that have been improved paid for the improvement of the intersections and that it is but just and right that the same procedure should be followed in the case of Michigan street. Furthermore the supreme court of this state has decided the question in favor of the city's contention, holding that the cost of paving intersections is a legal charge against the property abutting the street. The Michigan street property owners clamored long and loudly for a pavement, and their appeal having been granted and the pavement laid, they should quit kicking, walk up to the treasurer's office and settle.

WHEAT SHORTAGE ABROAD.

It is now clearly established that there will be a large wheat shortage in Europe this year. France will be compelled to import a large quantity of wheat on account of the shortage in the crop which began to be harvested June 29, which was considerably earlier than usual. In regard to this shortage, Consul General Robert P. Skinner, at Marseilles, writes that on July 12 three-fourths of the entire yield had been cut—that is to say, the harvesting has been practically completed at about the time when it usually begins. The expectation of those who have given the matter study based upon previous experience is that France will be obliged to look abroad for perhaps 36,000,000 bushels, including the hard wheat not produced in France and usually imported for semolina manufacture from Russia and Algeria. Of the total importations, probably 32,000,000 bushels will be entered through the port of Marseilles, of which one-third will consist of hard macaroni wheat, such as can not be supplied by the United States, at least for the present. This leaves about 20,000,000 bushels of soft wheat required for that port, the most of which will certainly be forwarded from the United States, if prices so adjust themselves that Russian wheats are not lower.

Soft wheats entering Marseilles, other than those from the United States, come mainly from the Black sea region. Reports from the country southeast of the Azof are very unfavorable to a large yield, but the prospects from the southwest of Azof are considered good. Already at least one cargo of American wheat of the new crop is on its way to Marseilles and has been sold in small lots to about fifteen dealers, purposely, in order to disseminate practical information as rapidly as possible concerning the real quality of the new crop, upon which they will probably depend to an important extent. The French importers hope that the Americans will not force prices to a point that will abnormally strengthen competition from Russia, and anticipate that the business of the year will be comparable to that of 1898, when the French crop was also short and large quantities came in from the United States. Altogether it is probable France will import from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of American wheat during the present year.

Nor is the wheat shortage confined to France. Some months ago there were reports regarding the unfavorable condition of the wheat and rye fields in Germany, and it is now stated that the harvest in Prussia this year shows the largest deficit reported for a long time, the wheat crop being not much more than one-half of an average yield and the rye crop having fallen off nearly 12 per cent.

NAVAL PRISONERS.

A lamentable state of affairs is brought to notice by the complaint of the judge advocates department of the navy that sufficient accommodation cannot be found for the naval prisoners. To be sure the number of enlisted men has increased, but with the greatly improved quarters for the men, and the general improvement of the service, it was hoped that the number of prisoners would at least not increase, but rather decrease. But the fact remains that the department is sorely perplexed for the want of accommodations for the prisoners. At the navy yard in Boston is a regular naval prison, constructed upon the designs of an outside penal establishment. It has about 250 cells or accommodations for that number of prisoners, but it has long ago been inadequate to the increasing demands of the service. Secretary Long has, therefore, had the old collier Southery, which had outlived her marine usefulness, altered into a prison ship and she is stationed at Norfolk. Quite a comfortable prison has been made of the old hulk and her quarters are rapidly filling up. All breaches of discipline have to be adjudicated by a court-martial and punishment by imprisonment is generally awarded in terms reaching from three months to as many years, according to the nature of the offense. Very serious offenses, amounting to aggravated cases of felony, are punished by imprisonment at the state prison at Wethersfield, Conn., but such instances are rare. Naval imprisonment finishes by dishonorable discharge from the navy and carries no further stain of loss of citizenship, which is part of the penalty of outside confinement. The naval prisoners are obliged to work about the streets of the navy yard, but their lot is much easier than the sailor committed for downright crime. His offenses principally are breaches of military rules, drunkenness being in nearly every case at the bottom of his misfortunes.

NO TARIFF TINKERING.

Those who look for tariff revision or even the ratification of the pending reciprocity treaties by the next congress will be sorely disappointed. No good will come out of Nazareth this time. One by one the tariff legislators are being placed on the rack and the thumb screws applied. Senator Cullom was an avowed tariff reformer. He saw, or thought he saw, that the West was for tariff revision. He went to Washington and came back to announce that there would be no tinkering with the tariff this session of congress. Cullom wants to be chairman of the committee on foreign relations. Babcock took his position and left for Europe in company with his bride. When he gets back the machine will take him in charge and he will be obliged to recant or drink the hemlock of party discipline. Tawney, the picturesque statesman from Winona, knows that three-fourths of his party in Minnesota is for a complete tariff revision. He knows, too, that the gang is against any tinkering with the tariff and he hedges with the statement that the tariff ought to be modified on several points, but is of the opinion that there will be no general tariff revision. Tawney, like all his brethren, will talk to pacify his constituents and act to please the party management. There will be no tariff changes.

Talk as much as we wish about the principles of protection and free trade. There never was a tariff schedule arranged as a result of adherence to any known principle. In the construction of a tariff schedule the law of expediency prevails. It is solely a question of how to get enough votes to put the measure through. Here is a man with a vote who wants or thinks he wants, a certain thing protected. He may be honest in it, he may be acting for his constituents who want it, or he may be acting for a person or corporation who pays him for it. His motive does not matter. His vote is needed and he deliberately holds up the nation until he gets what he wants. He sells his vote for what he can obtain. The whole Dingley schedule was secured by a combination of men who wanted something. They were willing to vote for a measure which would cost them one cent and make for them one dollar. What do the iron industries care what the price of lumber is? They can afford to pay an extra price for what they use in order to get the support of the lumber interests for their scheme of protection. The sugar interests were willing to pay more for lumber and iron and a hundred other items, in order to get the protection of a tariff that would keep out foreign sugar. What do they care if the people as a whole are obliged to pay $60,000,000 more a year for sugar? Their proportion to pay is small and their gains are millions.

The farmer has been kept in line by making him believe that he was protected by a tariff on cereals. He did not stop to remember that he was sending his grain to foreign markets and that it is as impossible for the foreigner to invade this market with farm products without a protective tariff, as it is for us to invade the markets of Mars. It seems strange that men can be fooled on such a proposition, but the fact remains that they have been fooled for years by politicians, some of whom knew better. They will continue to be fooled. There will be no tariff reform this winter nor the next.

The transport Ingalls has a hoodoo, so the sailors declare, and when a superstitious sailor gets an idea firmly fixed in his head, that settles it. It can never be removed. The old salts firmly believe in lucky and unlucky ships, in commanders who continually bask in fortune's smiles and those who are ever under her frown. The latest accident to the transport Ingalls will convince every sailorman who hears of it that that craft is the victim of a hoodoo and that every one who sails in her or has anything to do with her will suffer from it. The most notable event in the career of the Ingalls heretofore happened when Gen. Alger, the secretary of war, went in her to make a tour of inspection of Cuba. A mistake was made in the reckoning and before it was discovered the vessel was far out of its way, so far that it took about a day and a half to get back in the right track. It will undoubtedly be a hard task to keep a crew for the transport after the report gets once thoroughly spread abroad.

The intention of Gen. Daniel Sickles, of New York, and other so-called interested Grand Army men to oust Pension Commissioner Evans, seems to have signally failed. It is said that men who know the circumstances regarding the relations between President McKinley and Commissioner Evans have not recently had any idea that Governor Evans would be forced or even asked to resign. The friends of the commissioner maintained early last spring, when there was a renewal of the agitation to force him to resign, that he would not do so, and further, that he would remain at the head of the pension bureau until the close of Mr. McKinley's second term as president. The views then expressed by the commissioner's friends now seem certain of verification.

Four American boys figure in a recent London occurrence. Three of them bound a fourth, dragged him into the Serpentine lan Hyde park, and keel-hauled him under the lrboat. The victim, who was not injured by his immersion, was treated so because he had said that the United States was not so free a country as England, and that was more license than the "Loyal League of American Boys Abroad" allowed. Thus says the London Express, which may have been romancing.

The decision of the steel workers at Joliet to join the strike is a decided victory for the Amalgamated leaders. Undoubtedly the forfeiture of the charters of the South Chicago lodges had a powerful effect on the men at Joliet. The workers at Milwaukee will now be appealed to.

If Joe Chamberlain tries to cut down the Irish representation in the British commons, as he is said to be planning to do, there will be a roar that will be heard to the uttermost ends of the world.

Who fought and won that Santiago naval battle, anyway? Sampson was not there. Maclay says Schley "turned tail in cattiff flight and ran away." Was Cervera the victor, after all?

The New York Journal says that John D. Rockefeller is worth a thousand million dollars. This is undoubtedly a gross exaggeration, but he probably has sufficient to buy a winter's supply of coal.

The Kansas City Star likens billboards along the avenues of that city to keeping a crock of soapgrease on the parlor table.

Sir Thomas' chances to win the cup are better than they appeared to be a short time ago.

"Corn King" Phillips can reflect that he did not strike so hard as "Wheat King" Leiter.

A Georgia negro who died while eating a watermelon may be said to have died happy.

Maclay's history is now valued at 30 cents, with a declining tendency.

POINTED REMARKS.

Puck: George—I understand the Gottits had a hard struggle to get into society. Jack—I should say they had! Why, old Gottit had to spend nearly four years in the Klondike!

Philadelphia Press: "In designing his tombstone," said the widow of the late Wall street broker, "I was thinking of this inscription: 'He did well by his friends.'" "Ah!" remarked the man who knew him, "I would suggest 'He did his friends well.'"

Pittsburg Chronicle: Brother Bob—Jack Wrounds is a regular all-round "good fellow."

His Sister—Gracious! I never suspected he was as bad as that.

Chicago Tribune: "Mary Ann," said the economical husband at the summer resort hotel, "let the mashed turnips alone and take some more of those cream potatoes. Think what they're charging us here for beard!"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "What are you doing now?"

"I'm getting out a new style of mirror with a heavy iron frame."

"What's that for?"

"It's for use in stables where the horses wear bonnets."

Philadelphia Times: "It was not a divided household, though it might seem so."

"How?"

"The mother brought the children up, while the father had to take them down occasionally."

Detroit Free Press: Duffer—Beefer, the butcher, is going to get a divorce from his wife; he says his affection has grown cold.

Snuffer—I should think it would. She shut him up in the icebox and went to the circus alone because he had refused to take her.

Washington Star: "It is said to see this mercenary spirit so flagrantly manifested in politics," said the earnest citizen.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "I have fought against it all I could, but it's no use. I can't get people to vote my way without payin' 'em."

THE FOUNT OF TEARS.

All hot and grimmy from the road,
Dust gray from arduous years,
I sat me down and eased my load
Beside the Fount of Tears.

The waters sparkled to my eye,
Calm, crystal-like and cool,
And breathing there a restful sigh,
I bent me to the pool.

When lo, a voice cried, "Pilgrim, rise,
Harsh tho' the sentence be,
And on to other lands and skies,
This fount is not for thee.

"Pass on, but calm thy needless fears,
Some may not love or sin,
An angel guards the Fount of Tears,
All may not bathe therein."

Then with my burden on my back,
I turned to gaze awhile,
First at the unleviting track,
Then at the water's smile.

And so I go upon my way,
Thro'out the sultry years,
But pause no more, by night, by day,
Beside the Fount of Tears.

Moose Lake Star: Well, wouldn't that snort you? W. H. CUPIDS' AMBASSADOR

By CURTIS DUNHAM.

(Copyright, 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

Slow moving and outwardly calm, though his heart was going pit-a-pat, he sat beside her on the divan near the evening lamp, with its apple green shade and let his eyes wander over her manifold perfections. She was short of stature and slender. Vivicity was expressed in every feature, and in her brown eyes lurked always the spirit of mischief. A mouse suddenly ran across the floor, stopped at the very toe of the slipper on which her eyes were for the moment fixed, then dived under the divan. She barely stirred.

"A woman in a million!" he exclaimed. "Surely you saw the mouse?"

"Oh, yes, I saw it."

"And were not afraid?"

"Chief among all the virtues is bravery," she said, and smiled up at him with an expression in her eyes that made his head swim.

He leaned toward her, his lips seeking hers. He thought his movement was swift; but he found his nose pressed against the flowered kimono of a Japanese lady pictured on her fan.

"I have always thought it a pretty picture," she said innocently. "Are you short sighted?"

"BAH!" SAID HER FATHER.

"My sight is excellent," he answered, wiping some drops of perspiration from his brow, "but I am cursed with undue deliberation in my movements. My intention was to kiss you."

"Oh!" she exclaimed, regarding him with a perfect imitation of astonishment. "I do not believe in kissing, until one is engaged."

"Aren't we engaged?" he asked, with a note of alarm in his voice.

"Is that your understanding of the matter, sir?"

"I do not pose as an authority on such questions," he said slowly; "but I remember that when, last night, I asked you to marry me you said 'yes.'"

"Oh, but an engagement is not an engagement until it has been publicly announced."

"Pardon me, I am not thinking of kissing you in public."

"And last night," she said, with charmingly counterfeited reproach in her tones, "I thought you so—so considerate."

"You do me an injustice," he said, quickly; "the moment you had said 'yes' you ran from the room."

"It was so considerate of you not—not to run after me," she said, affecting intense gratitude.

"This time I do not deserve your commendation," he replied. "I am so confounded slow that when I had made up my mind to run after you the psychological moment had passed."

"Dear me, I am so disappointed in you."

"For being so slow?"

"Wretch!"

"Darling, let us announce our engagement at once."

"So you have received your hundred thousand dollar fee from the mining syndicate?"

"No, but it is promised day after tomorrow."

"Poor boy! But you know papa well enough to understand that he places no reliance in promises."

"Must I wait, then, till day after tomorrow?"

"Surely you would not have me go against my fixed principles?"

"Or I am not asking you to kiss me—that is, at present."

"If I were capable of committing a crime, sir, I would be no cowering accessory before the fact; I'd do the deed boldly with my own hand."

"Am I to understand that you force me to adopt extreme measures?"

"I hate conundrums."

"Well, I am going to kiss you."

"Sir! Without my consent?"

"Of course I'd much prefer—"

"You do not dare."

"I dare do all that may become a man."

"Papa is on the veranda."

"He fortunately is hard of hearing."

"I shall scream."

"You have a most charming voice—"

"So papa thinks; if I scream he will come, instantly."

"Then why scream?"

"Your flippancy will not save you, sir. I am a girl of my word; if you kiss me I shall scream."

He seized both her hands and kissed her, not once, but many times. When she could command her voice she screamed. Then she jumped upon the divan and with her skirts wrapped close about her ankles, screamed again. As her irascible old father burst in from the veranda she shrieked:

"A mouse! A mouse!"

"Bah!" said her father, and went out again.

The mouse crept from under the lounge and regarded them inquiringly. The girl resumed her former position on the divan. He smiled at her with the light of a liberal education shining in his eyes.

"Scream as loudly as you please, but your father won't come to your rescue after that," he said.

"Men have taken advantage of the weaker sex ever since the beginning of the world," she replied, with excellently simulated indignation. "But you have nothing to be so triumphant about. Our engagement is virtually announced. After you had gone last night I told papa everything."

Whereupon the mouse scurried into its hole, evidently satisfied that its mission had been accomplished.

Troubles of Trust Kings.

Kansas City Star: The fiercer zeger which J. Pierpont Morgan displayed on Saturday rather tends to prove that multimillionaires like everything else nave annoyances and troubles of their own.

Consumer Pays the Freight.

New York World: Last year's coal strike settlement increased the cost of production 10 cents a ton. The operators have increased the wholesale price 10 cents per month for five successive months.

Faith Rudely Shattered.

Baltimore American: A faith healer in Michigan declared that a bullet would not kill him if he turned his mind against it. So he shot himself through the head. Now he thinks he is dead and the family think they will have him buried.

Justice Moves Slowly.

Chicago News: The government has taken the first steps to secure a part of the money embezzled by Capt. Carter. It was considerate of the government to wait until Carter's relations had ample time to bury the loot in the back yard.

On Bargain Counter.

Philadelphia Record: The government seems to be getting out of the army transport business by the simple process of practically giving the transports away. The McPherson, formerly the trans-Atlantic liner Obdam, for which the government paid over $200,000 three years ago, was sold the other day in Brooklyn for $18,700. It cost more than that to get the McPherson off the Cuban rocks where it lay for several months. If such absurdly low prices are to prevail Uncle Sam might save money by sending out all his remaining transport steamers to founder in deep water.

Praise From Sir Hubert.

Philadelphia Record: Gen. MacArthur's tribute to American soldiers' high courage and patriotic devotion in the Philippines is praise from Sir Hubert Stanley, indeed. No soldier of the republic is better qualified to pronounce the verdict: "Well done!"

Abate the Nuisance.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: American cities are rapidly becoming a collection of huge fences smeared with all sorts of pictorial monstrosities. The way to stop the billboard nuisance is by perfectly legitimate taxation.

Wholesome Fear of Law.

Philadelphia Times: Owing to the backbone exhibited by the executive officials, the German bankers who steal the funds of their depositors are compelled to take the suicide instead of the pardon route.

Difference in Strikes.

Washington Post: There are several interestnig labor strikes in progress, but all the strikers have the advantage of the full dinner pail. The practice of striking on a souphouse diet is no longer in vogue.

Demoralizing Effect of War.

Indianapolis News: Lynching does not arouse the sense of shame and indignation that it used to do; human life generally is held more cheaply. One can trace the change since the beginning of the Spanish war. War is hell and war is demoralizing.

Chip of the Old Block.

Washington Post: Capt. Tom Schley says that he has not been interviewed; that he knows nothing concerning his father's affairs and that he relies upon his parent to take care of himself. That sounds very much as if it comes from a chip of the old block.

The Strenuous Pace.

New York Tribune: Pacing machines for bicycle races have brought about a marvelous increase of speed in these contests, but the introduction of these "flyers" has been followed by the occurrence of many lamentable accidents. Perhaps it is still an open question whether they have done more harm than good to the sport.

CHANGE OF METHOD.

Knights of Columbus Amend Their Constitution.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The national council of the Knights of Columbus in session at Cliff Haven has changed the method of selection of state and national chaplains, making the office appointive instead of elective. The appointment by the board of directors of a finance committee was empowered, the committee to have charge of all investments of less than $100,000. An adjournment probably will be reached today.

TARVIS COMING.

New York, Aug. 16.—All doubt as to Walter Tarvis' appearance in the national golf championship at Atlantic City Sept. 9, has been brushed aside by the news received by several friends in this city, that the amateur championship will arrive from England on Aug. 21. In the national championship he will enter from the Garden City Golf club.

The Rivers and Harbors Bill.

That little talking episode of Senator Carter at the close of the last session of congress saved millions of dollars at the time but it may be expensive in the end. The burial of the rivers and harbors bill under a flood of oratory by the direction of the powers that were, may actually cost the country a round sum. The estimates for the coming work have been nearly completed and the bill to be drawn for the next congress will be much larger than one introduced at the last session. Chairman Burton of the house committee on rivers and harbors, explains the necessity for a larger bill by stating that without exception all plants which are used in river and harbor improvements suffer deterioration in idleness. This is particularly true of the big dredges and boats used in snagging operations and in deepening and broadening channels. To dry dock them would be impracticable, because of the lack of necessary facilities. Allowing them to remain in the water results in leaks, creates a necessity for new painting and for the overhauling of all machinery. While the abandonment of certain projects which have been provided annually in the past will reduce the general appropriations, provision for deterioration of plants and to offset the results of the break in continuous work and the necessity for entirely reorganizing the working forces will make an increase of several hundred thousand dollars in the next bill. But while this additional expense has been created, it is but a small fraction of the appropriations in the bill killed by Senator Carter's efforts for so-called harbors and streams that should never be improved at the expense of the federal treasury. Probably all these sums will appear again in the bill that will be presented at the next session, and if they do they should be eliminated or the bill should be talked to death once more. Scores of the items in the rivers and harbors bills are nothing but "jobs" and steals.

Separated By the Government.

A Nebraska man accuses the government of separating man and wife in a shameful manner, and seems to have ground for his complaint. Last July when the war department announced that it wanted teachers for the Philippines, a Boston agency sent in the name of Miss Fannie Wadsworth, of Melwood, ..eb. Miss Wadsworth was the selection of Professor Atkinson, who has charge of the school work in the islands, and she was duly notified of her appointment and asked if she would accept. She telegraphed at once that she would. The department then inquired when she could sail and explained that they would provide the necessary transportation. Miss Wadsworth replied that she could go whenever desired and accordingly the quartermaster general of the army was instructed to provide her with transportation from Mellwood, Neb., to San Francisco and from there to Manila. Then a dispatch was received by the department which directed the officials to cancel the appointment of Miss Wadsworth and explaining that she had a husband and children at home. The telegram was signed "By her husband, George Wadsworth." This was repeated to Miss Wadsworth and she was asked to inform the department at once if she was able to go to the Philippines. She answered "Yes, have no children." Accordingly the transportation was furnished her, but before she sailed a letter came from George Wadsworth repeating that he was her husband and that she had two children at her home to look out for. Mr. Wadsworth expressed the belief that the war department had no intention of separating man and wife and he did not think that the department would uphold the appointment of a woman who would leave her own children to go off and teach dusky Filipinos. It appears that the children were those of Mr. Wadsworth by a former wife, and that Mrs. Wadsworth No. 2 had on several occasions previously left home to teach school and had returned again to take up her family duties. The war department very promptly decided that it had nothing to do with Mr. Wadsworth's domestic affairs, that Miss Fannie Wadsworth had been certified for appointment by Professor Atkinson, that she had accepted, and that her credentials were all correct, so that she sailed on the army transport several weeks ago and is now nearing Manila, while George Wadsworth continues to write to the department to send back to him his wife. It is very probable that no action will be taken in the matter, however, as all communications on the subject are referred to the school authorities under the Philippine commission.

STREET ASSESSMENTS.

It is gratifying to learn that a large number of the property owners on Superior street are anxious to pay their paving assessments at an early date and are anxious that the necessary proceedings on behalf of the city shall be expedited in order that they can pay the amounts due. By taking this action they will secure a rebate of 10 per cent and at the same time recoup the revolving improvement fund so that the city can go ahead with other needed improvements this year.

This splendid example might well be imitated by the Michigan street property owners generally. Some of them are kicking against paying the assessment for paving that street with sandstone, on the ground that the city should pay for paving the street intersections. This claim is made regardless of the fact that the property owners on all other streets that have been improved paid for the improvement of the intersections and that it is but just and right that the same procedure should be followed in the case of Michigan street. Furthermore the supreme court of this state has decided the question in favor of the city's contention, holding that the cost of paving intersections is a legal charge against the property abutting the street. The Michigan street property owners clamored long and loudly for a pavement, and their appeal having been granted and the pavement laid, they should quit kicking, walk up to the treasurer's office and settle.

WHEAT SHORTAGE ABROAD.

It is now clearly established that there will be a large wheat shortage in Europe this year. France will be compelled to import a large quantity of wheat on account of the shortage in the crop which began to be harvested June 29, which was considerably earlier than usual. In regard to this shortage, Consul General Robert P. Skinner, at Marseilles, writes that on July 12 three-fourths of the entire yield had been cut—that is to say, the harvesting has been practically completed at about the time when it usually begins. The expectation of those who have given the matter study based upon previous experience is that France will be obliged to look abroad for perhaps 36,000,000 bushels, including the hard wheat not produced in France and usually imported for semolina manufacture from Russia and Algeria. Of the total importations, probably 32,000,000 bushels will be entered through the port of Marseilles, of which one-third will consist of hard macaroni wheat, such as can not be supplied by the United States, at least for the present. This leaves about 20,000,000 bushels of soft wheat required for that port, the most of which will certainly be forwarded from the United States, if prices so adjust themselves that Russian wheats are not lower.

Soft wheats entering Marseilles, other than those from the United States, come mainly from the Black sea region. Reports from the country southeast of the Azof are very unfavorable to a large yield, but the prospects from the southwest of Azof are considered good. Already at least one cargo of American wheat of the new crop is on its way to Marseilles and has been sold in small lots to about fifteen dealers, purposely, in order to disseminate practical information as rapidly as possible concerning the real quality of the new crop, upon which they will probably depend to an important extent. The French importers hope that the Americans will not force prices to a point that will abnormally strengthen competition from Russia, and anticipate that the business of the year will be comparable to that of 1898, when the French crop was also short and large quantities came in from the United States. Altogether it is probable France will import from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of American wheat during the present year.

Nor is the wheat shortage confined to France. Some months ago there were reports regarding the unfavorable condition of the wheat and rye fields in Germany, and it is now stated that the harvest in Prussia this year shows the largest deficit reported for a long time, the wheat crop being not much more than one-half of an average yield and the rye crop having fallen off nearly 12 per cent.

NAVAL PRISONERS.

A lamentable state of affairs is brought to notice by the complaint of the judge advocates department of the navy that sufficient accommodation cannot be found for the naval prisoners. To be sure the number of enlisted men has increased, but with the greatly improved quarters for the men, and the general improvement of the service, it was hoped that the number of prisoners would at least not increase, but rather decrease. But the fact remains that the department is sorely perplexed for the want of accommodations for the prisoners. At the navy yard in Boston is a regular naval prison, constructed upon the designs of an outside penal establishment. It has about 250 cells or accommodations for that number of prisoners, but it has long ago been inadequate to the increasing demands of the service. Secretary Long has, therefore, had the old collier Southery, which had outlived her marine usefulness, altered into a prison ship and she is stationed at Norfolk. Quite a comfortable prison has been made of the old hulk and her quarters are rapidly filling up. All breaches of discipline have to be adjudicated by a court-martial and punishment by imprisonment is generally awarded in terms reaching from three months to as many years, according to the nature of the offense. Very serious offenses, amounting to aggravated cases of felony, are punished by imprisonment at the state prison at Wethersfield, Conn., but such instances are rare. Naval imprisonment finishes by dishonorable discharge from the navy and carries no further stain of loss of citizenship, which is part of the penalty of outside confinement. The naval prisoners are obliged to work about the streets of the navy yard, but their lot is much easier than the sailor committed for downright crime. His offenses principally are breaches of military rules, drunkenness being in nearly every case at the bottom of his misfortunes.

NO TARIFF TINKERING.

Those who look for tariff revision or even the ratification of the pending reciprocity treaties by the next congress will be sorely disappointed. No good will come out of Nazareth this time. One by one the tariff legislators are being placed on the rack and the thumb screws applied. Senator Cullom was an avowed tariff reformer. He saw, or thought he saw, that the West was for tariff revision. He went to Washington and came back to announce that there would be no tinkering with the tariff this session of congress. Cullom wants to be chairman of the committee on foreign relations. Babcock took his position and left for Europe in company with his bride. When he gets back the machine will take him in charge and he will be obliged to recant or drink the hemlock of party discipline. Tawney, the picturesque statesman from Winona, knows that three-fourths of his party in Minnesota is for a complete tariff revision. He knows, too, that the gang is against any tinkering with the tariff and he hedges with the statement that the tariff ought to be modified on several points, but is of the opinion that there will be no general tariff revision. Tawney, like all his brethren, will talk to pacify his constituents and act to please the party management. There will be no tariff changes.

Talk as much as we wish about the principles of protection and free trade. There never was a tariff schedule arranged as a result of adherence to any known principle. In the construction of a tariff schedule the law of expediency prevails. It is solely a question of how to get enough votes to put the measure through. Here is a man with a vote who wants or thinks he wants, a certain thing protected. He may be honest in it, he may be acting for his constituents who want it, or he may be acting for a person or corporation who pays him for it. His motive does not matter. His vote is needed and he deliberately holds up the nation until he gets what he wants. He sells his vote for what he can obtain. The whole Dingley schedule was secured by a combination of men who wanted something. They were willing to vote for a measure which would cost them one cent and make for them one dollar. What do the iron industries care what the price of lumber is? They can afford to pay an extra price for what they use in order to get the support of the lumber interests for their scheme of protection. The sugar interests were willing to pay more for lumber and iron and a hundred other items, in order to get the protection of a tariff that would keep out foreign sugar. What do they care if the people as a whole are obliged to pay $60,000,000 more a year for sugar? Their proportion to pay is small and their gains are millions.

The farmer has been kept in line by making him believe that he was protected by a tariff on cereals. He did not stop to remember that he was sending his grain to foreign markets and that it is as impossible for the foreigner to invade this market with farm products without a protective tariff, as it is for us to invade the markets of Mars. It seems strange that men can be fooled on such a proposition, but the fact remains that they have been fooled for years by politicians, some of whom knew better. They will continue to be fooled. There will be no tariff reform this winter nor the next.

The transport Ingalls has a hoodoo, so the sailors declare, and when a superstitious sailor gets an idea firmly fixed in his head, that settles it. It can never be removed. The old salts firmly believe in lucky and unlucky ships, in commanders who continually bask in fortune's smiles and those who are ever under her frown. The latest accident to the transport Ingalls will convince every sailorman who hears of it that that craft is the victim of a hoodoo and that every one who sails in her or has anything to do with her will suffer from it. The most notable event in the career of the Ingalls heretofore happened when Gen. Alger, the secretary of war, went in her to make a tour of inspection of Cuba. A mistake was made in the reckoning and before it was discovered the vessel was far out of its way, so far that it took about a day and a half to get back in the right track. It will undoubtedly be a hard task to keep a crew for the transport after the report gets once thoroughly spread abroad.

The intention of Gen. Daniel Sickles, of New York, and other so-called interested Grand Army men to oust Pension Commissioner Evans, seems to have signally failed. It is said that men who know the circumstances regarding the relations between President McKinley and Commissioner Evans have not recently had any idea that Governor Evans would be forced or even asked to resign. The friends of the commissioner maintained early last spring, when there was a renewal of the agitation to force him to resign, that he would not do so, and further, that he would remain at the head of the pension bureau until the close of Mr. McKinley's second term as president. The views then expressed by the commissioner's friends now seem certain of verification.

Four American boys figure in a recent London occurrence. Three of them bound a fourth, dragged him into the Serpentine in Hyde park, and keel-hauled him under the inboat. The victim, who was not injured by his immersion, was treated so because he had said that the United States was not so free a country as England, and that was more license than the "Loyal League of American Boys Abroad" allowed. Thus says the London Express, which may have been romancing.

The decision of the steel workers at Joliet to join the strike is a decided victory for the Amalgamated leaders. Undoubtedly the forfeiture of the charters of the South Chicago lodges had a powerful effect on the men at Joliet. The workers at Milwaukee will now be appealed to.

If Joe Chamberlain tries to cut down the Irish representation in the British commons, as he is said to be planning to do, there will be a roar that will be heard to the uttermost ends of the world.

Who fought and won that Santiago naval battle, anyway? Sampson was not there. Maclay says Schley "turned tail in cahuff flight and ran away." Was Cervera the victor, after all?

The New York Journal says that John D. Rockefeller is worth a thousand million dollars. This is undoubtedly a gross exaggeration, but he probably has sufficient to buy a winter's supply of coal.

The Kansas City Star likens billboards along the avenues of that city to keeping a crock of soapgrease on the parlor table.

Sir Thomas' chances to win the cup are better than they appeared to be a short time ago.

"Corn King" Phillips can reflect that he did not strike so hard as "Wheat King" Leiter.

A Georgia negro who died while eating a watermelon may be said to have died happy.

Maclay's history is now valued at 30 cents, with a declining tendency.

POINTED REMARKS.

Puck: George—I understand the Gottits had a hard struggle to get into society. Jack—I should say they had! Why, old Gottit had to spend nearly four years in the Klondike!

Philadelphia Press: "In designing his tombstone," said the widow of the late Wall street broker, "I was thinking of this inscription: 'He did well by his friends.'"

"Ah!" remarked the man who knew him, "I would suggest 'He did his friends well.'"

Pittsburg Chronicle: Brother Bob—Jack Wrounds is a regular all-round "good fellow."

His Sister—Gracious! I never suspected he was as bad as that.

Chicago Tribune: "Mary Ann," said the economical husband at the summer resort hotel, "let the mashed turnips alone and take some more of those cream potatoes. Think what they're charging us here for beard!"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "What are you doing now?"

"I'm getting out a new style of mirror with a heavy iron frame."

"What's that for?"

"It's for use in stables where the horses wear bonnets."

Philadelphia Times: "It was not a divided household, though it might seem so."

"How?"

"The mother brought the children up, while the father had to take them down occasionally."

Detroit Free Press: Duffer—Reefer, the butcher, is going to get a divorce from his wife; he says his affection has grown cold.

Snuffer—I should think it would. She shut him up in the icebox and went to the circus alone because he had refused to take her.

Washington Star: "It is said to see this mercenary spirit so flagrantly manifested in politics," said the earnest citizen.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "I have fought against it all I could, but it's no use. I can't get people to vote my way without payin' 'em."

THE FOUNT OF TEARS.

All hot and grimmy from the road,
Dust gray from arduous years,
I sat me down and eased my load
Beside the Fount of Tears.

The waters sparkled to my eye,
Calm, crystal-like and cool,
And breathing there a restful sigh,
I bent me to the pool.

When lo, a voice cried, "Pilgrim, rise,
Harsh tho' the sentence be,
And on to other lands and skies,
This fount is not for thee.

"Pass on, but calm thy needless fears,
Some may not love or sin,
An angel guards the Fount of Tears,
All may not bathe therein."

Then with my burden on my back,
I turned to gaze awhile,
First at the uninviting track,
Then at the water's smile.

And so I go upon my way,
Thro'out the sultry years,
But pause no more, by night, by day,
Beside the Fount of Tears.

Calls It Gall.

Moose Lake Star: Well, wouldn't that snort you? W. H. Noyes, at Barnum, that figured as our representative in the state legislature last winter, has now announced himself as a candidate for congressional honors in the new Eighth district. And then he thinks he stands a show of winning on account of the new primary election law. There is gall for your life.

Only Once in a Lifetime.

Louisville Courier-Journal: It is expected that the ceremonies attending the coronation of the British king will last three weeks. Edward was a long time getting there and he proposes to make the most of it.

One Path to Power.

Chicago Post: If the Maryland negro would become a permanent factor in politics let him follow the example of his Georgia brother and accumulate property. Politicians never draw the color line through wealth.

Investigation Called For.

Louisville Courier-Journal: For purposes of general enlightenment can we not have some sort of a commission to report how nearly the corn belt, the rain belt and the prayer belt are synonymous.

Fall of Corn Kings.

Brooklyn Eagle: Kings of corn corners seem to last about a year, on an average. Because the corn keeps right on growing as if it did not know it was cornered.

CUPIDS' AMBASSADOR

By CURTIS DUNHAM.

(Copyright, 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

Slow moving and outwardly calm, though his heart was going pit-a-pat, he sat beside her on the divan near the evening lamp, with its apple green shade and let his eyes wander over her manifold perfections. She was short of stature and slender. Vivicity was expressed in every feature, and in her brown eyes lurked always the spirit of mischief. A mouse suddenly ran across the floor, stopped at the very toe of the slipper on which her eyes were for the moment fixed, then dived under the divan. She barely stirred.

"A woman in a million!" he exclaimed. "Surely you saw the mouse?"

"Oh, yes, I saw it."

"And were not afraid?"

"Chief among all the virtues is bravery," she said, and smiled up at him with an expression in her eyes that made his head swim.

He leaned toward her, his lips seeking hers. He thought his movement was swift; but he found his nose pressed against the flowered kimono of a Japanese lady pictured on her fan.

"I have always thought it a pretty picture," she said innocently. "Are you short sighted?"

"My sight is excellent," he answered, wiping some drops of perspiration from his brow, "but I am cursed with undue deliberation in my movements. My intention was to kiss you."

"Oh!" she exclaimed, regarding him with a perfect imitation of astonishment. "I do not believe in kissing, until one is engaged."

"Aren't we engaged?" he asked, with a note of alarm in his voice.

"Is that your understanding of the matter, sir?"

"I do not pose as an authority on such questions," he said slowly; "but I remember that when, last night, I asked you to marry me you said 'yes.'"

"Oh, but an engagement is not an engagement until it has been publicly announced."

"Pardon me, I am not thinking of kissing you in public."

"And last night," she said, with charmingly counterfeited reproach in her tones, "I thought you so—so considerate."

"You do me an injustice," he said, quickly; "the moment you had said 'yes' you ran from the room."

"It was so considerate of you not—not to run after me," she said, affecting intense gratitude.

"This time I do not deserve your commendation," he replied. "I am so confounded slow that when I had made up my mind to run after you the psychological moment had passed."

"Dear me, I am so disappointed in you."

"For being so slow?"

"Wretch!"

"Darling, let us announce our engagement at once."

"So you have received your hundred thousand dollar fee from the mining syndicate?"

"No, but it is promised day after tomorrow."

"Poor boy! But you know papa well enough to understand that he places no reliance in promises."

"Must I wait, then, till day after tomorrow?"

"Surely you would not have me go against my fixed principles?"

"Oh, I am not asking you to kiss me—that is, at present."

"If I were capable of committing a crime, sir, I would be no cowering accessory before the fact; I'd do the deed boldly with my own hand."

"Am I to understand that you force me to adopt extreme measures?"

"I hate conundrums."

"Well, I am going to kiss you."

"Sir! Without my consent?"

"Of course I'd much prefer—"

"You do not dare."

"I dare do all that may become a man."

"Papa is on the veranda."

"He fortunately is hard of hearing."

"I shall scream."

"You have a most charming voice—"

"So papa thinks; if I scream he will come, instantly."

"Then why scream?"

"Your flippancy will not save you, sir. I am a girl of my word; if you kiss me I shall scream."

He seized both her hands and kissed her, not once, but many times. When she could command her voice she screamed. Then she jumped upon the divan and with her skirts wrapped close about her ankles, screamed again. As her dfaselble old father burst in from the veranda she shrieked:

"A mouse! A mouse!"

"Bah!" said her father, and went out again.

The mouse crept from under the lounge and regarded them inquiringly. The girl resumed her former position on the divan. He smiled at her with the light of a liberal education shining in his eyes.

"Scream as loudly as you please, but your father won't come to your rescue after that," he said.

"Men have taken advantage of the weaker sex ever since the beginning of the world," she replied, with excellently simulated indignation. "But you have nothing to be so triumphant about. Our engagement is virtually announced. After you had gone last night I told papa everything."

Whereupon the mouse scurried into its hole, evidently satisfied that its mission had been accomplished.

Troubles of Trust Kings.

Kansas City Star: The fiercer gauger which J. Pierpont Morgan displayed on Saturday rather tends to prove that multimillionaires like everything else save annoyances and troubles of their own.

Consumer Pays the Freight.

New York World: Last year's coal strike settlement increased the cost of production 10 cents a ton. The operators have increased the wholesale price 10 cents per month for five successive months.

Faith Rudely Shattered.

Baltimore American: A faith healer in Michigan declared that a bullet would not kill him if he turned his mind against it. So he shot himself through the head. Now he thinks he is dead and the family think they will have him buried.

Justice Moves Slowly.

Chicago News: The government has taken the first steps to secure a part of the money embezzled by Capt. Carter. It was considerate of the government to wait until Carter's relations had ample time to bury the loot in the back yard.

On Bargain Counter.

Philadelphia Record: The government seems to be getting out of the army transport business by the simple process of practically giving the transports away. The McPherson, formerly the trans-Atlantic liner Obdam, for which the government paid over $300,000 three years ago, was sold the other day in Brooklyn for $18,500. It cost more than that to get the McPherson off the Cuban rocks where it lay for several months. If such absurdly low prices are to prevail Uncle Sam might save money by sending out all his remaining transport steamers to founder in deep water.

Praise From Sir Hubert.

Philadelphia Record: Gen. MacArthur's tribute to American soldiers' high courage and patriotic devotion in the Philippines is praise from Sir Hubert Stanley, indeed. No soldier of the republic is better qualified to pronounce the verdict: "Well done!"

Abate the Nuisance.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: American cities are rapidly becoming a collection of huge fences smeared with all sorts of pictorial monstrosities. The way to stop the billboard nuisance is by perfectly legitimate taxation.

Wholesome Fear of Law.

Philadelphia Times: Owing to the backbone exhibited by the executive officials, the German bankers who steal the funds of their depositors are compelled to take the suicide instead of the pardon route.

Difference In Strikes.

Washington Post: There are several interesting labor strikes in progress, but all the strikers have the advantage of the full dinner pail. The practice of striking on a souphouse diet is no longer in vogue.

Demoralizing Effect of War.

Indianapolis News: Lynching does not arouse the sense of shame and indignation that it used to do; human life generally is held more cheaply. One can trace the change since the beginning of the Spanish war. War is hell and war is demoralizing.

Chip of the Old Block.

Washington Post: Capt. Tom Schley says that he has not been interviewed; that he knows nothing concerning his father's affairs and that he relies upon his parent to take care of himself. That sounds very much as if it comes from a chip of the old block.

The Strenuous Pace.

New York Tribune: Pacing machines for bicycle races have brought about a marvelous increase of speed in these contests, but the introduction of these "flyers" has been followed by the occurrence of many lamentable accidents. Perhaps it is still an open question whether they have done more harm than good to the sport.

CHANGE OF METHOD.

Knights of Columbus Amend Their Constitution.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The national council of the Knights of Columbus in session at Cliff Haven has changed the method of selection of state and national chaplains, making the office appointive instead of elective. The appointment by the board of directors of a finance committee was empowered, the committee to have charge of all investments of less than $100,000. An adjournment probably will be reached today.

TARVIS COMING.

New York, Aug. 16.—All doubt as to Walter Tarvis' appearance in the national golf championship at Atlantic City Sept 9, has been brushed aside by the news received by several friends in this city, that the amateur championship will arrive from England on Aug. 21. In the national championship he will enter from the Garden City Golf club.

WIDOW IS MOURNED

Cooed Her Way Into Graces of Gotham Landladies.

Left When She Saw She Was Nearing the Limit.

She Frequently Borrowed Change to Go Down Town.

New York, Aug. 16.—They seek in West Fourteenth street a Mrs. Pendleton, of Ohio, who has gone, leaving her board bill all unpaid. The boarding house keepers thought she was a cheery soul, and when she said she was the widow of George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, they gave her the kindest of welcomes.

Now that she has gone seeking other hall bedrooms, it has dawned upon the soul of the street that the wife of the distinguished statesman died in 1886 as the result of a runaway accident in Central park.

At the last place where Mrs. Pendleton, of Ohio, as she called herself, sought repose and refreshments, the circumstances of the tragic death of the wife of the statesman was mentioned, whereupon Mrs. Pendleton, of Ohio, said that as the judge was dead at the time upon her devolved the duty of looking after the body. George H. Pendleton died in 1889.

All this is neither here nor there, for if Mrs. Pendleton, of Ohio, was not clear in her statement of dates she knew all about potatoes, peaches and apples. She went to a boarding house in Fourteenth street, near Eighth avenue, last Saturday. She said that she had come to New York to spend the winter.

"Dear," said she to the landlady, "I have an extensive farm out in Ohio, which I hold in my own right. I never sell any of the produce, but this winter you shall have for nothing all the potatoes and apples which you require. All that you need to do is to pay the expressage on the empty sacks to Ohio so that my overseer can send apples and potatoes to some other dear friends."

Mrs. Pendleton appeared at the boarding house a year ago, engaged rooms, and did not come back. The landlady recalled that circumstance.

"To be sure," said Mrs. Pendleton, of Ohio. "Is that not a strange thing that you should remember me so well? My husband said that you would certainly have forgotten me. You know I had to go suddenly to Europe at that time."

Mrs. Pendleton said that she had come from Cape May, and that her trunks would presently follow. The trunks were disobedient. The landlady could not ask for any payment of board in advance, for Mrs. Pendleton was regarded as being a lady bountiful in that house.

She congratulated herself with the women boarders by covertly saying to them all:

"I do not generaly talk to persons whom I meet in boarding houses, but your face interests me extremely. I heard you at the piano a while ago, did I not? Would you please play for me?"

Among the wonderful things which Mrs. Pendleton told was that her husband was to spend the winter in New York, where he had been engaged on the Mollneaux case. Mrs. Pendleton stayed but two days. She borrowed 50 cents for car fare and has departed. She may call at other boarding houses through the city.

She is slender and her shoulders are remarkably narrow. Her age is between 50 and 60 years, and her hair is beginning to turn gray. She was last seen in a dark gown, with a white trimming about the throat. Her voice is soft and persuasive, and it has a cooing note, when she asks to borrow some change to go down town.

BRAVE BOY.

Heroic Rescue of Mother and Brothers By Minneapolis Lad.

Minneapolis, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Nathan Barber was frightfully burned by a fire which practically destroyed her little home at 19 Sidney place, Prospect Park, early yesterday morning. But for heroic work of her 16-year-old son, King, the unfortunate woman would have been burned to death on her bed, and her two small children might have met a similar fate. The brave lad carried his mother from her bedroom while her night clothes were on fire, extinguishing the blaze and hurried back into the burning house in time to carry out his two little brothers. He also succeeded in saving some of the household effects. In the neighborhood King is proclaimed a very hero, but any pride he may feel in the knowledge that he showed no fear or hesitation in doing his duty, is overcast with gloom caused by the suffering and impending death of his mother, whom he tried so hard to save.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock Mrs. Barber was awakened by the crackling of burning wood. Before she could leap from her bed the flames licked up from the floor and caught the bed clothing, and in an instant the covers and Mrs. Barber's gown were aflame. She screamed and King bounded into the room through the door that separated their apartments. Realizing at once the imminent danger of his mother he unhesitatingly caught her in his none too strong arms and bore her out into the yard. It was but the work of a moment to extinguish the flames that were enveloping the poor woman, but they had scorched her badly. The front of her body, from the chest to the ankles; the face, arms and upper portion of the back were horribly burned.

Leaving his mother in the yard the brave and thoughtful boy ran back into the burning house. He carried his two little brothers out into the yard and then, realizing that all the family possessed was in the house, he ran back and attempted to save some of the household goods. He was less successful, in this minor work, but the firemen, who had arrived by this time, quenched the flames quickly and saved much of the property.

Mrs. Barber bravely bore the pain as she was taken to the hospital. Cooling ointment and soft bandages were applied by the physicians, but they served but ill in alleviating the intense pain.

Mrs. Barber died at the hospital at 4 p. m. yesterday.

WILL OBEY.

Joliet Employes of Steel Mill Vote to Strike.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 16.—The four lodges of the Amalgamated association employes of the Illinois Steel company at the Joliet mills, by a unanimous vote, decided last night to obey the strike order of President Shaffer. The conference was in session from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 last night before the decision was reached. The steel mills were closed at noon to enable the members of the association to attend the meeting which was called by National Assistant Secretary Tighe, after his arrival here in the morning. He was accompanied by Vice President Davis of the Fourth district.

Both men presented the side of the association to the local members. It was argued that in order to secure the organization of non-union workers in the East, it was essential that the Western men should join the strike movement.

Mr. Tighe also appealed to the fealty of the men to the association; he urged them to be men and stand by their union. His remarks were received with enthusiasm and presaged the vote that followed.

This action will close the entire steel plant here, throwing out of employment nearly 3000 men.

The Joliet men had the same contract with the Illinois Steel company as the South Chicago workers, who refused to listen to the arguments of Secretary Tighe.

JEALOUS WOMAN

Attempts to Horsewhip Supposed Rival For Husband's Affections.

Sensational Scene In a Minneapolis Department House.

Mrs. W. B. Lord the Assailant of Mrs. Delano.

Minneapolis, Aug. 16.—Because she believed the woman had stolen from her the affections of her husband, Mrs. W. B. Lord, armed with revolver and horsewhip, called upon Mrs. Delano, at her apartments in the Powers flats, Lyndale avenue and Lake street, Wednesday afternoon, and attempted to even up matters by thrashing her supposed rival. Mrs. Delano, however, is very much the larger woman, and although she received one cut from the whip lash, which left a scar over her left eye, she succeeded in wresting both whip and revolver from her antagonist and holding her at bay until Alderman Fred Powers came to the rescue.

Mrs. Lord drove up to the apartment house in a carriage. She walked up stairs and, when she reached the third landing, saw the woman for whom she was seeking. She shouted to her and started to enter through the open door of Mrs. Delano's apartments. The door, however, was slammed in her face. She stopped not a moment but thrust both daintily gloved hands through the glass and then turned and ran to a second door through which she gained access to the rooms. Raising her whip high over her head, she brought it down with all her force full in Mrs. Delano's face. The attacked woman then wrested the whip from her grasp and called loudly for help.

Mrs. Lord stepped back and raised the revolver. It wasn't loaded, but Mrs. Delano did not know that and she was terribly frightened. She managed to grasp her assailant's arm, however, and to hold it so that the gun was pointed to one side. Meanwhile Mrs. Lord's hands, badly cut when she broke the glass of the door, were streaming blood, and the halls of the building were thronged with frightened, screaming women.

Alderman Powers heard the uproar and came rushing up the stairs. He grabbed Mrs. Lord, took the revolver away from her and then led her toward the stairs. Meanwhile Mrs. Delano had retired to her room, taking the whip with her. As she went down the stairs Mrs. Lord called out:

"I don't want you to think I'm afraid of you. My name is Mrs. W. B. Lord. I live at the Sommer's hotel and my husband's office is in the Corn Exchange."

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Delano dressed and went out. She told the neighbors she intended to swear out a warrant for Mrs. Lord's arrest, but that had not been done up to a late hour yesterday afternoon. She did not return home last night and her present whereabouts is unknown. She is a large woman, of fine figure, with light hair and a most striking appearance. To a friend she said she had never known anyone named Lord.

Mr. Lord said yesterday afternoon that his wife's action had been the result of a nervous breakdown and that she was now under a physician's care, having been removed to a sanitarium today. He admitted having been introduced to Mrs. Delano, but said their acquaintance had gone no farther than a casual introduction. He added that he expected no further trouble.

The first motor funeral on record in England occurred Thursday at Coventry, on the occasion of the interment of an old employe of one of the automobile companies. The hearse was a specially constructed six-horsepower car. All the three cars used were draped with black.

In its leading editorial the Kreuz Zeitung returns to the subject of a commercial treaty with the United States. It urges the German government to make such a treaty before approaching European powers, and in this way to "avoid the necessity of giving gratis to the United States the most favored nation treatment after treaties have been concluded with European nations."

Although it is understood that the arrival of Frederick William, the German crown prince in England is the fulfillment of a long standing promise, the rumor is revived that it is in connection with a matrimonial suit for the hand of one of the daughters of the duke of Connaught. The crown prince will go to the North of Scotland to shoot grouse.

ARE EYESORES

Vacant Lots Which Are Allowed to Run to Weeds.

Residents of the city who take pride in the appearance of their premises and delight in beautifying their homes are kicking greatly against the manner in which lots that are unoccupied are allowed to become covered with weeds, old grass, etc Said one of these yesterday:

"I have a home in the East End and I keep my grounds in as nice shape as I know how. In fact I think they will compare favorably with any in the city. My next neighbor keeps his in the same excellent condition, but between us is a vacant lot owned by a non-resident and it is a wretched looking place, overrun with weeds and grass, and in general an eyesore. Yet the man who owns that lot wants a big price for it. In fact he asks about 40 per cent more for it than lots around there are held at. There ought to be some way to make him keep his lot so that it will look at least decent."

This brings up an old subject and one which city officials have found themselves powerless to cope with. They have found no way to make owners give attention to the beautifying of their property. It must depend upon their inclination. If a nuisance is maintained the board of health can reach it, possibly, but there is as far as the authority of the city goes. There is a state law against allowing weeds to go to seed and possibly if some one undertook to prosecute under this some of the owners of lots that are allowed to get into obnoxious condition could be brought up.

As to owners of such lots holding them at very high figures, there are two sides to the question. There are owners of lots in various parts of the city who hold them at figures which in comparison with those asked for other property around them are exorbitant and yet if obtained would not let the owners out at what they have invested in their property in actual cash to say nothing of interest. There are people who bought lots ten and twelve years ago, who have paid taxes on them ever since, have paid assessments for improvements, and cannot today get two-thirds of the actual cash they have put into them. When they put the price away above that of surrounding lots they cannot hope to sell, but having held so long they are doubtless willing to hold a little longer until they can.

FOUR GAMES.

Milwaukee Sentinels Series Begins Saturday---Looking For Pitchers.

Four games of fast ball in four successive days. The Milwaukee Sentinels are on the slate to arrive tomorrow morning and the first game against the Fashions will come off tomorrow afternoon. Games will also be played Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Just who will be in the box for Duluth tomorrow, Manager Van Praagh has not made public. Dick Glendon, who wanted to come to Duluth two weeks ago was heard from yesterday and does not betray the same anxiety that he showed before. He evidently has a good berth where he is with Munson, S. D. Jim Wiggs, who played part of last season with Superior, and who started this season with St. Joseph, but has been playing ever since in South Dakota, has been made an offer to join the Duluth club. Wiggs, though erratic, is a splendid pitcher when he gets his stride, and would be a valuable addition to the cigarmakers. When the Ashland players were here Sunday they tried to secure Staub, but "Blondy" will remain with Duluth and probably play third base when he is not in the box.

The fans are to see some good ball playing before the season closes. If it is possible to bring the Chicago Unions here for Aug. 24 and 25 they will be brought and in all probability the Minneapolis league team will be seen on the diamond Sept. 5. Their manager has written Manager Van Praagh of the Fashions asking for that date. The first appearance of the Milwaukee Sentinels here tomorrow promises to draw a large crowd and the Sunday attendance should be the largest of the season.

Drowning at Superior.

Goodman Johnson, a young man 18 years of age, residing on Susquehanna avenue in West Superior, was drowned in St. Louis bay near the Ohio coal dock, in that city, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. WILL COACH.

Dr. J. D. Park Will Again Handle the Football Team.

At a conference held last night between Professor Hutchinson, manager of the high school football team and Dr. J. D. Park, the coach of last year's winning team, it was definitely decided that Dr. Park will be the coach this year.

This announcement will be received with a great deal of satisfaction by the footballists of the city as all along they have been vigorously using their influence to secure Dr. Park for this season's coach. It was entirely a financial matter with the management of the high school's athletics as Dr. Park was acknowledged to be the man for the position, and arrangements have been made whereby he has been engaged at a handsome figure. This matter settled, the team can get out and work for the victories that are so longingly hoped for.

When practice commenced last year a great quantity of good material was available, but the team was not as strong as it had been the year previous. About everything in the country had beaten the '99 team, the members of which although they were fine individual players, with without team work and consequently lost almost all of their games. Last year the football aggregation would have probably fared the same way had a good coach not been secured.

When Dr. Park took hold of the team he went to work to gain the confidence of the boys and it is largely due to this feature of his work that he was as successful as he was. The football players of the high school repose great confidence in him and will undoubtedly do much harder work this year for him than they would for any other man. It is not known just how soon Dr. Park will take hold of the team, and that matter will probably be decided at the meeting which is to be held at the High School Tuesday evening.

The management of the team does not wish to incur any debt at the beginning of the season as it was forced to do last year, and hopes to make each game pay for itself. However to guard against possible loss, a guarantee fund will be raised among the students and business men of the city so that if the team does come out behind at the end of the season it will be assured the shortage. It is proposed to raise about $250 or $300 in this manner and about $100 has already been promised. Should sixty people put their names down for $5 each and the amount needed at the end of the year be but $60, then each person will be required to put up but one-fifth the amount he promised. It is thought that in this manner a sufficient amount can be raised to back the team through a successful season.

About fourteen men were out yesterday afternoon for light practice. All of the men who are still in the high school and who played on last year's team will be in the city by Monday and the heavier practice will probably begin at that time. Practice commences at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

FOR A NEW LEADER.

Manitoba Liberals Have Grown Weary of Greenway.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 16.—The Liberals of the province are evidently tired of Thomas Greenway's leadership, and during the past week or two there have been several consultations between the forces opposed to the Roblin government with the object of selecting a new leader. The ablest man in the local Liberal ranks is Isaac Campbell, K. C., popularly known as "the People's Isaac," and he has also the reputation of being scrupulously honest in all his dealings. Campbell would be a strong man. Not only would he carry the Liberals in one solid body, but also the numerous Conservatives, who were so bitterly opposed to Roblin's railway deal. A convention of the Liberals will be called at an early date, and at present the county organizations are being communicated with so that the selection of Greenway's successor may be as near unanimous as possible.

KISSERS WERE ARRESTED.

Chief of Police Promptly Ordered Their Release.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 16.—The Des Moines police department has handed down a humanitarian ruling whereby the thousands of young people who haunt the parks o' nights may kiss and embrace each other without fear of falling into the clutches of the law. The ruling was called out by the arrest of two prominent young people just as they were in the act of partaking of one of those long, clinging kisses which thrive best in matchless Iowas climate. They had become so intoxicated with rapturous aection that they had failed to note the baleful glare of the electric light nearby, or take alarm from the flash of the officer's star.

After they had landed behind the bars, Mayor Hartenbower, Chief of Police Mathis and Deputy Marshal Pat Burns were called to sit in judgment on the case. They held it was no crime to do as these young people had done in public, and they not only ordered the pair released, but warned the officer not to grow thus officious the next time.

IN MICHIGAN.

Three Hundred Cords of Wood Daily For Clergue Industries.

Sault Ste. Marie—What is said to be the largest contract of its kind ever entered into on this continent has just been closed by the Clergue industries at the Sault Ste. Marie. This is the cutting of 300 cords of hardwood daily for a year, in all 100,000 cords. The wood will be maple and birch chiefly, with oak, elm and ash in part. It is half the timber required for the carbonization plants now being started at the Sault by the Clergue companies, and a similar contract will have to be made with others or duplicated with H. R. McLean, who has taken the first one. The wood will be used in the charcoal plants to be erected at the Sault to provide fuel for charcoal iron furnaces that are now under way. This charcoal iron plant will be the largest thing of its kind in the world, having a daily capacity for about 600 tons, or more than the states of Michigan and Wisconsin combined, where most of the Western charcoal is now made. The Clergue interests are now completing a steel making plant with capacity for the pig iron to supply these converters a few months later. Fuel for much of this iron will be charcoal, making a superior iron, and giving the Clergue interests opportunity to get their fuel from their own lands. All this wood will come off the land granted them by the Canadian government, in which are more than 1000 square miles of hardwood frest.

Calumet—The copper country cities will no doubt have several good football teams this fall and active steps are now being taken towards their organization. The Houghton team has selected B. T. Barry as manager. Calumet will have an excellent team. Brown, Goodsole and Cox are university men of high standing. The two ends are fast players, Dooley having a record of ten seconds flat. The line-up will be as follows: Center, Dr. Brown; right guard, Dick Taper; left guard, Jack Taper; right tackle, Jack Ellis; left tackle, Fred Goodsole; right end, Martin Dooley; left end, Charles Sturgen; right half, Otto Kholhass; left half, Fred Sauer; quarter back, Harry Cox; full back, Jesse Meads.

Quinnesec—Robert G. Zuhlke was the victim of a peculiar accident at Quinnesec Junction, on the St. Paul road, where he is telegraph operator. He was on a train at his station and the cars uncoupled, being brought together again with a crash. Zuhlke, who was in the caboose, was thrown against one of the windows, severe cuts to his throat resulting. He lost considerable blood, but, providentially, the jugular veins were not severed, otherwise death would have resulted.

Iron Mountain—Sneak thieves at Iron Mountain this week visited the Iron Mountan house and carried away about $200 worth of goods. The thieves made two visits, each to the same room. Sme time before 10 o'clock they entered the chamber occupied by James Carney and "Sagola Mike" and picked up a watch, a new pair of shoes and a knife. This robbery was discovered about 10:15. During the supper hour the same room was entered and two new suits of clothes, valued at $65, removed.

LITTLE GIRLS DROWN.

One Jumped In to Save Her Sister.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 16.—A distressing fatality occurred near Harlem, Choteau county, when two little girls were drowned in an irrigating dam on Milk river. Agnes and Isabelle Gales, 7 and 8 years old, daughters of Charles Gales, were playing upon the edge of the dam containing five feet of water. One fell in and the other jumped in to help her sister and both were drowned. The parents are distracted.

HEAVY EXPENSE

Connected With the Famous Molineux Case.

New York, Aug. 16.—Edward R. Carroll clerk of the court of general sessions, has sent to Controller Coler a bill for $7829 for printing the volume of testimony taken at the trial of Roland B. Molineux, for the killing of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams. The bills for stenographic work and other expenses connected with the trial far exceeded the amount expected.

ALLIANCE OF LINES

Contemplated Combination of Leyland, Atlantic and American.

The Community of Interests Plan Will Be Applied.

Ten Millions to Be Spent In Improving English Docks.

New York, Aug. 16.—According to the Journal of Commerce, conservative advices received from Liverpool contain the definite statement that an alliance is contemplated between the Leyland, the Atlantic Transport and American lines. The Leyland line, it will be recalled, was recently purchased by J. P. Morgan, as the head of a syndicate.

The fact that the Atlantic Transport and Leyland line were to be operated in harmony has been known for sometime. There have been at various times and in various forms, reports that the American line was also a part of Mr. Morgan's plan, but these reports have been in each instance denied.

So far as the arrangement that is to be in effect among the various companies is concerned, it will, apparently, be merely the application of the community of interest plan of operation to the steamship business. The connection of the various lines will be of a close character and will, it is stated, be fully indicated when the new directors of the Leyland line become known. It may be stated positively, however, that the flags and funnels of the three fleets will remain distinct as at present and the lines will be managed separately as is now the case. At the office of J. P. Morgan Co. no information or confirmation would be given on the proposed alliance.

In an interview with a Journal of Commerce reporter, President Baker of the Atlantic transport line, announced that plans have been completed for providing new docking facilities in London at a cost of $10,000,000. President Baker says in part:

"England is far behind America in its facilities for handling freight, particularly grain. At present the freight is unloaded into barges, then taken to a place where it is weighed, there unloaded, weighed and loaded on another barge for delivery. The wharves are poorly arranged for the storage of merchandise and the warehouses are forty or fifty feet from the edge of the wharf. England's capital is tied up and is being pressed by the Americans and Germans. Owing to the old fashioned methods it costs about 3s per ton to handle the freight after it arrives in London, while it only costs 2s per ton here. The Leyland company and the Atlantic company will carry to London 50,000 tons of freight every week, or about 2,500,000 tons a year, and it will be readily seen that the saving by the use of American methods which we will introduce will be very great. I estimate that by the use of new docks or basins by the Leyland company and the Atlantic company, on the community of interest system, even if only 1s per ton is saved, it will mean an income of 12½ to 15 per cent on a capital of $2,000,000."

PASTOR THAT PILFERS.

Pitiful Tale Follows an Arrest at Boston.

Boston, May 16.—Among those arrested in Boston Wednesday was a Presbyterian clergyman at the head of the church in Burban City, ten miles out of Boston. He was caught stealing a chatelaine bag in a Washington street department store and was arrested on the charge of shoplifting. Arraigned in the municipal court he pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, which he did. The prisoner's identity was carefully concealed by both court and police officials.

"Samuel Johnson, of Lowell," was the name and address he gave at the police station. The arresting officers had learned who the prisoner was, but the pitiful story attached to the case caused them to refrain from making his name public. It is intimated that the man may resign and go to some city or town far away and try to atone for his wrong doing.

Inspector Knox and Detective Appleton were in the store and they saw the strange actions of the man and watched him closely. They saw him pick up and conceal a small chain chatelaine purse and immediately placed him under arrest. Before bonds could be secured for him his conditon was such that the straight jacket had to be resorted to. When the man was assured that his disgrace was known to only a few and would not become public he quieted down to some extent. He said that he was the head of a small church for which he had labored hard on a small salary. His three children and wife required more money than the church could afford to pay him.

THE DAKOTAS.

Fargo Thief Robs His Roommate For Over $150.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—William Martin and Edward Burns, two laborers, have been rooming together at a Front street hotel. Martin woke up early Thursday morning and found his trousers had been removed and all of his savings which amounted to $150, had been stolen. He also discovered that his roommate was missing. Martin hurriedly dressed and calling a policeman made a rush for the Great Northern station and found Burns in the act of boarding the train for the north. Burns was arrested and the money found on his person. In the police court he admitted his guilt and was held to the district court.

Grand Forks—Winnipeg day was celebrated here as it never was before. Three special trains over the Northern Pacific brought over 2500 Winnipeggers, including 200 members of the Ninetieth battalion under command of Lieut. Col. Chambre. The floral parade was an elaborate affair, over a hundred handsomely decorated carriages being in line and the state militia and Canadian troops also participating. The balance of the day was given over to sports and general felicitations.

Lawrence—"Uncle" Jefferson Smith, of Grand Rapids, died last Wednesday night. He was 75 years old and one of the oldest pioneers and most picturesque figures of the county. He had many friends in Minneapolis, among the large Lawrence cluny colony.

Jamestown—The Wells county farmer, who alleged that he was robbed of $1300 in a Bowdon blind pig, has confessed that he had not that amount on his person and that he was not robbed at all. He had a sum of money which was found in his clothing. The authorities at Bowdon are very indignant, as they had arrested one man and had telephoned to Jamestown police to hold two others as witnesses.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Mitchell—Dr. S. M. Smith, assistant state veterinarian, was called to the vicinity of Chamberlain to treat anthrax which had broken out in a bunch of cattle numbering 350. Out of this number between fifty and seventy died from the disease. After working a week in the herd, Dr. Smith is confident he has broken up the disease, as no deaths have been reported since.

Whitewood—Two threshing machines were nearly destroyed this week by some unknown person near this city. They had been left in the field of Charles West, one of them belonging to him. Two bloodhounds were put on the trail of the fellows who did the work and they traced the footprints to a neighboring house, where the deputy sheriff was met by a woman with a shotgun in her hands. The husband was not at home. It is believed that this neighbor did the work. As soon as he returns home an examination of his premises will be made. There has been bad blood between West and this neighbor for some time.

Fort Meade—The commander of the post reports that there is an unusually large number of deserters from the recruits of the Thirteenth cavalry. On Sunday morning there were forty men missing. Capture of a deserter. Some of the deserters have returned and a few have been captured. It is stated that more severe punishment will be given those who desert in the future.

Deadwood—George Strotem, a barkeeper at Lead, has been found guilty of perjury in the famous Coddy robbery case. He is the fourth man to be found guilty of this crime. The court recommended leniency in the sentence and he may get off without a penitentiary term. He has a great many influential friends at Lead. The other three men are D. R. Summers, C. A. Whitford and P. C. Carberry.

Sioux Falls—Conductor Paddy Moran, of the Canton cannonball, is authority for the following snake story. He says: "I hope to die if the railroad yards at Canton did not swarm when I arrived at 6 o'clock were not covered with snakes. The people called them hair snakes and they were so numerous and their actions so lively as to make one dizzy to cast one's eyes upon the ground. They were everywhere and wriggling to beat the band. They were from four to twelve inches in length and the largest were about as large as a match in circumference. Where they came from no one seemed to know, but the common opinion was that they came down in the big rain storm of the night before. The head of one was cut off and placed under a microscope and it looked like that of a fish."

LOST HER BET.

Engine Acts Successfully as a Fool Killer.

New York, Aug. 16.—Alfred Bianco, an employe of the West Shore railroad, wagered a week's pay with his brother, Pietro, that he could stop a swith engine in the yard at Granton, N. J., claiming that the engineer would respond to his signal. The engineer did not recognize the man's authority and signalled him in turn to get out of the way. Bianco still tried to stop the engine and win the wager, waited until too late and was killed.

OIL ON WATER.

Mont Clair Would Exterminate Its Mosquitoes.

New York, Aug. 16.—The board of health of Montclair, N. J., has given the authorities power to purchase oil to begin the work of exterminating mosquitoes. The stagnant pools and swamp land will be attacked first. The plan adopted by Professor Howard, in South Orange, of pouring the oil on the surface of the water, will be adopted. This is the first time in this section that municipal action has been taken on the mosquito problem.

ARE IN WYOMING.

It Is Believed Great Northern Train Robbers Are There.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 16.—James G. Rankin, ex-sheriff of Carbon county, is of the opinion that the Great Northern train robbers are in Wyoming. He believes the robbers are now in hiding at rendezvous south of Rawlins, and the detective is positive the three men were in Cheyenné last Tuesday.

It is known that a number of detectives are at work on the clues in this state and it would not be surprising to hear that the outlaws had been located.

CROWN PRINCE ARRIVES

London, Aug. 16.—Crown Prince Frederick William, of Germany, arrived here today. He was met at the Victoria station by the members of the German embassy and a large crowd, and was given a cordial greeting.

Dyspepics cannot be long lived because to live requires nourishment. Food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

TEXAS OIL NEWS.

Revised Up-to-Date List of Gushers—Cut It Out.

A curious error has been made in numbering the oil gushers on Spindle Top Hill. The Saratoga Oil & Pipeline company has just received a statement which shows that there are 36 gushers to date, coming in in the order as follows:

Lucas, Jan. 10; National (Beatty), March 26; McFadden No. 1, March 29; Gladys No. 1, April 3; Higgins No. 1, April 6; Gladys No. 2, April 8; Heywood No. 1, April 18; Gladys No. 3, April 25; Lone Star and Crescent, May 3; Gladys No. 4, May 8; Heywood No. 2, May 25; McFadden No. 3, May 26; McFadden No. 2, May 27; Heywood No. 3, June 24; Hogg-Swayne, June 26; Higgins No. 2, June 30; Columbia, July 11; National No. 2, July 22; Spindle Top, July 31; Ground Floor, July 31; Gladys No. 5, Aug. 2; Yellow Pine, Aug. 2; Cox-Josey, Aug. 7; Manhattan, Aug. 8; Darragh, Aug. 9; Cattlemen's, Aug. 10.

Of this list the National No. 2, Hogg-Swayne, Manhattan and Cattlemen's are all within a stone's throw of the Saratoga well now drilling. The Saratoga well should have been gushing oil but for some delays in the drilling. But fair progress is reported again and there is no doubt about its being a gusher when the drill gets down. You have still a chance to buy this stock at 30 cents a share (par value $1). Why don't you write or call for the statement to stockholders? A new statement is being prepared now and will be mailed as soon as printed. We will be glad to send you that also. Saratoga Oil & Pipeline Co., 728 Andrus building, Minneapolis, or J. H. Bennett, Agent, 514 Manhattan building.

WHY NOT GET ONE?

Duluth Might Go After One of Steel Corporation Plants.

Now Is Good Time, When Changes Are Being Made.

Company Has Already Evidenced Friendly Feeling For Duluth.

In the shifting of steel plants in the East Duluth might possibly secure a plant if the citizens here had some sort of a hustling organization.

The United States Steel corporation, which has shown itself friendly to Duluth, has decided to remove a number of large manufacturing plants from certain Pennsylvania towns owing to a general hostility to its interests. The company is now looking for new sites.

One of the largest plants to be removed is the De Wees Wood mill, at McKeesport. The work of taking down the plant is now under way.

This plant went into the trust at a valuation of $6,000,000, and in a busy season employs about 1500 men. If such a plant, backed by such a company, could be located in Duluth it would be a great boon to the city.

Another plant for which the steel corporation is seeking a new location is the Chartiers' plant, located at Carnegie, Pa. The pay roll of this plant amounts to $300,000 a year.

Duluth men that have followed the iron manufacturing industry closely say that the Ironton plant at West Duluth could handle the business of either of thees concerns with very little outlay of money.

There is everything here for the manufacture of iron and steel except coal, and it is claimed that the steel companys' big fleet could bring coal to the Ironton plant much cheaper than it now costs the company to transport iron ore to Lake Erie ports and to Pittsburg.

However, the Duluthians do not figure on the freight rates East for manufactured steel. If the plants were for the Western trade Duluth would probably be the logical point of location for the plants now being dismantled in Western Pennsylvania towns.

BASS-THOMPSON.

A Duluth Man Is Married In St. Paul.

This morning's St. Paul Pioneer Press gives the following account of the marriage of C. D. Thompson, of Duluth, and Miss Mary Bass, of St. Paul:

"Miss Mary Genevieve Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burr Bass, and Charles Dixwell Thompson were married last evening at St. Paul's Episcopal church, East Ninth and Olive streets. Dr. John Wright, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Miss Alice Pope attended the bride as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Kalman, Miss Cornelia Saunders, Miss Warner and Miss Marion Simpson. The best man was Lawrence Miller, and the ushers were W. W. Price, John C. Eden, George H. McPherson, C. O. Kalman, John Kellogg, of New York; L. W. Leithead and Otto Hartman, of Duluth, and S. G. Hutchinson, of West Superior. The bridal party and a few intimate friends were entertained at the bride's home on Summit avenue after the church ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left last evening for an Eastern trip. They will reside in Duluth.

Sets Up a Bar.

John Ward has begun a suit in district court against the Eastern Railway company of Minnesota to recover $2000 damages for personal injuries. He says that he was working for the company on the Stony Brook cut-off and was ordered with others to propel a handcar down the line. When they were humping along at a lively rate of speed over the track, which he says was defective, they propelled the handcar into a stake that had been driven in the middle of the track. The abrupt stop of the car dislodged the passengers and Ward fell so hard that he sustained numerous injuries. The company in its answer avails itself of a law that says that damages cannot be collected by employes for injuries received on incomplete and unopen lines of railroad. Baldwin & Baldwin are the attorneys.

BELIEVES IN FAIRIES.

Theosophists must no longer regard the fairy tales they read in their youth as pieces of fiction. The head of the theosophical movement, Col. H. S. Olcott, declares that fairies really exist and that the stories told about them to children are based on actual facts, says the Chicago Chronicle.

Before an audience of 800 persons assembled in Steinway Hall, Chicago, recently, Col. Olcott made the statement that fairies were hovering in the sooty air of Chicago. His declaration was greeted with titters of incredulity, and for a a time his hearers believed that he was joking. Lest they should labor under this misapprehension the lecturer took occasion to repeat his statements and tell them that he meant what he said:

"There are some here who will listen to what I say and go away saying 'the man is insane.' I am not crazy. I have investigated the science of the secret forces of nature for 50 years and naturally I know a little more about them than you do. When I say a thing I mean it."

It was in a casual way that Col. Olcott mentioned the fact that he believed in fairies and fairy tales. He had been lecturing upon mesmerism and hypnotism. During the course of his lecture he referred to a lecture given by him in Dublin. "My subject was the 'Irish Fairies.' I said then, and I wish to repeat it now, that the fairy stories that are told by the Irish peasantry are true. There were fairies and there are fairies today. They hover through the air and have power over various phases of animal and vegetable existence. They influence our lives. They can be called forth by certain influences and made to exert their power in the same way in which they are accredited with doing in the tales that we tell our children. Some of them are good fairies and some of them have bad influences and they can be used for moral purposes.

"There are plenty of men who can call these fairies and make them do their bidding. All the stories that are included in the folklore of the Indians are true or are based on facts. This is my candid belief, and I believe that I am upheld in it by scientific facts. When I first made the statement that I believed in the denizens of the air, one of the London papers said: 'Col. Olcott must be a very courageous man to express his belief in fairies at this period of civilization.' Well, I am a courageous man, and I assert solemnly that I believe in fairies."

MUST GO TO COURT

Board of Public Works Confirms Michigan Street Assessment.

Objecting Owners Must Now Appeal to District Court.

Against Paying For Intersections and Manner of Assessing.

The board of public works has confirmed the Michigan street paving assessment, notwithstanding the protests filed by about twenty-four property owners.

The protests are made with a view to having the city pay for the paving of avenue intersections. The fight will be interesting, for the same people that are leading the fight against this Michigan street street assessment own property fronting on Superior street, and the supposition is that the same fight will be made on the Superior street assessment when that comes up.

In view of a recent supreme court decision in a Minneapolis case, attorneys say that the Michigan street objectors have little grounds on which to base their contention that the city should pay for the paving for intersections.

The property owners are asked to pay $20,304 for the paving from Lake avenue to Elghth avenue west, while the city pays $6604 for the paving in front of railroad property. This class of property cannot be assessed for local improvements under the gross earnings tax law, so that the city must necessarily pay it.

In making the objection to the assessment the property owners claim that the board of public works fixed a proportionate assessment at so much per front foot, without going into the question of benefits or comparison of values.

The members of the board claim that the assessment was made with all regularity and deny the charges of the objectors.

If the property owners back up their threats to fight the matter out in the district courts, an appeal to have the assessment set aside must be filed within thirty days.

Painful Accident.

William Stronic, the chief engineer of the Hubbard & Vincent mill will lose the use of his arm for some time from an accident which happened yesterday. There was a hitch in the working of some chains and Stronic started to adjust them when his arm was caught in the slap chains, a compound fracture in the forearm resulting. The injured member was operated upon at St. Mary's hospital, where this morning he was resting comfortably, and the danger of amputation being necessary is but slight. Stronic has been in the employ of Hubbard & Vincent for over ten years, is married and lives in the West End.

New Typesetting Machine.

A new Mergenthaler typesetting machine was received by The Herald yesterday afternoon, making the seventh in operation in the building when it is in running order. On account of its size it was nefcessary to raise it to the third story and get it into the building through a window. While it stood on the pavement, the machine attracted a large crowd and during the time it was being raised street car traffic in front of The Herald office was blocked and the street was crowded. About an hour was required to get the machine into the building. The Duluth Van company did the job.

LAWN TENNIS.

Interesting Play at the Casino Courts at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 16.—It was decidedly hot weather when the tennis players began to come out on the Casino courts today for the third round in the national tournament. The narrowing circle of players has left nearly all the experts to do battle on these closing days, and Ware, Larned, Clothier and Hobart were on the lists in the third round today, while Dwight Davis and Beals Wright were to play the final match in the second round, which came over from yesterday. The bright sunshine and the attractive list of players early. Davis and Wright occupied the championship court. This match took on additonal interest because of the probability that the winner would be one of the men in the final event. The final of the inter-scholastic matches was scheduled for today. Irving C. Wright, of Harvard, scheduled to meet E. P. Larned, of Princeton.

WHY SHE QUIT THE 'PHONE.

The young woman employed as a stenographer had a beau named Will, to whom she talked some twenty-five times a day, says the Chicago Tribune. The lawyer who labored under the impression that he was paying for the stenographer's time was not pleased that Maggie should drop her work and rush frantically to the telephone every time the bell rang, and stand there for fifteen or twenty minutes debating whether or hot Will ought to have told Clara that secret which he knew well enough was none of Clara's business. One day the lawyer left his office and, going to another telephone in the building, called up his own office. Of course Maggie rushed frantically to the 'phone and answered.

"Hello," said the lawyer in a muffled voice. "This is a fireman testing the wire. Kindly stand one foot in front of the receiver and say 'hello.'"

Maggie obeyed.

"Thank you. Now stand two feet on one side and say hello."

Maggie compiled.

"Thank you. Now stand two feet on the other side and say 'hello.'" It was done.

"Thank you. Now stand on your head and say hello."

Maggie seems to be somewhat backward in answering the telephone now.

Milwaukee Lodge Likely to Decide to Quit the Mills.

Milwaukee, Aug. 16.—Michael Tighe, representing President Shaffer, of the Amalgamated association, had not reached Milwaukee up to 1 o'clock this afternoon, but is expected some time today.

Michael Kelly returned at noon from Pittsburg, where he conferred with President Shaffer relative to the Bay View situation, and will make his report to the lodge as soon as a meeting is called. It is expected that a meeting of the local lodge will be held tonight, but President Redfern of the lodge prefers to wait until Sunday, when a full attendance can be had. From talks with several of the local leaders today, it would not be surprising if the Bay View men, at the meeting at which Mr. Tighe will address, will decide to strike, the sentiment in that direction having changed considerably since Sunday. The action of the Joliet lodge, too, it is believed, will have a strong influence on themen.

Michael Tighe reached Milwaukee at 1:45 p. m. and went immediately to a hotel for dinner. Mr. Tighe says he will not know when a meeting of the Bay View lodge will be held until after a conference with the officials of that lodge. He expects to meet them in the course of the afternoon. No action will be taken by the mill workers until a meeting is held.

WHEAT IS STRONGER

It Has a Lively Bulge In the Final Hour.

Opened Fairly Strong Under Unexpectedly Favorable Cables.

Exports For Week Largest on Record---Clearances Decrease.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 16.—The wheat market opened fairly steady this morning and advanced a little after the opening on the strength of the Liverpool market which was only partially responsive to the decline in American markets yesterday. There was heavy liquidation on the part of longs, however, and the market declined up to shortly after noon when it took on a sudden spurt and closed at a good advance. Snow's estimate on the Orange Judd Farmer of 750,000,000 bus for the wheat crop was discouraging to the bulls in the early morning. News from the French crop was again bullish indicating larger requirements for that country. There was a large falling off in the clearances which aggregated only 530,000 bus. Bradstreet's report of exports for the week from this country showed a total of 9,069,000 bus, the largest on record. Last week's total, also a record-breaker was 8,842,000, while last year's was 3,114,000.

Foreign markets were all weaker. Liverpool closed at a loss of ½@¾d. London was off ½@1-2d and Berlin, Buda Pesth and Antwerp all closed lower. It was a holiday in the French market.

Primary receipts aggregated 368,000 bus, last year 938,000. Shipments 422,000, last year 719,000. Argentine shipments for the week were 408,000 bus, against 824,000 last year.

Stocks of wheat at Duluth are estimated to decrease 375,000 bus. This will leave less than 1,000,000 bus.

Corn was strong and added to the strength of wheat. Primary receipts were 333,000 bus, last year 251,000. Shipments 345,000, last year 561,000. Clearances were 93,000 bus. Argentine shipments aggregated 1,800,000 bus, against 952,000 last year. Bradstreet's reports of exports from this country for this week showed a total of 598,800 bus, against 990,000 last week and 3,401,000 last year.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 324 cars against 192 last week and 195 last year. Chicago receipts, 118 cars, 20 of contract grade.

There was active trading in futures on the Duluth board throughout the session. September wheat opened unchanged at 70½c, sold at 70⅝c at 9:33, reacted to 70½c at 9:34, advanced to 70⅞c at 9:50, declined to 70⅛c at 10, recovered to 70½c at 10:50 and sold down to 70¼c at 11:24. From that point the rise began and it sold up to 71⅛c at 12:40 and closed at 71¼c. This was an advance of ¾c. Chicago advanced ¾c and Minneapolis ⅝-¾c.

Cash offerings were easy and aggregated about 40,000 bus. All prices quoted now are for new wheat and ½c over September was the price quoted for cash wheat.

Trading in flax futures was very active today and aggregated about 100,000 bus. October declined 1½c, to arrive was 3c up and cash 2c up. Corn advanced 1½c, oats ⅞c and rye ½c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 74¼c; to arrive, 74¼c; September, 72¼c. No. 1 northern, cash, 71¾c; to arrive, 71¾c; new, 71¼c; September, 71¼c; October, 71½c; August, 71½c; December, 72¾c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opened Higher and Then Dropped.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—September wheat opened ¼@⅜c higher at 71⅝@71½c. Shorts covered on the steady cables. Scattered liquidation during the first hour, however, caused a drop to 70½c, where the market steadied for a time. Local receipts were 118 cars, 20 of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 324 cars against 192 last week and 195 a year ago.

Later when corn developed strength, wheat followed, September advanced to 72c, and closed firm, ⅝c over yesterday, at 71⅞c.

There was a small trade in corn. September opened ¼@⅜c higher at 57¾@57⅞c on firm cables, and dropped back to 57⅝c on commission house selling. A recovery to 58c followed on covering by shorts. Receipts were 133 cars.

September corn later rose to 59c on active professional buying caused by reports of a cash business. The close was strong at that figure 1½c over the previous close.

Oats were quiet, but fairly steady, September opening ⅛@¼c higher at 35⅝@35¾c in sympathy with other grains. There was scarcely any pressure to sell and prices held steady for some time. Receipts were 348 cars.

Provisions, dull. During the first hour there was no quotations of September options, and a scant half dozen of January. January pork opened 2½c higher at $15.32½, touched $15.37½ and then reacted to the opening price. January lard opened a shade up at $8.82½ and January ribs unchanged at $7.90.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

The Rock Island railway crop report shows curtailment in estimates on corn yield in Iowa and Illinois. Both are reduced to 60 per cent against 75 per cent of the average yield on Aug. 1. These figures are better than the government showed, however. Rains have improved the general condition of hay and pasturage, but report shows it is getting to a point where rain is again needed. The corn yield on lines in Missouri is unchanged from the last report. Estimated 50 per cent of crop until within 30 miles of Missouri river, there 33 per cent. Kansas corn yield also unchanged at 25 per cent of crop. Oats yield averaging small. Wheat yield large, and quality excellent.

Chicago morning gossip: Wheat—Cables are only partially responsive to our decline of yesterday. The weather throughout the Northwest is most favorable. There is no doubt that the shipments from this country this week of flour and wheat will be very large. Some estimate it is high as 9,500,000 bus, which will be a record-breaker. In the face of all this there was reported a good demand at the seaboard yesterday, as high as 52 loads being taken. Liquidation of long wheat toward the close yesterday was on a large scale, more especially by one or two of our prominent locals. The Northwest were reported heavy sellers on the theory that their receipts would show a material increase and that the flour demand was slack. These declines, however, have of late brought in Europe as a very large buyer and it may be that they will continue to do so for the present as they feel that wheat is considerably cheaper than corn at the present time.

Corn—A surprising strong cable from Liverpool came this morning on corn in the face of a decline in our market. On the break yesterday a couple of the larger locals who have been pronounced bullish, reinstated a good portion of their lines which they sold immediately after the government report. Plenty of news here relative to the curtailment of the usage of coarse grains in consequence of the higher prices.

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Wheat—Liverpool closed ⅛d lower for wheat. Our market opened weak under continued liquidation occasioned by favorable weather in the Northwest and lower cables and sold down ¾c per bus from last night's close. Then on covering by shorts and influenced by enormous exports for the week, over 9,000,000 bus in wheat and flour, the market firmed up and closed ⅝c higher than last night's close. The strength in corn was also an influence in the advance.

Corn—Cables closed unchanged for corn which was rather surprising in the face of continued weakness. Reports from the country indicate continued damage east of the Mississippi river and that the improvement is more apparent than real west of the river. The general opinion seems to be that the next government report will be even lower than the last and that under most favorable conditions we cannot raise 1,100,000 bus of corn this year. Cash demand is improving, especially from New England and we are once more very close to an export basis. We believe corn should be bought on all soft spots.

Oats opened weak and lower in sympathy with corn but rallied with corn and closed at the highest point of the day. We believe oats are a good purchase on all soft spots.

Provisions dragged early in the day during the liquidation in wheat but were at no time weak. Later, on reports of considerable improvement in the cash market for both meats and lard, some outside buying and little buying of ribs by the large holders started an advance that held well to the close. Continued and increasing relative strength of the nearer options is noticeable. Hogs tomorrow, 16,000.

BANKRUPTCY

George H. Phillips & Company Pass Into Hands of Receiver.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—On the petition of three creditors of George H. Phillips' company, a petition in bankruptcy has been filed for the company in the United States district court. George H. Phillips and two other directors of the company filed their consent that the petition be allowed, and the Chicago Title and Trust company has been appointed temporary receiver.

The filing of the petition and the appointment of the receiver will enable the company to continue in business. One of the directors, W. K. Sackett, will be appointed by the receiver to manage the business, and the affairs of the company will proceed under the new management.

The three creditors who signed the petition are J. A. Greenlee, H. F. Babbitt and W. R. Hutchins. The claims of these gentlemen range from $5000 to $25,000. Meanwhile the statement is nearly completed and the exact condition of the companys finances will be known.

Since the middle of July, when the tangled condition of the books of the company was discovered, every effort has been made to straighten out its affairs. A corps of expert accountants has overhauled the books, and has, in some degree, brought order out of chaos. It is now estimated that the assets of the company will aggregate $250,000 and the liabilities will not exceed $200,000.

The Record-Herald says: "Mr. Phillips, when seen last night, made an effort to appear composed, but it was evident he deeply felt the final step, in the disentanglement of his affairs, which had been forced upon him through the action of three of his company's creditors. By his own statement the company is insolvent. The liabilities he placed at about $200,000, with assets, taken at their face value, amounting to $225,000 or $250,000. Of this he believes $100,000 is in worthless accounts, so that the company will fall approximately short $100,000 in the settlement. This, Mr. Phillips declares, he will make up to the creditors to the last cent. He says he has lost or given up all of his money and real estate, but that, accepting the offers of financial assistance, he will resume business individually. Voluntarily he proposes to give, for the benefit of the creditors, every dollar of profit he makes in his transactions over and above $2500 a year, which he will keep for himself and family."

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Decision at Joliet Was Drag on United States Steel.

Final Dealings Were Lifeless With No Rallying Tendency.

Western Stocks Reach Low Level and Close Was Weak.

New York, Aug. 16.—Prices at the opening showed changes either way with the western stocks mainly lower. St. Paul led this division with a decline of a point. These declines were partially offset by slight advances in the Southern, Southwestern and coal stocks. United States Steel stocks opened under heavy pressure, the common declining a point to 43½ with a block of 6500 shares changing hands at 43¾. The preferred was less active and yielded only ½ per cent.

Stocks which were higher at the outset were influenced by the heaviness elsewhere and declined, losses reaching a point in Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Manhattan. The leading grain carrying roads continued to give way with St. Paul, Atchison and Union Pacific most affected. Sugar was very feverish and after selling a point above last night, reacted to nearly as much below. Republic Iron & Steel issues were 1@1½ higher on rumors that the company was to be absorbed by the United States Steel corporation. The decision of the Joliet steel workers to join the strike continued to act as a drag on the United States Steel stocks, but they did not yield below opening prices. Large buying orders were executive in the anthracite and bituminous coal road stocks and they rallied strongly with Erie, Ontario & Western, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio prominent. The movement checked the selling elsewhere, but recoveries were only fractional aside from St. Paul, which got back to 165. The United States Steel stocks did not share in the rally and were quiet at the low point. General Electric advanced 3½. Bonds were quiet and irregular.

The active stocks failed to hold the noon rally and became dull and lower on professional selling. Wheeling & Lake Erie and St. Louis & San Francisco issues were unusually active and advanced 1½ to 3 points. People's Gas was marked up to 112 toward 1 o'clock without effect elsewhere. United States Steel stocks were 1 to ¼ above the lowest. Railroad stocks were somewhat neglected and lower, owing to a revival of active operations in some of the specialties. Amalgamated Copper was in active demand and moved up 2½. Anaconda Mining gained a point in sympathy, while People's Gas extended its rise to 113. The United States Steel stocks were rather inactive and did not move much either way.

Room traders sold the coalers and specialties which had been advanced earlier, and the Western stocks reached a lower level. U. S. Steel pfd fell off to 92¾, but the common was steadye at 43½. The final dealings were almost lifeless, but there was no rallying tendency and the closing was weak.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf gossip to Edwards, Wood & Co.—The bullish sentiment endeavored to prove again that the continued strength of the market was sufficient evidence that the present movement is based on healthy conditions and that it has hardly more than begun to manifest itself. On the other hand it was asserted with equal confidence that the rise was due to the bidding up of stocks by the large pools and the consequent covering of shorts particularly by the eWstern operators. The opinion is still held in well informed circles that the recent bidding up to liquidate their holdings before the material decrease begins to appear in the earnings of the railroads more and especially the grangers. As large numbers of cattle were hurried to the market last month because of the drouth and as wheat figured to a considerable extent in the traffic of the granger roads it is certain that the earnings of these roads will be large. While there may not be material decreases in the earnings for August it is confidently expected by those who have looked into the matter carefully that in September there will be a decided falling off and that next month the earnings will be anything but favorable, compared with those of the corresponding period of last year. Attention is being called to the fact that popular opinion forms a pretty accurate theory of conditions which have a bearing on these stocks. The present prices of most stocks are considerably below the higher records made earlier in the year, and although the public suffered to some extent from the panic in May, the desire for speculation has by no means decreased and it is argued that if the public believes in higher prices and that the market will experience a general advance, there would be a flood of buying orders in the commission houses. No such flood has been reported as yet, but on the contrary the commission houses are complaining of the absence of such orders and have about decided it is said that it will be some time before the public takes much interest in the market again. The movement in Southern Pacific was said to be only the beginning of what is said to be done in that stock. The earnings continue to be vary large and the company will not be adversely affected by reason of the recent heat and drouht. The opinion that a dividend will be declared not later than early next year is still spoken with confidence by those who should know.

New York to B. E. Baker—The Daily Stockholder says: As a result of increased activity the market is broader but is still professional. The short interest rather than the general outlook is the basis of improvement. Advances are chiefly in stocks that the temporarily oversold, owing to their unfavorable prospects while those which are not affected by the crop damage and whose earnings will continue to increase have been quite neglected.

* * *

Ridgely to A. R. Jones & Co.—For three days stocks have been climbing. These Southern stocks are a good thing. Big men say that conditions are shaping for a good bull market later on.

* * *

Town Topics to B. E. Baker—The market is expected to have some reaction today. Sentiment is bullish and commission houses are advising purchases on all recessions. There are no stocks pressing for sale at the higher prices and London continue to buy. The return of many of the larger operators from their summer vacation will result in greater activity.

Fleet to Edwards, Wood & Co.—Tomorrow's bank statement should be an especially good one. Principal known movements of money have been in favor of banks during the last few days.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Aug. 16.—Cotton opened quiet, 3 to 4 points higher on covering and absence of sellers. Bullish Liverpool cables, storm damage news from Alabama and drouth complaints from a larger area in Central Texas had the effect of checking the usual selling for a turn around 7:30 for October and 7.35 for January and greatly disturbed the shorts.

NEWS OF THE LAKES

Judgment For Slander Makes Steamboat Owner a Bankrupt.

Devils Island Light Has Been Replaced By a Steel Tower.

Grain Rates Normal But Very Little Doing.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—As the result of a judgment for $2000 in a suit for slander brought by Miss Christine McIntosh, of this city, against W. J. Brown, who has been operating the steamer Pittsburg on the run between Detroit, Buffalo, Georgian bay and Toledo, the latter has been compelled to file a petition in bankruptcy in this city. Other debts were mentioned in the plea, but the principal one was the judgment. In the suit brought by Miss McIntosh against Brown for slander she alleged that the latter made insulting remarks about her while she was a passenger on the steamer last summer.

DEVIL'S ISLAND LIGHT.

The hydrographic office has issued the following notice: On or about Aug. 15, 1901, a light of the third order, flashing alternately red and white, interval between flashes ten seconds, will be established in the structure recently erected at a point 200 feet north and 325 feet west of the present wooden skeleton tower, on the northern end of Devils island. The focal plane of the light will be 100 feet above mean lake level, and the light should be seen about sixteen and a half (nineteen) miles in clear weather. The structure is a brown cylindrical steel tower, surmounted by a cylindrical watchroom of larger diameter and a black lantern. The keeper's dwelling is about 350 feet to the southeastward and the fog signal house about 130 feet to the northward of the tower. Approx. position: Lat. 47 degrees 01 minutes 46 seconds N., longitude 90 degrees 43 minutes 43 seconds W. A PROSPECTIVE FLEET ABSORBED.

Contracts for the construction of five steamers for the National Transportation company have been formally closed with the American Shipbuilding company. As all the berths in the trust yards for early delivery are taken, it was arranged to transfer to the new company the three steamers that had been intended for the Mutual Transportation company, which was organized by William E. Fitzgerald, just prior to his death. One of them will be lengthened twenty-four feet making her a 5200-ton boat, and two will remain 4800 tons capacity. The other two will be 5500 tons and 6200 tons. This makes twenty-three vessels under contract at the consolidated lake yards.

WHY IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST ?

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY— It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN— It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE— As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP— By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

Presid't Minnehaha Club Minneapolis, Minn.

No member of this popular club is held in higher esteem than its honored president. She is an untiring worker and foremost in every movement that has for its object the advancement of the club's interest.

The Minnehaha is one of the largest women's clubs in Minneapolis, and its success is largely due to Miss Briggs' splendid executive ability, popularity and tact. An attack of Eczema greatly interfered at one time with her duties in connection with the club; her face and hands were terribly inflamed and swollen, while the itching and burning was simply terrific. She applied lotions, salves, washes and powders without number, but received very little relief from any of these, and the disease threatened to permanently ruin her skin, but she found a cure, as her letter shows. S. S. S., the great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the only remedy that reaches and eliminates from the blood the poisonous acids that cause blackheads and blotches, eczema, tetter and all kindred diseases. The protracted use of any external treatment interferes with the free action of the skin, and this delicate covering becomes rough and discolored, bumpy, hard and red, the means employed for relief being much more dangerous and damaging than the disease.

I suffered with Eczema on the hands and face for over a year. It was not only annoying and painful, but very unsightly, and I disliked to go out in the street. I tried at least a dozen soaps and salves and became very much discouraged until I read in the papers of the cures performed through the use of S. S. S. I had little faith in it at first, but determined to give it a month's fair trial, at least. I am pleased to state that I soon noticed a slight improvement; sufficient to decide me to keep it up. After the use of six bottles my skin was as soft and smooth as an infant's. This was a year ago and I have never had any trouble since.

MISS GENEVA BRIGGS,
216 S. Seventh St. Minneapolis, Minn.

S. S. S. purifies and enriches the blood and cleanses the circulation of all poisonous matter, and when every artery and vein in the body is filled with new, fresh blood, the skin must rally and respond to the demands made upon it by nature, and thus S. S. S., through its action upon the blood, cures the most aggravated skin diseases. A fair complexion and soft, velvety skin is within the reach of all who will give S. S. S. a trial.

We will gladly mail you a book on Blood and Skin Diseases, and should you desire any medical advice or special information about your case, write us; it will cost you nothing. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

PLANNED MURDER

Farmer Intended to Kill Sheriff and Two Daughters.

The Girls Suspected the Plot and They Fled.

Then He Fired a Shot Into His Own Head.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Aug. 16.—Thomas Dean, a farmer, of Mercer county, committed suicide Tuesday afternoon, shooting himself in the head with a revolver. The affairs that led up to the suicide are sensational. For some years Dean and his wife have been living apart, she having left him and taken up her abode two miles away. Dean's daughters, both of age, he has kept with him, and he allowed no one to keep company with them nor to visit them at the house.

Saturday he knocked the eldest, Mary, down because he saw, or fancied he say, her the night previous in the company of a young man of the neighborhood. A warrant charging assault was sworn out against him, and Sheriff Thinn went to Dean's house to serve it. After parleying with the sheriff for some time, Dean asked the officer to step in and take dinner with him. The invitation was declined, and Dean then asked permission to go in and change his clothes. This was granted, the sheriff keeping guard at the door.

On entering the house Dean called to his daughters, but neither responded. Pulling a revolver from his pocket he placed the muzzle to his head and fired, dying instantly.

From remarks he made when he first learned of the warrant having been sworn out, it is thought that he intended to get the sheriff to sit down at the dinner table with himself and his daughters, then to kill the whole party, but the daughters, fearing that he would do this, fled from the house by a back door while he was talking with the officer.

Several years ago Dean killed his wife's brother, George Bartleman, and for this served a term in the penitentiary. On his release his wife refused longer to live with him. The wife and daughters have always had the respect of the entire neighborhood, while he has been shunned and has led practically the life of a recluse.

PANIC

Among Women When a Bull Fighter Was Trampled.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 16.—The feature of the Owensboro fair was a bull fight, and "Neromus," the bull wrestler, was badly worsted having his clothes torn almost off him by the infuriated animal. The bull threw him twice and trampled over him. A negro who went to aid "Neromus" was badly gored. There was a panic in the grand stand among the women, who thought the bull wrestler had been killed.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16.—Jean Pierre Dontle Denarse, who died near St. Louis recently, had little confidence in language as a vehicle for making known his wishes in respect to the disposition of his property, and with his will which was filed in Belleville for probate attached a map showing exactly how he wanted his property divided among his heirs. He wished to avoid any contest.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflammed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STUDIES IN THE OLD TESTAMENT

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSION

International Sunday School Lesson For August 18, 1901.

Genesis 18:20-33: "And the Lord said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know. And the men turned from thence, and went toward Sodom; but Abraham stood yet before the Lord. And Abraham drew near, and said, Wilt thou consume the righteous with the wicked? Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city, wilt thou consume and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein? That be far from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked, that so the righteous should be as the wicked; that be far from thee: shall not the judge of all the earth do right? And the Lord said, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sake. And Abraham answered and said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, which am but dust and ashes: peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou destroy all the city for lack of five. And he said, I will not destroy it if I find there forty and five. And he spake unto him yet again, and said, Peradventure there shall be forty found there. And he said, I will not do it for the forty's sake. And he said, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there. And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said I will not destroy it for the twenty's sake. And he said, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: peradventure ten shall be found there. And he said I will not destroy it for the ten's sake. And the Lord went his way, as soon as he had left communing with Abrahams: and Abraham returned unto his place."

Golden Text: "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." James 5:16.

INTRODUCTORY.

Abraham did not lose his interest in his nephew Lot because of their separation and the attachment of the young man to the wicked associations of the cities of the plain. He continued to think of him as the son of his dead brother, and to cherish toward him the feelings of kinship, and that fraternal regard which has already been noted as a characteristic of Abraham's attitude toward him. The moment Abraham heard that Lot was in trouble he was ready with all his men to hasten to the rescue. The fourteenth chapter of Genesis contains a carefully preserved account of one such act of generosity. Some think that this is a narrative written by a secretary of the king of Elam and copied by the composer of Genesis. It is certain that the chapter contains some words so out of date at the time Genesis was written that they had to be explained for the benefit of the first readers of the book. Before the days of Abraham's separation from Lot the king of Elam had made a great conquest in the region of the Jordan valley, and a number of kings residing there became his vassals. They served him for thirteen years and then rebelled; whereupon Chedorlaomer came with his allies to punish the rebels. He swept the country east of the Jordan clean of every possible enemy; then made a circuit of the region toward the Sinaitic peninsula; after which he attacked the cities of the plain and overthrew their rulers in a battle in a valley that was full of slime pits. He looted the city of Sodom and carried away the king and the leading inhabitants, among whom was Lot. The tidings of war were soon borne to Abraham, who was then encamped near the ancient site of Hebron. He lost not a moment's time, but gathered him men together, and, having called to his assistance his confederates of the clan Eshcol, started in hot pursuit upon the trail of the rapidly vanishing army of Chedorlaomer. He overtook it by night while it was encamped a little to the north of Damascus. The army was utterly surprised by the sudden attack, and so put to confusion that Abraham was able with his very small body of men to recover the booty they had taken and the men whom they held as prisoners. With these, Lot among them, he returned southward, and was met with a heavenly benediction by that strange character—Melchizedek—whose story is treated in the Bible as a romance of faith. He had rescued his nephew, and that was all the reward Abraham would have for himself. What a splendid example he thus set for a large number of people who insist on having some reward for every act of generosity! How much better to consider the good deed its own reward! The employer says that he would do better by his employe but the employe would not appreciate it: and the employe says the same thing about his employer. And so things continue to the dissatisfaction of both, because neither is ready to do the right thing by the other for the sheer joy of doing right. Both are looking for the petty bauble of childhood to reward them for a deed of maturity.

VISITORS FROM AFAR.

Hospitality was one of the traits of the life of the orient. Abraham was a powerful chief in his day, and around his tent by the oaks of Mamre there was gathered a mighty company. At the time of the present lesson, no less than from fifteen hundred to two thousand people belonged to his Arab band. This estimate is based on the fact that he had 318 fighting men in his own household whom he could lead away from his droves to so great a distance as Damascus. But, notwithstanding the presence of such a retinue of servants, when three visitors approached the door of his tent where he sat at noontide, Abraham himself arose and did all the courtesies of entertaining them. He even stood by and waited upon them while they ate.

These visitors proved to be messengers of God to him. He knew this not at the first. From this incident sprang the New Testament word, "Let us not be forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." The identity of the visitors was made known in their reproof of Sarah's unbelief and in the promise to return at the proper season and assure the fulfillment of the old covenant that to Abraham should be born an heir. From this incident dates the faith of Sarah. The reference to this matter in the Epistle to the Hebrews seems to warrant the assumption that the reason for the long delay in the fulfillment of the promise of an heir was Sarah's unbelief, but that, as soon as that impediment was removed, the heir was given.

God's revelations of Himself have always come through mediums with which the people were acquainted. To Abraham he took the form of a man. The narrative seems to indicate that one of the persons in that trio of guests was a theophany of God Himself, while the other two were angelic messengers.

JUDGMENT AWAITING SODOM.

The visitors were about to journey to Sodom to visit upon the inhabitants the wages of their sins. No doubt the purpose of the inspired writer in recording this story was to impress upon the mind of his people the terrible lesson that the wages of sin is death. "God is love" is but one-half the truth of the character of God. He is also as truly a consuming fire. These two aspects of his character are nowhere better illustrated than in his dealings with Abraham and with the people of Sodom; to the one he was the God of love, who made and kept his covenants, while to the other he was the God of judgment to be feared by every evildoer of them. The one sought to obey the word of God, while the other sought those things which were contrary to the demands which God makes upon character. Water is a minister of life so long as we keep in the right attitude toward it, but becomes the means of destruction when we expose ourselves to its fury. Fire is a source of warmth and comfort so long as we are in the proper relation to it, but becomes the instrument of our sure destruction as soon as we use it improperly. So God is the loving Father of every man who seeks to use Him and all His gifts for right ends, but he is the stern judge of all who wickedly disobey His will. Yet He always acts according to justice and never in haste. He said to Abraham, I will go and see if this resort of the wickedness of Sodom is true. How childish such language sounds in the ears of the present day! One exclaims that God knows all things as they occur and does not need to send a committee of investigation to ascertain conditions. True, but this story belongs to the period of the early childhood of the race when men thought of God in terms of a man, and God revealed himself in ways that could be understood.

The Lord was about to turn toward Sodom when he said that Abraham was such a person that he certainly ought to know about the disaster so soon to befall his neighboring cities. Amos said many centuries after this occurrence, "The Lord will do nothing, but He reveals His secrets to His servants the prophets." It was this motive of confidential regard for his friend Abraham which caused the Lord to turn and reveal to him his plans. Abraham, according to God's own plans, was to become a great and mighty nation, and he ought to be kept informed about any such matter as this which affected so many people so nearly associated with the interests of his descendants. God knew the sort of man Abraham was, that he would lead his children after him in the way of the Lord; but such a judgment as this one would prove of great disciplinary value in the training of those children. It did become an example, as is testified by Peter in the passage where he says that God "made them an example unto those that should live ungodly;" Jude also says that they are "set forth as an example, suffering the punishment of eternal fire;" and every one will at once recall the use Jesus made of the story.

IMPORTUNATE PRAYER.

Abraham had walked out from his tent to speed his guests on their way, little dreaming of their destination and purpose, when he beheld two of them go on their way while the third one tarried to hold private conversation with him. It was the Lord who made known His purpose to destroy the cities. Whereupon Abraham began that importunate pleading for the doomed cities which has come down to us as our great illustration of persistence in prayer to God. Not if there were fifty or forty-five or forty or thirty or twenty or even ten righteous people to be found therein would the Lord rain destruction upon the city. Beginning with timidity, Abraham grew bolder as the Lord promised to grant each request he made, until at last he asked for that which he dared not even suggest at the first.

Abraham had once fought for these people for whom he was praying, and, no doubt, he was ready to fight for them again if demand should arise. Prayer avails little if it is not for something in which we have a vital and intelligent interest. Prayers by the wholesale have little value. But a repetition for the salvation of some one for whose interest we are as ready to labor as to pray means much at the throne of God, according to the suggestion of this incident.

We have no account to the effect that Lot made a single petition for the salvation of his city. He did make one request in connection with the event, but it was a selfish one. He asked that, instead of being compelled to go to the mountains for safety, he might enter into the little city of Zoar. It was a prayer for comfort. The Lord granted it, but it stands to the discredit of a man who ought, at such a time, to have been thinking of nobler things than a soft couch and a plentifully stocked larder.

The destruction of the cities came as the Lord had said it would come for there were not ten righteous people among them. The conduct of the inhabitants toward the two messengers of the Lord who went to do his bidding was revolting in the extreme. The sin of Lot himself is surprising only to one who does not consider the corrupting influence of wilful association with vice. He had given up tent life altogether, and had become one of the fixed residents of the city. He had given his daughters in marriage to the men of the land, and in many ways had become one of them, although trying to keep up the traditions of his uncle on questions of outward morals.

There is no real foundation for the theory that the origin of the Dead sea and of the Jordan valley was this overthrow of the cities of the plain. The deep gorge, running from the city of Antioch to the southern end of the Gulf of Akaba is due to a tremendous "fault" in the crust of the earth. Very little, if any, of the Dead sea itself is due to the destruction of these cities. Professor G. Frederick Wright, of Oberlin, has an article in the April, 1901, number of the Bibliotheca Sacra in which he discusses this whole question. As to the method of the destruction of the cities he says, (quoting from the Literary Digest) "The upper Cretaceous strata, which in the great Jordan fault, have been thrown down below the level of the Dead sea, contain much bituminous limestone, such as naturally gives rise to pools of petroleum and inflammable gas. Familiarity with the gas and oil regions of the United States and a recent visit to the still more remarkable oil fields at Baku, on the Caspian sea, make the description of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah seem exceedingly natural and lifelike. The region of the Dead sea is a somewhat similar gas and oil field, over a deep fissure in the earth leading far down toward its central fires. The description of Sodom and Gomorrah reals almost exactly like that of some of the scenes known to have accompanied the burning of various petroleum wells and of the stores of inflammable substances surrounding them."

BOWERS REYNOLDS PATRICK.

MOSQUITO

Will Be an Issue In the New Jersey Campaign.

New York, Aug. 16.—An entirely new issue has cropped up in New Jersey politics. It is believed by many that the real issue in the campaign about to open will be the much-discussed mosquito. For years public opinion has been about equally divided on this absorbing question.

The increase in the population of mosquitos has been so great of late that they cannot any longer be ignored. Shrewd politicians, who read the signs of the times, believe that one of the other party will be forced to take definite grounds on the subject. A mosquito plank of some sort will possibly be incorporated in the party platforms.

There has already been a great deal of work done by private enterprises toward the extermination of mosquitos. The state some time ago established a bureau for carrying on experiments. The time is now ripe to take up the question on a large scale.

TEACHER IS ARMED.

Keeps a Pistol Strapped to His Side.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 16.—State Superintendent of Schools McChesney, in a letter from Pike county, was asked if it is not unlawful and calculated to injure the school and intimidate the children for the teacher to carry a forty-four-caliber pistol on his person in the school room and have a man with a rifle to stand guard on the outside?

The letter goes on to say that a teacher in a certain district in that county does go armed in his school each day and a friend accompanies him and stands guard on the outside with a rifle while the lessons are being said. The writer thinks the circumstances warrant the removal of the teacher, but McChesney will likely rule that the matter is not within his jurisdiction.

STOLE FATHER'S MONEY

And Then Eloped With His Best Girl.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 16.—Peter McCarty, aged 16, of Anderson, it is charged, stole $112 from his father and then came to Muncie with Stella Brush, aged 16, with whom he evidently intended to elope. McCarty sent the girl to Ohio from Muncie, and he remained a day spending money like water. He purchased revolvers, Jesse James novels and boxing gloves. His actions attracted the attention of the police, and when his father asked for his arrest he was easily taken. He had several pictures of Miss Brush, of whom he is enamored. The elopement was nipped and young McCarty was returned to Anderson. Both McCarty and Miss Brush are well known young people in Anderson. The former's father offered a reward for his son.

PREFER A POSTOFFICE.

Ohio Farmers Object to Free Rural Delivery.

Plymouth, Ohio, Aug. 16.—Ed Shatzer, one of the rural carriers of Shelby, has had a queer experience this week. He went over his route to get the names of all those to whom he would be called to deliver mail. He was chased out of several houses and at others the dogs were turned loose on him. At one house he was engaged in talking to a young lady, when the father came in, carrying a heavy cane in a threatening manner, and ordered his daughter not to give Shatzer their names, as she would be signing away their postoffice at Ganges. There are about twenty families at Ganges, and Mr. Shatzer secured only four names. The Ganges people do not take to the rural delivery, because it will do away with the office there, and this has been a gathering place to discuss the topics of the day for the people in and about Ganges for some years. They hoped, by refusing to give their names, to keep their office. The matter will rest for a time.

AT WEST DULUTH

Another chapter was added to the dispute between Mrs. Gibbons and Max Shore yesterday, when the former swore out a warrant charging Mr. Shore with assault and battery. The warrant was issued at Duluth. Mrs. Gibbons asked for a warrant before Justice Stone, but the justice was not satisfied with the security for statutory costs that she furnished, and refused to issue a warrant until satisfactory security was given. The warrant had not been served this morning, as the defendant is out of the city on a business trip.

FREAK OF NATURE.

Joseph Renaud, who lives near Proctorknott, has possession of a curiosity, or rather curiosities, which are four kittens, all of them being joined together at the knees of the hind leg. The kittens were born last Tuesday and appear to be healthy and strong. Such a freak of nature is an interesting one, and a large number of people have visited the Renaud home to see the kittens.

WANT TO SEE HIM.

The creditors of a young man by the name of Stewart who was employed at Bay View Heights for about two weeks, are very anxious to see him. The young man made his debut at a party on the Heights recently, and rapidly made himself acquainted with the young people; in fact, he flew quite high. Shortly afterward he determined to give a party and engaged musicians from Duluth, a supper from a Proctorknott merchant and a hack to carry the West Duluth guests home after the ball. Since the brilliant social event the host has been conspicuous by his absence. It appears that the owner of the hack is the only one that received his pay, refusing to start until Stewart produced the coin.

MIND A BLANK.

Iowa Mill Owner Finds Himself In Wisconsin.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 16.—A remarkable mystery surrounded the disappearance of Lars G. Lundgren, a mill owner, Aug. 1, but the explanation is more remarkable. His mind became a blank for ten days, as a result of heat and mental strain, due to business worries, and when he regained his senses he found himself in Walworth, Wis., a town strange to him. He had gone to Chicago and thence to Walworth, buying tickets to both places, why he cannot explain. He was returned ill and weak, and can recall nothing which occurred between Aug. 1 and Aug. 10. He related his experience thus:

"I was on the verge of prostration and had unusual business worries on first day of August. Late in the evening I recall starting down town to collect some bills. Suddenly everything became dark. The next thing I am conscious of is finding myself standing in the middle of the street of a strange town. I made inquiry about the day and place, and found it was ten days since I left Sioux City, and that I was at Walworth. I had money enough to get to Chicago and beat my way home."

During his absence rumors of a default-

FAVORABLE.

Colonel Grant Says Russians Are Friendly to United States.

New York, Aug. 16.—Gen. Fred Dent Grant, who has just arrived from Europe, in speaking of his experience in Russia, said the general feeling of the people of the middle and upper classes was favorable to the United States. The Russians regard the United States more as a country to buy from than to sell to.

"I found the greatest improvement since my last visit to Russia in 1892," said the general. "The improvement in conditions of the serfs is really remarkable. They were liberated about the same time that our negroes were, but they have advanced infinitely further in the same space of time. Army service has helped in their development physically and mentally, in a way that goes far to make up for the burden on the nation at large."

YERKE'S PLANS.

Gone to Budapest to See Inventor Ganz.

London, Aug. 16.—At the semi-annual meeting of the district underground railway today, the chairman, J. S. Forbes, referring to the deadlock regarding the electrization of the road, remarked that Mr. Yerkes, with his engineers, was now at Budapest, and from what he knew of Mr. Yerkes, he, (the chairman) would not be surprised if the Chicagoan brought back Ganz (the originator of an electric system for railroads), in his pocket. Mr. Forbes also announced his own resignation and the selection of Mr. Yerkes attorney, Robert W. Perks, M. P., to fill the chairmanship.

WELL TRAINED.

Many of Colombia's Officers Educated In States.

New York, Aug. 16.—According to the Tribune a number of officers in the army of Columbia were educated in the United States. Many of the native officers have been relieved by Capt. Lemly, U. S. A., United States artillery (retired), a brother of Capt. Lemly, judge advocate of the navy. Capt. Lemly was military instructor in Colombia for several years. The new minister of war of Colombia, Gen. Pedro Ospina, has also felt the effect of American influence. He is one of three brothers who were educated at the University of California. His father, Gen. Mariano Ospina, was president of Colombia from 1857 to 1860, and was deposed as the result of a revolution led by Gen. Mosquera, governor of the state of Cauca, who was aggrieved because of the alleged interference of the national government in local matters.

AT REEDS' LAKE.

Perfect Day For Amateur Rowing Regatta.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 16.—The wind and weather conditions for the first day's racing of the thirty-first annual regatta of the Northwestern Amateur Rowing association on Reed's lake this afternoon, are perfect. Indications are that fast time will be made in the races scheduled for today. The drawing for positions took place last night, but as there are neither currents nor shallows in Reed's lake, the chances of all crews are equal. The races to be rowed today are the junior four-oar, pair and single, the intermediate four-oard and single canoe and tandem canoe. The following clubs will be in today's events:

Iroquois of Chicago, Detroits of Wyandotte, Western of St. Louis and Grand Rapids.

SHORT HOP CROP.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 16.—It is estimated that the hop crop in Oneida, Madison and Ostego counties will not be over two-thirds the average this year, and possibly not more than half. The vines are prolific, but the hops have not burred out well.

RUSH SHIPS

Three to Sail at Once For Coast of Panama.

Battleship Iowa, Machias and Ranger.

Washington, Aug. 17.—There was an entire absence of news at the state department today concerning the Colombia-Venezuelan troubles. The navy department, which is directing all its energies to hurrying ships to the scene of the disturbance in order to enforce our treaty guarantees expects to have three ships on the way within twenty-four hours.

The Machias, which has been detained at Hampton Roads by the threatening weather south of Cape Hatteras, will be able to start on her journey today, assurances having been given by the weather bureau that all dangers from the Gulf storm along the Southern Atlantic has now passed. This information was telegraphed to the commandant of the Norfolk navy yard. Word was received at the navy department that the battleship Iowa had arrived at San Francisco, and she was instructed by telegraph to proceed as soon as possible to Panama on the west coast. It is probable she will have to take some coal aboard, but the department believes she will be able to sail on her 3400 miles' journey by tomorrow morning. No word has come from the Ranger, at San Diego, and the officials at the department are somewhat puzzled at her delay in starting. It was supposed that she would be able to sail at short notice, as her commander had warning to prepare her for sea, but nothing has been heard from his since the orders were sent him yesterday morning.

CONTESTANTS IN DOUBT

Venezuela Claims Colombian Army Has Attacked Her, While Colombia Says Venezuela Is Aiding Colombian Rebels.

New York, Aug. 17.—Col. E. Gonzales, consul general of Venezuela in this city, says that he has received information from his government which enables him to make the following statement:

"Colombian officials have been busy discrediting the report that the recent invasion of Venezuelan territory was made by a Colombian army. In reply to these denials, the significant fact can be pointed out that Senor Herran, Colombia's charge d'affaires at Washington, has not yet contradicted the report of his government's participation in the invasion nor the presence on the Venezuelan frontier of Gen. Gonzales Valencia, former minister of war of Colombia.

"But there are more convincing proofs than this mere circumstantial evidence. The Caracas government has been officially informed by the commander of our army in San Cristobal that among the troops who invaded Venezuela were the Colombian regiments known as Sucre, Bombona, Giraldot, Vencedores, Tenerife and seveteen more commanded by Colombian army officers. Some of the latter were Gens: Gasparini, Peimro, Leon, Canal and Riascos. My advices say that the killed, wounded and captured of the other side wore the uniform of the Colombian army. Two of the prisoners wore the insignia of the 'Grenadiers of Cuivata.' The Venezuelan authorities on the frontier have ordered an investigation, which is expected to yield further evidence of Colombia's complicity in the two unsuccessful raids on our frontier."

Senor Thomas Herran, charge d'affaires of the Colombian legation at Washington, is in this city awaiting the arrival of his family from Colombia. He said:

"There is no doubt that Venezuela has given help to the rebels in Colombia."

Colon, Colombia (via Galveston, Tex.), Aug. 17.— Nothing was heard of the rebels yesterday. A certain degree of confidence has been restored along the railroad line, owing to the presence of the troops.

The French cruiser Suchet is coaling at the railroad wharf. Several of her officers went to Panama today on an excursion trip.

MUST CHANGE TARIFF

Leading Manufacturers Are Aroused to Loss of Trade By Present Tariff Laws and Will Demand Relief.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—President Search, of the National Association of Manufacturers, has called a meeting of the executive committee of that organiaztion for Sept. 4, for the purpose of taking up the question of reciprocity. The subject will be considered in all its phases after which a call will be issued for a national reciprocity convention. This action is taken as the result of dissatisfaction among manufacturers who are in the export trade and congress at its next session will be asked to give the desired relief.

The sentiment of the manufacturers, says President Search, is in favor of securing treaties of commercial reciprocity with other countries with a view to the extension of America's trade in foreign lands.

Within the past few months, he says, Russia, Italy and some other countries have dealt a heavy blow to our foreign trade, by the levying of countervailing duty. It will be endeavored to show to congress that American industries have suffered by the present laws and their interpretations and congress will be asked to give the required remedy.

FROM LAKES TO OCEAN

New York, Aug. 17.—R. Hall McCormick, of Chicago, has arrived here on board his yacht Rapidan, after a month's cruise through the great lakes, the St. Lawrence river and the Atlantic ocean.

Yachting men say that the cruise of the Rapidan is the first voyage by the lake route which has ever been made by a private Chicago built yacht. Mr. McCormick left Chicago with his family on July 8 for Buffalo by way of Lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie. At Buffalo Mr. McCormick visited the Pan-American exposition. Then proceeding by way of the Erie canal and Lake Ontario the party spent considerable time among the Thousand Islands. The yacht reached the Atlantic ocean by the St. Lawrence river and the Canadian canals. Leaving the mouth of the St. Lawrence, the Rapidan made good time along the Atlantic seaboard to Boston and through Long Island sound to this city.

MILLER WAS SEVENTH

Brest, Aug. 17.—Miller, of Chicago, was the seventh of the contestants in the international bike race from Paris to Brest and return, a distance of 1200 kilometers, to reach this city, arriving here at 6:37 this morning. He was fagged out.

Lesna passed Morlaiz, about thirty-four miles northeast of Brest, on his return journey to Paris, at 5:42 a. m. He was going well.

JEFFRIES AND RUHLIN

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—It is announced that Jeffries and Ruhlin have agreed to meet in this city before the club offering the best inducements. George Siler has been selected as referee. Final arrangements for the match will be made on Monday, when each man will put up $2500 and sign the usual articles. The contest probably will occur in October.

BELLINGER NOT INSANE

Dr. Robert Graham, County Physician, Says the Young Man Is Shamming.

Was Groaning Most of Time In Court With Hands and Arms Twitching.

The inquiry into the mental condition of Burton H. Bellinger continued all of this morning, and it was still on when court adjourned at noon. At that time considerable testimony had been introduced, including the opinion of Dr. Robert Graham, the county physician, that the young man is shamming, and that he is not insane at all. Three other physicians were to testify, one of whom was on the stand when court adjourned, but had not reached the point of giving any opinion. This physician is Dr. S. M. Stocker, and the other two are Dr. Bowers and Dr. Kraft, both of whom were called for the prisoner. Dr. Graham and Dr. Stocker were called by the state.

At the opening of the special term this morning Bellinger was brought into court room No. 1 by Deputies Mahoney, Fellman and Haire, and was seated. He was groaning up and down the scale most of the time, his hands and arms were twitching, first one arm and then the other. Occasionally he would stop for a second or two and look around, and then he would resume his noise and movements harder than before. When Judge Ensign came in and sat down there was a perceptible increase in his manifestations. After the call of the special term calendar the case was sent to room No. 2, before Judge Dibell, and Bellinger went in quietly, as directed by the deputies. John P. Morrow, acting county attorney, appeared for the state, and C. O. Baldwin for the prisoner.

Judge Dibell asked if Mr. Baldwin had anything to suggest as to the procedure, and Senator Baldwin said that he had not expected to take part in the hearing, but as he was there he would assist all he could. He said that his client could gain nothing by doing what the newspapers had insisted he was doing—shamming insanity, as it meant only a longer incarceration. Before he went insane he showed a disposition to accept his punishment and reform. He stated that he had asked a physician about the theory of self-hypnosis that had been talked about, and the physician said it was bosh.

Theh earing was then taken up. Dr. Stocker, Dr. Graham, Dr. Bowers and Dr. Kraft all took seats where they could watch Bellinger, and they kept their eyes on him very closely.

Detective Chauncey H. Troyer, who brought Bellinger back to Duluth, was the first witness. He said that on the way back they talked a good deal, and Bellinger seemed to be in good spirits, laughing and joking a good deal. He talked seriously about his case, and seemed anxious to find out what his sentence was likely to be. He told about his experience as a fugitive from justice, describing how he worried about being caught, how he watched the boats and trains for officers and how he dared not sleep with anyone for fear of talking in his sleep. He also spoke about his previous insanity, and said that he was afraid he could not stand a long confinement because he had been out of his head before and for a long time was afraid of going crazy again. This statement was made voluntarily.

Cross-examined by Mr. Baldwin, the witness said that he knew of Bellinger's previous insanity, when it was said that he hurt his head in a bicycle accident. He was arrested on the street and taken home in the patrol wagon. He had a stick and was threatening people, and was very violent when caught, kicking, biting, striking and fighting, and it took several men to handle him. There was no charge against him at that time, though shortly before that he had run into a young woman and hurt her, and he might have thought he was wanted for that. On the trip to Duluth Bellinger told about this, and described how he made his "get-away" by riding around the block.

In answer to a question by the court, Mr. Troyer said that Bellinger's condition at that time was not like his present condition in the least.

Chief Jailor Ed Mahoney said that Bellinger seemed to be all right when he was first brought in, and promised to do better than he did before, referring to a previous imprisonment when he had been full of tricks. On the afternoon before the evening when he broke out he talked with him and Bellinger asked if he was not doing better than he had before, stating that he expected to get about a year and a half and reform after he got out. Witness was away for several days and was called to the jail Sunday morning, when he found the prisoner speechless, making a moaning sound such as he made in the court room. He was then in the padded cell, having been placed there the night before. He had no trouble with him himself. He obeyed readily, and seemed to understand every direction

Deep Water Ships Held at San Francisco By Strike.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Twenty-nine deep water ships, all chartered to carry grain out of this port for European markets, are tied up in the harbor unable to take on their cargoes because of the strike. These vessels aggregate 54,746 registered tons displacement and have a carrying capacity of about 100,00 tons of grain. Besides this fleet of chartered grain ships there are four other grain carrying vessels in that harbor, with an aggregate tonnage of 8429 tons, which have not accepted charters.

Four other vessels are chartered to carry away cargoes of California products, but they cannot get away for want of men to load them.

In addition to the grain fleet there are fifteen vessels under charter to sail for Hawaiian island ports and return with sugar cargoes.

ON THE INCREASE.

Attendance at the Pan-American Is Booming.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—Attendance at the Pan-American exposition is having a decided boom. The 3,000,000 mark was reached a week ago, and the number of visitors is steadily increasing.

Michigan day, on Aug. 20, will be largely attended, and the coming of the full battalion of West Point cadets, embracing infantry, cavalry, artillery and engineers, has excited much interest all over the country. The water carnival has proved a great success.

One day last week the Michigan Central brought in nearly 34,000 visitors, including special trains from Toronto and points west on the main line.

Railroad traffic is the heaviest in the history of Buffalo, and all roads centering here are having all they can do to accommodate the public. As an illustration of the amount of passengers handled, the Michigan Central on Thursday of last week brought in over 3000 visitors from the West and North.

FINE BRIDGE

Across the Missouri River Is Promised Kansas City.

Kansas City, Aug. 17.—Theodore C. Bates, of Worcester, Mass., president of the Union Depot, Bridge and Terminal company, of Kansas City, who is here, is quoted as having said: "A bridge finer than the Eads structure at St. Louis, or any other structure that spans the Mississippi river, will be built across the Missouri river for Kansas City. In connection with the bridge a magnificent union passenger station will be erected. The work will be pushed as rapidy as it is possible to push such an undertaking. Plans for the bridge which is to be three-deck and double-track, are practically completed."

Several Eastern capitalists are associated with Mr. Bates in the project.

BRITISH ARE SORE

Doleful Comments on Bungling In the War and Finance.

London, Aug. 17.—The proroguing of parliament today is the occasion of much doleful comment. The Pall Mall Gazette refers to the results achieved with annotations on "the decay of parliamentary government," and "the breakdown of the constitutional system." However this may be, finance was the only big thing dealt with during the session. Even the Times and Standard point out the decline of the authority of the ministers in the house of commons. The closure has been used more frequently than ever before. Mr. Balfour, the government leader, has delighted the cynics by his cool unconcern in walking into the house of commons at 11 o'clock and breaking off debate by the closure.

The Statist says that the government has bungled in the war and in finance. It defines Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, as a "politician absolutely ignorant of finance, and who knows as little about the money market as any other gentleman."

The paper contrasts the effects of the enormous sums borrowed by the United States in the civil war and by France in 1870 with the fall in consols resulting from the methods of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, and attributes it to the government's financing. It says there is a mistaken belief abroad that the resources of the country have been immensely exaggerated and that Great Britain is not so rich as imputed, and claims that the belief in the almost inexhaustible resources of Great Britain has been, heretofore, one of the great guarantees of peace.

TO ISSUE RATIONS.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The war department has directed the commanding officer at Jackson barracks at New Orleans to issue 500 rations to destitute people who were driven into Fort Philip by the recent gulf storm.

SAVE MONEY.

Mrs. Stokes Will Have Jewels Brought Over Again.

New York, Aug. 17.—After a careful search of the records, the local customs officials have been unable to ascertain whether or not the jewelled chain possessed by Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes when she returned from abroad on the Oceanic recently paid duty. As a result, Mrs. Stokes probably will avail herself of a clause in the law which will allow her to send the chain back to Europe, there to be dismounted by the makers. The chain then will be reimported, and in the dismounted state will pay duty at 10 per cent on the diamonds, 20 per cent on the pearls and 60 per cent on the setting. Intact, the chain would call for an even duty of 60 per cent on each of the items mentioned.

The foreign value of the chain is about $3400. Mrs. Stokes is acquitted of any attempt to defraud the authorities. On her last trip from Europe she brought in a quantity of costly apparel, jewelry and trinkets, on which she paid duties amounting to $2800.

FOR THE PRESIDENT.

The Mayflower May Become His Official Yacht.

New York, Aug. 17.—The rumor is current n the nay yard that the converted yacht Mayflower is to be repaired and refitted for use as President McKinley's official yacht. Last year the Mayflower was used by Governor Allen at Porto Rico. It is understood now that the dispatch boat Dolphin will be assigned to Porto Rico.

ONE WAY ONLY

Defect In Wireless System of Telegraphy.

New York, Aug. 17.—While messages by the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy were successfully received from the steamship Lucania off Nantuckett lightship last night, it was said on board the steamer at quarantine today that nothing transmitted from the shore could be understood on board the Lucania.

STEAMER GOES ASHORE

New York, Aug. 17.—A. H. Bull & Co., the New York agents of the stranded steamer Evelyn received the following telegram today from Capt. Rich of that boat, dated at Pensacola:

'Evelyn ashore twelve miles west of here with steering gear broken; was anchored, but parted chain and went ashore during hurricane; resting easy.'

They also received a telegram from their agents at Pensacola saying that tugs had been sent to the Evelyn's assistance. From all the advices received they believe that the steamer will be got off without much difficulty. Both vessel and cargo are fully insured.

BOTHA TO SURRENDER

London, Aug. 17.—The Sun today says it hears that the concentration of Gen. Botha's forces at Hondweni, on the borders of Zululand, announced in a dispatch from Durban last night, does not foreshadow a fight with Botha but his surrender, in pursuance of an understanding reached between Gen. Botha and Lord Kitchener. The Sun adds that the government is so satisfied that the war is virtually over that Lord Milner, now on his way back to South Africa, has in his pocket the draft of a complete constitution and plans for the future government of the annexed territories.

EYES ON WEST

Much Depends on Milwaukee and Chicago.

Strikers Making Every Effort to Win Them.

Pittsburg, Aug. 17.—Attention in the steel strike is directed to the West again today. Every possible effort of the strikers is centered to win Milwaukee and Chicago over from their adverse standing on the strike. Milwaukee is to vote on the question today, and the labor leaders are confident that final action will be favorable to them. After Milwaukee acts, a move will be made to get the Chicago men to hold another meeting and reconsider their two refusals to come out.

Coupled with the new Western plan is a determined effort on the part of the strikers to break into the solid combination of Carnegie properties. Secret organization has been going on in the latter for some time, despite the vigilance of the officials of the company, and the show of strength is expected by Monday. It is believed that a number of men would be gotten out at Duquesne but the claims as to the final result tere conflict. The strike leaders say that they are strong enough to shut the plant down, and that they are going to do so as soon as their plans mature. The company officials admit that the Amalgamated organizers have made some headway at Duquesne, but say that, making the most liberal allowance for the strikers, the plant cannot be even seriously handicapped. The strike leaders plan to hold a meeting at Duquesne tonight, and that fact is taken as an indication that the commencement of the new turn on Sunday night and Monday morning marks the time for action. President Shaffer and his assistants have several times intimated that they had a surprise in store for the corporation, and the move against the Carnegie properties is now believed to be what they had in mind. The Carnegie officials have been watching the progress of events closely, and are making every possible effort to hold the strikers off.

There is a growing belief that the good order which has been general will not prevail much longer. The strikers show a spirit of restlessness and irritation at the points where the union and non-union men come in contact, which is increasing. A party of strike-breakers from the South is expected at Monessen, and the strikers are patrolling the town in anticipation of their arrival. Trouble is feared when the two forces meet. It is also believed that some trouble will result from the effort to tie up the Carnegie properties. The strike leaders continue to warn against acts of violence, and claim there will be no trouble unless the strikers are denied rights which the law gives them.

President Shaffer was at strike headquarters today, and when seen said:

"I have received a telegram from Mr. Tighe, at Milwaukee. He says the meeting will be held this afternoon, but makes no prediction as to the result there. There is nothing new in the situation today. Monessen cannot be started for the corporation lacks the

EPISCOPALIAN DEFICIT

Mission Fund Is Short Owing to Large Expenditures Being Needed In the Philippines and Elsewhere.

New York, Aug. 17.—Bishop Doane, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Albany, contributes to the Current Churchman a statement of the large deficit which is probable in the treasury of the board of missions for the year just ended. This deficit, says Bishop Doane, the vice president and active head of the board of managers, will be $100,000 on Sept. 1.

E. Walter Roberts, assistant treasurer of the board of managers, estimates the total of appropriations for the year at $596,000, of which $328,000 was for missions in the United States, and $268,000 for foreign missions, including those in Africa, China, Japan, the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hayti. Last year Mr. Roberts said the deficit was between $50,000 and $60,000. Of this all but about $22,000 was paid before the books were closed. No particular gifts, he said, were now in view. The contributions during the year from churches and individuals has not been so large as usual, while those from the Sunday schools and the young people were much larger.

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd, general secretary of the board, says that the opening of missionary work in the new territory, such as the Philippines, had made large expenditures necessary. Land had to be bought, he said, and people had to be fed. There was also large expenditures in assistance in Brazil, because of the financial troubles there.

BOTH WANT CONTROL

London, Aug. 17.—While Charles T. Yerkes has gone to Budapest to investigate the Ganz Electrical system on behalf of the district railroad, George Westinghouse, who sails for New York today on the St. Paul, goes home partly in the interest of American capital, of the Metropolitan Underground railroad. The deadlock between these companies appears not to have been due to differences between Mr. Yerkes and the English owners of the Metropolitan railroad, but the contest is between the two Americans for the control of either or both of the roads. Mr. Westinghouse, though not known here as a large stockholder of the Metropolitan railroad, has the confidence of the managers, and suggested schemes for the electrification and enlargement of the road, the took, that took hold of their imagination, as far more splendid than that proposed by Mr. Yerkes.

The shrinkage in British railroad dividends, consequent upon the steady and uncheckable depreciation of shares, is discussed by Robert P. Porter in a letter to the Times, from the standpoint of electrical railroads, which already cause reduced profits. Mr. Porter finds that the only salvation is in electricity. He says:

"For the purpose of concentrating the population in the morning and distributing it at night the steam locomotive must give way to the electric. It is like putting a steam hammer in motion to crack a nut."

AFTER CHICAGO POLICE

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Chief of Police O'Neill filed today with the civil service commission charges of conduct unbecoming an officer against Detectives J. J. Tracey and John Cramer and Lieutenant of Detectives Peter Joyce. The latter also is accused of having made false reports. The charges are the outcome of sensational reports which have been in circulation several days regarding an alleged clique in the city's detective headquarters for the purpose of securing expense money from the state for bringing back prisoners from outside of Illinois, when detectives are alleged to have traveled on passes. In other cases, expenses are alleged to have been collected when the detectives turning in the accounts actually never had been out of the city.

It is stated that Capt. Colleran, chief of detectives, will be summoned as a witness.

WILL SEIZE MORE SILK

New York, Aug. 17.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spaulding, made a trip from Washington last night and was in conference with Colector Bidwell with regard to the seizure of Japanese khaki silks. What was determined was not made public. It is learned, however, that several other invoices of silk are to be seized and it is said that at least one other firm of importers other than that affected by yesterday's seizures will be implicated. The amount of silk to be seized, it is said, will exceed the value of the previous detentions.

MOULDERS WILL ASSIST

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Every working iron moulder in the city will contribute 50 cents a day to support the men who are still on strike. This action was taken at a meeting held last night.

Because the strike is independent of the executive board of the national organization, no benefits are received from the national headquarters, and any assessment which might be levied by the local men would not be binding, providing any member wished to appeal. For this reason only the men who are actually at work were allowed to vote on the question, but they were unanimous in their support of the men on strike.

The assessment will, it is thought, bring about $2500 a week into the strike fund to aid those still out on strike.

WHAT A DULUTH REPORTER SAYS ABOUT

DR. MITCHELL

Of 17 East Superior St.

After Careful Personal Investigation He Finds His Cures Permanent and His Power Marvelous.

On a number of occasions I have had something to say in this column about alleged Magnetic Healers and others who claimed to perform all manner of miracles at the close of the nineteenth century. Once or twice I have made a passing remark about Dr. Mitchell, who during the past four years has been demonstrating to the public his power to heal the afflicted by his magnetic treatments, and in order to be perfectly fair in my treatment of the subject, I have put in much valuable time this week investigating, on my own account, his work and the method which he employs to accomplish results of so marvelous a nature. Following up this line of investigation, I saw Dr. Mitchell treat the sick, I watched him very closely, I talked to more than half a hundred afflicted people after having been treated by him, and because I am perfectly honest, because I believe truth to be sublime, I write it down here today as my candid opinion that Dr. Mitchell possesses real magnetic healing power, and that he can and does perform most wonderful and marvelous cures is a fact.

Mr. Martin Anne, of 126 Mesaba avenue, is a man who is well known to have had a paralyzed arm for some time. He was cured in a few treatments by Dr. Mitchell.

Miss Svea Peterson, of Two Harbors, who for months was unable to set her foot on the floor, in fact, whose nether limbs have been absolutely paralyzed through inflammatory rheumatism, cured by Dr. Mitchell in a short time.

Mrs. Huss, of No. 1922 West Michigan street, who had suffered for twelve years with a tumor of the womb, resulting in a general run down of the system and a complication of diseases. After taking two months' treatment of Dr. Mitchell she is now enjoying very good health.

Mrs. Gus Wickmen, of 423 S. Fifty-eight avenue, West Duluth, whose daughter was given up by physicians to die, when Dr. Mitchell took her case and restored her to health. Mrs. Wickmen says: "I took a few treatments from Dr. Mitchell for a running sore on my leg and was wonderfully benefited, and he saved my daughter's life."

Mr. G. W. Thompson, 807½ East First street, treated for diabetes, recommends Dr. Mitchell's treatment.

These are not names of people who never existed and from some outlandish place where no one resides, but genuine cures performed right in our own midst, and people who are responsible and glad to recommend Dr. Mitchell when an opportunity is given them to do so.

After investigating his work and studying the man as he is, I believe him to be honest, conscientious and straight forward and that he is doing a vast amount of good. I believe in according credit where credit is due, and for that reason and no other I print this tribute to Dr. Mitchell today. If any one doubts the truthfulness of any statement, it is scarcely necessary for me to suggest that the way to prove or disprove them is apparent to all. I take my hat off to Dr. Mitchell, a Magnetic Healer worthy the name.

IS READY.

Temporary Bridge at Stony Brook Junction Completed.

The bridge builders this noon turned over to the Eastern Minnesota company a temporary bridge over the St. Louis river, near Stony Brook Junction, on the cut-off road to the mines. A week ago last Sunday the bridge over the river went down under the weight of the first ore train over the structure. A brakeman was killed in the wreck and several others of the crew injured. Since the accident the bridge employes of the road have been working night and day to replace the wrecked bridge with another wooden structure that will be available until the ore shipments cease and a new steel bridge can be erected this winter. It is expected that the ore trains over the cut-off road, now delayed for more than two weeks, will begin to run on the first of next week, and every effort will be made to rush forward the ore to the Eastern Minnesota docks at Allouez bay.

The engine and sixteen ore cars still lie in the bottom of St. Louis river, where they fell with the bridge, and will probably be left there until fall.

GRANTS EXTENSION.

Superior Council Gives Street Railway Longer Franchise.

"With pipe of peace, all troubles cease." That is what the Superiorites are hoping now. Last evening the city council of Superior passed the ordinance extending the franchise of the street railway company twelve years. The vote was 11 to 8. The company now has a franchise running thirty years. It is expected that it will begin the first of next week to complete the improvement work begun some time ago, and which has been delayed until the company could learn the attitude of the administration.

Good music, good time, Oatka, Sunday.

TO BUILD NEW ROAD

Red Cliff Lumber Company to Operate on North Shore.

Will Connect With Iron Range Road at Highland.

Northern Lumber Company Operations at Virginia.

Another local lumber concern will operate on the Duluth & Iron Range road this season. The Red Cliff Lumber company, which owns a large tract of standing pine near the railroad, northwest of Highland station, will build a logging road into the timber for operation the coming winter. The rails, supplies, etc., are already on the ground at Highland and the construction work is soon to begin.

The Northern Lumber company, of Cloquet, is said to be pulling logs out of the lake at Virginia at the rate of 250,000 feet a day. Enough logs are in the lake to keep up a steady haul for four or five weeks at that rate. Blakely & Farley, the Cass Lake loggers, are branching out into a new business. They have put a complete house boat on the lake, with a dancing floor 20 by 40 feet and with numerous other rooms.

The practice of using carrier pigeons, followed by some local lumber firms, is said to be growing. It can hardly be called a new feature now, for the carrier pigeon mail route was established by the Red Cliff Lumber company between its main office here and camps on the south shore, more than a year ago. This company has demonstrated the usefulness of the birds, and now they are regarded as necessary by those loggers that have worked along the shores of Lake Superior. The birds are used to bring news from points inaccessible by wire or mail, and with which some quick and sure means of communication are desired. The information from these points consists mainly of conditions of rafts, weather, logs, etc., and is sent by the foreman at the landing. The lumber firms that have used the carrier system claim that many thousands of dollars are saved to them in the time of tugs, wages of men, and they are able to get up rafts without danger of bad weather. The Merrill & Ring company tried the pigeons some time ago and have now purchased several birds that are being trained for service from camps on the north shore.

STRIKES A GUSHER.

Ex-Senator Towne's Company Get Big One.

Duluth stockholders in the Export Oil and Pipe Line company, of Beaumont, Texas, of which Charles A. Towne is president, are very much pleased over the news that a gusher has been struck which is giving 50,000 barrels per day. It is said that the Export's gusher is the biggest thing down there from the fact that a larger pipe was put in and they seem to have struck it rich.

Acute Alcoholism Brings Thomas Hagerty's Life to Sudden End.

Thomas Hagerty, one of the best known lumber camp cooks in Northern Minnesota, was found dead this afternoon in his room over 501 West Superior street.

It is said that he retired early and from the condition of the body he probably died soon after retiring.

Mr. Hagerty came to Duluth about a week ago. He had plenty of money and spent it freely in the Bowery saloons. His death was due to acute alcoholism.

When his room was broken into this afternoon, he was found partly undressed, sitting upright against the wall.

Coroner Boyer had his body taken to Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, pending instructions from relatives in Michigan.

This noble charity is especially deserving of support at this time, when it is adding to the building's substantial improvements by building a modern fireproof hospital, and the ladies are deserving of cordial support in their undertaking.

Flaaten's full orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, and the Armory is to be artistically decorated, so the event will be a fitting climax to Duluth's summer galeties.

BELLINGER NOT INSANE

that was made to him. When he was told to go to the right hand table and eat his supper while the doctors were there he obeyed, and sat at the right table. At that time the witness told the doctors that Bellinger did not make these demonstrations unless there was somebody around, and he proved it by a demonstration when Bellinger might have supposed the doctors were gone.

Cross-examined, the witness described the padded cell and the mits that were kept on the prisoner, and said in reference to the fire of Wednesday night that he thought that Bellinger got the matches while he was permitted to exercise in the corridor for a short time. He believed he must have had none on his person.

Jailer P. Fjellman, who was on duty when Bellinger's insanity began, said that it was a week ago Thursday night. Bellinger and two other prisoners had been exercising in the corridor, and he put them all back in their cells. Then the witness started to walk around the corridor, and when he got opposite Bellinger's cell he found him walking back and forth in the narrow limits of the cell. Asked what was the matter, Bellinger did not answer, and continued to pace for two hours, when he laid down. He slept awhile that night, and ate a slice of bread and drank some tea for breakfast. He slept a little Friday night and drank a little tea for breakfast Saturday morning.

Saturday night he had considerable trouble with him. First he broke off the leg of a chair and pounded on a basin with it. Then he swung the chair against the bars and broke the chairs and the table in the cell. When the witness attempted to get into his cell he found that Bellinger had plugged the lock with a bit of hardwood, so that the levers would not open it. Then the witness went around to the outside of the cell, when Bellinger threw a bottle of pickles his relatives had left him. Then witness got the hose and turned it on him, and Bellinger protected himself with the cot. Witness then got the engineer of the court house and they bored a hole in the door, but did not strike the plug. Just then a trusty prisoner happened to be in the corridor outside of Bellinger's cell, and Bellinger made motions to indicate that if they would get him tools he would take out the plug himself. Witness then asked him if he would do that, and he nodded. He was given a hammer and a chisel, and he took out the plug. Then he offered to let the witness handcuff him to the bars, but witness did not do it. He took him out, put the mitts and leg-chains on him, and put him in the padded cell, where he has been ever since. Before taking him out of the ordinary cell, however, the witness asked him to throw outside the pieces of chairs and tables, and he did so.

Sunday morning he ate a hearty breakfast, taking all that was given him in the first lot and calling for more. Witness had noticed that the prisoner was quiet when nobody was around, but that when strangers were there, and he knew he was observed, he would always start his manifestations.

In response to questions by the court the witness said that when violent Bellinger never hurt himself. He frequently made motions as though he were going to hurt his head against the bars, but he never did. He hurt nobody else, though he had chances to.

Dr. Bowers asked about sleep, and the witness said that the prisoner slept a short time each night up to Sunday night, when witness changed to the day shift.

H. C. Bellinger, the prisoner's brother, was called and said that Burt will be 21 years old in October. He described his conditions when he was insane three years ago, saying that he was violent and at times it took several men to handle him. Burt had not recognized him this time at all, though in the former attack he had lucid inervals when he would recogniez him. He did not act then as he does now. At the time of his former insanity he did not remember whether there were marks on his head indicating an injury or not. When he saw him in jail for the first time during this attack his eyes were glassy and staring, much different from what they are now. Burt did not recognize him, though he had tried every way he could think of to get him to do so.

Questioned by the court, the witness said that Burt has been home two-thirds of the time since his former trouble, and seemed to be all right, except that he was nervous at night when he had been working hard. This he had not noticed before the first attack. In reply to a query by Dr. Bowers, witness said there was no insanity in his family and there had been no indications of it in Burt before his accident. Burt had been incorrigible, and witness had had him sent to the reform school because he would not go to school. He had been in trouble a good deal since he was a boy.

County Physician Graham took the stand and said that he was called by the jailors Friday morning, but did not get a chance to make a physical examination because Bellinger showed violence when he entered the cell, so he stepped out again. His manner and expression were much different then from what they are now. He looked fresher then than he does now, and he believed his present condition and appearance was the result of exhaustion.

As to his opinion he said that he did not believe Bellinger to be insane at any time. He did things irregularly he thought, because if he had been as viciously insane as he pretended to be he would have followed up his attacks more. To him it appeared that the prisoner was shamming. He did not believe that he was insane now, and he did not think his manifestations of insanity were consistent.

Cross-examined he said that he was not a specialist in nervous diseases, and he had talked with the jail officials, but had not had his attitude influenced by them. He thought there would be no trouble in a man's simulating insanity as well as the prisoner had under the same conditions. He believed that he was capable of being tried and of understanding the proceedings, but he would not want to sit as a juror. There was nothing wrong with Bellinger's mental condition, and he believed him to be shamming, but he could not be absolutely certain, so he thought he would rather postpone the trial. He thought it was all right to put him in the padded cell, and if he is shamming that will bring him to time. How long that will take depend on his vitality and determination.

In response to a question by the court, the witness said that he did not believe justice could be had before a jury, because he thought his simulations of insanity might fool a jury and let him out, because of the sympathy that would follow that belief.

Dr. Stocker took the stand and was still on when court adjourned at noon. He attended Bellinger when he was insane before, on one evening, when he found him in bed, semi-conscious, his arms going some, but not enough to warrant his being bound. There were some bruises, but they were not important, as he recollected it.

During the noon hour the physicians made a physical examination of the prisoner.

Before adjournment Judge Dibell suddenly turned to Jailer Mahoney and called out sharply: "Mr. Mahoney, make him keep quiet."

Bellinger straightway made more noise than before, and refused to obey Mr. Mahoney's command to be still. Judge Dibell also asked Dr. Graham if he thought Bellinger understood what was going on, and the doctor said he thought he did.

THE GEM SNIPPER.

"Jack the Gem Snipper" has been at work on Chestnut street, says the Philadelphia Record. With a pair of snippers or pinchers small enough to be held and hidden at the same time in the hand, this dangerous robber snips off a diamond and its setting, whether worn on the owner's finger or in the ear. So deftly does the expert snipper work that the victim is not aware of the robbery while it is being committed.

The snipper made one miss during the past week, however, due either to his own clumsiness or to the fact that he did not calculate on the movements of the woman he had selected for his prey. It is more probable that a sudden turn by the victim at the most important stage of the snipping, which warned the latter of her danger, was responsible for the man's failure, as it is to be supposed that only an expert would dare undertake such a job.

It was during the time of day that Chestnut street was crowded with shoppers and promenaders when Jack made the attempt that failed. Among the shoppers was the wife of a prominent resident of Spruce street above Broad. Though the intended victim's husband reported the case to the police he requested that his wife's name be kept from the public. The woman was standing with a group at a store window, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, when she became aware of a jerk at one of her fingers. She turned quickly enough to see a pair of pincers released from the diamond setting of one of her rings.

As quickly as a flash the man who held the snippers disappeared in the crowd, and was out of sight of the woman, who was some time recovering from her surprise, could give an alarm. In his efforts to get the diamond the thief broke off a piece of the stone and injured the setting. The woman got a look at the man as he turned away, and in making a complaint to the police furnished an excellent description of the thief.

It was admitted at the Detective Bureau that several attempts of the kind had been made in the streets recently, and that a hunt was being made for the man. "I am surprised," said Captain Miller, "that this old style method is being employed again. A score or so of years ago the snippers were in common use, but nowadays they are regarded only as curios in collections of thieves' implements. The instrument is certainly a dangerous one in the hands of an expert, even in this day when policemen are to be found at every corner. So carefully does the thief work that the robbed one is not given the least chance to suspect anything wrong."

Grand free concert, Oatka, Sunday.

MISS REBECCA McKENZIE'S CONCERT.

Scotland against the world for songs that live. Did anyone ever sing sweeter than Dunbar or King James or Bobbie Burns? To be a Scotchman is to be a songster. To be a "lassie oh" is to sing and warble. Scotch songs still rule the pretty ballad, and calm Glen Avon, true to its custom, "rules the roost" in song as in natural beauty. Certainly as a sweet singer, Miss Rebecca McKenzie of Glen Avon is in Duluth the queen of melody; and for enjoyment of the purest and highest order her concert at the Lyceum, Aug. 21, offers citizen and guest and tourist an opportunity as charming as it is rare. Have the children hear her, too.

RECORDS OF WAGERS.

About the middle of the eighteenth century, William Almack established in Pall Mall, London, a gambling club, among the twenty-seven members of which were Lord Portland and Charles James Fox, says the North American Review. Shortly after its formation, the club passed into the management of a wine merchant and money lender named Brooks, and the club was then named and is still known as Brooks'. It has counted among its membership some of the most famous and brilliant wits and statesmen that England has known during the period of its existence. In its early years, as may be inferred from the circumstances of its origin, it was the home of high play, and even after it had passed out of its proprietary stage and become one of the most exclusive organizations of the British metropolis, heavy betting was for long the fashion among its habitues, especially during the closing years of the eighteenth and the opening years of the nineteenth century. C. S. Street, who was recently favored with the opportunity of inspecting the book in which the bets made in the club were recorded, has written an account, interesting to the point of fascination, of the matters which were the subjects of wagers made by Fox, Sheridan and others of scarcely less renown. Numerous bets were made on the issue of our revolutionary war, of which these are specimens:

"Lord Stavordale bets Mr. Fox 20 guineas that Gen. Burgoyne is not in England by ye first of March, 1776."

Lord Stavordale won this bet, of course, it was on Oct. 17, 1777, that Gen. Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga; in 1779 we find him at Brooks' again, betting with Lord Edward Bentinck about the number of pints Lord Edward should sup at Vauxhall.

"'Aug. 19, 1776'

"'Mr. Fox bets Ld. Bollingbroke Five guineas that America does not belong to the King of Great Britain this day two years.'

"'Mr. Boothby bets Mr. Townshend 50 gs. that the American War is over before Christmas, 1779, without America's being independent of the crown of Great Britain.'

"'June 20th, (1777.)'

"'26th December, 1779.'

"'Mr. Elliot bets Lord George Cavendish five guineas that before the first of January, 1781, the Colonies will have given up their claim of Independence.'

"'Lord Clermont betts General Bourgoine one hundred guineas that a peace is made between Gr. Britain & several of the American colonies—without allowing their independency, before ye 13 day of January, 1783.'

"'Janry 13, 1780.'"

These bets on the general upshot need no comment. The last bet on the subject tacitly signalizes the fact that a new nation was in existence.

"'Mr. Sheridan bets Mr. Fitzpatrick 10 gs. to 2 that the United States of America have six ships of the Line at sea within three years.

"'Janry 24th, 1783. Won by Col. Fitzpatrick.'"

Chicago Grain Trade Slow and No Business Done.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Storm signals which were ordered up on the lakes last night were taken down early today. Mariners had escaped from a storm, which on yesterday looked like a worse gale than the great Galveston storm a year ago. During the night, however, the more alarming signals disappeared, and nothing more serious than brisk northerly winds presented themselves on Professor Cox's chart this morning.

LOVED THE CORPORAL.

Lieut. W. J. Wiley, formerly a member of the Twentieth Kansas volunteer infantry, has arrived in the city from the Philippines, and relates an interesting story of the life he has seen in the foreign service, says the Colorado Springs correspondent of the Denver Times. He said:

"When we landed in the Camarines we found the people to be very friendly, but the insurgent Tagalo soldiers had treated them so cruelly that they were afraid to act openly as our friends. The Tagalos had erected a system of immense breastworks about six feet thick and with a deep trench in front, very similar to those which we were obliged to capture in the advance north from Manila.

"We rested in front of these trenches for two or three days while a detachment of the troops were sent around to the north side of the city. Another detachment was provided with rockets and the understanding was that when they reached a certain position a rocket was to be sent up and the rebels would be attacked from both sides. As I have said, the natives had no love for the Tagalo soldiers in front of the trenches and kept the rebels hemmed up. We allowed the natives to come and sell fruit to the boys.

"One of the men fell in love with a pretty Camarine and she agreed to marry him if he secured the rescue of her father, who, it appears, had been imprisoned by the Tagalos for refusing to join the ranks. She told the corporal how they made the old man work and failed to feed him, whipping him with cat-o'-nine-tails when he failed to do enough labor. She so worked upon the feeling of the corporal that he swore he would kill every Tagalo he saw, without making any effort to capture.

Finally, one night the senorita came to him and told him she had learned a way through the swamp west of the city by which a small force could get in and surprise the outfit. The corporal came to me with the story and urged that a small detachment be sent in. I was at first inclined to ridicule the affair, but finally agreed to talk with the girl. After going over the matter with her for an hour I decided the thing could be done, and, going to the colonel, asked for a detachmen to make the attempt.

"The boys had been lying idle under the hot sun so long that they were becoming restless, and so the colonel finally said: 'If fifty men will volunteer to go with you, you can make the attempt.' The corporal was delighted, and in less than three minutes we had over one half of the regiment planning to go.

"I selected my men and, accompanied by the girl, we started out. Through the jungle and swamp she led us until finally we saw a bright glow of what we afterward learned to be the cigarette of a Tagalo sentry. The girl stopped and pointed to the light and said: 'Soldado,' thereby giving the alarm. We crept forward and were within 10 feet of the sentry, when the corporal stumbled, and that stumble cost him his life and the life of the girl.

"We sprang forward and as the corporal bralled the sentry one of the Tagalo guards forced his long bayonet through the body of the Corporal and he fell to the ground a corpse. The girl gave a wild cry, and, springing to the side of her Corporal, she quickly learned he was dead.

Seizing the big Colt's revolver, which he wore in his belt, she stood across his body and laid out Tagalos before she was killed herself. Meanwhile the remainder of the detachment had got into action and we drove the rebels out of the city and into the arms of the other party, which was coming up on the other side. The corporal and the girl were the only ones killed on our side and we buried them together."

The bronzed lieutenant brushed away a tear as he concluded the story. He will spend a few days in seeing the sights in this vicinity, after which he will go to his home in Kansas. He proposes to return to the Philippines, probably to the army, in a few months.

A BEAUTIFUL INDIAN.

The most beautiful Indian woman in the Northwest is Winona, the daughter of a chief of the Siwash tribe in Oregon, says the Denver Post.

Winona is now 22 years old, and is the wife of Cavairno, a chief of the same tribe. She has always been famous for her beauty, and before she had made a choice from the suitors who besieged her, her father's lodge was the Mecca of many pilgrims.

In the feasts and festivals of the Siwash tribe Winona was given the positions of honor. She was looked up to and revered by the young girls of her tribe, as well as by the young men, for her beauty was so far beyond all others that there was no room for rivalry.

Her features are much more regular and more clearly cut than is usual among the Indians, especially those of the Pacific slope. Her hair, too, is remarkably fine, and has a slight wave as it hangs about her shoulders.

The Herald's "want" columns continue to grow in volume and in usefulness. This is conclusive evidence where to obtain the best results.

ROBBERS ARE BOLD

Daniel Cameron's Boarding House Entered During the Night.

Stole One Man's Trousers From Under His Pillow.

Got $42 In Cash and a Gold Watch---No Clew.

Bold thieves cleverly executed a daring burglary early this morning.

While one man slept they entered his room and stole $42 from underneath his pillow.

The burglary occurred at 103 Garfield avenue, in the boarding house of Daniel Cameron. The thieves are supposed to have entered the house about 2 o'clock this morning. They went into several rooms where men were sleeping, rummaged through the clothing and probably searched under each pillow without waking the sleepers.

In Mr. Cameron's room the burglars went through his clothing, taking a gold watch and some change. They also visited the room occupied by Mr Cameron's son, and when they left his clothing looked as if it had been thrown around by a cyclone.

The big haul was made in the room of Patrick Lacey, on the second floor. Mr. Lacey went to bed with over $42 in a pocket of his trousers. As a precaution he folded his trousers and placed them under his pillow, leaving the money in the pocket.

The burglars succeeded in removing the trousers, money and all, from underneath Mr. Lacey's head without disturbing his sleep.

Mr. Lacey says that about 2:30 he woke up with a dull sort of impression that some person had been in the room, and he thought he heard two men on the stairway, one at the foot and the other about half way down. He made a hurried investigation but could find no person in the hallway.

Returning to his room he discovered that his trousers and money had been stolen and raised the alarm.

The police were notified and several boarders made a thorough search of the neighborhood but couldn't see a burglar, or anything that looked like a burglar, in the neighborhood.

In point of boldness this burglary parallels the broad daylight robbery of the Keystone Loan company last Sunday morning. It is thought likely that the thieves would have made a much larger haul had they not been scared away before entering all the rooms of the boarders.

Cool dance, cool Oatka, tonight.

He is stopping in Duluth for a few days and is on his way to the Pacific coast, where he goes to conduct conferences. He is a speaker of fine ability and a very prominent churchman.

REMOVED THE WRECKAGE.

Port Huron Does Good Job at Two Harbors.

Capt. Gaillard is very much pleased with the success of the dredge Port Huron of the Barker estate in removing the wreckage of the crib that was destroyed by the steamer Shenandoah a short time ago. The dredge removed all of the wreckage in two days' time. A rather serious situation has confronted the government engineers' office with reference to this accident. Nearly all of the money available for the improvements at Agate bay had been appropriated for the work now under way.

There was just about enough to put in a new crib if the wreckage could be removed at moderate cost. The plan of removing it with a dredge was decided upon and while there was no question but that it could be done, the probable cost was something that could not be arrived at. It is now believed that there is money enough available to repair the damage.

Was Not So Hot.

Records at the local weather bureau show that the mercury this afternoon slid up to 87 degrees. It seemed much warmer, however, and the thermometers in the sun along the streets registered over 90. The forecast is for cooler weather this evening and tomorrow. The wind has been blowing steadily from the southwest all day. Forecaster Richardson says that the present hot wave is general about the lake region and in the Eastern states, while a lower temperature is being experienced in the Central Western states. This, he says, is probably due to the disarrangement of the customary circuit of storms, caused by the big storm in the gulf states.

IN THE AIR.

Big Steamboat Scheme So Regarded In Ireland.

London, Aug. 17.—Although little is known in Ireland with regard to the proposed new line of steamers between Berehaven and America, the project is regarded in that country as of the utmost importance. In addition to giving employment to an army of men on the actual labor works at Berehaven, the Irish people say it is quite within the bounds of probability that the completion of these works will lead to important railway developments. Certainly a harbor at Berehaven would be of no use to the Atlantic liners without an express railway service to Dublin or some other port on the east coast of Ireland from which passengers could make their way rapidly to London. At present however, the whole scheme appears to be very much in the air.

WIGGS IS SIGNED

The Elongated Erratic James Is Secured By Fashions.

Line Up of Milwaukee and Duluth Teams For Sunday.

Cloquet Is Anxious to Take a Whirl at Fashions.

Manager Van Praagh of the Duluth Fashions says he has signed the cyclonic JimmieWiggs to pitch here, beginning Sept. 1. Wiggs is one of the speediest men in the country when he holds his pace, and will be a valuable addition to the team. He will pitch when the Fashions meet the Minneapolis league team here Sept. 6.

Tomorrow afternoon at the driving park a battle of south paws will be played, when what promises to be the tightest game of the season will come off between the Duluth Fashions and the Milwaukee Sentinels. For the cigar-making team Booth, the Superior man, will be in the box, and for the newspaper men their crack slab man, Foulks, will twirl. The Fashions are going to put up the hardest kind of work against the Milwaukee team and hope to take at least two games out of the four.

Dillon, the new second baseman, and Miller, the third baseman, from Appleton, Wis., were to arrive this afternoon at 4 o'clock, they not being able to make connection in time to get into today's game, so Cooney was put on second and Staub covered third, Hickey playing in the out field. Both of the Appleton men are reputed to be heavy hitters, although more is known here of Dillon than of Miller. With the addition of these two men Duluth will have the hardest hitting out field in the Northwest.

Manager Van Praagh says that he is not sure what team will be here next week as the Chicago Unions seem to be unable to get any other games in this section of the country. They will be here if they can possibly be secured.

A Cloquet paper came out with an exceedingly interesting manifesto regarding the game with the Fashions. Manager Van Praagh says that he is willing to arrange a game with them for $100 a side some time early in September. This will be a chance for the Duluth fans to pick up a little easy money. The Big Duluth team will play Cloquet tomorrow. The line up of the Fashions and the Sentinels for tomorrow's game is as follows:

Fashions.		Sentinels.
Booth	pitcher	Foulks
Kline	catcher	Norton
Randall	first base	Comstock
Dillon	second base	Mahoney
Shepard	short stop	Strethurn
Miller	third base	Leopold
Mullaney	left field	Smith
Lambert	center field	Cavanaugh
Hickey	right field	O'Donnell

NO DUTY.

Porto Rico Must Admit Coffee Free to United States.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Felix A. Reeve, acting solicitor of the treasury, has rendered an olnion on the question raised by Frederico Degetan, resident commissioner from Porto Rico, as to whether a customs duty of 5 cents a pound should not be imposed on all coffees imported into Porto Rico from the United States, under the terms of the Foraker act. The solicitor holds adversely to Mr. Degetan's contention and in the course of his opinion says:

"It is evident, from the care with which coffee was excluded in the Foraker act, from the free list in respect to importations from the United States during the existence of the 15 per cent duty system, that it was the intention of congress to recognize and protect the coffee industry in Porto Rico. It can hardly be doubted, also, that it was not the purpose of congress that such protection should cease upon the enactment and installation of a local system of taxation in Porto Rico. The duty of 5 cents per pound on coffee was, I think, distinctly a protective measure. But I regret to say that I see no escape from the conclusion that the borad and unrestricted provision of section 3, abolishing "all tariff duties on merchandise and articles going into Porto Rico from the United States enactment of a local system of taxation, etc., embraces the duty on coffee as well as the duty on any other kind of merchandise. The case seems to be one of mere inadvertence on the part of congress. They merely neglected to make the exception of coffee from the free list applicable as well after the adoption of the new system of taxation as during the existence of the 15 per centum duty."

SPLENDID RACING

Columbia and Constitution Have an Excellent Contest.

Sailed For a Long Time as One Big Yacht.

Constitution Was Leading at Latter End of Race.

Larchmont, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The same haze which for the past few days has seemed to hang persistently over this end of Long Island Sound, showed little signs early this morning of being dissipated by a breeze before the starting hour of the second race of the Larchmont Yacht club, between the Constitution and Columbia. Early in the day the Sound was dense with fog which gradually gave way to thinner mist, but at 8 o'clock there was very little movement in the air and only a dim outline of the Constitution, anchored at the entrance of the harbor could be discovered.

Preparations were made to start the yachts as soon as there was enough wind to send them across the line with any kind of speed.

The Constitution had her anchor up by 11:45, but it took her half an hour to set her main topsail. The committee reached the starting line at noon and decided that the yachts should sail the same course as yesterday, that is, twice around a 15-mile triangle.

The warning signal was given at 1 o'clock with both yachts to the leeward line, beating up. The Columbia was to windward and seemed to be in better position. They came up behind the committee boat at the north end of the line. The Columbia was first to swing off for the line on the starboard tack, the Constitution following soon after. Both skippers timed the distance nicely and right at the line when the signal was given at 1:05. The wind then was about seven knots from the southwest, the start was a beautiful one and all in favor of the Columbia, for Capt. Barr berthed his boat right on the Constitution's weather quarter, and with started sheets the two yachts rushed across the line, the Constitution leading, but the Columbia in much the better position to windward.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 17.—The Constitution lifted around the first mark at 1:35:20; the Columbia at 1:36:30. The Constitution went about on the port tack, the Columbia going about thirty seconds later.

There is a fresh breeze from the southwest. Constitution is in the lead by about six lengths. Probably the closest bit of racing ever done by Constitution and Columbia occurred during the twenty minutes after rounding the first mark. Constitution tacked to port a few seconds after turning the mark and Columbia stood on and tried to get the weather berth, but finding Constitution going ahead too fast, Capt. Barr put Columbia on the port jack also. For the next ten minutes the two yachts sailed almost as one, Columbia being to leeward of the new boat only about six or ten lengths. They sailed along on this port tack for twenty minutes on such even terms that their sails almost appeared as one boat. At 2 o'clock they disappeared from view of the observer here, Constitution was still in the weather berth but Columbia seemed to be passing through her lee.

Larchmont, N. Y., Aug. 17.—At 1:45 Constitution was apparently leading by about a quarter of a mile.

SINGLE MEN

Are the Only Ones Anxious to Strike at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Aug. 17.—If the counsel of several of the leaders of the Bay View lodge counts for anything, the members of the Amalgamated association in this city will vote not to strike when the meeting is held this afternoon. Those who were not working on the day shift today, and who are not in favor of striking were very busy visiting the homes of many of the mill workers who will have a say in deciding upon the strike order when the question comes to a vote. One of the old mill workers, who had spent half his life at work in the Bay View plant, was willing to wager considerable money on a ratio of two to one that the men would vote not to strike. This man says that four-fifths of the lodge members are married and have families and the majority of these, he says, will vote to remain at work. The faction, he says, that is willing and anxious to obey the mandate of President Shaffer is composed of single men who have no trade in obtaining work elsewhere. While the meeting was called for 3 o'clock, it is not expected that the result will be known before 5 or 6 o'clock, and perhaps even later. It is said that in case the lodge votes to remain at work that a number of the minority will decide to quit work of their own acord.

Douglass, formerly assistant teller of the Guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit company of Philadelphia, arrested here yesterday as a fugitive from justice, declined to return to that city today without requisition papers. Douglass is accused of embezzling $13,000.

ANOTHER FAMINE

Russian People Again on the Verge of Starvation.

Crops Fail In a Third of the European Provinces.

Stricken Area Half Million Square Miles In Extent.

London, Aug. 17.—Advices from Moscow say Russia is on the eve of another famine. Nearly a third of the provinces of European Russia are officially declared to have produced "insufficient," others "sufficient" and others still "under the average" crop of cereals. Only two provinces out of seventy really have good harvests. Among the "insufficient" are the best wheatg rowing districts. The official "insufficient" means utter starvation. The famine-stricken area extends 500,000 square miles. The poulation numbers 43,000,000. The hopes founded on the report of two months ago have vanished. The havoc has been wrought by the intense heat and entire absence of rain when needed. Afterwards there were torrential downpours. As the harvest is now in progress, these are final reports. It might be supposed that Russia would still be able to draw on her vast resources in Siberia, but matters have not gone well there, though the figures have not been finally issued. Moreover, the bumper crops of Siberia avail little, for Russia has no roads but the railroads, of the hundreds of thousands who perihed, directly or indirectly, from typhoid and other epidemics induced by starvation during the previous families, the great majority were within 100 or 200 miles of the railroads.

RROJECT IS COMPLETE.

Government Work at Grand Marais Is Finished.

Wednesday Capt. Gaillard accepted the work at Grand Marais from the contractor, the Butler-Ryan company, which has been building the final section of breakwater. This work completes the government project at Grand Marais and unless the commerce of the port increases very materially it is unlikely that any more money will be appropriated for this harbor. The project included the building of two breakwaters each 350 feet long and the dredging of an anchorage area of twenty-six acres to a depth of sixteen feet.

GOMPERS COMING.

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—It is stated that Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, will arrive here this evening and hold a conference with local leaders of his organization. Later, it is understood he will confer with representatives of the steel strike here.

LAWSON THE WINNER.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—The 10-mile national cycling championship for professionals was won by Lawson, of Buffalo. Major Taylor, Worcester, second; Frank L. Kramer, East Oronge, N. J., third. Time, 23 minutes 17 seconds.

CONGER REACHES CHINA.

Pekin, Aug. 17.—Edwin H. Conger, the United States minister to China, has arrived here.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT.

New York, Aug. 17.—There was a free-for-all fight on the excursion steamer Gen. Slocum on her trip to Rockaway Beach today. The crew of the boat quieted the disturbance and when the boat reached her destination seven men were arrested. Reports that a serious riot had occurred on the steamboat are incorrect.

GIBBONS AT QUEENSTOWN.

Queenstown, Aug. 17.—Cardinal Gibbons, who is here awaiting the arrival of the Etruria, will be the guest of the bishop of Cloyne tonight and will be presented with addresses from the Catholic societies and the town council.

A real estate investment is usually a safe investment. Our own city of Duluth, with its numberless resources, is a good place to cast your anchor. Consult the "real estate" columns of The Herald every day and see if you can't make a deal.

REPORT COMFIRMED.

President Hays Has Surely Resigned From Road.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—A local railroad man has received a dispatch from New York containing absolute confirmation of the report that C. M. Hays has resigned the presidency of the Southern Pacific railroad, says the Call. The dispatch says the resignation is now in the hands of Mr. Hays' superiors.

It is believed here that the man who succeeds Mr. Hays will be president of both the Union and Southern Pacific systems and and that the two roads will be consolidated under one management.

KILLED AND CAPTURED.

Infantry Has Successful Engagement With Insurgents.

Manila, Aug. 17.—A company of the Twenty-seventh infantry had an engagement with the insurgents yesterday in Camarines province. The troops killed Zebastean Angeles, a rother of Gen. Angeles, and six privates, and captured a major, two captains and nine privates. Another detachment captured Magasin Caballes, at Lumbang, and also seized a large quantity of supplies.

TO THE HAREMS.

Kurds Take Young Girls Captured in Raids.

London, Aug. 17.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Constantinople says a body of four hundred Kurds has been raiding the Damizra district of Armenia and has destroyed twelve vilages, leaving nothing but smoking ruins. Only the young girls were spared. They were carried off to the harems. All the males were ruthlessly butchered.

AMERICAN HONEYMOON.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Suits for the recovery of sums aggregating $13,000, alleged to have been withdrawn from the endowment fund, Knights of Pythias, were filed in the circuit court here today by the supreme lodge of the order against John A. Hinsey, former president of the board of control, and Henry B. Stolte, former secretary of that body.

OLD-TIME TAVERNS.

Inns of Forty Years Ago Were Most Hospitable.

There were stage coaches and tavern days in the Western states forty years ago. But while these still exist in some parts of the country and in England, one would look in vain to find either now in the states where they used to be frequent and numerous, says the Chicago Tribune.

Here and there forty years ago the traveler found men and women of dignity and stateliness who seemed to belong to an older country. They were people who stood upon the heights of honor. A man's word was his bond, and the stranger who passed over the threshold of the home far removed from what was then the center of population was entitled to the confidence and protection of the owner until he proved himself unworthy.

As the new country filled up later from imigration, and the population became more diversified, the old types gradually passed away. They moved out into the greater West and were finally lost.

But to return to the times and places when and where they lived when Indiana and Missouri were called Western states. Pleasure travel then was confined to steamboats. When a man left the river and traveled inland he went by stage. Towns were far apart, and so it came about that taverns intervened.

At these the traveler got out to eat and stretch his legs, while the driver of the stage watered his horses and readjusted the harness and baggage. The tavern was usually nothing more than an ordinary house, but before each, swinging from a tree or pole, was the same sort of sign seen in old English towns, on which, after the name of the tavern, always a name of pretension, were the words:

ENTERTAINMENT FOR MAN AND BEAST.

There are not many persons living who recall these places and signs in the far West forty years ago, because the new country which was opened up in later times wiped out old customs and manners, whereas in New and Old England the same customs and manners still exist in many places.

The landlord of the Western tavern was always a man of influence and pretension. He usually wore a high hat, carried a cane, and took snuff. The latter was generally offered to the weary traveler who halted for the hour. In exchange for the latest news from "down the river" the landlord told the traveler something of the next town and the people whom the traveler was journeying to see.

If the stage came to the tavern at a late hour in the night, as it often did, the driver called out his long "hellow" until it awoke the help in the tavern. This was always a darky, who came out with a lighted tallow candle in a tin lantern.

When the traveler left the stage and entered the tavern the landlord was on hand to greet him, and if the traveler was "inclined" the landlord invariably produced a bottle of applejack or peach brandy from the sideboard. This was the landlord's cheer, and the guest could offer no insult greater than a proffer to pay. If there were any "lady travelers" they were shown to the room of the wife of the tavern keeper, who, instead of offering tea, ordered the maid to bring in hot rum, spiced.

After this hospitality the travelers resumed their journey. The darky with the tin lantern stood in the doorway until the stage rumbled away in the night, and then the tavern lights were out.

Some of these tarverns stood on the river wharf—the steamboat landing. If the stage arrived in the night the travelers were quickly informed, as nearly as the landlord could reckon, about the time when the next packet was due, bound up or down.

The tavern by the riverside in the Western town forty years ago was known to every boatman and traveler. What the tavern lacked in those modern conveniences now required by travelers was made up for by hospitality on the part of the landlord and his wife, which, like the taverns themselves, long since perished from that part of the earth.

The names of some of these Western taverns, as recalled by the man who tells the story, were the Orleans, the Oriental, the Raleigh, the Traveler's Rest and, most frequently, the Mansion House.

WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST?

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY—
It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN—
It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE—
As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP—
By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

Watkins' Big Lumber Mill at the "Soo" Destroyed.

Sault Ste. Marie—Bradley Watkins, big lumber mill burned last night, throwing 120 men out of employment. The loss is $50,000, partly insured.

Escanaba—Several Escanaba saloon keepers are on the anxious seat. They have received letters warning them that their places of business would be wrecked this week, before Sunday. The epistles are unsigned and they are possibly the work of some joker. Then again, it is realized that some crank of the Carrie Nation stamp may be contemplating a crusade and all the saloon men thus anonymously threatened are keeping a sharp eye on strangers, particularly on all women, who venture into their neighborhoods.

Menominee—Miss Edna, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brown, of Menominee, owes her life to the heroism of Charles F. Kaiser, car repairer for the St. Paul road, who rescued her from drowning as she was sinking the last time, Wednesday. About noon the young miss, with several friends, was playing on the booms in the Kirby-Carpenter company log slip which fronts the office of the L. W. V. S. company, when she fell into the water. Her friends were powerless to render her any assistance and they cried for help. Mr. Kaiser was working in the railroad shop and, hearing the frantic cries of the girls, hastened to the rescue. He dove after Miss Edna.

The death of Capt. Martin Golden, one of the oldest and best known mariners on the great lakes, occurred at Menominee, where he had resided for twenty-six years. Capt. Golden was born in Waterford, N. Y., Nov. 8, 1843, and at the age of thirteen moved to Appleton. The water had a fascination for him and he soon mastered nautical science, and early in life was master of a boat. In 1869 he was wedded to Miss Alice Abbott. In Menominee and six years later moved to Menominee. He engaged in the lumbering business, was a tug owner and amassed a snug fortune. He was a man who loved his home and enjoyed its comforts. A wife, two sons, Guy and Frank, and a daughter, Mrs. Louis Foutloff, mourn the death.

THE DAKOTAS.

Last of Bismarck's Blind Pigs Successfully Closed.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Bismarck—Two blind pigs run by C. H. Albertson and Charles Nolan were raided Thursday night. The owners of the place were completely surprised and their stock of liquors was confiscated. These are the last two resorts that were open in the city.

Jamestown—A row is on in the Presbyterian church at Courtenay and the members are lined up in battle array. A faction asked for the removal of C. A. Sanford from the position of trustee, but gave no reasons and the presbytery rejected the petition. Several of the opposing factions went to Cassalton to attend presbytery and at Valley City a personal encounter between E. F. Horn, a prominent resident of Courtenay, and the Presbyterian pastor, Rev. Mr. Steele, was narrowly averted. The latter remarked to Mr. Horn that he was "a Scotchman and as good as any lousy American." This made Mr. Horn very angry and Rev. Mr. Steele escaped a solar-plexus blow only by sidestepping rapidly. A movement has been started to compel Rev. Mr. Steele to resign.

Grand Forks—Officer Gorman was called to the residence of H. K. Woodward, on Alpena avenue, by an alleged attempt of Woodward to take the life of his son. It appears that the father has been acting in a very peculiar manner of late, and last evening objected to the presence of his son in the house. He secured an ax, entered his son's bedroom and threatened to kill him. The police were notified and Officer Gorman went up. Woodward was locked up and an examination will probably be held as to his sanity.

Fargo—Edward Burns, who pleaded guilty to stealing $150 from the pockets of his roommate, was sentenced by Judge Pollock to two and a half years in the state peritentiary.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls—An important order bearing on the payment of delinquent taxes has been entered by Judge Jones. The county commissioners some time ago passed a resolution permitting the payment of back taxes at their face value, omitting penalty and interest. This offer was taken advantage of by a great many, who liquidated back taxes, but others seem not to have fully understood it. Then came the publication of the delinquent tax list under what is known as the "scavenger tax law," and after that, according to the terms of the law, judgment is to be entered against the property. Property owners in the meanwhile have sought the county treasurer for the privilege of redemption under the resolution mentioned. The treasurer was compelled to refuse on the ground that it no longer was operative, and that the matter was in the hands of the court. On motion of the county, Judge Jones has now entered an order extending the privilege of redemption at the face of the tax where certificates are held by the county. Therefore those who neglected to pay delinquent taxes before the publication of the list now have another opportunity.

Yankton—In addition to other features a new department of kindergarten work will be added to the Yankton Musical conservatory this fall.

The military feature of the state fair is assuming far greater proportions than even its most ardent supporters hoped for when the movement started. The Yankton county commissioners and the Business Men's club will give about $500 for the benefit of the state guards, who will be reviewed by Governor Herreid and staff in uniform. Besides this a movement is on to hold a big camp fire on one of the streets, to which all old soldiers and the W. R. C. of the state will be invited.

FORMAL CLOSING

The First Parliament of King Edward at an End.

Was Duly Prorogued With the Usual Ceremonies.

King Makes a Congratulatory Speech to the Members.

London, Aug. 17.—Parliament wound up its business today and was prorogued. Black Rod (Gen. Sir Michael Bidulph) summoned the commons about 4 o'clock to the house of lords to hear the king's speech. The royal commissioners on this occasion were the lord chancellor, Earl Halsbury, the duke of Marlborough, Lord Ashbourne, the earl of Kintore and Earl Waldegrave. They were all attired in their peers' robes. On the arrival of commons, the speech was read. It says:

"My Lords and Gentlemen: It is satisfactory to be able to close the first parliament of my reign with the assurance that the cordiality of the relations of Great Britain with the other powers remained undiminished."

A reference to China is merely congratulatory, on the attainment of an agreement in regard to the indemnity, security for its payment and the punishment of the most guilty offenders.

In regard to South Africa, the speech says:

"The progress of my forces in the conquest of the two republics by which my South African colonies have been invaded has been steady and continuous. But, owing to the difficulty and extent of the country to be traversed, the length of the military operations has been protracted."

The speech refers to the signal success of the duke of Cornwall and York's visit to the colonies as "additional proof of the patriotism, loyalty and devotion of the people of my dominions over the sea."

The rest of the speech merely records the king's satisfaction with the liberal provisions made for the naval and military services, the arrangements made for the maintenance of the honor and dignity of the crown, "especially those which affect the state and comfort of my royal consort," and the authorization to change the royal title. It concludes:

"I earnestly commend you to the merciful protection and guidance of Almighty God."

Returning to the house of commons, the members filed past the speaker, shaking hands with him, and the first parliament of King Edward VII was ended.

GRAND FREE CONCERT
3:30 to 5 p. m. Pleasing Program of Popular Melodies. Everybody welcome.

A Pleasing Recital.

A concert recital was given Thursday evening at the First Swedish Lutheran church by Signor Valenza, harpist and, and Signora Valenza, contralto. The audience was large and the concert delighted all. Signora Valenza is a thorough artist, ramarkably skillful in execution, intelligent in interpretation and sympathetic in temperament. He played a selection from "Der Freischutz" by Weber, a valse de concert by Hesselman and the "Carnival of Venice." Signora Valenza's singing is a delight, her voice being pure and fresh and of remarkable richness. It had a fine range, being rich and mellow in the lower tones, and sweet in the upper register. Her stage manner is pleasing and she sings with deep feeling.

men to do so. I am not sure that I will go to McKeesport tonight."

No more mills were started at the Painted works today, but the company expects to have another mill going on Monday. There were no changes at the other local properties today.

RESULT IN DOUBT.

Hardly Believed Milwaukee Men Will Strike.

Milwaukee, Aug. 17.—The Bay View mills of the Illinois Steel company will be closed down at 2 o'clock this afternoon in rder that there may be a full attendance of members of the Amalgamated association lodge at 3 o'clock, when the strike order of President Shaffer will again be considered.

From a canvass among a number of the men this morning it was learned that quite a number of them will favor a strike. These are said to be in the minority, however. The old men are said to favor remaining at work, and will bring all the power they can to bear in that direction when the meeting is called to consider the famous strike order.

Michael F. Tighe, President Shaffer's representative, will be given a respectful hearing in any event.

Superintendent George L. Reis of the Illinois Steel company's Bay View plant is prepared to renew the contract now existing with either the men, individually, or with the local organization, if Secretary Tighe declares their charter forfeited.

Mr. Reis does not believe the men will decide to strike.

NOT INVITED YET.

Tighe Will Not Go to Chicago Without Invitation.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—A dispatch from Milwaukee today quotes Assistant Secretary Tighe as follows in reference to the South Chicago union:

"I shall not return to the Chicago mill unless invited, and I have not been invited. In reference to the assertion that the South Chicago men insist on their right to pay part of their wages to the association to aid in prosecuting the strike, I would say that the Amalgamated does not want blood money. They have refused to stand by the organization, they have been read out of it, and that ends the matter unless they should repent. Until they are with us on principle we want none of their assistance."

Secretary Tighe has been invited to visit the unon at East Chicago, Ind., where there are independent mills. It is a social call only that is asked, and he probably will accept the invitation Monday.

MORGAN'S PLAN.

Believed That It Will Be Effective Soon.

New York, Aug. 17.—With no announcement of J. P. Morgan's plan for bringing the workmen of the Steel corporation in closer touch with the capital end beyond the corporation giving stock to the workmen and thus taking them into partnership, has not been made, it is expected that in view of the situation in the strike some definite plan will be given out. Mr. Morgan has not been seen at his office for some days and E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the United States Steel corporation, would not talk for publication on the subject. He said that at this time an official announcement might compromise the corporation's plans or might cause undue delay.

MUST SHUT DOWN.

Mills Will Be Forced to Quit Soon.

Joliet, Ill. Aug. 17.—It is expected that the lack of rods at the American Steel & Wire mills will force them to shut down as early as Tuesday, thus increasing the number of men out to 60,000, nearly half of them involuntary. The rods are finished by the Illinois Steel company.

There are no signs of violence today, though the streets were full of idle, talkative men. The announcement is that an effort will be made to organize all skilled workmen in Joliet mills. The scope of the movement has not been definitely outlined, but the strike leaders believe that a membership of close to 2000 can be secured. There is fear that the company may endeavor to operate several branches of the Illinois plant with what is known as skilled workmen and candy ment not identified with the union or affiliated with the Amalgamated association.

One of the first moves to be made will, it is said, be directed against the American Steel and Wire company, a constituent of the United States Steel corporation. Four plants of that company in Joliet have no union, and all efforts to organize these men by the present has been frustrated. There are 2000 men employed in these mills, and it is stated that at least 700 men are eligible to membership.

NOT WANTED.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 17.—The chamber of deputies has decided not to receive officially any comunications from the cabinet.

Music, Third regiment band, Oatka, Sunday.

AT WEST DULUTH

The Herald newsboys of West Duluth, of whom there are about sixty, are looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to the newsboys' annual picnic, which will occur next Tuesday. The picnic will be held at the same location as last year, Henry Kirk's farm on Sucker river. The newsboys will have a special train from the Union depot over the Iron Range road at exactly 8 o'clock in the morning. The West Duluth newsboys will meet on the corner of Central avenue and Ramsey street, near Spencer's drug store, at an hour early enough to catch a car that will get them down town by 7:45 o'clock. The boys will be in charge of Donald Holmes. The West Duluth boys will form a baseball club to compete with the boys from down town, and caps will be furnished the West Duluth club from Boyce's drug store.

At The Herald circulating rooms orders for the day will be given to the entire brigade of newsboys by A. C. Pearson, the circulator. The line of march will begin from The Herald circulating room, with the West Duluth Newsboys' Ball club leading the procession. The boys will march up Second avenue west to First street, west to Fifth avenue and down to the depot. This excursion is absolutely free to the boys; transportation, lemonade, watermelons, etc., will be furnished. Every boy, however, must bring his own lunch, and have a tag with his name attached, so it will not get lost among the others. There is an excellent place to go swimming at the scene of the picnic, but every boy that indulges in the sport must wear his bathing trunks. The train will return Tuesday afternoon with the picnicers, reaching the Union depot at 3:30 o'clock, so that the West Duluth patrons will get their evening papers on time.

FOOLKILLER NEEDED.

Another one of those painful efforts at facetiousness was attempted a few days ago by a young man of West Duluth, who gave out that there would be a dancing party at a certain location on Grand avenue, and that one of the features of the occasion would be a cakewalk, in which Walter Kurtz would figure as one of the principals. It was the evident intention to joke Mr. Kurtz, but he does not take kindly to such attempts on the part of his friends. There was no cakewalk: in fact, it was a strictly invitation affair, and was participated in by some of the best young people of West Duluth. The young people resent any attempt to make their parties appear ridiculous.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

John O'Brien, the well-known bridge builder of West Duluth, has just closed a big contract with a railroad company for bridges on a 40-mile piece of track near Marshall, Minn. There will be about forty bridges to build. Mr. O'Brien is hustling about getting his crew together, and will ship his equipment to Marshall in a few days.

John Boler, of Fifty-fourth avenue west and Main street, died yesterday after an extended period of sickness. The decedent was about 50 years of age, and has been a resident of West Duluth for a long time. He leaves a wife and a number of children. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The Lady Maccabees of Duluth, West Duluth and West Superior will have a joint basket picnic at Zenith park Aug. 29, and it is expected that the event will be a memorable one. There will be contests and dancing and a general good time.

It is expected that there will be appropriate celebrations at Zenith park on Labor day. Among the plans for the day's entertainment is a basket picnic, also a dance.

Mrs. Andrew Thompson, of 4518 Magellan street, died yesterday of dropsy. The decedent was 38 years of age and was widely known in this part of the city. She leaves a husband and ten children and a mother, who resides in Oneota. The funeral took place from the house at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and was largely attended.

William Spencer has returned from an outing at Pike Lake.

Mrs. C. C. Salter is in Hibbing for a two weeks' visit.

Mrs. O. J. Simonds is quite sick.

The ladies of Pearl hive No. 4, L. O. T. M., will give a picnic at Zenith park Aug. 29.

TEXAS OIL NEWS.

Sensational Gushing of the Cattlemen's.

The best proof that there is no apparent diminution of the oil in the Spindle Top pond is furnished by the Cattlemen's gusher which came in Aug. 10. It is just back of the Saratoga well, and the precaution had been taken to put a turn on the upper end of the pipe so as to force the well to gush horizontally. A grand roar accompanied the coming in, the oil spouting through the horizontal 6-inch pipe and throwing out oil, sand and rocks. It was pronounced one of the strongest in the field. The flow was so great that 1000 barrels were lost before the well could be shut off, and two of the drillers were knocked out by the gas and oil, and had to be carried off.

We are getting out a new bulletin to stockholders of the Saratoga company, which will be ready to mail Friday. Richest Man In America

A Study of John D. Rockefeller By Kate Carew---Best Place to Study Him Is In Church.

New York, Aug. 6.—John D. Rockefeller is the most fidgety man I ever saw. It makes you nervous to watch him. And if he knows that you're watching him he develops such jumpy symptoms that you feel sorry for him in spite of yourself.

He lives in a fine, large house in West Fifty-fourth street, just round the corner from Fifth avenue.

But the best place to study John D. Rockefeller is in church. He is a great church-goer, you know. The Fifth Avenue Baptist church—it isn't in Fifth avenue at all, but in West Forty-sixth street—is his peculiar tabernacle. He worships there with great simplicity every Sunday, and shakes hands with everybody in the porch after service.

If you go to church early you will be in time to hear the closing hymn of the most celebrated Bible class in the country. The Junior John D. Rockefeller Bible class, you know. It is led by a young man who is heir to more money than the mind is capable of grasping. It meets in the gallery of the church for an hour before the morning service and is composed of fifty or sixty young and midle-aged men.

From the body of the church you can see them filing out, pausing at the exit to shake young Mr. Rockefeller's hand, which he offers impartially to all.

You would take him for something connected with the bank in a country town. A thick set, shortish young man, with a pale, shiny face and weak eyes. He marches into the church a few minutes later behind his mother, who follows his father, and all three take their places in the family pew.

The Rockefeller family pew is near the door—within six or seven rows of it. Most worshipers prefer to be nearer the pulpit, but those who sit at the rear of the church are so much the less subject to scrutiny.

All strangers are ushered to pews near the front. Mr. Rockefeller's neighbors are private pewholders.

His pew is on the left of the right center aisle. But he does not pass the plate in that aisle. When the offertory time draws near he slips into the porch very quietly and re-enters by the door on the extreme right.

No strangers are admitted to seats in that aisle. Mr. Rockefeller tip-toes down to the platform, takes his plate, deposits a bill on it and passes it from pew to pew among members of the church only, thus working his way back to the door.

There he transfers the plate to a fellow-collector, who returns down the aisle to place the offering on the platform, while Mr. Rockefeller steals back to his pew as quietly as he had left it.

In performing this duty Mr. Rockefeller's eyes are never for an instant still. They are very small, pale blue eyes, deep set and as shifty as a ferret's. They have a startling habit of roaming all over the church, and especially over the strangers' seats, when their owners's head is bent in apparent absorption over his plate-passing.

One of Mr. Rockefeller's methods of sustaining his church is by doubling all subscriptions made by other persons. This is an institution of long standing, and is referred to every Sunday by the pastor when he is soliciting offerings. Only he does not mention Mr. Rockefeller's name. He merely refers to the well-known generosity of "a member of this congregation," whereupon Mr. and Mrs. and young Mr. Rockefeller lower their eyelids for a moment.

My impressions of Mr. Rockefeller are derived chiefly from two visits to his church on successive Sunday mornings. On the first occasion I was ushered to a pew near the pulpit, and caught but a fleeting glimpse of Mr. Rockefeller as he passed the plate in the aisle beyond. Even from that distance I caught the scrutiny of his pale little eyes and felt myself "sized up" as a stranger.

There was a gathering in the vestibule after service. Everybody was shaking hands with everybody else. And the center of the crowd was a tall, gaunt, stooping man in a silk hat that sat well down over the top of his head.

Here was an opportunity to observe Mr. Rockefeller at close quarters. Women, young and old, were pressing forward to shake his hand. For a moment or two I was near enough to hear him ask: "How is your mother?" and "Is your uncle's rheumatism any better?" and other inquiries proper to the occasion.

But his eyes did not cease to rove restlessly over the faces in the background, and presently they encountered those of a stranger.

The stranger's eyes, I can make affidavit, expressed nothing more dangerous than mild curiosity, but Mr. Rockefeller hastened to place himself beyond their range. Breaking with small ceremony through the press of women, he retired to a strategical position near an inner door, through which the remnant of the congregation was still slowly pouring, and there, while ostensibly conversing with other persons, he maintained a furtive watch until the innocently perturbing presence had removed itself from the building.

During this encounter I had an opportunity of observing that Mr. Rockefeller's eyes do not willingly meet the eyes of another; indeed, that they laboriously avoid such a meeting, as if by natural inclination or long habit. But their watchfulness is unsleeping.

On my second visit to Mr. Rockefeller's church I selected my own seat, and, through an oversight on the part of the ushers, was not disturbed. It was in a pew on the other side of the aisle from that of the Rockefeller's and two pews in advance.

From my place at the inner corner of the pew I could study Mr. Rockefeller at ease as he sat at the outer corner of his. Perhaps it's rather irreverant to confess, but I found him more interesting than the sermon. At first sight Mr. Rockefeller's is a commonplace face, but further scrutiny reveals it as a remarkable face. It is much older than any published portrait that I have seen would indicate. In a general way, although not badly modeled, it suggests the rodent type, and I believe that if Mr. Rockefeller shaved off his mustache, which curls inward toward the corners of his mouth, this suggestion would be accentuated—the suggestion of nibbling.

The eyes ,in their smallness and weakness, give an expression whih excites pity; but in this they are deceptive, for shrewder, more efficient eyes never blinked—and Mr. Rockefeller has a trick of blinking, especially when a stranger looks at him.

When you have studied those eyes, i neonjunction with the sharp nose and nibbling chin, you cannot escape the conclusion that Mr. Rockefeller has perfect command over his features. Superficially, he is a harmless, languid and devout old man, the soul of simplicity and amiability. But when you see the eyes wandering from one face to another, and always dropping when they meet a return gaze, you begin to realize that the accumulation of $500,000,000 demands other qualities.

Then, if you see Mr. Rockefeller really aroused to a sense that he is under scrutiny, you will look in vain for the simplicity and amiability, and you will see that the pitiful little eyes are as cold as a turtle's.

All these impressions I received during the service. I observed Mr. Rockefeller while he furtively observed others. So fortunately was I situated that not for a long time did he become conscious of scrutiny. When he did his agitation was great. There was something pathetic about his uneasiness, and I took care that its cause was not renewed.

The Rockefellers did not linger in the porch that morning, but left the building with the advance guard of the outpouring congregation.

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT

Baltimore American: Chicago has a new curch which proclaims that its only creed is justice. Its disciples, however, will realize the strenuous life if they try to live up to this simple profession of faith.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Dean Campbell Fair, of Trinity cathedral, Omaha, is a good man, but has no social tact whatever. While conducting services in the jail there he gave out the hymn, "The dying thief rejoiced," etc., and narrowly escaped rough usage at the hands of his sensitive congregation.

Brooklyn Eagle: The small attendance at Protestant churches in this city during the summer is ascribed to the national prosperity, which allows people to take ... vacations, so that in summer there are no churches. A proposition to send missionaries now in China to the Adirondacks is in order.

Detroit Free Press: A Galesburg, Ill., preacher declares that the hot weather is a punishment for the sins of the people. On the other hand, an Ohio minister has announced that the average temperature in heaven would be 826 degrees. So, the public is again left to figure the matter out for itself.

Washington Post: Neither the law, medicine, literature nor art presents to the beginner half the financial inducements held out by the pulpit. The only profession into which a young man may step fresh from school, with an assurance of a comfortable salary and good social position, is that of the preacher. The history of the Methodist church is proof positive that its ministers have not been starved.

New York Tribune: A Boston court recently sent to the house of correction an unfortunate prisoner who was unable to pay a fine imposed upon him because he had been guilty of the grave offense of reading a Bible aloud at Rever beach, without first getting the approval of the constituted authorities. Some years ago an exhorter who insisted upon preaching on Boston Common without a "permit" was put behind the bars. New Yorkers seem to be more tolerant in these matters than the modern Athenians.

DUN'S REVIEW

Distribution of Merchandise Has Proceeded on Satisfactory Scale.

New York, Aug. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

The distribution of merchandise has proceeded this week on a steady and satisfactory scale throughout the East, and in the West and South west the relief from the long drought and heat is beginning to be reflected in a larger retail trade, so that for the quarter promise is held out of a larger business than last year. Crop conditions in the territory most affected by the recent drought are improving and the weather has been highly favorable in nearly all districts east of the Missouri river, though rains have interrupted the spring wheat harvest.

The steel strike has affected prices extensively, particularly on sales for immediate delivery. In tin plates the advance has been greatest, while hoops, sheet, skelp and billets are sold at premiums. Quotations are too erratic for accurate record, and in many cases sales are at private terms. Confidence is steadily shown by pinching of distant deliveries at regular prices.

Consumption has undoubtedly been further curtailed this month, but a revival of exports tends to prevent a combination. New England boot and shoe factories are still actively engaged and the stability of prices remains a feature.

New York and Western shops are equally busy, jobbers complaining of slow deliveries. This is the season of greatest demand for boots and there is a fair vlume of business, but each year a decrease in output appears.

Leather seels freely but without change in price, while slightly lower bids for hides will probably secure large lots. Woolen mills have full employment as a rule, and the increased consumption of raw material tends to harden the tone of the wool market, although no quotable change is possible.

Official figures of the condition were far more hopeless than even the most pessimistic anticipated, indicating only about 2,000,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn together. Inflated prices brougt out receipts for the week of 2,359,705 bushels, against 2,032,198 last year, and reduced Atlantic exports to 631,506 bushels, compared with 2,362,335 a year ago and 4,034,302 in 1899. Wheat also advanced sharply, but there is sound argument for strength in Atlantic exports during the last two weeks of 13,579,034 bushels against 4,378,901 in 1900 and 4,866,646 two years ago.

Cotton prospects have materially improved and with average weather during the next few weeks there is reason to expect a yield equal to, if not larger, than the one preceding. Picking will be about three weeks later than usual, and the high wages and scarcity of labor may cause some loss. Financially the South is in a better position than ever before, planters have mortgaged less of their crop than usual and the banks will not draw on New York as heavily as heretofore.

Failures for the week numbered 168 in the United States against 161 last year and 19 in Canada against 24 last year.

There are people who say that the benefit derived from the use of put-up medicines is imaginary. It is not the case with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. A woman may imagine she's weak, or may fancy she's sick, but her imagination can't add forty pounds to her weight. The positive proof of the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" is found in the restoration of health which is recorded in face and form, of strength which can be tested, and weight which can be registered in pounds and ounces.

The general health of women is so intimately connected with the local health of the womanly organs that when these are diseased the whole body suffers loss. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass. (Box 70.) "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so thought I would try it, and I found it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine, and three vials of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine a year when I had a ten-pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I have been very well since I took your medicine. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' I had no appetite and could not eat much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I only weighed 135 pounds. Now I weigh 175."

Told On the Girls

Pittsburg Tobacco Dealer's Revelations Have Shocked Society.

Pittsburg, Aug. 17.—Cigarette smoking among women of Pittsburg has been increasing to an alarming extent of late, according to admission from leading cigar dealers.

"We have been having quite a trade in this line for several years," said one dealer when questioned yesterday, "and in recent months have been surpassing all former showings. I don't know where the fad began, but the list of smokers is rapidly increasing. We keep no account of the number of our customers or of what our sales to this particular branch of the trade amount to, but it is a very handsome addition to the regular demand."

"Ahe the majority of smokers young women, or do matrrons woo sweet contentment through the soothing influence of the weed?" he was asked.

"So far as my observation has noted there is no particular distinction," the dealer replied. "Some of our best customers are ladies, who come in now and then and buy a box or two of cigars for their husbands. Along with this purchase they will secure a supply of cigarettes, sometimes only a box or two, quite often a dozen boxes.

"Of course we have no knowledge of who smokes these, more than natural presumption accentuated by the interest displayed by the purchaser in the quality of the goods. A woman who is buying cigarettes for the purpose of making a present or paying a debt isn't usually particular to the point of fastidiousness as to whether they are the mildest on the market. The habitual cigartete smoker, as a rule, is not exacting about the mildness of the roll."

"And do the purchasers display any difference in making their demands?"

"O, yes; many of them do. We cannot afford to appear too curious, and when we spot a case of that sort we use a little discretion and suggest which is mildest and which would probably do the youngster who is supposed to smoke them the very least harm. We are usually able to give them about what they want. Some of the younger women, however—the girls in their teens who don't mind it—are surprisingly frank in their discussion of the relative merits of different brands.

"Frequently they drop in and secure a supply, two or three of them at a time, and it would make some of their great-grandmothers turn over in their graves to hear them compare this brand and that and discuss their favorites. The trade runs very largely to imported Egyptian and Turkish varieties, ranging in price anywhere from $2 to $6.50 per lb."

"You don't mean to say that they buy them by the hundreds?" asked the writer.

"Well, why not? Our trade is mainly with people who can afford the expense, and it is easier and far less annoying to buy a month's supply at a time than be compelled to drop in once or twice a week for a box. Several of our best customers buy them in lots of a hundred, and the most expensive ones we sell that way.

"The ladies draw the line upon the 'Key West' idea in cigarettes. We handle a grade of goods made in America from the same material that is worked up in Turkey, but they don't have the sale one would expect. The ultra "swell" cigarette smoker among women prefers the imported article every time, and they take the same goods that are in everyday use with the men. We handle no specially made ladies' cigarettes."

SOLD LAND.

State Tract In Kandiyohi County Disposed of By Auction.

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—State Auditor Dunn returned yesterday from Willmar, where on the previous day he held an auction sale of the so-called state capitol lands in Kandiyohi county.

The tract comprised 6400 acres, and about 98 per cent of it had previously been leased in small parcels through the agency of the county officials to persons who had made permanent improvements. All of the land was sold, and the average price per acre was $21, and the amount which the state will receive from the sale is $134,400. The average of the process fixed by the appraisers was $16 per acre. The lowest price received was $15 per acre, and only three parcels sold as low as that. The highest price was $28.50.

A hygienic, properly prepared article, Satin-Skin Powder absorbs perspiration, allays irritation, refines the complexion. Costs but 25c.

A Flower Fad.

Pressing the Summer Blossoms For Cards and Calenders In the Winter.

"I declare Im sick of making lace handkerchiefs and I've made enough sofa cushions to last or years," fretted teh summer girl. "I can't sketch and I simply hate embroidery. Is there nothing new under the sun?"

She threw down the bit of linen she was developing into a doiley, and, yawning, went to the other side of the broad piazza to sit at Aunt Mary's feet. The girls somehow had a habit of doing that. Pretty Aunt Mary was never bored, always bright and willing to put aside her work at all times to find diversion for these summer guests of hers —the four young nieces.

"Why not interest yourself in pressed flowers, since you yearn for 'fresh fields and pastures new?'" she asked. Betty groaned.

"Don't, auntie! Pressed flowers! I see visions of varnished autumn leaves framed and hung over the country doorway; books with dusty, faded petals dropping out of them every time they were opened. Horrible!" She shook her head vigorously.

"Well, Betty," answered Aunt Mary, mildly, "it does seem foolish to press flowers with no motive, but my idea is this," and the girls settled themselves to listen:

"There are many times in the winter months when you rack your brains over something new for menu cards, maybe, or souvenirs, or some special offerings. Now, I know a lady who uses pressed flowers for just such emergencies. She selects the silken poppy, the violet, the pansy, and kindred blooms, and at midday, when all moisture is dried from them, she carefully gathers them for pressing."

"But, Aunt Mary, pressed flowers don't keep their color," objected Edith.

"Yes they will if you take care of them. Put them between layers of cotton batting, or blotting paper, and then weight them evenly."

"Why, Edith," said Mildred, "don't you remember how Aunt Flora made a collection of ferns in India, and when she came home, the English lady gave her $500 for them? They were on blotting paper."

"Yes," auntie said, "but that was a real collection. You would gather only decorative blooms."

"To decorate what?" Ellen wanted to know.

"Well, supposing you are to give a luncheon next fall. You search your wits for a new guest card. You bethink yourself of your summer's work, and select—say, the lot of pansies that you picked from auntie's garden. On the white Bristol squares you arrange the pretty things, and fasten them with a bit of white of egg. Then below you write a quotation—"

"'Pansies for Thoughts,'" interrupted Betty.

"I send thee pansies, flowers of remembrance," quoted Edith.

"That's good. Then think of the decorative possibility of the wild rose—and the numberless rose quotations.'

"And the four leaf clover," said Mildred. "I'm going to hunt for four leaf clovers."

"Yes, and the clover blossom presses well. Only, girls, remember, for the heavier and more juicy flowers, the cotton or blotter must be changed two or three times for perfect results. The clover could be sent with Christmas gifts and on birthdays, with 'Good Luck,' or 'Live in Clover,' or a kindred expression."

"Why couldn't I make a calender of months?" mused Betty, whose enthusiasm was rising. "I could paste the calendar square on a sheet of cardboard and arrange the flowers of each month on it—and give it to papa next year!" she added, in a burst of inspiration.

"Or a national book, with the thistle for Scotland, rose for England, golden rod for America—and so on," was Ethel's thought.

"Girls, remember the ferns, and the wheat and oat stalks. Even the twigs of some trees are decorative. You can fasten these on the card with strips of black or gold paper."

"Come on, girls!" cried Betty, jumping up. "I'm off for the woods."

After all had rushed away, filled with enthusiasm over the new idea, Aunt Mary sank back in her chair with a sigh of relief, for she knew they were "settled" for the summer.

The Home of Peruna

The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

THE GREATEST OF AMERICA'S SANITARIUMS.

As is well known, Dr. Hartman is the president of the Hartman Sanitarium, an institution which has a department devoted exclusively to the treatment of female diseases. He is thus brought to see thousands of such cases every year, the most of whom return to their homes to be treated by correspondence. The principal remedy he relies upon in such cases is Peruna, which every woman should have, who has any effection of this kind.

DISEASES PECULIAR TO THE FEMALE SEX.

In view of the great multitude of women suffering from some kind of female disease, and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned gynaecologist, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases that may make application to him during the summer months without charge.

The treatment will be conducted by written audience. The doctor will prescribe al medicines, applications, hygienic and dietary regulations necessary to complete a cure. The medicines prescribed can be obtained at all drug stores. This offer will prevail during the summer months. Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, history and symptoms of her derangements

All cases of female diseases, including menstrual irregularities, displacements, ulcerations, inflammations, discharges, irritation of the ovaries, tumors and dropsy of the abdomen, should apply at once and become registered as regular patients. All correspondence will be held strictly confidential. No testimonials of cures will be given to the public except by the express wish of the patient.

No one knows better than Dr. Hartman how much the women suffer with diseases peculiar to their six. No one knows better than he does how many of them suffer with such diseases. Patiently, hopefully, wearily, and often silently, they eke out a miserable existence year after year.

A woman confined to the house several years with a chronic female derangement had finally given up all hope of being cured. She had tried physician after physician and remedy after remedy, without any permanent improvement. Her treatment had cost her husband, who was a poor man, hundreds of dollars. They had been obliged to deny themselves many comforts of life in order to get money enough to pay the physicians.

Picking up the paper one day she happened to read an item which contained the news that Dr. Hartman would treat such cases free of charge by letter. She immediately wrote the doctor, describing her case, and giving him all her symptoms. She soon received a letter telling her exactly what to do and what medicines and appliances to get. She began the treatment (the principal remedy being Peruna) at once, and in a few weeks was well and strong again and able to do her own work.

ONE OF THE 200,000 WOMEN HELPED LAST YEAR.

Another woman who used Peruna without becoming one of Dr. Hartman's regular patients had the following experience. Miss Ida Green writes from Baldwinville, Ga.: "Peruna is wonderful and good, and a certain cure for female weakness. I have been ill and have been taking doctor's medicine for several years, and found that none did me any good.

"Every day it was a worry. I was always sick. I had come to the conclusion to give up, and not use any more medicine. I was sick indeed for the past two years. Just before I began to take Peruna I was very weak, besides I was bilious and constipated.

"I had pains in my back and side and falling of the womb, with bearing down pains.

"One day while reading my newspaper, I came across an ad., read of the book for women entitled, "Health and Beauty," and sent for it. Then I began to use the medicine. After using several bottles I am now thoroughly cured."

Send for free book entitled, "Health and Beauty." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Separated By Galveston Flood

Thought Each Other Dead and Brought Together By Mere Chance---Reunion of Frank Parrish and Wife.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Torn from each other's terrified clasp by the seething waters of the Galveston flood at midnight; mourning one another month after month as dead; meeting suddenly face to face in the sunlight on the street of a New Mexico town, their sorrow changed to joy immeasurable in that one amazed glance of mutual recognition—such is the romance that marks the reunion of Frank H. Parrish and his pretty young wife.

The story of that tragic midnight parting and its sequel, the happy noonday meeting, is a strange story of chance; a story that cannot but revivive hope in any despairing breast, for it proves that although there may be only one chance in many millions of attaining the heart's desire, it is worth while to wait and watch for it.

Frank Parrish and his wife, swept asunder in the tempest's roar and the darkness of the night, without one clew to follow in finding each other when the morning dawned and consciousness returned, gave up all thought of meeting again in this world. There was no apparent reason for supposing that either had survived the horrors of that fateful night.

To chance they owe the reunion of their parted lives. It has brought about their second honeymoon, for Frank Parrish and his wife are just now as supremely happy a pair of wedded lovers as could be found the world over.

When the tide rushed into Galveston and houses were splintered in the mighty grasp of the storm; when the world itself seemed to come to an end in chaos most horrible, these two, shaken from their slumber, without time for prayer or farewell word, were hurled with their houses into the angry flood. Clinging to each other in the darkness, they were flung into the very vortex of the inrushing sea. The last instant of consciousness was fraught with anguish keener than any hurt to their bodies, for each felt the other slipping, slipping weakly away into the black, desolate waste of waters. With their cries choked in their throats; with even the wish to die together denied them, the man and the woman lost each other in the fury of the flood.

The catastrophe occurred in September of last year, ten months ago.

The other day, by the one chance that these two sorrowing souls had never dared to hope for, they found each other, alive and well, in the town of Roswell, New Mexico.

It was like awakening from a shuddering nightmare to a sweet, sunny reality.

When the flood came Mrs. Parrish was caught and pinioned by the swirling waters in some wreckage that drifted back within a block of the spot where their house had stood. Here she was finally rescued, badly bruised and hurt, but without broken bones.

Her husband was carried the breadth of the bay and far inland, where he was found by a kind-hearted stranger, a farmer, who at first thought him quite dead. But the nearly drowned man partially recovered consciousness, murmured the name of his wife, then sank into a semi-comatose state and wavered between life and death for six weeks thereafter.

Meanwhile he was tenderly cared for in the home of the farmer, upon whose hospitality and humanity the sea had thrust him uninvited.

Two months had passed before the sick man was able to return to the scene of his former happiness. Saddened and desolate, he wandered over the ground whose landmarks had been swept away by the anger of the elements, ground now so familiar, now so strangely altered. He lingered by the ruins of his dwelling as by a newmade grave. Everywhere he asked the same question and everywhere received the same discouraging answer.

No one had seen his wife since the night of the flood.

His heart grew heavy with despair. He bade good-bye to the wreck of his fortunes and the resting place of his broken hopes. Then he turned his face toward a new field, to begin life over again. There could be no solace for his grief, but in labor might be obtained some measure of forgetfulness.

Frank Parrish went to the home of his brother, Charles Parrish, in the mountains of Lincoln county, N. M. Slowly came back to him his strength and health, but the joy of his life was no longer his.

It was not satisfactory at its best, working merely for work's sake, but Parrish did what any man with the right sort of stuff in him would have done—he tried with all his might to make something worth while of himself in his new environment.

All this while Mrs. Parrish was wearing the somber weeds of widowhood in Murfreesboro, Tenn. She had gone there to make her home with a distant relative, of whom she had never happened to speak to her husband. Of her husband's brother she knew nothing more than the fact of his existence somewhere in America.

After the Galveston disaster she had remained in the vicinity until convinced that her husband had perished. Then she made her way to Tennessee.

As the weeks went by she regained her health, for youth is buoyant and recuperative; but mind and heart were not at rest—her loss seemed at times too great to be borne. She was so melancholy that her relatives finally planned a change of scene for her. She acquiesced with indifference.

One of Mrs. Parrish's new-found friends was a Miss Ellen Alexander, who was about to leave Tennessee for New Mexico to teach in a private school in Otero county, before the commencement of the term. It was arranged that Mrs. Parrish should accompany her. In Mexico she would find different associations, and the change would perhaps enliven her depresed spirits.

On a July day Mrs Parrish and Miss Alexander arrived in Roswell. It was a Thursday. They learned that the stage by which they were to proceed to Lincoln and Capitan, at which place Miss Alexander has a married sister, would not go until the following Monday. They were disappointed at the delay. But destiny—if it be destiny that plays with the loves of men and women—was not to be diverted; and chance—if such there be—strikes, like the lightning's bolt, where it will.

The next day Mr. Parrish came to town to purchase supplies and machinery. He wished to go back that same day, but was delayed until Sunday. He was disappointed. For two days the husband and wife were in the little town without knowing it, both detained against their will.

Their paths—destiny or chance the agents—were very near the meeting point now.

On Sunday, at noon, Mrs. Parrish left the hotel at which she was staying for a walk.

On Sunday, at noon, Mr. Parrish, his team ready, stepped from the postoffice to the sidewalk, and in another moment would have mounted the vehicle, taken up the reins and been on his way to the mountains.

Miracles may be wrought in a moment.

Frank Parrish, looking up, saw before him what he thought was a vision; a wraith risen from the sea. But the vision was so real that it did not melt in the sunshine of that Sabbath noon. It did not fade away, as all the other visions of his lost love had faded, phantoms of a lurid imagination. Instead, it held out two longing, tremuling arms, and the light of deathless devotion illumined its face.

"My wife! My wife!"

The man's sobs and the woman's tears—who of us witnessing that meeting, could have turned away without a lump fightening the throat, a mist clouding the eyes?

And so it is that a second honeymoon has begun down there in the New Mexico mountains.

REFUSED.

Hill Declines to Give Lower Rates on Coast Lumber.

Minneapolis, Aug. 17.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern, has refused to grant the request of the Pacific coast lumbermen for lower rates for their product.

Manufacturers of white pine lumber were just as sanguine that the Pacific coast lumbermen would not obtain the reduction in rates to the Missouri river, the Mississippi river and Chicago, for which they asked, as the West coast lumbermen were of securing it.

While the West coast men talk of going after the Eastern trade on a reduced rate to Chicago, the Minneapolis and all other white pine manufacturers say that the main object of the West coast men is to cut into the trade of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma. Those states are now the choice territory for all of the manufacturers west of Chicago. The trade of the next ten years in those states will be tremendous.

The present rate on fir lumber, the big lumber product of the coast, to the Missouri river and lower Mississippi river ponts is 50 cents per 100 pounds. It is the same to Chicago. To Minneapolis and upper Mississippi river points the rate is 40 cents. This rate also applies to points in Minnesota on the transcontinental lines west of the Minnesota Transfer. The West coast men ask for a 35-cent rate to Mississippi river points and a 40-cent rate to Chicago.

THIRTY MARRIAGES.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 17.—Among the 400 American teachers who sailed on the transport Thomas from San Francisco to Manila, sixty of them, on reaching Honolulu, were married. The teachers had been chosen from the many normal universities of the country and were all strangers to each other. Their acquaintanceship and courtship extended over a period of less than ten days.

WON ON FLUKE.

New York, Aug. 17.—The Constitution drifted across the finish line late yesterday afternoon a winner over the Columbia by 31 minutes and 23 seconds. This difference in time, however, does not represent the difference in speed between the two yachts. For a very large part of the big margin was entirely due to a fluke in the light airs while the boats were sailing the second round of the triangular course of fifteen miles.

HE IS NOT A HYPNOTIST

Dr. Arons, the Bone Setter, Does Not Use Hypnotism Mesmerism, Magnetism, Or Any Other Ocult Power—Only His Wonderful Skill and Remarkable Gift.

HIS COMPLETE MASTERY OF ANATOMY.

Physicians in Duluth, Superior, Fond du Lac and All Over the Northwest, Send Him Patients, As Do the Hospitals.

COMING ON EXCURSIONS TO SEE THE BONE SETTER.

The difficulty that many have to understand the underlying principle of Dr. Arons' wonderful work has led some to account for it by hypnotism, others say mesmerism, and a few claim it is done by magnetism. The truth is, he cannot and therefore does not use any of these ocult powers or employ any "ism" whatever. All of the hypnotism, mesmerism and magnetism combined, of all the past ages and that of the present age, could not set a club, twisted or deformed foot, straighten a curved spine, set a dislocated neck, broken arm, or fractured bone, or perform a single one of the many hundred operations upon cripples and deformities whom he treats so successfully. Such a conclusion that he hypnotizes the poor cripples and deformities who call upon him in the dark hours of their distress and forces them to take treatment is the most absurd thing imaginable. Such an idea is born of ignorance and nourished by superstition. Surely anyone who would think so certainly has not met Dr. Arons, the bone-setter, or seen him at his work. No, to do the Bone-Setter's work requires that you be a thorough physician and a skillful surgeon, with an easy mastery over anatomy—name and readily locate every bone in the human body and know its particular office—then, with a natural gift for the work, together with many years' practice in treating, relieving and restoring these troubles, makes him an expert operator of the finest skill—an artist, as it were—with the highest attainments of his scientific art. He has many imitators, but no equals, and therefore no competition on earth in his line; neither has he any pupils, agents or representatives anywhere, or assistants. He does the work himself personally, as he will not risk the limb and life of another in any but his own hands. He knows just what to do and how to do it in every case, and he does it so quickly that the patient has no time to think of it, hence there is no pain. With lightning-like rapidity he does it so surprisingly quick that you can scarcely believe your own eyes after seeing him perform an operation. Then you ask the patient if it hurts, and she says "No, not at all." What are you going to do—deny that you saw the Bone-Setter do it, and disbelieve the patient? You can't consistently do either. The work is done in the twinkling of an eye, and there it is; no discount on it. Do you think that if the Bone-Setter was doing this great work for suffering humanity with hypnotism, mesmerism, magnetism or any other so-called ocult power that the leading physicians in Duluth, Superior, Fond du Lac and throughout the Northwest would send him patients, even from the hospitals? Not very likely. His work with cripples and deformities is without rival in the history of the world—it is the wonder of the age. Physicians here and elsewhere have time and again importuned Dr. Arons to start a class or school and teach them how to do the work. Just like Edison or Tesla could impart their knowledge, skill, gift and art to another. If there be a cripple or deformity who shall read this, let him or her go and see the Bone-Setter, and they will ever bless the day. People are coming on excursions by boat and rail to see the Bone-Setter, and his offices are daily crowded, and more writing that they are on the way or coming. Remember the place, 1810 Fourteenth street, West Superior, Wis. Telephone 4625. Any inquiry by mail, with stamp enclosed, promptly answered.

TO GET EVEN

With His Sweetheart He Will Marry a Squaw.

Denver, Col., Aug. 17.—"I'm going to marry an Indian," said C. L. Mason, of Jackson, Mich., "and I don't care who knows about it. That's my mission, and if anybody wants to bet I don't do it, let him get his money up."

The man he addressed was long on stature but short on funds—besides, he had made a few bets before on other men's games, so he did not jump at the proposition with avidity; on the contrary, he contented himself with perusing the young man who lolled on the long sofa at the St. James hotel and hammered the toe of his shoe with his cane.

He was a thin-visaged, dejected-looking young man, but of polished, refined appearance, becomingly dressed in cream-colored flannels, smooth shaven and really handsome. Though not of athletic build, his frame was sinewy and his health was evidently good.

"Some humanitarian scheme, or the mere practical application of your theory touching the best way to educate—"

"Educate, the devil!" broke in Mr. Mason somewhat rudely. "I didn't say anything about educating the Indian. I said I was going to marry an Indian, and I am."

"O, I see, a foolish wager and a still more foolish determination to fulfill its terms."

"Nothing of the sort," growled the man who came out West to woo the dark Apache or the Sioux.

"But you must have some reason."

"You bet I have and it's a good one, too, that is to say, it's good enough for me."

There was a sudden pause during which Mr. Mason smote his foot still more savagely, while the other man wondered what reason on earth could actuate a handsome young man to come out here at this time of the year to marry an Indian.

"What kind, from what tribe will you select your copper running mate?" he ventured to ask.

"I don't know and I don't care—say, were you ever in love?"

Well, that was an abrupt turn to give the conversation, but as the tall man had expected answers to his inquiries it was but fair that he in turn should do the same. "Well, yes—some," he replied hesitatingly.

"Then you can understand and I'll tell you all about it in two minutes," Mr. Mason now sat up straight and looked his companion squarely in the face.

"I've been in love for three years with—plague take her—girl in the entire state of Michigan. She promises to marry me nine times—I don't mean that quite, for there would be no use in marrying me so many times, but nine times she has promised to marry me. Whenever the day came around, she balked. The last time we set the day, I told her that if she didn't carry out her promise on the 29th day of June, I would go out West and marry an Indian. She didn't believe me. She laughed at me and sue enough, when the 29th of June came, she balked again and I lit out and here I am."

"That's pretty tough," said the other man sympathetically, "but is there no way out of it?"

"There is just one little glimmer of hope," said the Michigan man, and now his voice was low and his tones were broken. "I sent her my address today and——"

"She may write, eh?"

"Yes," said Mr. Mason, with a solemn nod, "she may write."

THEY FORGOT.

Could Not Recall Childhood Name of the Bride.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 17.—Adam Jones, a wealthy farmer of Peru, Ind., was married here to Martha Harrington, of Niles. The wedding culminates a romance. Fifty years ago Jones and his bride were engaged to wed. They quarreled the night before the day set for the ceremony, and the engagement was broken. Jones went to Indiana and married. His wife died and he at once took another.

On the death of the second wife last month he came to Berlen county on business. By accident he met his early sweetheart, and learned that she, too, had been married twice, recently burying her second husband. The old spark revived and the long-delayed wedding was solemnized here.

A remarkable feature is that neither the bride nor groom could remember the former's maiden name when asked for it by County Clerk Church. In the cares and worries of half a century neither had allowed the mind to dwell on early days, and hence the memory of the name the lady bore when a young woman was lost. Her parents died years ago in the far West, so that no inforamtion could be received from that source.

All is Labor day in labor circles!

The celebration this year will undoubtedly be the largest and greatest ever seen in Duluth. All the unions show enthusiasm in their preparations.

The Labor day committee has now just about completed its program. At a meeting held last evening it received a letter from Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, saying that Mrs. Eva McDonald-Valesh, of Washington, D. C., will be in Duluth to deliver the Labor day oration. Mrs. McDonald-Valesh has a reputation as a speaker and an energetic worker in the cause of organized labor.

The committee has decided on a parade of five divisions. Four divisions will be reserved for the unions and one will be composed of floats. A large dancing platform is being erected at Lakewood, and this platform and the grounds generally will be brilliantly decorated at night. The Electrical Workers' union will have charge of this decoration, and the members are preparing to spring some very novel ideas. The labor people will have charge of everything. No privileges have been granted, and this will insure the very best accommodations and refreshments.

The report that the Duluth Brewing and Malting company was doing nonunion advertising is utterly without foundation. The Typographical union made an investigation and found that the brewing company was perfectly right. All its printing has been done in Duluth and by union printers. This brewing company is one of the staunchest supporters of unionism there is in the city.

The Retail Clerks' union seems to be trembling on the brink of great prosperity. Not only has the Great Eastern and the New Store requested the clerks to join the union, but it is intimated that other large Superior street stores are about to follow suit.

LABOR NOTES.

Texas cowboys will organize.

Cleveland hasn't a non-union bartender.

Austin, Tex., has a negro Federal union.

Stockton, Cal., bootblacks are organized.

Brooklyn bricklayers earn 60 cents per hour.

Pittsburg stone cutters get $4 for eight hours.

Cambridge, O., plumbers now get $3 for nine hours.

All Great Falls, Mont., city employes enjoy the 8-hour day.

Bay State, Mass., plumbers have won the nine-hour day and $2.75.

Negro journalists held a national convention in Philadelphia.

St. Catherine's, Ont., teamsters are paid $3.50 for nine hours.

Pullman porters are organizing. They want higher wages, tips having declined.

Tacoma molders contemplate striking for the eight-hour day at 40 cents per hour.

Nine hours of actual work is too long a day. Eight hours is long enough, says the New York Journal.

"City ownership is simple evolution," said President Frank Trumbull, of the Colorado & Southern railroad.

In Owossa, Mich., the Federal Labor union has been enabled to increase wages all over the city from 25 cents to 50 cents per day.

Dallas tinners secured an agreement with employers making $2.50 the minimum wages. Five shops gave $3 a day as the minimum.

New Baden, Ill., city council has reduced working day from ten hours to nine per day and advanced wages from $1.25 to $1.50 per day for laborers.

Pittsburg slate roofers reduced their hours from nine to eight and increased their wages from 33 1-3 cents to 40 cents per hour. This concession was secured after a strike of four weeks.

New Orleans electrical workers, after a walk-out of two days, secured the 8-hour day at 35 cents per hour and double time for Sundays and national holidays. The boilermakers have secured the 9-hour day in the principal shops.

Quincy, Ill., Federal Labor union secured an increase in wages from $1.50 to $1.75 and $2, after being on strike only half a day. All city work, which is let by contract, must be done by union labor. County board of supervisors also employ union men for all of their work.

Erie carpenters have received an advance of 25 cents per day. Plumbers got the 9-hour day and an advance from 25 cents to 50 cents per day. Bricklayers had their wages increased 5 cents per hour; stonemasons, 10 cents per hour. Machinists secured the 9-hour day and an advance in wages.

The miners on the several creeks in the vicinity of Dawson City, Klondike, have organized themselves into unions. Wages had been steadily decreasing. The present rates are $4.50, $5 and $6 per day and board. Miners are paid in gold dust at the rate of $16 an ounce. When they come to town this dust is accepted at $14.50 to $15—a loss of from $1 to $1.50.

American labor, it has been conclusively demonstrated, is the cheapest in the world in spite of the higher wages prevailing here—the cheapest because the most efficient, intelligent, alert, conscientious and productive. American manufacturers have conquered the markets of the world, and have defeated their competitors on the latter's own ground. American supremacy as an exporter of manufactured goods is certain and inevitable. Already all Europe is alarmed and earnestly considering the ways and means of checking the advance of the United States as an exporter. Never was labor better organized and more alive to its interests than now, and never was America's foreign trade so stupendous as now, says the American Federationist.

Each wing is 12 inches wide and there are two sets of 11-inch wings, one above the other below the operator's seat. Bird feathers are used in the construction of the wings. The machine can be operated either with or without an engine. The engine I use weighs but forty-five pounds and contains no moving parts. THEY ARE OPPOSED

Platt and Quay Not Agreed on Presidential Candidate.

New York Boss Is Said to Favor Governor Odell.

Matt Quay Reported to Be Pledged to Roosevelt.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—In 1904 Senator Quay of Pennsylvania and Senator Platt of New York will without doubt divide their interests in the national Republican convention of that year.

The understanding among politicians of prominence in Washington at this time indicates, from their talk, that Quay and Platt cannot agree upon a presidential candidate in the next national campaign. The New York senator has announced that he will favor the candidacy of Governor Odell of that state for the Republican presidential nomination. It is a fact that he is not friendly to the candidacy for this honor of Theodore Roosevelt, the present vice president of the United States. There are reasons why Senator Platt can not conscientiously support Col. Roosevelt for this high office. These reasons, if counted from a mathematical sense, would make it impossible for Senator Platt to endorse Roosevelt's desire. Senator Platt has a pet. This pet is no less a person than Governor Odell. If the senior senator from New York can control the state convention in New York, which selects delegates to the national convention in 1904, his influence will be directed in favor of the present governor of the Empire state.

New York, a good many politicians think, will furnish two opposing candidates in the next national campaign. If Senator Platt can secure for Governor Odell the seventy-two delegates, there is a bare possibility that he will be able to dictate the Republican nominee in 1904. It is not, however, considered possible by Col. Roosevelt's friends that even if he should not go to the next national Republican convention backed by the New York delegation, that he will fail to secure the nomination.

The internecine warfare between the Republican factions in the Empire state is so pronounced that even if Senator Platt is able to carry the state convention for Governor Odell, the latter's nomination is by no means certain. The reasons for this lie in the fact that Col. Roosevelt in the Western states is regarded, it might be stated, as a hero politician. Even, as before stated, if he does not have the backing of the New York delegation, his defeat for the Republican presidential nomination can not be counted upon by Senator Platt or Governor Odell in advance of the findings of the delegates who will assemble in 1904 to choose the Republican standard-bearer of that year.

Senator Spooner of Wisconsin is out of the running as a candidate, and this seems to be possibly true with respect to the desire of Senator Fairbanks of Indiana and his friends to place him at the head of the next Republican national ticket.

In speaking of the controversy likely to arise between Senator Quay and Senator Platt, some interesting history might be told regarding the schemes that these two astute politicians have worked successfully and unsuccessfully at past national Republican conventions. It is a well-known fact that these two men have dominated within the past twenty years half the conventions which have selected candidates to head the national tickets of their party. They have been defeated, however, occasionally, but 1904, it is believed, will show that for the first time there has been a "split" between the shrewdest political manipulator in New York and the "king bee" of politicians in Pennsylvania.

The opinion prevails among the friends of these clever politicians that for the first time in years they will not "pull together" in 1904. Senator Quay, so it is stated, has pledged his support to Col. Roosevelt for the presidency. The reasons for so doing are interesting from the viewpoint that an understanding was reached between Col. Quay and Col. Roosevelt, when the latter finally accepted the vice presidential nomination at the Philadelphia national Republican convention in 1900. The contract, so-called, between these two gentlemen stands, so it is thought, because Senator Quay, when making any political promise, keeps his word. On the other hand, Senator Platt pushed the vice presidential nomination on Col. Roosevelt at Philadelphia in order to get rid of him as a political factor in the Empire state. Senator Platt succeeded as far as was possible in laying the wires to put Col. Roosevelt on the shelf for the presidency. His object, however, in making this so-called beneficial political stroke for himself and the members of his New York political machine may miscarry. Col. Roosevelt is regarded in Washington and in many other sections throughout the country as a man, if he makes few if any mistakes as presiding officer of the United States senate in the next three years, who will be a forceful candidate for the presidency in 1904. If he is defeated, it might be stated in passing, it will be because Senator Quay of Pennsylvania is not able to successfully cope with Senator Platt of New York.

Mark A. Carleton, cereallist of the department of agriculture, has been recently investigating cereal conditions in the drought-stricken and other districts of the West. The season, as is well known, has in many places been an exceptionally favorable one for testing the adaptability of macaroni wheat to arid or semi-arid soil. In this connection, Mr. Carleton writes: "Macaroni wheat is having another chance to show its superior drought-resistant quality. In South Dakota, where the crop is already harvested, this wheat is giving excellent results. From one locality it is reported that the yield of macaroni wheat will be from 35 to 40 bushels per acre."

Very Pretty Production

"Lover's Lane" Is a Charming Comedy---Is Handsomely Staged---Gossip of the Rialto.

The audience that saw "Lover's Lane" at the Lyceum last evening was not as large as the character of the production merited, a fact which was doubtless due in a considerable measure to the warm weather. The play is by Clyde Fitch, but is rather different from anything this clever young man has given before. It is a charming comedy in which is pictured the trials of a liberal young minister of the gospel who is endeavoring to infuse into the narrow village people where he labors some of his own broad-mindedness. The trials which fall to him are humorous to the audience, but to the young minister are perplexing and aggravating in the extreme. Choir quarrels, sewing circle bickerings and all manner of church animosities are brought to the minister when he is striving to write his Sunday sermon, annoying him and leaving him in anything but a sermonizing frame of mind. But their meddling goes farther than this, for they interfere in his household affairs, object to his doctrine, censure him for not marrying some member of his congregation, and finally demand his resignation. It is a terrible blow to the young man, for he loves his work and his charge, in spite of the trouble he has met, and he is temporarily crushed, but after three or four months, during which the congregation has as many ministers, who all leave in disgust, they come to the former minister penitently and petition him to return, conceding him everything that he wishes. Several delightful love stories are woven through the story, the prettiest of which is, of course, the minister's. Altogether it is a very clever play and one of the very cleanest and most wholesome that the stage has ever seen.

The cast was entirely adequate. Ernest Hastings plays the part of the minister with dignity and a fine sense of its true meaning, presenting a manly, intellectual and sympathetic man. Miss Louise Randolph as Mary Larkin, the young woman with whom the minister falls in love in a very unusual way—when she came to him to be married to another man—is a charming actress, fresh, dainty and sympathetic. Simplicity Johnson is one of the very best characters of the play. She is a young orphan who has been taken into the minister's home out of his kindness of heart and is a decided "case," full of mischief, but with a tender little heart that is very loyal to friends and decidedly aggravating to those who do not meet with her approval. Miss Millie James plays the part and with striking success. There are any number of quaint characters—the village opera house manager, who posts his own bills; Uncle Bill, the church bell ringer; Aunt Melissy, whom he is courting; and all of the gossips and protectors of the moral life and rectitude of the village. All were excellently presented.

Nothing finer in stage dressing has ever been seen here. There are two scenes specially delightful, one in autumn, showing the apple trees bearing their fruit and the leaves falling. The apples cover the trees, and for all the audience can see, they are real apples and real trees. The next scene is in spring, and the same trees have just burst forth into blossom and are masses of pink and white.

Tonight the play will again be produced.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO.

Most Serious Rivals of the Syndicate.

New York, Aug. 15.—The return of George C. Tyler has stirred things up in the office of Liebler & Co., and already their fall campaign is on in earnest. In speaking of his trip Tyler said to me: "I got very little of the rest I was looking for because business started in just as soon as I reached London. I had been in correspondence for some time with the London agent of Duse, and he was waiting for me. We reached an agreement all right, but I had to go to Italy to see the actress myself. It did not take us long to agree, and when the contract was signed it called for Duse's appearance in fifty performances in America beginning in October, 1902. We will have to arrange the tour so that only four or five performances will be given each week, and only the principal cities will be visited. The signora's repertoire will contain 'Francesca di Rimini,' 'La Giaconda,' 'Il Fuoco,' 'La Citta Morte,' all plays by Gabrielle D'Annunzio. She will bring her own company and scenery.

Liebler & Co. are to date the most serious rivals the syndicate will have next season, although Kirke La Shelle is running well up. The Liebler forces will include Kyrle Bellew in "A Gentleman of France," Viola Allen in "In the Palace of the King," Mrs. Le Moyne in "The First Duchess of Marlboro," Otis Skinner in a new play and Ed. J. Morgan in "The Christian." Besides there will be "Sag Harbor," another Christian company up in Halifax and the monster production of "Monte Cristo," with James O'Neill at the head. To follow these will be Hall Caine's "The Eternal City," Mrs. Humphrey Ward's "Eleanor" and Zangwill's "The Mantle of Elijah."

Kirke La Shelle will have J. H. Stoddard in "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush," Frank Daniels in "Miss Simplicity," with Helen Lord, Harry Woodruff and Owen Westford; Marguerite Sylva in "The Princess Chic," with Dorothy Hunting, Niel McNiel, Frederic Knight and two "Arizona" companies. La Shelle will also give a production of "The First Sergeant James," by Eugene Walton, and a new play by Augustus Thomas.

Col. "Billy" Thomson has moved up to town from the sea shore. He described his reason the other afternoon to sympathetic friends. It seems that the colonel is very fond of a particular brand of cigar, which is only to be found at the Imperial, where the colonel is now located. His mouth just ached for one of these the other day immediately after he had received a trolley transfer ticket at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-fourth street. The legend on the said ticket maintained that the holder was entitled to a ride down town if he or she got on at the very same corner. The colonel couldn't go without that smoke, so he walked to the Imperial, two blocks away, and filled his pockets. He was happy when he left the hotel, but tired by the time he reached Thirty-third street. He boarded a car, and the haughty conductor said it was a case of a nickel or a put off. The colonel smiled and said: "Oh, you don't want this ticket, eh? Well, try this." He offered the conductor a $100 bill and told him to make change quick. Before the conductor recovered the colonel reached the street he was seeking and jauntily alighted.

Harry Bulger finds time these hot afternoons for a little quiet observation of how much faster certain race horses can run than certain other ones on whom, if Bulger were a betting man, he might be inclined to wager his socks. Bulger's observations naturally lead to a close study of pasteboard sheets in which are inscribed, besides the horses' names certain figures not specifically mentioned in the average arithmetics. One day this week Bulger's studies were rudely interrupted by a short man who wore a big straw hat. The man's name was Sam Bernard, and he works for a firm named Weber & Fields, who keep a store further down the street.

"Hello, Bulge!" he called out as he gave the student a poke in the ribs that made him double up. The next language was not nice. "I see you're trying to beat Waldere Kirk," continued calmly the man Bernard.

"How do you make it?" gasped Bulger.

"Why, your necktie and suspenders are made out of the same kind of stuff. What is it, cheese cloth?"

Then Bernard walked away and Bulger recovered sufficiently to write something on a piece of paper which he carefully folded inside a greenback and handed to a man who never gave him anything back.

After years the Casino is to have an architectural rival to be built by the Sire Brothers up on Long Acre square. The Casino is now the only Moorish specimen of builders' art in town, and the idea is carried out inside as well, it is one of the prettiest theaters in the city, and has but one defect—it is upstairs. For years plans have been discussed whereby the orchestra could be lowered to the ground floor and another balcony and row of boxes put in. Nothing has been done, but some move of this kind will have to be made if the new theater is built, as at present planned. The new Sire playhouse will be directly opposite the New York, and the architect's plans bear a considerable resemblance to the Casino, but are far more elaborate. When completed the house will be devoted to musical comedies and light comic opera.

Rehearsals are going on in a rush at the Metropolitan Opera house, where Alfred E. Aarons will present "The Ladies' Paradise" on Sept. 2. The chorus and minor parts are in excellent shape, and the principals go to work on Monday. Manager Aarons has engaged the Spanish dancer, Senorita Tortajada, as the premier in the review ballet, "Round Town," which accompanies the extravaganza.

The tour of Blanche Walsh in "Joan of the Sward Hand," the dramatization of S. R. Crockett's romantic novel, will begin in Detroit on Sept. 16. In her company will be Robert Lowe, Errol Dunbar, Mason Mitchell, Raymond Whittaker, Maude Granger and Charlotte Willson.

The story of John Dunne would indicate that he is peculiarly well named just at present. It is a hard-luck story of which any actor might well be proud, and the mystery is why Dunne kept it to himself so long. Once, not many moons ago, Dunne headed the firm of Dunne & Ryley, and later of Ryley, Dunne & Fisher. Now he is the sole member, but the honor is not even accompanied by desk room. This is thus because "Florodora" has made so much money, and Dunne feels hurt to think that he wasted all his time and most of his gray matter in trying to persuade the public to see "A Milk White Flag," while the supposed rock on the farm were dividing cash on Broadway. Dunne says all he got was the worst of it, and that as he must live, he wants the court to make Fisher and Ryley unload.

It's a lucky thing for the passengers on the Majestic that James T. Powers was on board. This, however, most of them do not yet know. In fact, Powers wasn't so sure of it until he had told the harrowing story of his experience on the fire ship several times over. Now he is positive. It seems that all hands were saved by Powers, who bid them keep calm and he would tell them a funny story to keep their minds off the awful fate in store for them. No one but a real hero could have stood the strain of rehashing all the Dan Bryant jokes while he knew that literally under his feet the great ship's linen was slowly being destroyed by the demon fire. Powers has a right to be proud, and not a man he met has refused to drink with him.

There will be an epidemic of husbands and wives in the theatrical business this fall along Broadway. To begin with, there will be the blushing bride, Sadie Martinot, whose husband, Louis Nethersole, will manage her show. Robert Lorraine will be at the Lyceum, while his wife, Julie Opp, will be at the Criterion with Faversham. Henrietta Crosman will be at the Republic with her husband, Maurice Campbell, in the front of the house. Miss Mary Mannering, who will later appear with her husband, James K. Hackett, in a Shakespearean production, will have in her support in "Janice Meredith" Walter Hale and his wife, Louise Glosser.

Alice Johnson, who has been playing leading roles with the Fowler Stock company in San Francisco, is to be the new leading lady at the Murray Hill. She is a Washington girl, who forsook society there for the stage. She has made great hits as the duchess of Portsmouth in "Nell Gwynn," Ann Cruzer in "The Charity Ball" and the duchess in "Chimmie Fadden."

The balance of trade in chorus girls tween this country and England has slowly turned, and now we are in the importing business. The arrival this week of three English beauties has struck a note of alarm in the bosom of every would-be chorus girl now out of a job, and a howl went up along the Rialto that met with hearty sympathy on every corner. As a matter of fact, the market in real chorus girls, girls that can stand in the front row without long skirts, was never so low as at present. The visit to England of "The Belle of New York" was the beginning of our export business, and since then it has been very brisk. The Alice Nielsen company only a few weeks ago returned from London with only half the chorus. The former rapid succession of shows at the Casino provided plenty of chorus girls, but now the promising candidates are snapped up at once. It's harder work to get a good place in the chorus than it was even five years ago. To be pretty, both of face and figure, is not enough. The chorus girl must be able to sing a good deal, act a little and wear good clothes on the stage as if she had been graduated from a drawing room and not a salve factory. The supply of this kind by no means equals the demand, and the salary paid to the first-class chorus girl is proportionately growing.

The place of Tyrone Power in the cast of "Miranda of the Balcony" has been filled by Lester Lonergan. This change has been caused by the illness of Power's wife in Australia.

Edwin Arden, the leading man with Sadie Martinot, was once in the box office of a St. Louis theater. He was assistant treasurer, but his ambition was great, and he was soon on the stage in small parts. His success was rapid, and he is now in the front ranks. The ambition was catching, for the treasurer soon left that box office to achieve fame from the stage. He was Augustus Thomas, the playwright.

Two real lions are an important part of the cast of "The Man Who Dared," which Charles E. Blaney will produce in Jersey City on Aug. 23. Their immediate rival will be a big white camel which Klaw and Erlanger have bought for "Ben Hur."

It has leaked out that Frank J. and Claxton Wilstach had the play, "Sweet Clover," in which Miss Adelaide Thurston is to star next season, "tried on the dog" in Philadelphia last season under another title. They were greatly pleased with the manuscript, but were desirous of a public trial before sending Miss Thurston out in the play. The critic of the Philadelphia Bulletin said of it: "It is a play that sober-minded people will like, romantic women will admire and matinee girls will revel in."

S. Miller Kent, who stars next season in "The Cowboy and the Lady," is at Saratoga Springs convalescing from a serious illness.

Stuart Robson has informed his company that the rest of the rehearsal of "The Henrietta" will be conducted at his home at the Highlands of Navesink. He will entertain them and they can combine work and summer breezes right off the ocean. Lorimer Stoddard, who was the original young English lord in the play, is dangerously ill at Liberty and will not be able to take the part again. Selina Felter Royle was the original widow, and she has declined to resume the role on the ground that her present avoirdupois makes it impossible.

The accident to Marie George in "The Strollers" the other night gave Francis Wilson the opportunity he has been waiting for. Hardly had the automobile turned its somersault with Miss George underneath than Wilson appeared with an arnica bottle and, reserving it for drinking purposes, played with a stage jag through a couple of scenes. It was quite a hit.

The company to support William Faversham is being strengthened at every possible point. Jennie Bosley and Joseph Holland were added last week, and now Edwin Stevens has been detached from the Empire Stock company and loaned to the new star.

On two occasions S. Miller Kent, who stars next season in Clyde Fitch's "Cowboy and the Lady," displayed his rather remarkable abilities as a "quick study" when playing Armis, in Liebler and company's production of "The Musketeers," at the Broadway theater. James O'Neill was taken ill on the second night of the run. Mr. Kent had never studied Mr. O'Neill's lines, yet he was able, with an afternoon's rehearsal, to go through the entire evening without a hitch—a rather extraordinary feat, by the way. A year ago when Mr. Kent was sojourning in London, Nat C. Goodwin was presenting "An American Citizen" at the Duke of York's theater. One day Mr. Goodwin was taken seriously ill when at this country place, Jackwood, and Mr. Kent was appealed to by Mrs. Goodwin (Maxine Elliott) to learn the lines and the "business" of Mr. Goodwin's role. He had but one day to do this, but he attempted it and made a cracking big hit in the part that night. Every paper in London called attention to Mr. Kent's remarkable performance. Another performer, who has a record only equalled by Mr. Kent, is Miss Adelaide Thurston, who will star next season in "Sweet Clover." Miss Thurston memorized the lines and learned the "business" of the fairy child in "The Land of the Heart's Desire" in four hours' time. When but 15 years old, Miss Viola Allen learned the title role of "Esmeralda" in three days.

Wilton Lackaye is to be rewarded for his patience and good work by being made a star just as soon as William A. Brady finds time. Meanwhile he will support James K. Hackett, and later will appear as Phineas Fogg in Brady's revival of "Around the World in Eighty Days." A play from Clyde Fitch is to be secured for him and a strong company engaged.

Arthur Byron, too, is to star. He has been leading man with John Drew long enough, he thinks, and Wagenhals and Kemper have signed a contract with him for several years. Three plays have been provided for him, one of which will be a romantic costume play, with the scene laid in the middle of the last century.

There is much travelling to be done before the Kyrle Bellew company can be got together. In the first place, the star missed his steamer and had to sail from Australia directly to England. Thence he will sail for America in a few weeks. A. H. Canby, who is to manage the tour, has been in Australia, but he is coming home by way of New Zealand. Miss Eleanor Robson is in Switzerland and will make brief stops in Paris and London before she sails for home on the Campania on the 24th of this month. The first production is fixed for Nov. 4 at the Grand Opera house, Chicago.

Tim Murphy has a new yacht, which he has called the Capitol, after his new play by Paul Wilstach. He wants it distinctly understood that Crane, Gillette and Mansfield can no longer have a corner in the yacht market, and that he can sail with any of them.

Miss Victory Bateman makes her reappearance in this city at the Fourteenth Street theater next Monday night. She will be prominent in the cast of "The Mormon Wife," which will be produced by Charles E. Blaney. In the company there will be Miss Roselle Knott and William Humphreys.

John H. Hariday, the English correspondent at Pekin, has written Edwin H. Price, the manager of "San Toy," for a picture of the actor in make-up who counterfeits Li Hung Chang in this musical comedy. The Chinese statesman desires it as a souvenir of his first appearance on the stage by proxy.

Mary Mannering's support in "Janice Meredith," the coming season, will be Walter Hale, Charles Cherry, Theodore Marston, W. S. Northrup, Carl Ahrendt, Martin J. Cody, John D. O'Hara, W. D. Chaifin, Aubrey Beattie, Charles Haskins, Sydney Mansfield, R. N. Nelll, Louise Glosser Hale, Alice Neal and Kate Lester.

And now it is all settled, D'Annunzio is not coming to America with Duse, and Duse herself will not be here until a year from next October. She will then give fifty performances only, but it is promised that she will appear in a number of new characters.

A Rialto rumor of last week has it that Lulu Glaser will soon become a bride, and adds that the happy groom will be Sam S. Shubert, the well-known manager of the Herald Square theater, in New York.

With her new play, "Joan of the Sword Hand," Blanche Walsh will realize a long cherished ambition to appear in masculine garb. Miss Walsh's raiment has for so long shown a tendency toward the masculine that she ought to make an interesting chap in this new play. The plot requires that the duchess in the play shall assume the wearing apparel of a youth of the middle ages in order to ascertain a striking appearance in doublet and hose.

A consideration of our leading feminine stars reveals that Maude Adams will begin her tour at the Toledo Valentine theater on Oct. 11; Bertha Galland's opening night at the Lyceum in Cincinnati is set for Sept. 16; Julia Marlowe will start out at the Hyperion in New Haven on Sept. 30; Mary Mannering's season will commence at Taylor's Opera house in Trenton on Sept. 16; Mrs. Leslie Carter's debut as Mad Du Barry is set for Nov. 4 at the National in Washington; Viola Allen's initial engagement will be on Sept. 19 at the Providence Opera house, while the selection for Amelia Bingham's start is the Worcester theater on Sept. 13; May Irwin will journey to the Salem Opera house on Oct. 14, and Blanche Walsh will do likewise at the Detroit Opera on Sept. 16; on the same date Ethel Barrymore will reappear at the Garrick in the revival of "Capt. Jenks of the Horse Marines;" Annie Russell's season starts at the Columbia theater, San Francisco, on Sept. 2.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

William A. Brady has just produced "Foxy Grandpa," a musical farce, written on the adventures of that old gentleman as shown in the cartoons in New York Herald and other important papers for the past two years. Joseph Hart and Carrie De Mar are the stars and the attraction has scored an instantaneous success. "Foxy Grandpa" goes to Buffalo for three weeks, commencing Aug. 19.

Madame Modjeska, who is to make a joint starring tour with Mr. Louis Louis James the coming season, is now on the Katie, the return route from Europe, where she has been since the close of last season. The famous artist spent the last few weeks of her trip in Paris, where she procured an elaborate wardrobe for Queen Katherine, the role she is to assume in Wagenhals and Kemper's production of "Henry VIII." She also brings the scenario of a new play now being writen for her by the leading dramatist of Poland. The season will open on Sept. 30 in Montreal.

Mildred Holland, in "The Power Behind the Throne," under the direction of Edward C. White, will begin her season Sept. 17. Frank Drew will continue to play Johan Winter and Lillian Norris the Duchess von Wardenheim. Leonard Walker will again be Miss Holland's leading man.

Ada Rehan, who is now in Europe, is evidently keenly interested in the forthcoming starring tour of her nephew, Arthur Byron. She cabled him last week she had secured him one of the leading English comedy successes, the rights to which she is ready to transfer to Mr. Byron's managers, Messrs. Wagenhals and Kemper. He is now well provided with material, having three other plays which, if necessary, will be presented in rapid sucession. Wagenhals and Kemper are said to have implicit confidence, however, in the play already selected for his debut, and look for it to enjoy a long run. As yet this new play lacks a title. One of the many suggested will be announced shortly.

Tom Hadway has been engaged to play the part of the German professor in "The Messenger Boy," created by Willie Warde in London. Mr. Hadaway was the original fisherman in this country in "The Runaway Girl," a part also created by Mr. Warde in the London production. He is a grandson of the famous English comedian, "Old Tom" Hadaway.

The complete cast of Klaw & Erlanger's production of Harry B. Smith's new musical comedy, "The Libety Belles," includes the following players: Etta Butler, Sandol Milliken, Augusta Glose, Edna Hunter, Lotta Faust, Pauline Chase, Grace Kimball, Edith Barr, Marie Twohey, Dorothy Lester, Helene Lucas, Crissie Carlysle, Cyril Scott, John Slavin, Harry Gilfoil, J. C. Marlowe, D. M. Lomsden, L. D. Wharton, Nat K. Cafferty, Violet Jewell, Laura Stone, Elsie Ferguson and Esther Lyons. The first performance will occur in Trenton, N. J., Sept. 7. Sept. 9 a two-weeks' engagement will begin at the Chestnut Street theater in Philadelphia, followed by a week at the Columbia theater in Washington. Sept. 30 the New York run opens at the Madison Square theater.

Andrew Mack, in "Tom Moore," will open his season at New London, Conn., the 26th inst. The 27th he will play in Bridgeport, the 28th in Derby, the 29th Stamford, and the 31st will begin a run at the Herald Square theater, New York. Mr. Mack and his company have been rehearsing for two weeks.

"The Bostonians" will present "Robin Hood," "The Serenade" and "The Viceroy" till they put on their new De Koven and Smith opera, "Maid Marian," in Philadelphia, Nov. 4. The new members of this company are Allen Hinckley, a basso of unusually powerful voice; Allen Parr and Vernon Stiles, tenors; William McD. Dorrington, a young baritone, and Gertrude Zimmer, a lyric soprano of great promise. The organization will number seventy people.

Stuart Robson is rehearsing "The Henrietta."

Charles Santley is to celebrate his fiftieth anniversary as a professional singer.

Charles B. Hanford has been engaged for a revival of the "Taming of the Shrew."

Mary Anderson won't act. She is happy in her home and doesn't intend to return to the stage.

Edwin Stevens, formerly comic opera comedian, is to act Don Jose with William Faversham in "A Royal Rival."

In the Cecil Raleigh melodrama which Charles Frohman is to produce in this country, gypsies will figure largely.

George Ober begins his next season in the condensed version of "Rip Van Winkle" for the vaudeville houses in Indianapolis Sept. 2.

William T. Carleton has been secured by John C. Fisher for the part of Cyrus Gilfain, the millionaire perfumery merchant in "Florodora," when it goes on the road.

Edwin Ardes has been engaged by Louis Nethersole to create the leading character, the duke of Montrose, in Sadie Martinot's production Clyde Fitch's play, "The Marriage Game."

The Svengalis do an exceedingly clever act, wherein one of them plays upon the piano any tune a member of the audience may whisper to another. Svengali merely raises his hand as an indication to begin.

In an interview when she returned to London, Irene Vanbrugh informed a newspaper man not only that "The Gay Lord Quex" was a huge success in America, but that our young men loved and studied Pinero as they love and study Shakespeare.

Joseph Herbert has been engaged to succeed Charles Dickson in the principal role of "The Explorers," now running in Chicago. This play, which was to have closed Saturday night, is to be continued until further notice. The hole has been rewritten to suit Mr. Herbert's peculiarities.

Jeanette Lowrie has secured a divorce from Alf Hampton. There had been a rather general expectation that the announcement of this marital severance would be immediately followed by the published statement that Miss Lowrie had been married again, this time to Thomas Q. Seabrooke.

He who has persuaded Laura Burt it is not good for woman or man to live alone is Ivor Llewellyn, a wealthy lan downer of Carnarvon, North Wales. This happens to be another case of childhood romance reaching fruition after years of separation. The day for the ceremony has not been decided upon finally, but it probably will be in the early days of October.

Realism in histrionic art is reaching a high stage of perfection. A revolt among the Chinese who took part daily at the Earl's Court exhibition in the military spectacle, depicting the attack on the legations, has led to the discovery amongst their number of seventeen sworn members of "The Righteous Harmony of Fists," who had actually taken part in the Pekin massacres.

Richard Mansfield and Booth Tarkington quarreled over the interpretation of latter's "Monsieur Beaucaire." The author objected to Mansfield's innovations. Mansfield insisted that his innovations were necessary to the success of any play made from Tarkington's novel. The quarrel ended with Mansfield triumphant. The rewards of successful dramatization are too great nowadays to permit of anyone mere author giving instructions to an actor.

Said Daniel Frohman, in an interview: "My first fall production will be the Lawrence Irving drama, 'Richard Lovelace' in the title role of which E. H. Sothern will appear at the Garrich theater. This engagement begins the first week in September and will continue nine weeks, after which Mr. Sothern will play "Hamlet" at the Garden for four weeks. The play I have for him, written by Justin Huntley McCarthy, probably will not be staged this season. Cecilia Loftus, Mr. Sothern's leading woman, returns from London next week on the same boat with Julia Opp, the actress engaged for the Faversham production of 'A Royal Rival.' To me the most interesting contract I brought back is that with Kubelik, the young Bohemian violinist. The press reports about the furore he created in London are not exaggerated. Nor are those of the amount I have agreed to pay him. The terms arrived at are that I guarantee him $100,000 for his share of the season' profits.

Health and Happiness

depend on the Kidneys and Liver. If you have pains everywhere and at all times in your back, and in your head, a dull, heavy, tired sensation, you are sick and miserable—cross and unhappy.

Your pains indicate trouble—growing trouble. They may be the forerunner of Rheumatism, or Lumbago, or Diabetes, Jaundice, or Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Statistics prove that nearly all ills originate from a disordered Liver or diseased Kidneys, or both. These much abused organs are unable to perform the work imposed upon them until they have regained their normal condition of health.

In the effort to obtain relief, don't use liniments or lotions. Rubbing the muscles and joints may temporarily ease the pain or drive it into some other part of the body. You are not curing the disease by external applications. Constitutional treatment is necessary.

Take a vegetable remedy only. Mineral remedies, that are almost universally prescribed, fail to cure, because they weaken the digestion, thus impairing instead of building up.

DR. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM

cures Kidneys and Liver, and tones the stomach. During the one-half century of its use it has cured hopeless cases. If you are one of the many who have become disheartened by repeated failures with other remedies, don't despair. A bottle ($1.00) will convince you that Health and Happiness can still be yours. It's purely vegetable. It's absolutely safe. At your druggist's.

COKE DANDRUFF CURE

Cures a Member of the House of Representatives—A Prominent Barber Testifies.

House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1900.

Messrs. A. R. Bremer Company, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: In the LIVth Congress I was asked by a member of the House if I knew anything that would cure dandruff. I knew that Coke Dandruff Cure was recommended very highly, and I concluded to give it a trial; I used one of the ten-ounce bottles and it absolutely cleansed his head of dandruff.

Since my introduction of Coke Dandruff Cure into the House of Representatives barber shops it has become so popular with the members of Congress that I abandoned all other tonic. It is the only preparation in my twenty years of experience in the barber business that will do what I claimed for it. Yours most respectfully, JOHN W. EVANS,

Foreman of Official Barbers, U. S. House of Representatives.

The Illiterates in Maryland.

Of the voting population of Maryland, numbering 321,903, the census report shows 40,352 to be illiterates. In view of the present campaign in that state these figures are especially interesting. The law which was passed at the recent special session of the legislature of that state practically disfranchised illiterates and rendered it almost impossible for the Republicans to ever carry the state or gain the legislature. Out of the 40,352 illiterates, 24,425 are negroes. There are also 11,197 illiterate native whites. If the illiterate negroes are Republicans, the illiterate whites are as a rule Democrats. Besides the native white illiterates there are 2230 naturalized illiterates, probably all whites; 179 illiterates have declared their intention to become citizens, who are probably whites; 1539 alien illiterates, and 765 who are classified as unknown. The illiterate negroe voters in Maryland therefore are a little less than double the number of illiterate white voters. If all the illiterate voters of Maryland, white and black, are prevented from voting this fall the would just about wipe out the Republican majority in the state last year. But if the Republicans have succeed in educating their illiterates up to the point where they are able to distinguish between the initial letters of the names of the respective parties, there may be some very surprising results. However, the general opinion of Marylanders is that the legislature will have a Democratic majority, not so much because the majority of the people are Democrats through and through as because the majority of the citizens of Maryland are dissatisfied with the caliber of the men the Republicans sent to the senate and therefore want Mr. Gorman, whom they know to measure up to the standard, sent back once more.

Jack Tar and His Rations.

Our friend Pack Tar and his companion on on shipboard, are asking for a change in the laws governing their rations. By statute Jack is allowed to eat only so much, but sometimes he does not get all that is coming to him and sometimes the full quantity allowed is not considered by him sufficient for a good healthy appetite. A singular anomaly presents itself in the allowance of the naval ration. By one section of the revised statutes the daily price of the ration is fixed at 30 cents, while another section of the law states just how many pounds and ounces and the kinds of food the sailor is entitled to receive. The value of 30 cents was made upon the market price of the provisions allowed when the law was passed in 1870, but since then food products have gone down in price very materially and while one section of the law gave the sailor 30 cents, yet the value of the food supplied him by the legal ration table only amounted in value to about 20 cents. Of course, in certain parts of the world the ration cost more than its legal fixed price, but on the whole the government had much the best of it where sailors were fed on the salt or sea ration. Now a hungry sailor is a bad shipmate, so the department had set about to remedy the matter and has ordered a board of naval officers of experience and knowledge of the subject to undertake a thorough investigation and make necessary recommendations. No change can be made in the present allowance except congress and the navy officials want to get the matter into shape so as to have the change contemplated incorporated in the annual report accompanying the president's message. That full justice will be done to Jack goes without saying. Recommendations asking improvements in cooking methods will also be considered as most important and there is every reason to believe that a great and decided beneficial improvement will be made in feeding our deserving bluejackets.

THE BARRY VERDICT.

The verdict of guilty pronounced by the jury in the case of the state of North Dakota vs. William Barry, at Langdon, on Thursday, will be applauded by every intelligent and law-abiding person who has followed this case with its disgusting and brutal details.

Barry was defended by able counsel, who left no stone unturned to clear him. No one who read Barry's own testimony can doubt that he is not only a murdrer, but a perjurer as well. The crime was horrible in its cool deliberation. His subsequent conduct was such as to preclude all possible doubt as to his sanity. It was evident that Barry first relied upon the idea that his crime was justifiable in the eyes of the law. That he expected to pose as a hero there appears no question. The plea of insanity was, perhaps, an afterthough of his counsel. There was insanity in his family. His sister died in the insane asylum as a direct result of the murder of her lover. But Barry seemed to possess the sanity of an arch fiend. There were no mitigating circumstances to relieve the cold-blooded act. There was no heat of passion, no great and overwhelming provocation which cause men to commit greatcrimes. The knowledge of the facts upon which he relied for vindication were not new to him. He deliberately, with malice aforethought, went forth to kill. With fiendish glee he notified his victim that his time had come and gave him the choice of two routes to pass to the great beyond. Finding that he could not hang him, he cut his throat.

There is a morbid sentimentality about the punishment of crimes committed in alleged defense of the home that needs rebuke. It is not so prevalent in the North as it is in the South, but wherever it is found it ought to receive the condemnation of the public. No man is justified in taking the law into his own hands and in committing a crime because some one else has committed a misdemeanor punishable by the law. He is no less a murdrer than if he took the life of a total stranger. If every such crime were followed with conviction and life imprisonment, we would have fewer criminal heroes.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

If the Democrats of Pennsylvania are not successful in wresting the state from the boodle ring now in control, it will not be the fault of circumstances. If the Democratic party does not clean the state at the next presidential election it will not be the fault of the Republican party. Since the votes were counted last November the dominant party has done its best to disgust the people, and it has in a large measure been successful. The Republicans of Pennsylvania have outdone themselves, and that is saying a great deal. Matt Quay, as if recognizing that this is his last chance, has lowered his already remarkable record for political high-rolling to the lowest notch. He has established a pace that will not be duplicated for many a year, even in Pennsylvania.

The Democratic convention, which met last Thursday, therefore met under most auspicious circumstances. The previous Democratic state conventions had set the pace for unity; for allowing the dead past to bury its dead, and looking to the present and the future for issues and for success. The platform contains nothing on which the individual members of the party need to split. There was enough within the state out of which to build a platform to attract voters from all parties and from all factions. The people of Pennsylvania realize the fact that if the state is ever to be redeemed it must be redeemed through the Democratic party. There is no hope from the Republican machine. On several occasions the Republicans have revolted and in local elections voted with the Democrats in an attempt to break the power of the gang, but party fealty always proved too strong for their good resolutions, and after a brief exile the old gang were invited home again to eat of the fatted calf.

At this juncture it appears that the revolt will assume the dignity of a revolution. The respectable element of the Republican party have concluded that the best partisan is he who, when his party has become so corrupt that it smells to heaven, will join the opposition and assist in defeating it at the polls. A party often must be defeated to save it from itself. This is the condition of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. Defeat must come, and it can come only at the hands of the Democratic party, with the help of the better element of the Republicans.

It is satisfactory, therefore, to note the discretion with which the Harrisburg convention handled the situation. While announcing in their platform sound Democratic principles, the delegates kept the state issues, which at this time are all-important, to the fore and carefully ignored the so-called national issues which at the present time interest only those who are bent upon stirring up strife for strife's sake. The Democratic party in Pennsylvania and in the nation at large can hope to win only by recruiting its ranks from the Republican party. This can be done by confining state campaigns to state issues. The Chicago and the St. Louis platforms have no more force and effect in a state convention now than has the Democratic platform on which Horace Greeley made his race. The best foundation for Democratic success in 1904 is state success in the interim. Ohio, Iowa and Pennsylvania are more than liable to join the Democratic ranks this fall, and Minnesota may follow suit next year, while Wisconsin will remain doubtful until the votes are counted.

Party bonds were never less binding than they are today. The industrial developments have so changed conditions that the old lines cannot be drawn. Men are ready to vote according to their convictions. Corruption has done its work both at home and abroad. Pennsylvania is not alone with an unsavory reputation. A united front and common sense is all that is required for Democratic success. The people are ripe for a change from what has become intolerable. Here is success to the people of Pennsylvania! Democratic success means freedom from the curse of Quayism.

ENGLAND'S DISTRESS.

Never, during her long history, has England been in such sore distress as she is today. After nearly two years of fighting the Boer war is apparently no nearer a successful end than it was one year ago. On the contrary, the prospects for ultimate Boer success are brighter than when Oom Paul issued his ultimatum. The power of England has been demonstrated to be insufficient to overcome the opposition of the Boers.

The Americans, as a rule, do not appreciate the condition of British opinion on the continuation of the struggle. Sentiment is divided and it is a toss-up who are the stronger, the anti, or pro-Boers. If a vote were taken today the administration, which brought on this unhappy condition, would probably be displaced by one in favor of conciliation. The condition of the public mind can be judged by the frantic efforts the administration press is making to inflame the public mind against the Boers. Every day without cessation, the government press gives editorials devoted to the vilest abuse of the Boers. Column after column of stuff is printed reciting the horrible atrocities of these brigands. Pick up an English paper and there is little else than Boer news and Boer damnation. What does all this mean? It means that the government realizes that it is necessary to resort to every subterfuge, every art of the demagogue, to inflame the public against the Boers. The most baseless stuff is printed and commented on editorially as the gravest fact. All can remember when De Wet was accused of shooting the peace envoys. The British press fairly made Rome howl with Boer denunciations. Language was not strong enough to express their reprobation of such a crime against the rules of war and civilization. Yet it was all a fake, Wessells was never shot and is now within the British lines. But the British press says nothing about that.

While the atrocities of the Boer bandits are recounted, not a word is said even in apology about the dying reconcentrados. At the rate at which the British butcher, Kitchener, is killing off Boer women and children, the whole Boer population will last nine years. At the end of that time England will have conquered. But the war will not last that long. The conscience of the British nation is being aroused. The very vehemence of the pro-Boer party is working its own ruin. Englishmen are not to be deceived forever. They now know that vital news has been suppressed in order to prevent an outbreak against the government. They are becoming familiar with the subterfuges of the Chamberlain cabal and before long will demand a new deal. This may be brought about sooner than we expect. With the settlement of the Chinese embroglio, Russia will make a demonstration toward India. When this is done, Britain must be prepared to treat with the Boers or give up South Africa.

The proclamation recently issued by Lord Kitchener, by which all the leaders are called upon to surrender on pain of banishment, would be laughable were it not directed against the heroes of a most gallant struggle for national freedom. After a long preamble of "whereases," the manifesto ends with:

"All commandants, field cornets and leaders of armed bands, being burghers of the lare republics and still engaged in resisting his majestys forces, whether in the Orange Colony, the Transvaal or other portion of his majesty's South African dominions, and all members of the governments of the late Orange Free State and Transvaal, shall, unless they surrender before Sept. 15, be permanently banished from South Africa.

"The cost of the maintenance of the families of all burghers in the field who have not surrendered by Sept. 15 shall be recoverable from such burghers and shall be a charge upon their property, removable and immovable, in the two colonies."

In threatened brutality this comports with the arming of the Kaffirs and the system of starving women and children. The conduct of this war should be reprobated by every civilized nation.

THE AUTOMATIC GUN.

With the army now equipped with the Krag-Jorgensen magazine rifle, Uncle Sam is content to let the question of small firearms rest for the present, although watching with keen interest the startling improvements that are being made in firearms and which are being rapidly adopted by foreign countries. The automatic gun is the favorite pattern abroad and Germany, Italy and Austria have rifles of this pattern.

The energy supplied in the Italia rifle is obtained by a utilization of the escaping powder gas from the first shot. The magazine is filled with loading packets and contains any number of cartridges up to fifty, as may be desired. The trigger is pulled but once, when the gas from the discharged cartridge is caught and used to supply the energy which successively fires each of the others. So rapidly does the gun operate that as many as fifteen shots have been fired in a second without altering the aim or taking the gun from the shoulder. Twenty-five shots in the magazine could be similarly discharged in less than two seconds, the detonations following so rapidly upon each other as practically to constitute one report and the bullets leaving the muzzle fifty yards behind each other. It can be readily seen how brief would be a battle fought with such weapons. In one minute 1000 men could fire 900,000 steel bullets into the ranks of the enemy.

The energy for firing the German automatic rifle is secured from the recoil instead of powder gas. After a cartridge has been fired the breech moves backward and carries the barrel along, which movement cocks the hammer and tightens a recupearting spring. A continuation of the recoil, by virtue of the velocity acquired, brings about the extraction and ejection of the shell and the placing of another cartridge in the chamber. All that is necessary is to press the trigger, and the weapon continues to fire until all the bullets in the magazine have been expended.

Ordnance officers at the war department believe these rifles still need perfecting to be of practical value. They say a rifle firing fifteen shots per second will develop in two seconds such intense heat as to interfere with accurate shooting and besides the soldier could not hold his hand to the barrel. The heat generated by the friction of one bullet in passing through the barrel of a rifle is about 3000 degrees. A continuance of 3000 degrees of heat for even one second would heat a rifle barrel to the outside so that it would almost burn the hand. To fire such a rifle with continuous raidity five minutes would cause a serious change in the metal and result in the sticking of the mechanism. With all these troubles which would accrue, it is probable that the Krag-Jorgensen will do for the United States for quite a period yet. Those who have watched its work in war are satisfied it is swift enough.

Ten years ago the population of the world was fixed at 1,468,999,000. It is now estimated at 1,540,000,000, an increase of more than 71,000,000. An interesting feature of the statistics is the fact that the Americans are fast catching up with Europe in the gain. The increase in the Americans for the past ten years is 20,000,000, while in Europe it is 30,000,000. It is estimated that the Western hemisphere now contains 142,000,000, about the population of the whole of Europe a century ago. The estimate for Europe at the present time is 390,000,000. Africa is now gaining in population at a greater rate than at any time within a century.

The Hawaiian wards of Uncle Sam do not seem to care much about learning the English language, and for that reason the night schools established at Honolulu have been discontinued. It was found that the attendance was almost exclusively Asiatics. The object of establishing the schools was to spread knowledge of the English language among the Hawaiians, but after an experiment of over a year it has been found that few Hawaiians attend. There was a large attendance of Chinese and Japanese adults and children, the adults in a majority.

Clarence Routh, a New Orleans policeman, and a descendant of an old Southern family, recently refused $1,000,000 for 65 acres of land which he inherited and which has hitherto been valueless to him. For twenty-two years Mr. Routh has continued to pay taxes on it, believing all that time, he says, that oil was there, but until lately he could induce nobody to invest in experimenting in it.

Liberty is a great promoter of robust health. A Vermont banker looted his institution to the extent of $147,000. He was "sent up" for years. A year's imprisonment "wrecked his constitution" and friendly intercession induced President McKinley to let him go home to do. Then came a miracle. His looted health quickly mended and in less than a month he went out with a hunting party.

The San Francisco gold thief explains that he stole that $238,000 because he needed the money to build an airship. In other words, he just had to raise the wind.

The rale of liquor has been prohibited among the Moros of Sulu. But the exhilarating native beno will do the business just the same.

Buffalo is more hopeful, as admissions to the Pan-American have passed the 3,000,000 notch. Lack of judicious advertising has restricted the attendance.

It is said that all the politics is being taken out of the Southern Pacific railway. Other roads might emulate this example.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, noting the fact that there is little hay fever in Chicago, says it is probably due to the scarcity of hay

Why scorn our deep and hungry sigh,

We've loved you long, we love you still
We always have, we always will—
Our thoughts and other spots you fill,

We used to peel your jacket off,

No more that garment will you doff,

We take you in with peel and all,
And nobs and eyes, both great and small;
No morsel do we dare let fall,

"Well, sir," said Mr. Dooley, "th' English ar-re goin' to end th' Boer war. They've taken th' final steps. It's as good as finished."

"What ar-re they doin?" asked Mr. Hennesy.

"Ye see," said Mr. Dooley, "the' govermint is tired iv th' way th' war's been goin'. It's becomin' a nuisance. Whin rayspictable English people go to war, they don't ixpict to have to keep it up forever. Theyse other things to do. But th' Boers wudden't stop. Manny attimpts was made to con-ciliyate them. 'If ye will lay down ye-er ar-rms an' cut ye'er hair,' said Lord Roberts iv Candyhar an' Cork an' Pretorya an' th' dominyons beyond th' sea, 'an' f'rget Kruger an' larn to sing Gawd save th' king, ye'll be allowed to stand again a wall an' be shot. Otherwise,' he says, 'I'll soon have to take dhrastic measures again ye,' he says 'No,' says the Boers, 'we're sorry but we must rayfuse ye'er kind wurrud iv welcome. Nowthin' wud give us more pleasure thin to pro-vide good target practice f'r ye'er gallint la-ads,' they says. 'They need it,' says they. 'But,' they says, 'gr-reat as wud be th' honor iv bein' burrid in th' Union Jack with a brass band to play over us, we like th' glad free an' dishon'rable life iv th' veldt,' they says. 'We must stay out an' enjoy th' rural scenery awhile. How do we know,' says they, 'but wan iv th' firin' squad mightn't shut his eyes an' nit us?' says they. 'Well,' says Lord Roberts iv th' city directhry, 'if that's th' case,' he says, 'I'm goin' home,' he says, 'an' capture a few more cities f'r me title,' he says. 'I niver fought such a mob iv rude ungovernable savages in me life,' he says. 'I quit ye,' he says. An' he wint away an' left Lord Kitchener to r-run th' game. Lord Kitchener's a gr-reat man. He's kilt more naygurs thin anything but watermilons. He thried conciliyatin' th' inimy. He hanged thim whin he caught thim. Whin an English marksman gets that kind iv a dhrop on a man, he niver misses. But still, th' Boers rayfused to come in. Thin th' war was renewed with gr-reat inergy. Ye r-read in th' pa-apers ivry day iv a threemenjous engagement. 'Th' column under th' Hon. Lord Gin'ral Puntington-Canew rayports that he captured wan cow, wan duck, wan pound iv ham, two cans iv beans, an' a baby carredge. Th' commando escaped. Th' gin'ral larned fr'm th' cow, who had been shot, that th' Boers ar-re in disprate condition an' cannot hold out much longer. I ricommind that th' Hon. Lord Gin'ral T. Puntington-Canew be made a jook an' receive a grant iv wan millyon pounds sterling. He departed f'r home yesterdah, havin' seen nearly a week iv sarvice be flood an' field.' How th' Boers shtud up to it, Hinnissy, I niver can tell. I've been countin' up their casualties an' they've lost enough cows to keep Armour goin' a year. Wan iv th' things a British soje'll have to learn afther this, is th' care iv a cow.

"Still, in spits iv th' ravages iv the Dairymen's Own, th' Boers rayfused to come in an' be governed, so th' cabinet held a meetin'. 'Tis manifest,' says Lord Sal'sbry, 'that this thing has gone as far as it can go in dacency,' he says. 'They'se a time f'r all things,' he says, 'an ivrything in it's place,' he says. 'We can't keep three hundhred thousan' sojers an' th' rapid-fire pote Roodyard Kipling down there f'river. We need th' warryors at home to dhrive th' busses an' lade th' cotillyons an' they hasn't been a good pome on th' butther an' egg market, th' price iv stocks, th' prospects iv th' steel thrade, th' opening iv th' new undhrerground or th' mannyfacther iv bicycles since Roodyard wint away. I wondher if thim Boers don't think we have annything to do but chase thim f'r th' r-rest iv our lives. I move we put an end to it,' he says. But how was it to be done? Some iv th' cabinet that had been talkin' with th' warryor-idiors was in favor iv bilin' all captured Boers in ile, but 'twas p'inted out thtat this wud seem like home to a Boer. Some wanted to make Lord Milliner a jook but th' jooks was again this. An' 'twas fin'lly decided atther a long an' arjoos debate, that th' war mus' be declared irrigular. Yes, sir, fr'm now on 'tis a non-union war, 'tis again th' rules. Annywan engaged in it will be set back be th' stewards iv Henley.

"Lord Kitchener wrote th' notice. He's a good writer. 'Ladies an' ginjlemen,' he says. 'This war as a war is now over. ye may not know it but it's so. Ye've broke th' rules an' we give th' fight to oursilves on a foul. Th' first principle iv a war again England is that th' inimy shall "wear r-red or purple coats with black marks f'r to indicate th' location iv vital organs be day and a locomotive headlight be night. They shall thin gather within aisy range an' at th' wurrud "fire" shall fall down dead. Anny remainin' standin' afthrew'ard will be considered as spies. Shootin' back is not allowed be th' rules an' is severely discountenanced be our ladin' military authorities. Anny attimpt at concealmint is threachery. Th' scand'lous habit iv pluggin' our gallant sojers f'm behind rocks an' trees is a breach iv internaytional law. Rethreatin' whin pursooed is wan iv our copyrighted manoovers an' all infringements will be prosecuted. At a wurrud fr'm us, th' war is over an' we own ye'er countbry. Ye will see fr'm this brief sketch that ye're no betther thin guerillas an' pirates on' now be th' r-right vested in me be meslif, I call on all persons now carryin' on this needless, foolish, tiresome conflict whin I ought to be home dhraggin' down th' monew fr'm parliamint, to come in an' be shot,' he says. 'If they don't,'' says he, 'I'll con-fiscate their property that is desthroyed an' abolish their r-rights as citizens which they have none, an' charge thim a little something f'r th' care an' buryal iv their fam'lies,' he says.

"So there's th' finish iv th' Boers. They're out iv it now. They're entbries wudden't be accipted on anny thrack in th' wurruld. They have been set back f'r conduck onbecomin' an English officer an' a gintleman. Our Anglo-Saxon cousins acrost th' sea ar-re gr-reat people. They're a spoortin' people, Hinnissy. They know how to win. They'll race anny man's horse in th' wurruld if th' jockey won't sit th' way he thinks will make th' horse go fast. They'll row anny crew in th' wurruld if th' crew will train on beer an' cigareets an' won't be in a hurry to get through. An' whin it comes to war, they have th' r-rest iv creation sittin' far back in th' rear iv th' hall. We have to lick our inimy. They disqualify him.

"I thought th' war was over annyhow," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Well," said Mr. Dooley, "if Chicago was as peaceful as South Africa, they'd be an agitation to rayjooce th' police foorce. Th' war is over, Hinnissy, but th' English don't know it yet." (Copyrighted, 1901, by Robert H. Russell.)

IT WAS ONLY A PASTEL.

By ADA PATTERSON.

(Copyright, 1901, by W. R. Hearst.)

"Hunter's romance? Fudge! You are too romantic, Grace. Hunter was never in love in his life."

Mrs. Dalton looked at her husband with that exasperatingly feminine air of superiority.

"What a remarkable statement!" she observed. "A man past 40 who has never been in love! Do you believe what you are saying, Howard?"

"I certainly do."

How little men know of the sentimental ride of each other.

"I will wager a box of gloves he has."

"I would wager two boxes if there was any way of proving it."

"Done. There is a way. He will refer to it himself. Men always do. Sometimes it is in the vaguest sort of way. But if you really watch for it and are honest, you will admit it."

Gerald Hunter was the eccentric of the Adirondack village where the Daltons were spending the summer. He was a tall, slender man with a slight stoop. He had a kindly face and savoir faire that had survived twenty years' residence in the woods, and was a breath from his past youth, the youth of college honors, and business successes, and social favors, all of which he had forsaken for this life among the woods.

"Why?" Howard Dalton had asked him that first evening over their hotel dinner.

"Partly because I have the tastes of a naturalist," he answered. "Chiefly, though, because I couldn't sleep. I have been cursed with insomnia for twenty-five years."

"Did you ever try rising on your toes and dropping to your heels, repeating the operation from twenty to fifty times? That is a wonderful sleep producer," said Dalton.

"I have tried everything else. I will be glad to try this also," Hunter returned. "Thank you."

The next morning he was at breakfast before them and met Dalton with a cordial hand grasp. "Those light gymnastics are marvels," he said. "I slept well last night for the first time for a quarter of a century," he said.

Gerald Hunter was at once the great man and the humble man of the village. He owned most of the village, but for the sake of sleep-inducing exercise he was the volunteer librarian and janitor of the village circulating library, which he had founded, and the scxton of the village church. The visiting mothers, if called to town, left their daughters with him as chaperon, and were content.

His gratitude to Dalton for the key that unlocked the treasure house of sleep to him was extreme. He became their fast friend and almost inseparable companion. They canoed and fished and hunted together. They took long tramps through the woods and patronized all the village gayeties. Daily Gerald Hunter grew stronger. On the evening before the Daltons were leaving for their coast cruise the three climbed Mount Azure to enjoy the famed sunset view.

"I hope we will meet you in town this fall," said Dalton. "We want to see you back in your rightful place among men. You will go back to New York, won't you?"

"Hardly, Dalton," said Hunter, looking far away at the sun-bathed mountain peaks, "I have been away too long. I should be like a man walking in a land of dreams. Then I like this place. It has come to mean home to me. It is the only home I have. At any rate, why should I go back? What is there to go back to? Nothing but memories, and memories are teasing things."

He had taken off his hat and was leaning against a pine. His eyes took on the abstracted look of reminiscence.

"And I really left nothing there," he said, "nothing I cared for that I could have."

Mrs. Dalton leaned toward her husband on the pretext of securing a huge pine cone.

"The hour has come," she whispered.

Gerald Hunter's gaze came back from the sun-bathed mountains to Mrs. Dalton's delicate profile.

"You look very much like some one I used to know," he said softly. "I have known it from the evening you arrived, but I can see it with clearer sight tonight. I happen to have her picture with me," he said diffidently. "Do you care to see it?"

Grace looked at the small, faded daguerrotype. The face was singularly like hers; the same piquant expression, the same brilliancy of the eyes, the same regularity of features, the same—even Grace recognized it—lack of tenderness. The small mouth was a bit hard, the chin tilted at the angle of habitual pride, the nostrils thin and delicate.

"Really, Grace, it is a younger you. Shall I call Hunter out or tumble him off that rock into his sunset?"

Mrs. Dalton smiled. "It is a little like me, only much more beautiful. Won't you tell us about her?"

The old diffidence of the half-hermit fell upon Hunter again. "There is very little to tell," he said. "She was very lovely. She was my adopted sister. She married a Russian prince. I was best man at the wedding, and the next day I came up here."

The red gold of the mountains changed to purple. The weird mountain sounds that the trained ear hears at nightfall commenced their doleful chorus. They rose and grasped their alpenstocks firmly. They felt rather than saw their way to the village. When they reached the foot of the mountain and the village lights fell upon Mrs. Dalton's delicate, proud face, Gerald Hunter spoke again.

"The picture is so old," he said gently. "If I knew where she was I would write her, asking to exchange this for one as she is now. Do you think she would give me one?" he asked wistfully of Grace.

A "sociable" was in full sway at the church. Four village girls dashed out and surrounded him. "You must come in and help us pass the ice cream. You really must," they insisted.

"I shall have to put out the lights and lock the doors, at any rate, so I might as well stay," he said to the Daltons. "You won't come in? Then good night."

The tall, stooping figure surrounded by the dancing sprites disappeared within the doors of the little church, and Mrs. Dalton seized her husband's arm with the grasp of authority.

"You have lost, Howard," she said.

"I will pay, of course, but it was only a pastel."

"His pastel was his all, Howard. At the wedding of the Russian prince and that heartless girl a man died."

A few of the many press notices of her brilliant career are given below:

"Miss Rebecca Mackenzie is truly an artist of marvelous ability. Her magnificent stage presence, with her other accomplishments, make a most pleasing stage picture. Her statelinesss was commented upon, and this, with her wonderful command of voice, give her the title to supremacy in her special field. The audience was taken by storm when she completed the Aria from 'Le Cid,' and she was compelled to respond to several encores. Her voice is mellow and sweet, and her wonderful command shows that she has earned the reputation which precedes her wherever she appears."

"Her voice is one of rare sweetness and flexibility, wide in its range and altogether pleasing. Her rendition of 'Cam Ye by Athol,' 'Afton Water' and 'I Loe Nae a Laddie but Ane' were faultless."

"Especially pleasing was the singing of Miss Mackenzie, of New York. Seldom has so clever an artist appeared before a Catskill audience. Her interpretation of her numbers from the various operas was well nigh faultless. In the rendition of 'Elsa's Dream' the rare quality of her lower tones resembled the rich sonorous tones of the viola. The attack of the E from the octave below was mast beautifully done. The liquid purity of her higher register, coupled with most perfect phrasing, showed reverence and a clear insight into the noble beauty and grandeur of the Wagner music. Never does she lose firm control of her voice, which she uses with such grace and ease that the ear can detect scarcely the slightest fault. In expression, the most important factor of music, she demonstrated by her depth of feeling her intensity and her fine dramatic instinct, that she possesses all of those qualities that make the true artist."

Miss Winifred Holmes, who was in Europe for a year or more pursuing her musical studies and has arrived home within a few days, will appear at Miss Mackenzie's concert.

Duluth's society was out in full force and the sight of varied colored summer gowns that filled the house from pit to gallery was indeed a pretty one. Among those that appeared on the program were those of more than local fame. The list of those taking part included Miss Adelaide Thurston, of this city, who has won high position in the dramatic world, and Miss Julia Donovan, Duluth's favorite contralto. EXPANSION.

Tar on Brick Pavement Is to Allow For That.

"What are those streaks of tar across Superior street for?" asked a denizen of that thoroughfare, as he watched the workmen pouring the tar across the newly-laid bricks about every ten yards. Many people in passing have wondered, many guessed, some correctly and others otherwise.

"The tar is poured across the street," said one of the contractors, "to form an expansion joint. When the cement is put over the bricks it forms a solid body. When it becomes very hot here that body, of course, expands and the tar, being softened, gives a little so that the bricks are not forced up

It is said that on a street in Kansas where there were none of these expansion joints that on a very hot day the bricks exploded and were shot 100 feet into the air. But, of course we don't expect anything of that kind here.

"You can say that we will be through paving Superior street, from Third avenue east to First avenue east by tonight and in fourteen days that part will be ready for business."

APPLES TO BE HIGH

This Year's Crop to Be Far Below the Average.

Prices Are to Be Twice Those of Last Year.

Greatest Shortage Is In the East---West Not Prolific.

If there is any common article of domestic use that has not come forth this summer with a hard luck story that offers an excuse for high prices, it would be interesting to hear of it. The latest thing to make such an appearance is the apple, which the reports say will be very scarce and twice as expensive as last year.

The apple crop is said to be far below the average and commission men say that prices will be twice as high as they were last year. Recently the Apple Shippers' association held a meeting at Toronto, and their figures showed that the coming crop will be but 46 per cent of last year's yield. The greatest shortage is in the East, though the West has nothing to boast about. A committee was appointed to make comparisons of the estimated crop of this year with the crops of former years, and the report showed that crops in various states to be about in this proportion of the ordinary yield:

Ontario 35 per cent, Nova Scotia 75, New England 25, New Jersey 25, Pennsylvania 40, New York 20, Maryland 50, Virginia 65, Kentucky 25, Tennessee 35, Ohio 40, Michigan 30, Indiana 40, Illinois 40, Missouri 45, Arkansas 50, Kansas 45, Nebraska 45, Iowa 25, Colorado 85, Wisconsin 15, California 90, Oregon 80 and Washington 80.

The Baldwin apple, which comes only from the Eastern states, will be the most conspicuous by its absence. The substitute for the Baldwin is the Ben Davis, which comes from the Southern states. The Ben Davis and the Wine Sapling are the best apple products of the Southland.

BREAKFAST ON DRINK.

Coffee Makes Many Dyspeptics.

"Coffee and I had quite a tussle. Two years ago I was advised by the doctor to quit the use of coffee, for I had a chronic case of dyspepsia and serious nervous troubles, which did not yield to treatment. I was so addicted to coffee that it seemed an impossibility to quit, but when I was put on Postum Cereal Food Coffee, there was no trouble in making the change, and today I am a well woman.

"One of the lady teachers in our public schools was sick and nervous. Frequently the only thing she took for breakfast was a cup of coffee; I urged her to try leaving off the coffee and use Postum instead. Went so far as to send her a sample from my box and give her directions. She now uses nothing but Postum Food Coffee and told me a short time ago that she was perfectly well.

"It is easy to make good Postum, once a person becomes accustomed to it. Put four heaping teaspoonfuls to the pint of water, and after it comes up to a boil, see that from that time on it boils fifteen or twenty minutes, then use good cream and you have a drink that would be relished by the queen. Be sure and put a piece of butter size of a pea in the pot to prevent boiling over." Mrs. Lizzie Whittaker, Kidder, Mo. Postum is sold by all first-class grocers at 15 and 25 cents per package.

Sense and Nonsense.

At the First Presbyterian church next Friday evening, C. L. Burgderfer, the impersonator and humorist, will present his artistic entertainment, "Sense and Nonsense." Among the things he will present is a seventeen-minute scene from "Quo Vadis" and a sketch, entitled "Silly Sam," in which he imitates with his voice more than twenty musical instruments and animals.

Mr. Burgderfer's entertainment promises to be a delightful one, as he has a very good repertoire of impersonations.

For Fall Season

The Early Opening of Fall Millinery As Seen In Paris.

Shapes In Coming Hats and Bonnets—Ostrich Plumes Will Hold Their Own Among the Garnitures.

New York, Aug. 13.—Although nearly two months must elapse before the headwear now in use will disappear, practically, the mode for the existing season has served the purpose intended in it, says the Paris correspondent of the Millinery Trade Review, and we are called upon to give some attention to that projected for the coming season. Considering that the heels of mid-summer have not long left our planet, requirement to look after what will be worn when frost shall have come, and snow and ice shall chill the atmosphere, may seem premature, and, in a degree, inhospitable; but fashion in the wardrobe, and trade have very amicable understanding, the one with the other, and work together admirably in the interests of those most nearly concerned—namely, designers, manufacturers and purveyors. It may not be that, in the early openings in millinery, we come upon all in the details of style that may be expected as the season in question advances; the mode delights in being variable, and finds pleasure in surprises; but, in the main, the expositions first in order embrace the general ideas destined to prevail, and are to be relied upon unquestionably as faithful premonitions of what will subsequently appear.

The wide, low bell crown, or the Tam O'Shanter crown, as differently termed, is seen also in medium large hats in conjunction variously with a definitely flat brim, and with a brim that springs out flat and turns up in a rim about an inch and a half deep on the edge; and with this crown, and a medium, low, broad square crown, there are hats of wider brims turned up square at the edge about an inch, and within the edge an inch-wide standing flange, or slip, of felt or of wired black velvet. Among the hats which will be favored are those of wider brims curled up gently all around, in conjunction with medium tall square, indented and crushed crowns. And the end is not yet. We are told that other and more varied shapes are yet to be brought out.

Again it must be said, as from models on show in the recent openings, bonnets are almost as varied in the lines which distinguish shape, as the models seen. They may still be described as small, yet they are hardly as diminutive in size as they have been of late seasons. A remembered dainty little creation made of material of black silk chenille cord interwoven with silver tinsel, trimmed with a black ostrich tip, a full white bunch of cross aigrette and rosette bows of inch-wide black velvet ribbon held by rhinestone cabochons, is of triangular contour. A modified French capote, with crown of shirred Louisine silk, in reseda-green shot with old red, has a coronet brim of green velvet which supports a full white wisp of aigrette, a small pheasant breast catching the colors in the bonnet, facing the brim at each side, and strings from the ears of No. 60 green satin merveilleux ribbon. A more decided revival of the French capote was seen in a little bonnet of miroir velvet in fraulse, or raspberry red, trimmed on the top with standing wired leaves of black silk cut lace, supporting a black wisp of aigrette, the monture held by an ornament of cut jet, and inch-wide black velvet ribbon strings. But, not abundant in the collections on display in the openings, it seems altogether certain that bonnets will continue longer to be of secondary interest in consideration of fashionable millinery.

To a marked extent, in certain of the shapes in hats, which have been evolved for the autumn and winter, conservatism has been "thrown to the winds." Following somewhat remotely upon lines which appeared in later hats of the spring, the wide, shelving crown which then came out has been succeeded by a plateau as much in some models as ten inches in diameter, this mounted on a low rim or bandeau to rest on the head, the flat brim attached projecting very slightly wider (or no wider) than the crown. Some of the imported models having the flat plateau top are obtusely pointed at the front, and the brim shelving down angularly from the edge of the crown, the effect of the hat (or no wider) than the crown. Some of the imported models having the flat plateau top are obtusely pointed at the front, and the brim shelving down angularly from the edge of the crown, the effect of the hat for of the toque, as it may be regarded) is that of a richly-fashioned box. A model of this shape, from Madame Fuerly, is covered with concentric wired inch-wide bias folds of emerald-green miroir velvet, and has a green pheasant's breast sweeping back at each side.

As by indications thus far given, the low wide shelving, or bell crown (or the Tam O'Shanter crown, as it may be otherwise described), is to be accepted, probably, as a distinguishing feature of the hats of the next season—the brims adjusted to the crown of this general description, being more or less wide at one or other point, and presenting caprices of idea and arrangement almost as numerous as the models shown. As a rule, it may be said, the promise is, that hats medium large, of low, or untowering shapes, will be of first importance, the result being the toque or the more definite chapeau, as drapery may or may not be employed in the creation. There are, however, among the new hats some of very large circumference of brim, the crowns generally low and square, or of bell shape, the brims drooping in front, widening out and curled high at each side, while narrow at the back, the idea in the brim of the equestrian hat being carried out. Other large hats with the low, wide square and bell crowns, with brim curled up at the right side, have the brim much wider, and lifted much higher at the left side, this style of brim in the imported models suggesting in most instances trimming under the brim, and the sweeping plume. A few of the new large hats show rounded crowns, more or less low, and some have the brim of the equestrian shape modified by cutting off at the back in a line with the crown.

Methods of adding to the decorative value of a hat or toquet are provided by the dexterity and taste of the milliner. In the models now on view in Mlle. Jujol's parlor I noticed that a good deal was done with tulle and lisse as a means of softening down outlines and giving novel effects to textiles. Thus a broad-brimmed hat in dark-brown velvet, laid on in careless folds, is lined with folds of cream-color satin covered with white lisse. The brim rolls up at the side where a white and a gold paradise tail is secured, each by a cabochon of cut steel. Pink velvet, that makes another hat, is seen through a layer of white tulle, the two being corded and drawn together. Another broad-brimmed hat covered smoothly with cyprus-green velvet and piped with pale green silk around the top of the crown, and the edge of the brim is lined with folds of the same velvet veiled with chestnut-brown tulle. Underneath the brim, which turns up at the side, are some creamy satin and velvet roses and variegated green satin bows. Gray glace ribbon with a facing of white net is used in narrow frills for the lining of a somewhat smaller hat made of a plateau of mixed gray felt; a large circular rosette of the same, with a steel cabochon in its center, lying flat against the upturned side. Outside, almost covering the flat crown, is a loosely tied bow of wide glace gray and white ribbon.

Among the toquets and smaller hats were several with wings arrayed at the side, as described above. One, made of pale blue felt arabesqued, with angora beneath white tulle, has beige and white wings. The same colored wings, with a golden glint in the beige, compose the sides of a toque in draped velvet of the latter tint, among the folds of which is inserted a handsome ornament in chased gold. A very striking hat in Veronese green velvet has four flattened green parrots placed against the rolled brim. The center of a toquet in Veronese velvet is composed of a large green bird with crimson shading about the throat. A round hat in rough mouse-colored felt with a soft crown confined round its base by a band of dull embroidered galon, has the under side of the brim covered with black ostrich trimming; this is curved up at the side and discovers a large ball rosette of cream satin arrayed like a rose amid green foliage. Other broad-brimmed hats, respectively in black, dark-green and deep crimson velvet, are trimmed, the first with two plumes of ostrich tips, and black spangled galons and a black bow and handsome wreath; the second with a green Amazon outside and greeny-white roses underneath; and the third with two vision skins encircling it on the brim.

The list of fashionable trimmings for the coming season includes flowers, although at present it would seem as though the choice would be restricted to one kind only, namely, roses made of satin, velvet or the two combined. Very pale natural tints are favored, and also dark shaded colors of all kinds to match different materials and felts. However, flowers will be more used to trim the under sides of hats than the outer, where they are generally mixed with green velvet or satin leaves.

Good use will be made of ribbons, both for the autumn and winter seasons. The novelties in this line consist in exquisitely soft faconi ribbons, mostly glace, and with an extremely brilliant finish, in warp printed ribbons also with glace effects, in glace-striped ribbons, and in faconi ribbons of a dull texture covered with various kinds of fancy tulle, the two adhering together merely at the border, which is woven on the double tissue. Moderately wide widths are most in demand. Much also will be done in galons. There are woven galons with small floral patterns in delicate pompadour shades; loosely woven galons, or rather braids woven of hair burnished in irridescent shades by a new process. Combinations with crimson as a ground for other tints are to be in these irridescent colorings, but green of a deep metallic tone is often the prevailing color, with glints of golden yellow, etc. Hair webbing similarly tinted is made up in various forms, such as wings, bows and bordered with steel spangles burnished in the same way, which will principally be used for trimming theater hats as will be the galons made entirely of clustered spangles of burnished steel. For trimming black hats there are galons of black spangles to which a new form is given—that of a tiny heart. Burnished effects are also to be met with in some of the fancy ornaments, buckles, cabochons and the like, the foundations in this case being gilt metal, or steel with applications of gilt chaste work.

Something has been said about the possibility at a later date of reviving fancy braids in strips of felt, satin, etc., for the making of hats for cold weather, but there was no indication of this either in trimmed imported models brought out in the recent displays of new millinery, or in the blocked untrimmed models to which inspection was kindly granted the writer, in advance of general exhibition. As at present appears, blocked hats of plain and nap felts, varied, perhaps (but not very abundantly), by models made of narrow strips of felt stitched together concentrically, will be those in use for ordinary and outing wear. In the collections in the late openings there were very handsome models of hats in blocked felt, while a degree of greater elegance was noticeable in the models fashioned of felt cloth, in which drapery effects came into requisition.

For the finest millinery velvet will be of first importance, the miroir and panne varieties in the colors, and the royal cut and glove-finished in black. As now appears, plain colors will be employed chiefly in the coming millinery, although it has been said that velvet for millinery pupose of Persian design, and of other fancy designs, will be among the novelties, in their way, of the coming season's appropriation. A toque in memory in the collection seen in a recent opening made objectively of velvet in nickel-gray, is trimmed with ture—and as plumages in stencilled design—a decided novelty of manufacture—an das plumages in stencilled designs may constitute a feature of the new styles in fabrics for headwear.

Judging from trimmed models revealed in the openings, there will not be made extensive use of ribbons in the fashioning of the next season's headwear. Athough coming in widths quite sufficient, and of texture adapted to drapery adjustment, the soft silks and satins, cut bias, yield themselves more readily to the artistic effects sought to be attained in drapery in millinery, and have been for the last several preferred to ribbons. The most notable ribbons in the market at this writing are of satin merveilleux, and soft, thin taffeta weaves, absolutely unloaded, and limp to well-nigh nothingness in texture. They range in width from forty to about 100 lines. Those seen as ties on pattern bonnets were about No. 70 width, in this showing a striking contrast to the still-continued ties of inch-wide black velvet ribbon. The satin and taffeta ribbons thus far in evidence are mostly in plain colors, with small invoices of fanciful character in wasp-striping of Roman colors, and promise for weaves in Persian designs and colors yet to come. But this is scarcely all that must be told to do justice to the prospective vogue in ribbons. Advices in reference to ribbons are usually more tardy than in regard to other departments of millinery wares.

Notwithstanding the somewhat reduced supply of ostrich feathers in our market, because of the prolonged war in South Africa, and the consequent advance in their value, ostrich plumes will hold their own among the most elegant of the garitures for the headwear of the autumn and winter. The fortunate leaders of the ton in our prosperous country, can stand the increased prices, while shapes which have been evolved for the next season's hats and the universally popular of the ostrich which will overcome obon, create a demand for the plumage staples in no cost. The long Amazon plumes and the demi-long plumes will come into notable requisition in the trimming of the larger of the new hats, and we shall see, doubtless, considerable use both of tips and heads in the garnishing of the smaller hats and bonnets.

The next season, however, promises to be more particularly distinguished for the use of fancy feathers in its millinery. The display in the whole millinery. The display in the wholesale millinery houses for the beginning of autumn trade is remarkable. Breasts and pompons are of leading interest in the mountings—the former to carry ostrich plumes, in the low, sweeping arrangements in trimming which will obtain—while quills, and perhaps wings, will again find place on hats for general service and outing wear.

The breast montures have been brought out in plumages of the Impeyan, golden, green and brown pheasants, and in stripings of these different birds; and in chicken, duck, turkey, goose and grebe feathers; and much has been done that is attractive on breasts of plain color, in stencilled designs, polka dotting, spangling and other enrichment in relief. The pompons, many of which (as also, berasts) of small quill feathers of the new neigeoir treatment, are exceedingly delicate and beautiful—dots, spangles and light flakes of black chenille serving in some specimens for extra enrichment. In a general survey of comprehensive stocks of the fancy feathers, seagulls, pigeons, bronze merles and blackbirds—some of which are dotted and some spangled—are to be discovered; while it may be said that in the treatment of the plumages for millinery use, perfection seems to have been attained.

MILADY'S CARRIAGE PARASOL.

Of Cream Duchesse Lace Mounted on a Black Taffeta Covered Frame.

This year has brought us again the costly real lace parasol. It is, of course, far more beautiful than the flimsy affair of chiffon and mousseline de soie so long with us. The parasol shown above is creamy Duchesse lace, mounted, in this instance, on a black taffeta covered frame.

How Modern Mermaids Garb Themselves When Disporting In the Sea.

The modern mermaid wears a stylish bathing suit and frolics in the surf, with never a thought of luring a mere man to live with her in the depths of the sea. She dons, like the first of these two summer maids, a black silk suit if she can afford it, with collar, shield and belt of white or scarlet silk. If her purse is not quite as deep as she would like to have it, she looks bewitching in suit of black brilliantine, with bands of white brilliantine and trimmings of white braid.

A feature of the Buffalo exposition will be a race between automobiles representing all nations. Although it is claimed that France is ahead of us in the construction of these vehicles, it is hoped that American manufacturers will come in first. America generally keeps at the head of the procession in all lines of industry, science and medicines. No country in the world has ever produced so good a medicine for the cure of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For over fifty years it has been the standard medicine. It promotes sound sleep, restores the appetite and cures dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and biliousness, also prevents malaria, fever and ague. Do not fail to try the Bitters, as it will surely do you good.

What the Duluth Ball Team Needs Is Players Who Can Bat and Run Bases—Glendon's Nerve.

The Duluth team is not so much in need of new pitchers as a few players that can hit and follow up the hits with a little blithe hustling around the bases. The men are slow getting in action. The entire team cavorted clumsily in the Ashland series.

• • •

Followers of the game who remember Dick Glendon's pitching a year ago are entitled to much hilarity over his request of $150 a month and $75 in advance to come to Duluth. His release by Western league clubs seems to have enlarged his seething cranial cavity.

• • •

Down South they shower as much as $50 in small change on a player that smashes out a home run at an opportune time. In the eighth inning of the Ashland game last Saturday the score stood 7 to 4 in favor of the visitors, with the bases full and only one out. Either Staub or Girard might have made $1,574,792.06 had they pushed out a home run—but they didn't.

• • •

The present Ashland team is probably faster than any semi-professional or amateur team that has ever played in Duluth. Capt. Gardner is entitled to much credit in getting such a team together.

• • •

Local fans who take the loss of the Ashland games to heart should remember that the business men of the city of Duluth are not to blame. They have done their share in the way of backing the team, and the players have not.

The outlook this year for high school football at Duluth is brighter than ever before More enthusiasm is noticeable among the athletes of that institution and the students in general promise to display more interest in the game and the welfare of the team than in any previous year The faculty are a unit on the question of football in the high school They think that the school spirit it engenders and the added enthusiasm in the high school is worth more to the boys and stuents in general than if the extra time were put on their lessons. Many a boy has gone through the high school on account of athletics who otherwise would have dropped out in his freshman year and on that account this year football rules supreme.

One year ago football was a dead sport in Duluth. People and students had grown tired of going out to see their home team go down again and again before the onslaughts of a visiting team no matter how fiercely they played, and the only ones who took any interest in the sport were the eleven who played on the team. Even they went into it but half-hearted after many defeats and as there were always just eleven men who played on the team no second team could be secured.

When the football season opened last fall the material at hand was not nearly as good as it had been the previous year. The men were not as large and aos strong, but few of them had ever engaged in the sport. Nearly all of the old players had left and when the Park for coach, it is thought that another championship season lies before the Duluth knights of the gridiron.

At present the Pittsburg Pirates seem to have the best chance for the pennant in the National league. Still, accidents and illness may change the complexion of things. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the race in the home stretch among Brooklyn, Pittsburg, St. Louis and Philadelphia is going to be a hot one. Boston has a good twirling staff and Selee has strengthened his team by the addition of Slagle, Cooley and Murphy. The Beaneaters have a chance to finish well up. Henry Chadwick, the "Father of Baseball," who has intently watched all National leagues races for years, has this to say of the finish of 1901:

"I look to see the most exciting finish to a pennant race known to league history in September next, the opportunity being afforded for it in the arrangement of having the Eastern clubs close their games with the Western teams in the West. Brooklyn's hardest task of the season will begin at St. Louis on Sept. 19, with a let-up to Cincinnati on Sept. 23, a chance to get square with Chicago on Sept. 29, and then a tug of war at Pittsburg to close the month."

The weather has been delightful for moonlight fishing and boating on the lakes of Northern Minnesota, a condition that generally prevails until November, but during the dark nights some big fish have been taken, notably in Cass and Leech lakes, by the aid of a small searchlight at the end of the boat. There is a question as to whether this is a violation of the law, and until this question is settled the sport is likely to be followed uninterruptedly. All efforts to take fish with meat bait fails when fishing with a light, and anglers have discovered that by the use of small attractive flies they may take fish that would scorn to notice such a bait in daylight.

The sparkle of the bright spoon or feathers, as it passes through the water under the light, is either an aggravation or an attraction, for all varieties of fish have been thus taken. The method generally pursued is to row out into the middle of the lake and then pull back into shallow water near the shore, the fish following the light by hundreds, where they can be seen to take the hook and make off with it. But the sport is tame compared to daylight fishing, as the light appears to have the effect of producing a stupor, and even bass will submit to be pulled in with no great resistance.

We are now within sight of the opening of the fall shooting season. Practical uniformity has at length been attained in certain features of the game laws of the states of the Middle West, and now the date of Sept. 1 is tacitly recognized as being about the correct time to open the shooting season. Even South Dakota, which formerly threw down the bars at Aug. 20, now establishes Sept. 1 as the opening day, and this is the date also for North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois.

As to the game supply of prairie chickens and quail, the reports are promising. It would not be correct to say that they are unusually promising, more truthfu, to call them "usually promising." As a matter of fact, we have this same old story every year about the promising game crop in these states of the Northwest, and every year the history is pretty much the same. There are plenty of birds up to a week or also before the opening of the season, and a week or so after that there are no birds at all. The visiting shooter, for instance, the man from Chicago, who goes out into North Dakota or Minnesota for a chicken shoot, usually finds that, even though he arrives on Sept. 1, he has arrived just a little too late to find the birds. The local shooters have seen to it that the birds have pretty much all been eaten by the time opening day arrives. This early shooting seems to be one of the ancient prerogatives which the average Western shooter ascribes to himself. This should be qualified with the statement that year by year the respect for the game laws increases, just as the numbers of game birds decrease. After awhile our Western shooters will learn that they cannot have their cake and eat it, and then they may be a little better contented to eat a part of it now and more of it a little later on.

Peter Jackson, who died on July 23, in New South Wales, has for several years been a physical wreck, the result of continuous dissipation. In his prime he was the greatest heavyweight pugilist ever developed by the negro race, and while he never captured the championship title of his class, his failure to do so was due to avoidance on the part of the white fighters who held the honors. Jackson was at his best from 1888 to 1894, on waich latter date he left America for the West Indies, having been denied contests by two holders of the heavyweight title.

Jackson eagerly sought a meeting with John L. Sullivan when the latter was champion, but the Boston boy drew the color line with the utmost clerity.

There is small doubt the herculean negro would have lowered the colors of Sullivan had the white man made the match for Jackson, who stood six feet one-half inch tall and weighed 195 pounds in fighting trim, was not only a clever hitter, but as clever a boxer as ever put up his hands in the heavyweight division. Sullivan would have none of the black fellow, and the champion showed great discretion, although laying himself open to a charge of timidity.

Sullivan scolded Jackson, but promitted Corbett to wrest the laurels from him in 1892, whereupon Jackson set sail for the new champion. The Californian and Jackson had once met in the ring, and therefore knew something of their respective qualities. It was in 1891 that these men fought their memorable sixty-one round drawn battle in San Francisco, which ended in a decision of "no contest," an absurd and unfair ruling. Jackson claimed a lame ankle prevented him doing as well as he otherwise could, and Corbett, who made a marvelous defensive fight, contented himself with the assertion that he stood before Jackson for sixty-one rounds and emerged unharmed from the ring.

As soon as Corbett had sent the overrated Boston champion to the repair shop Jackson approached the new champion and asked for a contest. Corbett did some of the cleverest sidestepping ever seen outside of the ring, and the negro, realizing that he would not get another chance at the Californian, abandoned the chase in disgust. He then went to the West Indies and from there to London, where a few years of riotous living reduced him to the shadow of his former self. When he returned to America in 1898 it was seen at once he was nearing the end as an athlete. Going to the coast, he made a match with Jeffries, which took place March 22, 1898, the boilermaker winning in three rounds.

Jackson's most notable victory was that over Frank Slavin, at the National Sporting club, London, May 30, 1892. Slavin was then at his best, and after a fierce contest Jackson scored a knockout in the tenth round.

Jackson was a man of remarkable intelligence, good manners and used the English language to much better purpose than any of the other heavyweights. He was a pronounced favorite with the better classes of British sportsmen.

An effusive person who was strangely asked to write a review of the fighting characteristics of George McFadden and James Perns concludes in this manner:

"There's the ingredients for a scrap that'll make the moonlight howls of the Kilkenny cats look like a pink tea."

That it is possible for the moonlight howl of a Kilkenny cat to look like a pink tea is an assertion calculated to puzzle scientists. The only way in which the young man can satisfy an incredulous public is to reproduce a photograph of a Kilkenny cat's moonlight howl in conjunction with a picture of a pink tea. Otherwise he will be regarded as an unfortunate victim of the "mixed metaphor" habit.

The management of the team, however, being of a hustling disposition, went to work and secured a coach who knew his business. Football was talked u pamong the students of the high school, but when the team, after much hard work against the second team, after going out for two hours each day, rain or shine, for six weeks, left for St. Cloud, no surprise would have been evinced had that aggregation, wth a string of victories extending back three years, beaten them soundly. But team work and hard practice counted and the score was 11 to 0. The following week at Hibbwood the team which had beaten the '00 team by a score of 46 to 0, was whitewashed by a score of 22 to 0, and when the week after, Ashland came down to Duluth, one of the largest crowds ever at the Driving park, turned out to see the visitors beaten 17 to 0. After this the weather interfered with the grownds and for that reason it has been decided to play all of the early dates in Duluth this season.

This year most of the stars of the gridiron of last year will not be in school. Jess Bradley, Haroldson, Rakowsky, Olson and Capt. Wood have go their sheepskins and will wear the read and white no more, but seven of the '00 squad is left and with the excellent material at hand, early practice, Fred Mallet for a captain and Dr.

Mrs. E. Jackson, of 22 First avenue east, says: "I had kidney complaint for eight or ten years and during that time endured suffering that I can scarcely describe. I had heavy bearing-down pains through the small of my back and in the kidneys. The least cold or over-exertion always affected me, and for days at a time I have been so bad that I could hardly get around. I could not rest at night and had to brace my back by placing a pillow beneath it. The secretions from the kidneys were highly colored, distressing and annoying. I also suffered from severe throbbing pains through the temples, especially when I first arose in the morning. The least exertion used me up, and I felt generally run down. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procured a box at W. A. Abbett's Drug store and used them. I never had anything to do me so much good."

Saved a Throne

But Sir Morrel MacKenzie's Victory Was His Ruin.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Dr. Clarence Maris, of this city, took more than a passing interest in the recent death of the Dowager Empress Frederick. Dr. Maris was associated with Sir Morrel MacKenzie, the royal physician, and for a year was the distinguished specialist's assistant at the Golden Square hospital, London.

"In spite of all that has been printed about the death of Emperor Frederick from cancer, the dread disease which has just carried off his wife, the Empress Frederick," said Dr. Maris, "it is not generally known that Sir Morrel MacKenzie, who played the chief role in that international drama, died of a broken heart. He had been ostracized by the medical fraternity of England, at the head of which he stood. A medical practice as consultant for other physicians which amounted to $100,000 a year dwindled to nothing. The physicians of England believed he had sold himself for a title, and that the most eminent throat specialist in the world had deliberately and purposely made a false diagnosis to please the queen and to be knighted. He was ostracized by the profession, and the blow killed him.

"Thanks to Sir Morrel's successful bluffing of the Germans, the Empress Frederick died in the enjoyment of a pension of $250,000 a year, instead of having to skimp along on an allowance of $20,000. But he paid a high price for his services to the queen's daughter. He died a brokenhearted man, robbed of his vast practice in London, ostracized by his colleagues, poor in pocket poor in spirit.

"Everybody knows how Queen Victoria sent Sir Morrel MacKenzie to Berlin for the purpose of making the crown princess an empress. By German law no one can succeed to the crown of Prussia and become emperor of Germany if he is afflicted with a fatal disease. William I's death was known to be imminent. Crown Prince Frederick could not succeed his father if it was known he had cancer. Such a feature would mean that Frederick's widow would draw a court pension of something like $20,000 a year, while as empress her pension would be approximately $250,000. This consideration alone would have been enough to move her mother's thrifty soul. Besides that Mrs. Frederick would be several spaces further back in the procession of the royalty on ceremonial occassions.

"The German physicians diagnosed the case as cancer. Sir Morrel MacKenzie came there, preceded by his reputation as the greatest of throat specialists. He was a man of incisive words, quick, nervous temperament, dictatorial and even overbearing. He declared there was no cancer, only a growth which was not dangerous to life. The German physicians were bluffed, all but Virchow, who managed to get hold of an excision from the throat and demonstrated it to be cancer. But MacKenzie's reputation, assumption of authority and positiveness carried the day, and Frederick succeeded his father.

"It was then no longer necessary to conceal the truth, and the cancer developed so rapidly, concealment would have been impossible. Sir Morrel, who had gone back to London, leaving his assistant, Mark Howell, in charge, kept silent, and only after Frederick's death made the defense that the 'benign growth' had later developed into cancer."

Ancient System of Irrigation In Texas—Marks of a Canal Found.

Waco, Texas, Aug. 17.—Mention from time to time of prehistoric canals and reservoirs in Texas has attracted the attention of scientists and will no doubt result in careful investigation of the traces already discovered and future explorations with a view to ascertaining the extent of the system as established by an extinct race, a race possessed of engineering skill comparable with that of the present day—in some respect superior. Although unnumbered centuries have passed since the old canals ceased to divert water fro mthe rivers to the cultivated fields; since the enormous storage tanks went dry, the practiced eye of the scholar accustomed to such investigation easily discerns the course of the antique and widely extended system of wafer supply, and a map might be made showing the entire plan whereby rivers were controlled, flood damage minimized and drouth losses averted wholly—a comprehensive system constructed by competent hydrostatisticians who lived and thought out their problems long before Moses was called upon to deliver Israel from Egyptian bondage.

J. V. Coffey, of Missouri, while engaged as a sub-contractor in grading for railway companies in Texas, found traces of a canal in Bosque and McLennan counties. In the course of a few years after water is turned into the reservoirs or canals, a complete change is wrought in the shores of those containers, the vegetation adapting itself to the evolution from dependence upon fitful and uncertain rains to the perpetually present life-giving water. Trees previously unknown in the region appear. The familiar trees of the region gain in size, willows spring up as if by magic, hedging the sheres. Nature takes all sorts of ways to make it manifest that water is a welcome visitor everywhere.

Mr. Coffey found the sites of the former hedge rows marked by partially petrified roots and stumps. Time has overthrown the trees and filled up the canals with the accumulated dust of countless ages, but the preserving agencies nature employs has prevented their effacement, and in the course of events, no doubt, the government will take up the matter and trace the grand canal and its laterals from El Paso to Brownsville.

When road graders reach the site of an ancient canal they recognize it at once from the character of the soil. It is free of clay and sand generally, and the bottom of the excavation shows the effect of some unknown method in vogue in antiquity whereby it was hardened and made watertight. In some places experts are not needed to trace out the system. In other places it is very hard to make it out. It depends upon the character of the soil and other conditions.

Mr. Coffey said: "The existence in Texas of well-defined traces of a complete system of canals and reservoirs, established at a period extremely remote, is fully established. I have often wondered why the state government did not take up the matter. The salary of a competent engineer for half a year would be sufficient outlay to get enough information to convince the legislature that irrigation on a large scale was once practiced successfully in the Star state, that it can be reinitiated on the old lines, remodeled and extended, and that for safety from flood loss and calamitous drouths, control of the rivers is absolutely necessary and is the 'paramount issue.'"

Cascarine, the Modern Cure

For Stomach and Liver Troubles.

Ninety per cent of the population of this country suffer from stomach trouble and 75 per cent of the 90 suffer from indigestion. If anyone has that uncomfortable feeling in the stomach, a headache or a feeling of depression, he should take Cascarine, the gentle and pleasing laxative, used in practice and recommended by thousands of people. If you cannot sleep at night, if you are restless and have palpitation of the heart, which usually leads one to believe he has heart disease when in reality it is nothing more than accumulation of gas in the stomach, you should take a teaspoonful of Cascarine before retiring and after continuing for a week you will find you are troubled no more and can sleep well and sound.

If your tongue is coated and you find a bad taste in your mouth your stomach is out of order and requires Cascarine to put it in shape. You must not eat too much and you must have your meals regular and eat well-cooked food. There are many remedies, digestive ferments, digestive tablets, mineral waters and thousands of other so-called cures, but all have to be taken constantly in order to do any good and after using for a time become worthless. Cascarine is superior to all others. It stimulates the liver, removes from the stomach all impurities, and acts as a tonic on the whole system.

Mothers should be careful not to use any other laxative for the children. When you ask for Cascarine at your druggist's be sure you get Cascarine (which comes in blue and white wrappers) and not cheap tablets or pills. Insist on Cascarine and if your druggist hasn't it, ask him to get it for you of his jobbeer. Price, 50 cents.

Schlitz

In the Schlitz brewery you will find a plate glass room. In it are cooling pipes, over which the hot beer drips. Above it is an air filter, and no air comes into this room save through that filter.

No germs can reach beer handled with such rare caution. But, after the beer is aged, we filter it, then bottle and seal it, then sterilize every bottle.

We take triple precautions because beer is a saccharine product. Impurities multiply if they get into it. There is no grade between absolute purity and utter impurity.

Every bottle of Schlitz is absolutely pure, and purity is healthfulness. Your physician knows—ask him.

The South American difficulty is attracting considerable attention at Berlin. The German cruiser Vineta left Bahia, Brazil, Aug. 12, for Trinidad, where she will await orders. The Tageblatt says the new German cruiser Niobe is going to Caribbean waters after the autumn maneuvers and that she will remain there permanently. It is also expected that the German cruiser Geier will go to the Caribbean sea when she can be spared.

Mexican Croesus

Pedro Alvarado's Income Is $200,000 a Month—Peon Laborer a Year Ago.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 19.—People in Western Mexico are talking about Pedro Alvarado. Less than one year ago he was a peon. He lived at Parral, a mining town in the state of Chihuahua, in a dilapidated shack, and there was nothing about him to distinguish him from hundreds of other Mexican laborers in the mines. He wore sandals on his feet, and wore on his head the big, cone-shaped sombrero which is the delight of the peon.

Today he is living in luxury. He has a monthly income of more than $200,000. He is more talked about in his home city and in every mining camp in that part of Mexico than any other man in that country, President Diaz not excepted.

Alvarado got his quick rise to fortune through discovering a mine of wonderful richness. It is not his sudden rise to affluence that is causing the comment about him so much as his remarkable manner of spending his money.

He seems to have no idea of its value and his chief anxiety is to get rid of his income as rapidly as possible. Thomas Welch, an American mining man who has just arrived here from Parral, related a number of instances of Alvarado's reckless expenditure to a correspondent. He said:

"I spent several weeks at Parral and saw Alvarado almost daily. The interest of every man, woman and child in that city seems to be centered in the man. Since last November his net profits from his mine, which is named the Palmillo, have aggregated $1,500,000, and prior to that time he had probably taken out about $500,000 of ore. He will not put his money in bank, but keeps it at his home, where it is constantly guarded by a large force of armed men.

"He has from $200,000 to $300,000 on his person whenever he goes on the street or elsewhere, and an armed guard of eight men always accompanies him. The members of this guard are dressed in fantastic Mexican costumes, and Alvarado is always attired in the height of fashion. He pays a Mexican tailor a high salary to keep him clothed properly.

"Alvarado spends his money with a lavish hand. A few days ago a traveling jeweler and diamond peddler struck Parral with his wares. He was going along the street when he attracted the attention of Alvarado, who, with his armed guard, happened to be passing. He showed his goods to Alvarado and the latter asked how much he would take for his whole outfit. The peddler replied that he would sell out for $15,000. Without any quibbling over the exorbitant price asked, Alvarado drew out the money and came into possession of the cheap watches, ornaments and fake diamonds. The man seemed as pleased as a boy with a new top over the trade he had made.

"A short time before this Alvarado purchased three pianos of the most costly make. The instruments will go to ornament the place which he is building for his permanent home. This building will be the finest private residence in Mexico. No expense is being spared in its construction. It is estimated that it will cost not less than $500,000, and for that distant part of Mexico, where adobe buildings are the rule, it will be something wonderful.

"Alvarado is taking the deepest interest in the progress of his palace. He says that he will furnish it with the best things that money can buy when it is completed. He has purchased scores of useless articles and simply buys things for the pleasure that they can give him for the moment.

"With all his reckless expenditure of his wealth he is displaying a philanthropic spirit. He has not forgotten the peons with whom only a short time ago he was closely associated. He has undertaken the construction of a large charity hospital for the poor of Parral. This hospital will be equipped with all modern appliances for such institutions, and he proposes to bear all the expense of maintaining it. In addition to this institution he is also constructing a large church which he has named Guadalupe cathedral. This church will cost several hundred thousand dollars.

"There is no prospect of the wealth of Alvarado being soon exhausted. The Palmillo mine is destined to become one of the largest ore producers ever struck in Mexico. The output will soon reach 2000 tons daily, and the monthly income of Alvarado will be increased to not less than $500,000 dollars. He has been offered fabulous sums for the mine, but all offers are promptly declined. His sole ambition is to develop the mine and to spend his income as rapidly as possible. He has helped many of his old friends in a financial way, and the lower class of Mexicans at Parral adore him."

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

This matter will be found to be entirely different from and superior to the usual run of food articles, in that every item is a nugget of culinary wisdom and eminently practical.

THE USEFUL PARSLEY AND OTHER LEAVES FOR FLAVORING.

"Parsley is the crown of cookery. It once crowned man; it now crowns his food."

This herb is considered indispensable not only by the professional cook but by all who wish to enhance the value of their food by adding to its flavor and attractiveness of appearance. It is so easily grown from seed in a garden corner, in summer, or box in a sunny window, that there is no excuse for being without it, even when the market cannot supply your need. It can be propagated by dividing the roots and potting them for cultivation in winter; but the parsley grown from the older stalk is stronger. In order to have green parsley through the winter pick off the old leaves from the stalks in September. The roots should be taken up in the early part of November and replanted in boxes and these kept in the kitchen or moderately light cellar; they will produce rapidly. Parsley can be preserved for winter use by drying. Scald it and dry in a slow oven and then pack in air-tight jars or tins. When wanted for seasoning, soak in warm water a few seconds to freshen it. Dried parsley can only be used for flavoring or to garnish when the minced parsley is called for; for garnishing the curly leaf variety is the most ornamental when used without chopping.

When used for white stews, sauces and dusting over dishes it must be minced very fine, dried to a powder by twisting in a towel or cloth.

The flavor of parsley seems specially suited to fish, poultry and potatoes. The roots and stems may be used for soups, but the flavor of the leaves is more mild and delicate and nicer for other preparations. When the roots and stems are used they should be removed before the food is served, as they are not very sightly.

OTHER USES FOR PARSLEY.

The green juice expressed from parsley is used to color sauces, add to the color of green soups and make green butter. Parsley should always accompany onions, as it counteracts the strong odor and sweetens the breath; for this reason it is one of the main ingredients in potato salad. Bear this fact in mind when using onion for a flavoring.

HOW TO CHOP PARSLEY.

There is a right way to do this as well as in doing everything else. If the parsley is wet dry it thoroughly in a towel; then pick the leaves from the stems; gather the leaves closely between the thumb and two fingeres; press tightly and hold on a board with the fingers slanting in such a manner that the nails will protect the ends of the fingers from the knife. With a sharp-pointed vegetable knife cut through the parsley as close to the fingers as possible; in this way each stroke of the knife does the work completely, the parsley is minced fine and evenly and does not have to be gone over again. So many minutes saved and perfect result obtained. This is what "knowing just how" means to the busy housewife. Twelve times five minutes saved makes an hour to rest from the busy routine of household cares, and surely that is worth the striving for.

FRIED PARSLEY.

This is used for garnishing fowl, etc. Carefully pick the leaves from the stems, wash and thoroughly dry in a cloth. Put in a frying basket and fry in hot fat for a few minutes. Do not have the fat too hot or the color will be lost and parsley spoiled. Fat at croquette temperature is best.

BAY LEAVES.

This is used constantly and yet there are many housewives who do not know what a valuable addition it is to their list of herbs. It costs so very little, 5 cents' worth lasting for a year at least, as only a small quantity will impart a very decided flavor to soups, sauces and spiced meats. The leaf is a species of laurel and the flavor is similar to that of the plum kernel.

TARRAGON LEAVES.

Although this plant has been one of the greatest salad herbs for over 300 years, the American housewife does not yet fully appreciate it. When once she gives it a fair trial she will agree with all lovers of perfect salads that it gives a zest to these preparations that makes them simply perfect. The price asked by our grocer for the imported tarragon vinegar deters many from making the experiment; but a bunch of fresh tarragon costs from 15 to 25 cents, according to the season; this will make a large quantity. Divide into four bunches and put each bunch into a quart bottle; fill the bottles up with warm vinegar, set aside to cool, then cork and keep in the kitchen pantry. The vinegar will be ready to use in ten days. The dried leaves may be used if the fresh cannot be obtained. These as well as the bay leaf are to be found in the druggist's keeping.

ORANGE AND LEMON LEAVES.

These are also found at the druggist's and give a distinctive and delicious flavor to many foods and notably those prepared with milk and rice.

MINT VINEGAR.

This is very nice and good in spring salads and many form the basis of mint sauce for spring lamb, or may be used in making a mayonnaise dressing for cold lamb or for green pea or bean salad. Pick the young leaves from the stock of fresh mint, bruise them slightly and put into a bottle; cover with warm vinegar and let stand until wanted. If too strong-flavored add a few drops of plain vinegar.

A few young mint leaves will give a dish of green peas or beans a fresh daintiness which will surprise you.

BURNET.

This is a plant found growing wild in many parts of America, but litte appreciated except by professional cooks. If properly cared for, it will thrive well in a window garden. It smells and tastes like cucumbers. A few leaves chopped up and added to any vegetable salad is acceptable, and it is also used in piquant sauces and butters.

CHIVES.

This is a kind of green onion top, slender, pipe-like and dark green; it is a mild form of onion and is an addition to spring salads, soups and sauces if used moderately. It grows wild in some parts of America, but is not difficult to cultivate; the bulbs can be obtained from any seed man and should be planted in May round the border of the salad bed.

A tiny portion of one leaf or blade thrust between the bone and flesh at the small end of a leg of mutton is a trick of the chef who knows how to delight the palate of the epicure.

CHERVIL.

A delicious salad herb invariably found in salads prepared by the French; a very few leaves will give an excellent flavor. The leaves are many times divided similar to those of parsley. This herb will grow in any garden and the seed can be obtained in any large seed store.

OTHER USEFUL HERBS.

Sweet basil, sweet marjoram, sage and many other common herbs are so well known that it is not necessary to enumerate them. The housewife who does not know of all these many good things nature provides in such abundance to aid her, should study the secrets hidden in wood and field. Nature is a great economist and tolerates no useless thing in plant life; the most unattractive weed that grows has its mission to man or beast. The fact that man having eyes, seeth not, should not condemn the lowest form of life.

Most cereal foods are starchy.

Avoid Starchy Foods

1. They form pasty masses in the stomach.
2. They are hard to digest.
3. They interfere with the digestion of other foods.

TOASTED WHEAT FLAKES

1. Do not become pasty because they have undergone a preliminary digestion and the stickiness of raw starch is gone forever.
2. Their solubility is increased.
3. They aid digestion.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

(No attention paid to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly written).

Mrs. A. C. writes: I have tried several of your recipes with perfect success. Will you please publish a recipe for making rhubarb wine?

RHUBARB WINE.

Skin, chop and mash the rhubarb to a pulp. Weigh it and to every pound of pulp allow a quart of water and a pound of sugar. Mix together and pour into an earthen jar. Cover with thin muslin or cheesecloth to keep out the dust. Let it ferment well, stirring it up once or twice each day. When all fermentation has ceased skim carefully and strain through thin muslin or cheesecloth and pour into a cask; let stand for twenty-four hours and then close the bunghole and let stand undisturbed for four months. hTen rack off the wine into bottles and cork tightly; lay on their sides in a dark, cool place.

BANANA MEAL.

Mrs. F. M. C. writes: Will you please inform me where I can obtain banana meal with recipes for using it?

Ask your druggist if he cannot obtain it for you with accompanying directions for using it. If he cannot write to Professor Wiley, of the agricultural department at Washington, D. C., for the desired information.

SODA BISCUIT.

Kindly print recipe for tea biscuit in which soda and cream of tartar can be used instead of baking powder.

Measure four cups of sifted flour; to this add an even teaspoonful of salt, an even teaspoonful of pulverized soda and two full teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar; sift all together two or three times. Add a large tablespoonful of butter or two level tablespoonfuls of other shortening and rub into the flour with a flexible knife or spatula until there are no large lumps; then mix in gradually sufficient quantity of milk or water to make a dough soft enough to roll out easily. Do not knead the dough, but cut through and fold over with the knife until the dough is spongy. Turn out on a well-floured board and toss lightly; then roll out lightly with the rolling pin until half an inch thick; cut into small biscuit and bake at once in a quick oven.

DECLINE IN WHEAT

Market Started Easy and Fluctuated In Rather Narrow Range.

Large Shortage In the European Crops Is Predicted.

Fine Weather For Harvesting In Minnesota and Dakotas.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 17.—The wheat market started out rather easy this morning and ruled nervous throughout the session, closing ⅝c lower than yesterday here, ½@⅝c lower at Chicago, and ¾c lower at Minneapolis for the September option. The cables were steady and Broomhall was credited with an estimate of the European crop being 52,000,000 bus less than last year, and 125,000,000 bus less than in 1899. It was claimed France will have to import 100,000,000 bus. The bearish news consisted of information that the Italian crop will be large and that the weather in Minnesota and the Dakotas is fine for harvesting with good yields reported everywhere.

Clearances were fairly large, but not up to the heavy figures that have prevailed up to yesterday. The total was 969,000 bus. Primary receipts aggregated 877,000 bus, against 1,081,000 bus a year ago. Shipments 325,000, last year 678,000. Australian shipments amounted to 424,000 bus, against 90,000 last year.

The Liverpool market closed ½-⅝d higher for futures and spot wheat was unchanged to ½d higher. London was ⅛-¼d higher.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 291 cars. Chicago receipts, 186 cars.

Corn was not so strong today, but suffered no heavy loss in price. Primary receipts were 347,000 bus, last year 239,000. Shipments 201,000, last year 347,000. Clearances were 171,576 bus.

Trading in futures was active on the Duluth board. September wheat opened ⅛c off at 71⅛c bid, sold at 71c at 9:36, touched 71-⅛c at 9:37, declined to 70⅞c at 9:40, sold at 70⅞-71c at 9:42, eased off to 70¾c at 9:48, recovered to 71c at 10:12, declined to 70⅝c at 10:40, reacted to 71c at 10:48, fell off again to 70⅝c at 11:35 and closed at 70⅝c, a net decline of ⅝c.

Cash offerings were rather brisk today and the movement of the new crop to this market is beginning. Sales aggregated 80,000 bus and ½c over September was paid.

High prices for barley are the order now. Duluth buyers are paying from 50c to 56c for feeding barley and 57@65c for malting stuff. Southwestern men are bidding high for the feed barley and the users of malting barley are bidding high for that grade. There are three barley buyers in this market now, and they are buying not only the malting grade for Eastern shipment, but also the feed stuff for shipment to Eastern feeders. Ultimately 75 per cent of the barley raised in the Northwest will reach this market.

Flax trading was rather quiet today, but the price was a trifle stronger, the September option advancing ½c and the others holding firm. Corn declined ¼c, oats ⅜c and rye 1c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73⅝c; to arrive, 73⅝c; September, 71⅝c. No. 1 northern, cash, 71⅝c; to arrive, 71⅝c; new, 71⅛c; September, 70⅝c; October, 70⅝c; August, 70⅝c; December, 71⅛c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Was Nervous at Opening Hour.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Wheat was rather nervous early today owing to the mixed character of the news. Cables were firm; Broomhall estimated a deduction of 52,000,000 bus in the European crop compared with a year ago, and of 125,000,000 bus compared with 1899. Private cables claimed that France will have to import 100,000,000 bus. On the other hand the Italian crop was said to be faring prosperously, and the weather in the Dakotas and Minnesota was reported favorable for harvesting. September wheat opened ⅛c higher to unchanged at 72@71⅞c, sagged to 71¼c and reacted to 71⅝c. Local receipts were 186 cars, 17 of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 291 cars, against a total for the three points of 416 last week and 766 a year ago.

The market ruled dull and easy the remainder of the session, the prospect of enormous world's shipments being shown in Monday's statement having a depressing effect. September declined to 71¼c and closed at that figure, ⅝c under yesterday.

September corn opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 59@58⅞c, touched 59¼c and dropped to 58½c, and rallied to 59⅛c. Receipts were 146 cars. Cables and poor crop reports were steadying influences.

Corn closed easy, September ⅝c down at 58⅝c.

Oats were dull, but steady in sympathy with corn. September opened unchanged at 36⅝c, sold to 36c and then reacted to 36¼c. Receipts were 295 cars.

Provision prices were sustained by buying of nearby deliveries by packers, and in sympathy with corn. January pork opened 5s lower at $15.40 and sold to $15.45; January lard and January ribs opened unchanged, the former at $8.87½ and the latter at $7.95.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Chicago morning gossip—Wheat—The cables are strong this morning. The statistics which are being watched so closely indicate a decline in our visible next Monday of about 2,000,000 bus. The largest weekly shipments of wheat and flour are reported this week being over 9,000,000 bus and should give us a fairly large increase on passage. Exports up to the present time are about 25,000,000 bus more than last year. It seems hardly natural to suppose that there will be a continuance of this at the present rate. If so it would put our exports up to about 325,000,000 bus. More reports from the French crop were current and had somewhat to do with the advance in prices yesterday.

Corn—The weather may shows good rains in Southern Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, just where needed. The larger local operators were the best buyers of corn all day yesterday and a better cash demand was reported. It seemed to us with the large cash demand the difference between the options would narrow somewhat but at the moment there appears to be no indication of such.

• • •

Broomhall cables that estimates of the world's shipments next Monday will be about 12,000,000 bus, of which quantity Europe will take about 11,000,000 and predicts there will be a further increase in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom during the first week were about 4,500,000 bus against 4,500,000 bus last week and 3,600,000 bus a year ago.

• • •

Paris—Experts now say the French wheat crop will not exceed 304,000,000 bus and that the export necessities, recently estimated at 60,000,000 bus will be not less than 100,000,000 bus. Wet weather has changed the early prospects.

MARKET REPORT.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Wheat—Liverpool reported weather very wet and un favorable, with the market ½d higher, quiet and receipts heavy. Our market today was without any special features, the Northwest selling quite freely, presumably hedging cash wheat, the new crop movement increasing daily and will no doubt be very liberal before the close of another week. While the demand from Europe is fair it is not of that brisk and urgent character needed to give active bullish effect to a market required to take such rapidly increasing offerings as are of considerable shortage to her crop, but this will hardly have a decided effect on American markets until mid-winter or early spring period, when also the disastrous corn crop conditions in this country will tell decidedly on wheat values.

Corn—Liverpool cables 1¼d higher, very firm on light offerings from American. Our market today has not been particularly active, outside trade light, the most active trading is in liquidation changing September to either December or May. There is no change in crop conditions and no improvement is in our opinion possible after this date. Rains may wash off the dust covered leaves and stocks and brighten them up somewhat, and make them look better, but will not add one more grain to the aggregate yield. Our bids from Europe show gradual improvement with occasional acceptances of 5 or 10 loads and within ten days we expect to see brisk business passing in corn and with greater activity in speculative wants and an advancing market.

The oat market is strong and with very good cash demand, and country offerings light.

Provisions were fairly active and firm, the same feature being prominent that has been dominant for several days, greater relative strength of near futures at the expense of January product. September and October lard and ribs advanced under the same buying noted all the week, while the packers are undoubtedly feeling the market with January stuff. Hogs for Monday, 25,000; next week, 155,000.

NOT UP TO STANDARD.

Change Made In Indian Clothing Inspector.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Charles E. Teel, of Brooklyn, has been appointed inspector of clothing for the Indian warehouse at New York, succeeding the present incumbent, whose resignation was requested on account of recent discoveries that clothing not up to the standard was being furnished by the contractor. Commissionr of Indian Affairs Jones returned today from New York, where he investigated the matter. He declined to discuss the question further than to say that everything had been arranged satisfactorily and that all the goods not up to the standard either had been or shortly would be replaced with satisfactory garments.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Stocks Weak at the Outset But Trading Was Quiet.

Bank Statement Was Bearish and Prices Went Down.

Report Shows a Loss In Surplus Reserves and Cash.

New York, Aug. 17.—Stocks were weak at the outset on a renewal of yesterday's selling but trading was quiet. St. Paul and Union Pacific were the weakest issues, losing a point but Atchison and the Conlers were down large fractions. The United States stocks opened quiet but under pressure, the common yielding ½ and the preferred ¾.

There was more general selling of the list, bears offering stocks down on expectation of an unfavorable bank statement. Rock Island dropped 2 points on one sale and Sugar, Brooklyn Transit, Consolidated Gas, Atchison preferred, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and Manhattan lost 1@1⅛. The United States Steel stocks extended their losses slightly owing to the heaviness of the general market.

Trading was very inactive pending the publication of the bank statement. The report shows a loss in surplus reserves and cash and bears forced the market lower with Sugar, Amalgamated Copper, Union Pacific, St. Paul and Atchison most affected. The United States Steel stocks continued downward, the preferred touching 91½. The closing was weak.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Town Topics to B. E. Baker—We look for a further reaction today and anticipate unfavorable strike news. The market, however, is narrow and professional but the bulls hold control and stocks are a purchase on any declines. Don't sell short. Buy on declines.

• • •

Ridgley to A. R. Jones & Co.—The stocks that made the most rapid advances are entitled to a rest and the reaction and they are getting it. Unless this upward move is all over prices ought to react two points or more. Amalgamated did nicely. I would not be surprised if this stock sold considerable higher after some reaction.

• • •

Calumet, Mich., to A. R. Jones & Co.—Early consolidation of the Tamarack, Osceola, Centennial, Arcadian, Seneca and Mohawk properties is contemplated. These mines have an aggregate area of 1230 acres on the mineral range and a capital of $12,500,000. It is further stated that the consolidation is but a step to absorption by the Amalgamated Copper company.

New York, Aug. 17.—Cotton opened steady, 1 point lower to 1 point higher.

PRICE $1.00 PER SHARE AFTER AUGUST 24
EXPORT OIL & PIPE LINE CO.
OF BEAUMONT.
President, CHARLES A. TOWNE, of New York City and Beaumont, Texas

Beaumont, Texas, August 16.
WALTER G. HUDSON & CO.,
342 Exchange Building, Boston.
Oil struck top of derrick at 12:15; turned off at once. Will send photograph horizontal gusher soon and of perpendicular when weather permits. Expert opinion says no bigger or better well on Spindle Top; at least 70,000 barrels a day. Will place on pipe line soon as possible.
CHARLES A. TOWNE.

This company, having struck oil in its first Spindle Top well, is now proceeding to the construction of an immense storage reservoir for the oil. The usual size of oil tanks in the Texas fields is 37,500 barrels; this, however, does not give such capacity as the Export Company requires, and it is proposed to make this reservoir not less than 500,000 barrels. In marketing the product, it is essential to have on hand a large reserve of oil, and this company having already an assured market must provide for such reserve at once. This tank, instead of being erected above the ground is to be sunk in the ground; thereby avoiding any danger in case of accident. The Export Co. has been much commended for this idea, which will doubtless be followed by other producing companies.

It will also proceed at an early day to drill additional wells on Spindle Top, and probably on its Dyke and Johnson lands. The company having been successful in securing TO ITS STOCKHOLDERS ALL the profits from its well on Spindle Top, where outside parties offered to guarantee a gusher for a share in the profits, will do its own drilling on these other two tracts where similar guarantees were offered. The company has also closed the arrangement heretofore referred to as pending, by which a cash market for 7,000 barrels daily of its product is assured.

The company has also secured the right of way for its pipe lines to Port Arthur and Sabine Pass, and the construction of these lines will begin at the earliest possible date, thus enabling it to load vessels direct for the export trade.

This company does not "guarantee" a gusher; it has one.

Until further instructions from the directors, we are offering a limited issue of the Export Oil & Pipe Line Company's stock at par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable: but we are unable to say how long the opportunity to secure stock at this price will remain open. It is probable that we shall receive directions to advance the price to par at least, and we do not anticipate that the date of such advance will be later than August 24th. We can only say that the opportunity is open now, and that, comparing the company's present condition and prospects, we see no reason why its shares should not bring ten times the par value.

75c. A SHARE,

We believe it is the best investment before the public today.

Subscriptions should be sent either to the company at Beaumont, Texas, or to its fiscal agents as below, with check or draft payable to the order of

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Tells Story of Her Life

The August number of the Cosmopolitan is graced by an article from the pen of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, in which she lays bare, to a great extent, the hopes, ambitions, dreams, disappointments and realizations which made up her life in early girlhood. "My Autobiography" is the title, and with a good deal of particularity the popular writer, whom Wisconsin claims for her own, enters into details concerning her literary career.

The article is illustrated with five portraits of the poetess, showing her in various phases of development, a somber-faced girl of 12, a much-ringletted maid of 16, dreamily thoughtful, somewhat heavy-faced, in 1880, and two recent pictures, one profile, one full-face, both in evening dress.

"Someone asked me," she says, "when it was that I first conceived the idea of a literary profession, and at what age I found myself something of a celebrity. I do not remember when I did not expect to be a writer, and I was a neighborhood celebrity at the age of 8."

She tells of the little home in the country, twelve miles from Madison, of the pessimism which shrouded the family, every member of which was unsatisfied with his lot in life, of the lack of books and periodicals which made life an intellectual famine.

"There was nothing in my situation to cultivate poetic talent, and I no doubt owe my early development as a poet to that fact—paradoxical as the statement may seem."

The first time that she sent forth any ships upon the literary sea was at the age of 13. The much-enjoyed "Mercury" ceased to come to them, and unknown to her family she wrote two essays and sent them to the editor, posting them in the midst of small difficulties. The essays appeared, and as reimbursement therefor she received the Mercury, likwise a big bundle of back numbers, and of this incident she says:

"Even at that immature period I had a wooer—a young man past voting age, possessed of a mustache, a tenor voice and no visible means of support. He played the violin and sang, 'This Night or Never My Bride Thou Shalt Be,' in a truly fascinating manner. He had been given to understand by the family that his room was preferable to his company, however, and had ceased to call. When the enormous roll of newspapers direct from the editor's office came to me, a stern senior member of the household at once concluded that the lovelorn swain had subscribed, to win new favor in my eyes. This accusation was made before I was questioned on the subject. Perhaps the most dramatic hour of my life was when I stepped forth, in short skirts and long ringlets, and announced to the family that not my would-be lover but my literary work, had procured the coveted Mercury for our united enjoyment."

From Frank Leslie's publishing house came the first money which she earned, a check for $10 in payment for three little poems. "My world grew larger with each sunrise, it seemed to me. People from Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago began to write me and seek me out. I was invited to visit city homes, and while this was a delight bordering on ecstasy and a relief from the depressing atmosphere of home anxieties, yet it brought with it the consciousness of the world's demands, which, added to those of duty and necessity, made a larger income imperative.

"A Milwaukee editor offered me $45 a month to edit the literary department of a trade magazine. I accepted, but the office hours and order of work were wholly distasteful to me. I was not sorry when the venture failed at the expiration of six months. It was the only experience of my life in attempting an office position."

For the copyright of her book, a collection of poems entitled "Drops of Water," all of them dealing with the total abstinence question, she was paid $50. Then came the publication of "Shells," a collection of miscellaneous verse, now out of print, and then she wrote "Maurine," which was declined by Jansen & McClurg, and finally, after many attempts, accepted and brought out by a Wisconsin firm, barely paying expenses. Two years later Jansen & McClurg wrote for the privilege of republishing the book, with additional poems.

Of the publication of "Poems of Passion," which made a stir throughout the country at the time, she says:

"When publishing "Maurine" I had purposely omitted more than two-score poems of a very romantic nature, in order to save the volume from too much sentiment. Letters began to come to me requesting copies of these verses—ardent love songs which had appeared in various periodicals. This suggested to me the idea of issuing a book of love-poems to be called "Poems of Passion." To think was to do, for I possessed more activity than caution in those days.

"As just related, every poem in the book had been published in various periodicals and had brought forth no criticism. My amazement can hardly be imagined, therefore, when Jansen & McClurg returned the manuscript of my volume, intimating that it was immoral. I told the contents of the letter to friends in Milwaukee and it reached the ears of a sensational morning newspaper. The next day a column article appeared with large headlines:

TOO LOUD FOR CHICAGO.

The Scarlet City by the Lake Shocked By a Badger Girl, Whose Verses Out-Swinburne Swinburne and Out-Whitman Whitman.

"Every newspaper in the land caught up the story, and I found myself an object of unpleasant notoriety in a brief space of time."

REALTY MARKET

Excellent Opening For an Apartment House In Duluth.

Summer's Building Has Not Begun to Fill Demand.

Real Estate Men of Other Cities to Visit Duluth.

About the next thing that will be announced among new improvements in this city will be a large apartment house. Not that anybody is preparing to make such an announcement at this time, but that it is such an obviously necessary thing, and one that will prove so popular and so profitable, that almost any day some capitalist is likely to see what an opening there is and fill it by building one. There is practically nothing of the sort here now, though there is no city where one is needed more. The large number of young married couples that are boarding now, much to their disgust and weariness as a rule, assure patronage for such an enterprise, and it is safe to say that when the sagacious capitalist that is to fill this long-felt want appears he will make a good thing out of the first large apartment house in the city of Duluth.

* * *

In fact, this summer's building has not begun to fill the demand for flats and apartments. Any estimate of the number of flats and small residences needed to satisfy the demand is largely guess work, but a guess of over 500 would not be far from the truth, and would at any rate not be extravagant. It is common to hear appeals of the charitable for the homeless poor, but it is hardly so common to find it necessary to make appeals for those who are able and willing to pay rent and furnish up a home tastily if they could find one to furnish and to pay rent for.

* * *

Duluth real estate men are considering a plan that seems to promise much profit and improvement. Real estate men from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and Buffalo are talking about getting up a party of six from each city to visit the different cities in the list and look into real estate conditions there, and they want to have Duluth come in with six men and become part of the route. The advantages of such an excursion are obvious, for the comparisons that could be made and the exchange of ideas and experiences that would result would make everyone of those thirty real estate men the repository of all the combined knowledge of the crowd, and when they come back it ought to be a difficult thing to avoid buying almost anything they choose to offer.

* * *

The Shogomoc company, for which G. G. Hartley has been making residence purchases, including the Bunnell house, which is occupied by F. E. House, of the steel trust, has made another purchase, this time of the residence at 1122 East Superior street, that was owned by E. P. Alexander and occupied by C. J. O'Donnell. The price is $5500.

* * *

William A. Bond and Eugene H. Fishburn, two Chicago capitalists, are making a short stay in the city. Mr. Fishburn is the senior partner of the firm of Ogden, Sheldon & Co., the oldest real estate firm in Chicago, having been established in 1847. Mr. Fishburn is a capitalist with large interests in Chicago, and while he is in Duluth on pleasure bent, he is considering the purchase of a well-known piece of inside business property, and if the invetment proves satisfactory others will follow.

* * *

John A. Stephenson has closed a sale of lots 13 and 14, black 26, in Portland division to Bridgeman & Russell for $2850. The property belonged to an Eastern estate. It is on East First street, close to the Hammel barn and the purchasers will erect a large barn on it.

What Is Your Fate?

Astrology and the Occult Arts—A Modern Seeress—How to Cast Your Own Horoscops—Reading the Zodiac.

Few of us really believe in astrology and the occult arts, and yet it is none the less fascinating to attempt to discover what horoscope the fates have cast for us. "Our Fate and the Zodiac" is an astological autograph-book by Margaret Mayo, pleasantly written and full of interesting references to historical, musical, and literary people under the months of their birth. Blank pages are provided in the book in order that the reader may place therein autographs, that the future may verify the truth of the author's theories.

The following is but a synopsis of the sort of diverting matter that is contained in the twelve periods into which the book is divided:

January 20th to February 19th.—Persons born during this period take up the thread of life under the influence of Aquarius, an airy, equinoctial sign, indicating a noble, progressive nature, a quick, receptive mind, and a touch of genius inclining toward any of the fine arts.

Mozart, Mendelssohn, Burns and Byron belonged to this sign, and were men of the same emotions. Each portrayed his emotion in his art:

"The vibrating impulse of Aquarius invariably finds its outlet in music, poetry, or painting. These men attained much, and the fulfillment of their still greater promise was balked only by their leisurely habits characterizing all proteges of this sign. Like the rest of mankind, Aquarius' heirs find it much easier to dream castles than to build them—much easier to think heroice deeds than to do them. They are the students, the thinkers, the reformers, the supporters of any and all innovations that tend toward the advancement of art, letters, or liberty. Although brilliant writers, they are seldom clever conversationalists, lacking that personal magnetism and dramatic manner of expression that compel undivided attention. George Washington was born under the cusp of this sign, Abraham Lincoln under its full influence."

February 19th to March 20th.—People born during the latter half of February or the early half of March enter life under the influence of the sign Pisces, a watery, fruitful sign, indicating a pure, limpid soul, a tremulous sympathy with nature, and a scattering of vital force:

"These people spend their emotions on humanity with the same prodigality that water spends its force on dry soil. They are so modest, so wanting in self-appreciation, so full of "the milk of human kindness,' that they repeatedly allow themselves to be used as a ladder by which the unscrupulous may climb to a selfish success. Meissonier, born under this sign, stroked his very soul upon canvas for all the world to see; Victor Hugo sounded every fibre of pity in the human heart, persuading every man to mercy; Copernicus taught us the voice of the stars, and Darwin has shown us a purpose and a possible perfection in it all that should make man proud to be the tiniest cog-wheel of so great a scheme. Chopin, Rachel, and Van Dyke belonged to this sign."

March 20 to April 19.—People born between these dates take up the thread of life under the influence of the fiery sign Aries, a movable, equinoctial sign of the zodiac, indicating a stormy, impetuous nature, and an eventful course of life:

"These people enter life's arena with a mad martial music in their souls that forces them forward to conquer or die. Their loins are girded round with a determination that strikes its colors to neither man, maid, nor circumstance. Once having conquered indecision as to the course they intend to pursue, they will march to success over the corpse of their own dead selves, content with victory as its own reward, gaining their ends at any cost, but giving the preference to honorable means, unless such means obstruct the direct road to their achievements. The women of this sign are born leaders. The men draw irresistibly toward war and politics, and generally carry a throng of satellites with them. Henry Clay, Bismarck and Shakespeare all belong to this sign. * * * Of the months of the year, June and July should prove most congenial to the successful development of Aries interests, and it is advisable that all difficult transactions and precarious undertakings should be referred as much as possible to these months. Tuesday is given the preference as the most propitious day of the week; but all days are useful to quick-witted Aries, who learns early in life that 'we must take the tide when it serves or lose our ventures.' The flower of this storm-tossed month is the amaryllis, signifying unbending pride."

April 19 to May 20.—People born between these dates enter life under the guidance of the mighty Taurus, a strong, fixed, earthy sign, bequeathing to its protege a wealth of sterling attributes that can scarcely fail of success.

"These people are the sturdy oaks of society. But even the sturdy oak is not independent of outside forces; it must draw sustenance from earth, air, and water. And so with the assimilative mind of Taurus. It is not independent or original, but must draw inspiration from the minds of other men. Theirs is the power that Emerson alludes to when he says: 'Great genial power consists in not being original at all; in being altogether receptive.' And these people above all others are capable of receiving and successfully maturing the half-formed plans of their less executive fellow-men. They are the realists who bring to happy fruition the visionary schemes of the idealists. In a word, they are the practical, useful, dependable people of the earth. They are seldom talkative, however, nor are they likely to soar to any great heights of imagination, for their knowledge lies deep and does not come readily to the surface. * * * But people of more superficial signs soon learn to rely upon these sturdy proteges of Taurus for mental, moral and physical support. * * * To Taurus belonged Huxley, Wellington and John Stuart Mill."

May 20 to June 21.—Persons waking to light during this period take their inheritance from the sign Gemini, an airy, barren, changeable sign, indicating a variable nature and changeful existence:

These people are usually a bewildering combination of contradictions, and seem possessed of two distinct natures. Their friends find it difficult to know upon which of them to depend. * * * They love and they don't love; they are happy, and unhappy; they wish to give and they wish to retain. They are filled with unrest, and long to be away, to do something or be something, though they seldow know what. As poets, artists, teachers, intellectual leaders, or after-dinner speakers they excel. Many famous wits have been born under this sign, among them Alexander Pope, and Ralph Waldo Emerson. Their quick, restless minds find expression with such aptness and rapidity as to astonish even themselves."

June 21st to July 22nd.—The Romans dedicated the radiant month of June to Luna, the moon goddess. Persons born during the latter half of this fickle month, or the earlier half of July, enter life under the doubtful influence of the sign Cancer, a watery, tropical, changeable sign, indicating a wavering of character and a complexity of good and bad attributes that are apt to result in a very unusual manner of life, and render these people wholly incomprehensible to the larger humanity:

"These people, though gifted in many directions to the verge of genius, like genius, they are alluring, unstable, never quite defined. They are the people whom Emerson describes as "having no next. They live from hand to mouth without plan, and after each action they wait for an impulse from abroad." * * * Being neither bread-minded nor open to conviction, they seldom progress. Like the slow, conservative Chinese empire (which is under this sign), they retire within themselves at the first hint of change or improvement. They invariably construe any attempt made for their advancement into a personal reflection upon their own capability, and become moody and melancholy of consequence. * * * In the words of Le Gallienne, they are 'a curious mixture of dream and disillusion.' * * * John Jacob Astor belongs to this sign."

July 2nd to August 22nd.—Persons entering life during this period take their inheritance from the magnetic Leo, a fiery, commanding, changing sign, governing the heat of life, and radiating life and warmth:

"These people are generous, sympathetic, kind-hearted and impulsive to a dangerous degree. Let impulse once be coupled with their inborn courage and determination, and they rush to alarming extremes, unmindful of the cost. Quick intuition alone may sometimes enable them to avert the deserved consequence of their foolhardiness. With them argument is useless. They act from the heart, not from the head, and are manageable only through love or sympathy. * * * Like the late Mr. Vanderbilt, these people are 'not lazy, but constitutionally opposed to physical exertion.' Robert Ingersoll was a protege of this sign; also Napoleon, Sarah Siddons, and innumerable social leaders, orators, and actors—persons who were in their element only when dealing with humanity in its broader sense and winning the laudits of the world at large."

Aug. 22 to Sept. 23—People born during this period enter life under the influence of the sign Virgo, an earthy, barren sign, indicating a materialistic matter-of-fact turn of mind, a keen insight into human nature, and a cold-blooded estimate of life and the things of life:

"These people are qualified for success in various directions, becoming successful chemists, lawyers, designers, scholars, philosophers, journalists, novelists, or politicians; the latter because of an inborn aptitude for sounding public opinion. Goethe belonged to this sign, also Eugene Feld. * * * An amusing inconsistency in the lives of these people is their absolute helplessness to cope with the family feuds and misunderstandings that they themselves have unwittingly created. * * * The most helpful marital relations are possible for them, however, for they inherit a genuine love of home and family. * * * Epicurean in their faith as well as in their tastes, they take little account of their future state, prefering to get all they can out of the present. Yet, as life advances, the idealism of their nature sometimes so develops as to lift them far above the lonely plane at which they started. * * * These people are seldom extensive travelers. * * * They are far more active in mind than in body."

Sept 23 to Oct. 23.—Persons born during this period take up the thread of life under the influence of the sign Libra, an airy, sanguine sign, indicating impartial justice, rare good judgment, and fine liberality of thought:

"These people, above those of all others, are qualified to fill worthily the high places of earth, holding the whip-hand over their fellow men by sheer force of unassailable right. To this sign belong innumerable jurists, generals and leaders of people. * * * Born leaders, these men are bad followers. * * * Many of the world's famous actors and actresses have taken their origin in this sign, among them Sarah Marnhardt, Peg Woffington and Mme Modjeska. * * * The men in Libra excel in constancy to the few whom they love, for it is no more in their nature to scatter their affection than to scatter their force. Having once made their choice, they are content to 'follow Love's folding star to the evening land.'"

Oct. 23 to Nov. 22.—Persons born during the latter half of October or the earlier half of November draw unto themselves the vibratory influence of the sign Scorpio, a fixed, nocturnal, southern sign, indicating a moody, determined, commanding nature, destined to strange vicissitudes of fortune, but recognizing no obstacles.

"It matters little what pursuits these people elect to follow so long as they are the head. Theirs is the motto of Lucifer himself: 'Better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven.' It is impossible for them to fill subordinate positions with any marked degree of success. In the first place they are too entirely selfish to work conscientiously in the interests of another; in the second place, they have very decided convictions as to the way life and most of its affairs should be conducted. * * * Richard III, Marie Antoinette, and many dark figures in the world's history of blood and crime, drew inheritance from the violent sign of Scorpio, and all proteges of the period invariably drift toward places of fire, blood and tragedy."

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21.—People entering life during this period take their inheritance from the sign Sagittarius, a fiery-speaking sign, indicating a frank, energetic, progressive nature, rich in love and hope, and blessed in an inexhaustible faith in his fellow-man:

"These people, such is the indomitable energy and distressing activity of the Sagittarius born, combine remarkable energy, keen insight, and an intuitive knowledge of outcomes. They are excellent financiers and fortunate in any enterprise that involves the handling of money. * * * Be the day or the hour what is may, these busy people will be found to rush, drive and push their affairs in a nerve-destroying fashion that taxes mental and physical endurance to the uttermost. * * * In an artistic way, the heirs of Sagittarius are gifted toward music (Paderewski was born under this sign) or the occult sciences."

Dec. 21 to Jan. 20.—Those born during the latter half of December or the earlier half of January take up the thread of life under the influence of the sign Capricornus, a dry, earthy sign of the zodiac, influencing the proteges toward a materialistic estimate of life and the things of life:

"Cold, calculating, and exclusive by nature, the proteges of this sign inherit a cautious, far-seeing instinct that precludes the possibility of impulse ever gaining the mastery over their reason. These people come into life with their minds made up. They are exempt from the misery of indecision that paralyzes the will of weaker creatures. They know nothing of the struggle that other men undergo, having arrived at the choice of life's crossroads. Baring-Gould has cleverly said that 'on life's way all the direction posts are painted to show us where we have diverged from the right way, and not whither we are going." These brave, self-reliant people of Capricornus feel little need of direction-posts. * * * William E. Gladstone, Disraeli, Daniel Webster and Sir Isaac Newton belonged to this sign."

These extracts will suffice to show the nature of the volume. It is needless to say that the horoscopes of individuals born under the various signs of the zodiac are carried out with much greater fullness in the book itself.

BROKE ANEMOMETER

Southern Hurricane Reached a Velocity of Seventy-Two Miles an Hour and Then Broke Registering Apparatus.

New Orleans, Aug. 17.—Louisville & Nashville officials here announced today that traffic over the line will be opened on Sunday. Nothing has come in over that line since Wednesday. The Northeastern has not yet opened its line and is working hard to do so. New Orleans depends for its Eastern mail on these two lines, and the crippling of both has completely shut out all letters and papers from that section for several days.

Dr. Isaac Cline, of the weather bureau, received a report from Port Eads today, stating that the wind on Wednesday carried away the anemometer caps which gauge the velocity of the wind, the highest velocity taken just before being seventy-two miles an hour. The hurricane struck west of the Mississippi and moved northeast. It will be several days before wire communication with New Orleans will be established from Port Eads.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 17.—No coastwise vessels have reached here since the storm, and the exact state of affairs along the gulf has not yet been learned. The greatest damage at Mobile has been to the small craft and lumber mills. The market gardeners of the marsh district suffered severely, their homes having been inundated and their gardens ruined.

On the eastern shore of Mobile bay the only damage was to wharves, bath houses and small boats. At Cobden, on the western shore, fences, bath houses and small boats suffered, but no lives were lost.

The schooner Mexican Gulf is reported to have gone to pieces on the beach, and the sloop P. J. Lyons was beached.

The steamer Harold arrived from the fruit islands during the morning with bananas and reported having sighted the schooner Foster Price, of Pensacola, dismantled, about fifty-four miles from Fort Morgan. The Harold was not delayed by the storm.

The 4-masted schooner Asa T. Stowell is still ashore on Round Island flats between Mobile and Daphne.
